BLIND POOL OPERATOR SHELDON HAS BEEN ARRESTED AT CITY OF PITTSBURG

Pinkerton Agents Run Him to Earth After Months of Unremitting Vigilance---Will Be Brought Back

BEEN LONG SOUGHT

Montreal, March 28.—A Star special from Pittsburg says:

C. D. Sheldon, the long-sought broker wanted in Montreal on a charge of defrauding his customers, was arrested here yesterday, on a warrant sent broadcast by the authorities of the Province of Quebec some months ago.

Sheldon operated in Montreal until October of last year. He fled from that city after the Montreal papers had unmasked his swindling game. Shortly after absconding from Montreal he was seen in Pittsburg. His wife, who fled from Montreal shortly after Sheldon left there, came to Scranton, where her parents live, and where Sheldon formerly did business. It was expected that sooner or later Sheldon would turn up in this neighborhood, and the authorities have been keeping an active watch for him ever since. Yesterday their vigilance was rewarded.

The arrest of Sheldon was made by agents of the Pinkerton detective organization, who at once turned their captive over to the officials.

Steps to secure Sheldon's extradition and return to Montreal will at once be begun.

How Arbitration Works Out.

London, March 28.—The Daily Graphic draws the attention of those loudly acclaiming the Taft-Grey scheme for the abolition of war to the statement that China has no alternative but to accept Russia's present ultimatum.

Both China and Russia signed The Hague Convention for a pacific settlement of international disputes, and The Graphic contends that as the questions at issue are essentially judicial questions relating to the interpretation of treaties, there is no excuse even for contemplating the employment of force.

Latest advices from Pekin are that the Chinese Foreign Office has assured the Russian Minister that the ultimatum that China acquiesce in the conditions put forward as to the treaty of 1881 will be complied with before the time limit expires on Tuesday.

Peace Sunday In States.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Dr. W. H. Roberts, state clerk of the Presbyterian Church, and chairman of the executive commission of the federal council of the churches of Christ in America, yesterday sent out a request that sermons be preached in all churches in the federation next Sunday, upon the subject of "Arbitration as a Substitute for War."

Dr. Roberts in his request says that the churches of all England have forwarded a cablegram asking the churches of America to unite with them in the present movement, next Sunday, from all pulpits on the subject of arbitration between England and the United States, now pending.

Alberta Against Negroes.

Edmonton, Alta., March 28.—The arrival of the colored immigrants from Oklahoma, together with their consequences on the streets the past two days, has stirred up bitter feeling. Dr. Ely Synge has written a strong letter to the papers, protesting against the admission of negroes into the provinces.

Premier Sifton stated that there was nothing in the provincial statutes to keep the negroes out. The board of trade is committed to a policy rigidly against immigration of the negro.

The negroes leave to-day for Athabasca Landing, in which vicinity they will take up their future homes.

London Old Boys' Re-union.

London, Ont., March 28—At a meeting of citizens last night, it was decided to hold an old boys' re-union during the week of Aug. 7. This is the first one in three years, and it is confidently expected that former residents from all parts of Canada and the United States will attend. Officers were elected as follows: President, Col. Harry Abbott; first vice-president, Dr. F. L. Wood; second vice-president, George Belton; third vice-president, ex-Mayor Stevely; secretary, J. O. Weldon; treasurer, James Bell.

Woman and Three Children Burned.

Hattiesburg, Ky., March 28.—In the destruction of the home of her father, J. T. Nicholson, by flames early yesterday Mrs. M. M. Bridges and her three children burned to death.

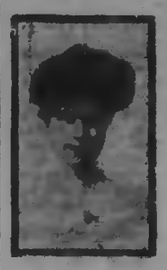
THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

YESTERDAY I published some of the letters that came to me on the subject of the necessity of any woman's telling the man she is about to marry of her past, when she is unfortunate enough to have one, and I promised another interesting human document to-day.

Here it is:

"Should a woman tell a man her past? is the question a young girl asks you. My answer to that girl is 'Under all circumstances Yes.' Be honest and frank, and you will have no reason to regret it. If the man is just and loves you he will forgive and forget and respect you for your honesty. He will look back and will know that he needs forgiveness for his sins, and will realize that if he wants to be forgiven he must forgive also.



"The following is my personal experience: I made the acquaintance of a girl years ago. I learned to know her as a modest, deeply religious, hard-working, earnest and strictly moral girl. I proposed to her and after two weeks of waiting she consented and one evening asked me to visit an old friend of hers, a missionary who always took a great interest in her welfare.

"The old man asked me some questions about my prospects and so on. He asked me if I loved her and I said, 'Yes, I do.' Then he told me that the girl had a 'past.' 'Now, my friend,' said the missionary, 'can you still love her?'

"I love her more than ever,' was my reply. I left the room. The girl was waiting outside. I took her hand and said, "It's all right. You are mine and I love you just the same.'

"I married her. We now have grown-up children. The girl with the past turned out to be one of the best and noblest women that ever walked the face of the earth. I thank God daily for this pearl of greatest price that I found. She is the best of wives and mothers. She worships the ground I walk on. The world and all its pleasures are dead to her. She knows only duty, devotion, self-denial and self-sacrifice to her husband and children.

"What would I have done if she had deceived me? Only God knows.

"Be honest and frank and leave the consequences to God and the future. That is my advice to the girl with a past." "A HAPPY MAN."

To-morrow I will continue this talk.

FIRE PROBE BEGINS.

New York, March 28.—The fixing of the blame for the loss of 141 lives in the Washington square fire of Saturday drew to a focus yesterday the energies of the district attorney's staff, the fire marshal, the coroner, the state labor department and Borough President McAneny of Manhattan. Dozens of investigators collected every scrap of available information. Grand jurymen turned personal probers, and an additional grand jury, in a formal resolution presented to the Court of General Sessions, offered their aid to the district attorney and declared that some one should be prosecuted for the disaster.

What the probers found — evidence that doors at exits swung inward, the crumpled fire escape in the air shaft, the one fire escape blocked by iron shutters when opened, an empty water tank on the roof, and the practice prevalent among cutters of lighting cigarettes a few minutes after quitting time—all this, and what is yet to be ferreted out, will be placed speedily before the grand jury for action, District Attorney Whitman announced.

The tenement house department summoned owners of half a dozen faulty structures to the Police Court as a preliminary step to a far-reaching investigation of tenements. One man was held for violating the law, and other cases, it was announced, will be pressed to-morrow. Fire Marshal Beers summoned the proprietors of the Triangle Waist Co., and several employes, to testify at a public investigation, largely to enquire into the truth of reports that doors leading to the fire escapes were blocked.

Montreal Militiamen Sore.

Montreal, March 28.—The local military pot is boiling, in fact it is red hot. And the cause of it is the order issued from Ottawa that all Lee-Enfield rifles be returned to stores, and that the regiments be armed with the Ross rifle, mark 2 (the short Ross).

The local militia men are sore, from C. O. to recruit, claiming that the change means that shooting will be seriously interfered with, if not made impossible, except for those who purchase their own rifles. The mark 2 Ross rifles, which are supposedly the arm of the militia, and the territorial rifles from Britain are both allowed on the ranges, the shots claim that a militiaman who does not wish or cannot afford to pay $45 for one of these cannot compete with those who can, and rifle competitions are out of the question for the ordinary militiaman.

No action has been taken yet, though the commanding officers have talked of having a meeting to protest against the change.

$2,500 Damages.

Toronto, March 28.—Five-year-old Arthur Ewing was the chief witness in his father's suit against the Toronto Railway yesterday, despite the fact that he said not a word. He exhibited a wooden leg, the result of injuries received when the wheel of a street car passed over his foot on Nov. 14, 1908.

The prosecution claimed that the car could have stopped in time, but as the motorman is dead and the conductor unknown, Counsel McCarthy, for the street railway, could bring no evidence to controvert the claim. The jury awarded Richard Ewing, the father, $500, and the youngster $2,000.

Mormon Treasurer Dead.

Salt Lake, Utah, March 28.—James Jack, treasurer of Utah for twenty years, and treasurer of the Mormon Church for more than fifty years, died at his home here yesterday. He was 82 years old.

Jack crossed the plains with an ox team in the early sixties. Shortly after reaching Salt Lake City he was appointed by Brigham Young, as treasurer of the church. He served in this office under all Mr. Young's successors.

Honor for Grenfell.

New York, March 28.—The council of the Royal Geographical Society of England has awarded to Dr Wilfred T. Grenfell, the missionary and explorer, the Murchison Bequest for the current year in recognition of his many years' work in Labrador, which has added to the world's geographical knowledge. Announcement of the award was made here yesterday.

Private Banker's Death.

[illegible] When business opened at the private bank of Julius De Brovsky yesterday, the first employes could get no answer to her questions from the banker, who sat leaning over a table, seemingly buried in thought. In his abdomen was a bullet wound. Investigation showed $1,000 missing from his safe.

Perished In the Flames.

Aurora, Mo., March 28.—Dr. D. E. Morris, and his four children were burned to death early yesterday in a fire that destroyed the Morris home. Morris threw a mattress out of the window and lowered his wife and seven-year-old daughter to safety and went to get the other children. He never returned.

McGibbon Gets Cedar Rapids.

Montreal, March 28.—D. Lorne McGibbon has obtained control of Cedar Rapids, which is capable of generating 150,000 horse-power. It is said that six millions will be spent in development. The price paid has not been given out.

Vain Hunt for Dope.

St. Catharines, Ont., March 28.—The St. Catharines' police received a tip from Toronto that in one of the Chinese laundries here large quantities of opium were stored. All were visited, but nothing found.

National Art Gallery Opening.

Ottawa, March 28.—The National Art Gallery will be opened on April 20 next. Earl Grey will be asked to preside.

Struck With Sledge Hammer.

Kingston, March 28.—Ernest Heep, aged 20, had a miraculous escape from death when he was struck on the head with sledge-hammer in the hands of a fellow-workman at the locomotive works. The accident was purely accidental. He is in the Hotel Dieu with a terrible scalp wound, but the doctors say he will recover.

Hamilton Woman's Suicide.

Binghampton, N.Y., March 28.—Marie D. Hugo, of Hamilton, Ont., was cut to pieces beneath a train here yesterday, circumstances indicating suicide. She had lived here two years as "Sadie Sylvie."

I. C. R. Freight Train Derailed.

St. John, N.B., March 28.—Seventeen cars of a freight train on the C. P. R. were derailed in a wreck at Tracy Station, N.B., yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA SWEPT BY A HEAVY GALE MUCH DAMAGE DONE

Factories Wrecked, Buildings Unroofed and Cupola of a Church is Blown Off—Pennsylvania Line Out of Business.

ONE MAN KILLED

Philadelphia, March 28.—A severe electrical storm accompanied by a high wind, which at times blew with cyclonic force, swept over the northern section of this city shortly after six o'clock last night, leaving destruction and death in its wake.

Buildings were demolished, houses unroofed, and the New York division of the Pennsylvania Railway was placed out of commission temporarily by the demolition of its tower at Holmesburg, cutting off all telegraphic communication. New York trains are being routed via the Trenton cut-off, which branch of the Pennsylvania Co. was not in the path of the high winds.

Tacony, the section where the greatest damage occurred, was completely cut off from the rest of the city. Telegraph, telephone and trolley wires were blown to the ground, and it was hours before the details of the catastrophe reached the central section of street, also lost its roof, as did the pear. The police station at Tacony was demolished. The evening squad of policemen were preparing to leave for their beats when the roof of the building was blown off and every window broken by a sudden burst of wind. At the Tacony station of the Pennsylvania Railway an unidentified man was killed when a portion of the structure was blown away. Many houses in this section were unroofed or completely demolished.

In the manufacturing section of Kensington in the northwest, toward Tacony, several factories were destroyed, trolley wires were blown down and roofs of houses hurled to the centre of the streets. A corner section of the three-storey brick factory of John Blood & Bros., manufacturers of woollens, at Trenton and Allegheny avenues, more than 100 feet in width, was torn away, wrecking much valuable machinery. Three hundred and fifty men who were employed here, it is said, will be out of work for at least two weeks. The factory of the Enterprise Cooperage Co., nearby, was struck by lightning, but the flames were extinguished before much damage had been done.

In the fashionable section of Germantown, the storm also caused havoc. The cupola of St. Michael's Church, at High and Boyton streets, was blown off. Jones Hall, at Germantown avenue and Sharpnack the city, where the storm did not affactory of the American Metal Co., at Herman street and Germantown avenue. Telegraph and telephone communication was also destroyed, but up to a late hour no lives had been reported lost in this section.

So completely was the Pennsylvania Railroad's line to New York tied up that no trains were sent over the New York division from this city and no tickets to Philadelphia were obtainable at the New York end of the line.

To Celebrate Coronation.

Toronto, March 28.—Discussion of plans for two celebrations will occupy considerable of the time of the legislation and reception committee of the council this afternoon.

It is proposed to have a celebration on a large scale on the day of the coronation. It will in all probability take the form of an historical pageant and, while details have not yet been discussed, it is expected to excel anything of a like nature before attempted in the city.

Plans for the celebration of the Hydro-Electric power in the city will also be talked over. Regarding this it is expected that the announcement of the date will be made shortly.

Local Option Campaign.

Brockville, March 28.—Advocates and supporters of temperance reform from nearly every municipality in Leeds County met here yesterday and organized the Leeds County Alliance, associated with the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance. The president is Judge Reynolds of Brockville. The object is to initiate a strong and active campaign for local option in the municipalities which are at present under license, and it is not unlikely that a fight will be on in Brockville between the temperance and liquor forces at not a distant date.

Students' Union for Queen's.

Kingston, March 28.—A large union building will be erected in the fall by Queen's students. It will be built on Union street, between Arch street and the skating rink, and will cost $75,000. At present $20,000 has been subscribed, and the balance will be subscribed by the authorities, the students and their friends. The building will include a dining hall, Y.M.C.A. quarters, bowling alley, billiard rooms and reading-room.

Bankers to Stay In Prison.

Washington, D.C., March 28.—From sources close to the President it was learned yesterday that the pardon appeals of the two convicted bankers, Charles W. Morse, of New York, and John R. Walsh, of Chicago, undoubtedly will be denied. It is stated that the Attorney-General's recommendation in both cases is adverse.

A NEW LAW IN REGARD TO SHIPPING

Hon. Mr. Brodeur Brings in Some Important Amendments Before the House of Commons—The New Features

POWER BILL PASSES

Ottawa, March 28.—Good progress was made with routine business in the House of Commons yesterday, and if the same pace is maintained all week the decks will be clear by Monday next for a resumption of the reciprocity debate or such other business as the Government may want to despatch.

An important bill to amend the Canada Shipping Act was introduced by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

The expected wrangle over the giving of "La Banque du Canada" to the new financial institution, which Rudolphe Forget (Charlevoix) is promoting, was prevented by the insertion of the word "international."

Late in the evening the House went into committee of supply on the Speaker's estimates, which cover the expenses of Parliament, and the members became jovial. George Taylor (Leeds) was inquisitive regarding points of minor economy, and objected to a vote of $350 for engrossing an address to the Governor-General last session. He thought the work should have been done in the Printing Bureau, and gave it as his opinion that "it would be thrown in the waste paper basket any way."

When the House met, Hon. L. P. Brodeur introduced a bill to amend the Canadian Shipping Act. The important feature of the bill is that it makes the hiring of pilots compulsory. The Minister explained at some length that the proposed legislation was based on the recommendations of such bodies as the Dominion Marine Association of Ontario, the shipping interests of Montreal, the pilots and some important private companies. The bill provides that all vessels with a draught of over ten feet will be obliged to take on pilots in the St. Lawrence. If the owners do not desire to take on pilots, the masters and mates in charge of such vessels must pass the necessary examinations.

Mr. Brodeur explained further that the bill would make provisions for all possible means being taken to provide for the safety of the St. Lawrence route. He believed that when the provisions of the bill became generally known it would do much to do away with the discrimination which existed in the matter of insurance against the St. Lawrence and in favor of American ports.

Another proposed change is in reference to the time during which an enquiry into a wreck may be inaugurated. Under the law as it stands today an enquiry must be commenced with a month. The limit has now been extended to one year, at the instance of the imperial authorities.

Another departure from the present practice is that vessels with the certificates of the British Board of Trade or other responsible British and foreign bodies may, with the consent of the governor-in-council, be relieved from the necessity of boiler inspection on this side of the Atlantic.

The bill will also give the Government larger powers in respect of the regulation of the channels of the St. Lawrence.

R. L. Borden brought up a pertinent question regarding certain naval manoeuvres which it is proposed to hold in Lake Michigan during the coming summer. He read a forecast of the program from an American newspaper, which included a cruiser from the navy proper. The leader of the Opposition asked if the Government had consented to the passage of such a vessel through the canals.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the agreement of 1817 provided for one war vessel carrying one 18-pounder gun should be allowed on Lake Ontario and two on the Upper Lakes. He was not prepared to say if the manoeuvres mentioned would come within the purview of the treaty. The matter was engaging the attention of the Government, and if necessary representations will be made to Washington. If he remembered rightly the United States had made application to be allowed to pass a cruiser through the canals, but he thought that the application had been declined. Another application had been made to take one training ship down and substitute another.

When the bill to incorporate La Banque Du Canada was reached, Mr. Fielding announced that by agreement with the promoters the name had been changed to La Banque Internationale Du Canada. He moved that the clause be amended accordingly, which was done, and the bill was given a third reading.

James Conme (Thunder Bay and Rainy River) has his annual assault-at-arms with the Canadian Pacific afternoon in a session of the dispute over the power situation at Fort Frances, when his bill to amend legislation of two years ago came up in committee. The bill is ostensibly to bring the works of the Ontario & Minneapolis Power Co. under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Public Works.

A. C. Boyce (West Algoma) opposed the bill because it was an invasion of provincial and contractual rights.

W. S. Middlebro (North Grey) said a protest had been received from the Provincial Government. The interests of the municipality had been safeguarded by an agreement with the province, acting as trustee for Fort Frances, in June last, and that agreement was beyond the jurisdiction of the Federal Parliament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier then took a hand in the discussion. He thought the legislation was necessary. A precedent to the construction of works of any kind was the rights of navigation. The dam must be passed upon by the Minister of Public Works. He was no enemy of provincial rights, but rather had sought to maintain them.

The bill passed the House.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Italy is celebrating the jubilee of national unity.

The situation in the Far East remains unchanged.

A deputation of residents of Georgian Bay towns went to Ottawa to ask Government aid for a new railway.

Relatives of the late J. G. Howard, who donated High Park to the city of Toronto, have appealed for help from the city.

Late yesterday afternoon the grand jury brought in a true bill against John Youngs in connection with the Oxford graft cases.

Two hundred tons of ammunition shipped to Kingston caused much alarm among residents in the vicinity of the railway yards.

Word was received in this city of the death in New York of Miss Winnifrid Scatcherd. Miss Scatcherd's writings were known all over the United States under the pen name of Beatrice Fairfax.

There are counterfeit bills of the Bank of Montreal of the denumination of five dollars somewhere in circulation to the amount of about $5,000. Notice to this effect was sent out on Monday by the bank.

The will of Wm. Schwensen, who was a manufacturing milliner in New York, and which disposes of a large estate, provides for a weekly payment of $15 during her life to the widow and an "annual Christmas present of $100" to her. The will was filed yesterday.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

By KINGSLAND CROSBY

"I don't know exactly. We all went out in different directions after supper. Hambidge and I just happened to meet here. Barrett is around town somewhere."

The lawyer came out of the shop, and Winthrop introduced him.

"I've got a letter to write," said Wotsirb. "You two go to Brown's stable, ask for one of the waggons I engaged and come back at once to this hotel. If you see your other friend, pick him up. If not we'll go alone. I have located Miss Cuyler. . . . . Are you armed?"

"Yes," said Hambidge, "and ready for trouble!"

They started off for the livery stables, and Wotsirb entered his hotel, wrote two notes identical in language:

Go at once to Brown's livery, where carriage and horses are waiting. Order driver to take you with all possible speed along plank road through Pleasantville to Pithole, deserted city.

Fire three shots into air when the house is surrounded. If I do not respond in thirty seconds, rush on the house and search, holding everybody you find until I do arrive.

Am starting on ahead of you.

Wotsirb.

He handed the letters, properly sealed and addressed, to the office clerk, saying, "Sometime to-night these will be called for by two parties of friends of mine, one coming from Buffalo, the other from Pittsburg. I don't know just when they will arrive—but be sure to deliver the notes as soon as called for."

"Very good sir," said the clerk.

Wotsirb walked rapidly out of the hotel and sprang into a light waggon drawn by two spirited horses which arrived just then. In it were Winthrop and Hambidge, besides the driver. They had not come across Barrett.

"Down Main Street to Pithole," said the detective.

"Pithole?" the driver echoed in surprise.

"Yes—a lady out there is very ill. It's a case of life and death—we're going to save her if possible. Quick, man!"

The waggon shot off with them into the darkness of an August night.

XVII.

Hambidge and Winthrop were not able to pick up Barrett and bring him along in the waggon for a good reason. After supper, earlier that evening, the painter had written a letter to Mortimer Cuyler, and then the three left the hotel to get acquainted with the city. They had already driven completely around its outer limits, and had divided it into three parts, one of which Hambidge was to search for the traces of the missing girl, the second part being assigned to Winthrop, and the third to the New Englander. Their plan was, first of all, to make a general observation that night. Afterwards, day by day, they would carry out the idea suggested by Hambidge: a house-to-house inquiry in the role of agents gathering information to be used in a proposed history of the locality. This would give them legitimate excuse for calling on the occupants of every residence in the city, and for asking all manner of questions. They were confident that by such means they could not fail to find some person who had seen Eleanor and her abductors; for they now were satisfied in their own minds that her capture was not the result of mistaken identity. The outlandish disguise she was wearing made them sure on that point.

The young men stood for a moment in front of their hotel, agreeing to meet there again between half-past eleven o'clock and midnight. Then they separated — Winthrop starting to examine the northern part of the city, and Hambidge the southern and western sections; while Barrett turned toward the eastern district, keen, resolute, determined to leave nothing overlooked, however small or insignificant. A chance word with a gardener who cared for one of the lawns he was passing might give a clue as to Eleanor's whereabouts; a question asked some little child playing on the sidewalk might reveal her place of captivity. Anything was possible, nothing was impossible, in the present situation. One thing was sure, certain, not to be denied. Ten days previous to that afternoon, Mortimer Cuyler's daughter had arrived at Titusville, in control of a gang of desperadoes. None short of being desperadoes would dream of abductnig her, of all the young women in America. Barrett was still mystified as to the reason for this remarkable crime; and the more he pondered it the more incomprehensible did it seem.

Suddenly an entirely new thought struck him, with such force that it made him stop on the pavement and gasp:

Were the abductors themselves crazy?

"Great Scott!" the New Englander exclaimed half-aloud, as this idea flashed its burning way across his mind: "I shouldn't wonder if they were a group of sure-enough maniacs, at least fanatics!"

For years irresponsible newspapers and sensational demagogues had held Mortimer Cuyler up to scorn and hatred of their followers. He had been accused of crushing helpless rivals, of starving widows and children, of grinding the faces of thousands of workmen in mills, mines, factories; of buying legislatures, bribing members of the House, and of piling up fortunes for Senators who compelled the enactment of tariff and other laws which he dictated. Altogether Cuyler had been painted as black as the Devil, and twice as powerful.

There could be no doubt that weeks, months, years, of such ridicule and exertion had caused hundreds of thousands of ignorant people to regard Cuyler as a menace to the Republic; as dangerous in one way as a bomb-throwing Anarchist would be in another.

Barrett, with his medical education and special interest in psychology, realized how surely unbalanced minds could be affected by constant reiteration of such sensational attacks. Nothing could be easier to imagine than that two or three morbid, weak minded men and women should conceive it their imperative duty to carry off Cuyler himself; or, failing in that, to make a way with his only child and heir so as to prevent her from inheriting his fortune and the power that went went with its administration. Crazier things than that had happened, many a time. Thousands of innocent persons, in generations gone by, had been slaughtered or stabbed, drowned or burned alive, by religious fanatics who were convinced that by such horrible crimes they were obeying God's holy decrees.

"I wonder if Wotsirb has thought of that possibility?" Barrett asked himself as he walked forward again, realizing with added force that the Secret Service man must be found and communicated with as soon as possible. He turned into Main street, and had come to the corner of Pine, when he saw a rum-shackle buggy, drawn by an old white horse approach in the gathering dusk. Ordinarily twilight would last for an hour or so longer, but black clouds heralding a thunder-storm were slowly swinging in a great ellipse above the quiet little city, and the hot, depressing atmosphere seemed to be surcharged with tingling particles.

As the rickety buggy drew nearer, Barrett saw within it a slender, smooth-faced young man wearing spectacles, who held the reins; and on the seat beside him another man, also slender but wiry and not so young, whose hair and beard were of a tawny yellow. Neither paid attention to Barrett or to half a dozen others who happened to be passing by on the sidewalk; and at the corner the buggy stopped. For a moment the two men within it seemed to be deeply engaged in earnest conversation; then he with the tawny beard stepped down to the street, but almost immediately hailed a grocery waggon following close behind, jumped into it, and trotted off after the buggy, which had continued on its way.

"By the great horn spoon!" Barrett ejaculated. "There's Wotsirb!"

He ran forward several steps intending to call him, but suddenly stopped. Who was the other man in the buggy? Could he possibly be one of Eleanor's captors? Barrett had expected to run across the old fellow with white beard and white hair who dressed like a farmer according to the station agent at Corry, and also as described by Conductor Sperry. For some reason he had seemed to be in charge of the gang who had Eleanor in their control. But this slender young man in the buggy corresponded exactly to the other male member of the gang, excepting that he was wearing ordinary spectacles instead of dark goggles.

"I've found Wotsirb, and I've almost landed the abductors!" Barrett cried aloud in his heart, trembling with excitement.

Then another thought flashed over him.

Wotsirb had also found the gang, and earlier.

He had driven from some place into the heart of Titusville with one of the men, and instead of slapping handcuffs on him, and rushing him to a cell, the detective had actually let him escape!

Could it be possible that Wotsirb was playing false with Mortimer Cuyler?

Winthrop and Hambidge would have scouted this idea as simply out of question; but Barrett was not so sure. He had taken a violent dislike to Wotsirb from the first hour he heard of him. His apparent lack of energy in refusing to turn an army of assistants loose on the case had created suspicion in the mind of the New Englander who was primarily a man of action, a man who did things—and thought about them afterwards.

He strained his eyes to follow the two vehicles, fast disappearing in the darkness. The old buggy turned out of Main street at the next corner; the grocery waggon kept straight on.

This confirmed his suspicion. Wotsirb was not keeping the other in view. It was up to Barrett to do so—he had little concern with the detective, and reflected that Hambidge or Winthrop might run across him, anyhow, in the course of the evening. His business was with the slender young man driving that old white horse! He was the one to keep under observation, for sooner or later he would rejoin his companions, among whom, in all probability, was the missing girl.

Where this smooth-faced, bespectacled fellow was going, Barrett did not know; but he had turned out of Main street toward the business section of the city—probably intending to call at some of the retail stores. Instead of following him, Barrett would take a short cut through Pine street and try to intercept him.

He turned around and strode on rapidly until, coming to one of several thoroughfares running parallel with Main street, he met the buggy returning. The young man on the seat was leaning forward, belabouring the white horse, the dilapidated vehicle swayed from side to side, and a cloud of dust swelled after. Those who saw it—excepting Barrett—thought that some person living in the country was hurrying home before the thunder-storm should break.

As a matter of fact, when Wotsirb left him, the bespectacled young man had intended to stop at a drug-store. But he first stopped at the telegraph office and there received a cable message which had been held a whole day waiting to be claimed by the person to whom it was addressed. It had been sent from Brussels and was worded in a private cipher.

The smooth-faced man tore it open and as he read it he turned pale. With a quick motion he put it safely in his pocket and fairly ran out to the rumshackle old buggy standing by the curb.

Two minutes later Barrett met him, and instantly decided that the smooth-faced man had doubled on his trail, and was speeding back to the rendezvous of the gang for some more important reason than the fear of a summer shower. Perhaps Wotsirb had learned of the arrival at Titusville of Winthrop and his two friends and had informed the abductors, so they could escape!

There was only one thing to do. Barrett must follow the buggy at all costs; somehow, later on, he would find a way to communicate with Sheldon and Bill Hambidge; but not now. He must not let that smooth-faced man out of his sight for a moment.

The buggy passed him and turned eastward into Main street. He could see it easily, for lightning was playing about in the sky, thunder was booming, and the old white horse, already fatigued by many miles of travel, and worried by the noise and flashing of the storm, refused to go faster than at a dog-trot. By walking rapidly, Barrett would be able to keep it in view for quite a while, the road leading straight ahead. Perhaps another carriage or a waggon would overtake him, in which event he could go forward faster.

Beyond the city limits was a long hill. That was fortunate, for on a hill almost any man can outwalk almost any horse; and by the time he was at the summit of the rise Barrett saw the buggy less than a hundred feet in front of him. Then it disappeared in the darkness.

Barrett broke into a dog-trot as he saw the buggy vanishing, and kept it up for nearly half an hour, when he slowed down to regain breath; also because he saw a group of buildings close at hand.

It cost him little time and less trouble to ascertain that he was in Pleasantville. Two or three sturdy men were lounging comfortably in front of the village store when he arrived, and one of them jerked his thumb in the direction of an empty chair, saying:

"Better set awhile under the awning here, and see if the storm blows over. If it don't you'll get pretty muckered wet before you go far."

"Thanks," said Barrett, sitting down and pulling out a cigar-case. "Have a smoke?"

"Don't care if I do," the first speaker responded, and his companions also accepted the stranger's hospitality.

"Yes," said Barrett. "I started out for a walk without having anywhere in particular to walk to. Just came down Main Street, struck the plank-road, followed it five or six miles, I judge, then came up the hill and ran the rest of the way."

"I see you a-comin' pretty fast. You can run some—at first I thought you was trying to ketch up with Professor Simpson. He was just ahead of you in the old rig Bill Tyson sold him last week."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some forms of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months or years of warning.

They haven't slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headache. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing.

Had they but known that these symptoms fell of exhausted nerves or had they realized their danger they would have restored the feeble, wasted nerve by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great restorative treatment cures by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove beneficial, for each dose adds to the system a certain amount of rich, red blood.

Nervous diseases come on slowly and can only be overcome by patient and persistent treatment. Prevention is always better than cure, and for this reason you should endeavour to keep the system at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the first sign of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WESTERN INDIAN BEST.

In the early days of the C. P. R. surveys, through forests, across plains and over mountains, the Aborigine was always a factor to be reckoned with and sometimes a serious one.

The harmless eastern brand of Indians had been reduced to a tribe of mendicants. When not too lazy to breathe, an occasional muskrat or mink skin furnished a precarious existence. And when the white man came along, the crumbs that fell from his table were not despised by his red brethren, and they would often camp alongside of him and laboriously move along.

With their well-known instinct of true gallantry they would kindly permit the squaws and a small retinue of dogs, never absent, to pack heavy loads of their belongings, while the haughty chieftain strode along in the lead with nothing heavier to carry than an old musket.

Of course, this class of Aborigine, principally of the Cree persuasion, "cent no ice." He was simply regarded as an indolent, improvident, dirty, unreliable lying son of the forest. All Cooper's fairy tales fade away when you encounter the real child of nature, so different from the tall, lordly savage portrayed by the novelist, marching along, arrayed in a bunch of feathers and a coat of red paint, with his lovely consort by his side, whose simple toilet, inexpensive, but effective, consists of a string of beads; a coiffure made up with the aid of bacon grease; buckskin leggins and embroidered mocassins.

Alas! how all is changed. The wretched old ragged, pock-marked, unsanitary, inset repository who follows along your trail now, with his wrinkled old sore-eyed squaw and numerous offspring, picking up the white man's leavings, tells a pitiable tale, and shows only too plainly the decadence of the redskin.

On the Western plains, of course, different tribes are encountered. Horse Indians are invariably superior to those other decaying specimens.

Many a fine, tall, straight, upstanding, unreliable savage might one have encountered a few years ago, clothed simply in his right mind, mounted upon the self-supporting little wall-eyed cayuse.

The different tribes were seldom, if ever, friendly, and in the old days any plain Indian would kill a Cree on sight.

The "Stonies" inhabited the Rock Mountain ranges and seldom if ever came east of Swift Current Creek, then there were "Sarcees," "Blackfeet," "Bloods," "Pagans," and many other hard varieties.

Archives at Regina.

Lisle, M.P.P., in the Saskatchewan Legislature, brought an interesting matter before his fellow-members of the Provincial House the other day. He wants his Government to start an archives department. He is right. What country has ever been great without some history to sentimentalize over? Saskatchewan has history—the story of missionaries who went sky-piloting among the redskins; explorers who lived to tell the world of its great heritage; fur-traders who proved what the explorers had to say. Until very recently Saskatchewan had no respectable temple to enshrine her sacred records. No excuse now. As Lisle, M.P.P., pointed out, the palatial House of Parliament in Regina stands waiting in splendid magnificence. There is much room in that building for the precious written records of the early days of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, the Hudson Bay Co., the missionaries, explorers and fur-traders. It is satisfactory to note that Mr. Haultain and the leading members of the Legislature, both Government and Opposition, are favorable to the archives project.—Courier.

OPERA FOR THE KAISER

A German Boy Musician in Whom the Emperor is Greatly Interested

Hans von Garnier, a boy musician, in whom the Kaiser is interested, has been, according to the "National Zeitung," instructed by his Majesty to write him an opera. Six years ago, when only ten years old, the boy wrote a grenadier march. As he is a son of a general, it was brought before the notice of the Kaiser, who promptly ordered its inclusion in the list of the so-called army marches for infantry and cavalry. Recently the lad wrote a review march to be played during the "Present" when the Kaiser passes down the front of the troops. This was played by the Kaiser's orders at a banquet in the casino of the territorial battalions. The Kaiser also sent for the youth and strongly recommended him to try his hand at grand opera. "It would give me pleasure," said the Monarch, "to attend the performance of a Garnier opera."

LION HUNT THAT KILLED MR. GREY

Details of the Incident Which Cost Sir Edward Grey's Brother His Life

The "East African Standard" gives the following account of the lion hunt in which Mr. Grey, brother of Sir Edward Grey, was fatally mauled. For several days the ostrich camp near Sir Alfred Pease's homestead at Athi River had been worried by lions, and as that gentleman had just arrived by the steamship Guelph, in company with his sons and Mr. Grey, the news to hand was heartily welcomed as affording most opportune sport. A party was promptly organized, consisting of Sir Alfred Pease, Mr. C. Grey, Messrs. Howard and Edward Pease, Captain Slatter, Mr. Clifford, and Mr. H. N. Hill. The hunt started on Sunday morning. The plan of campaign was to divide into two parties, one consisting of Sir Alfred and Mr. Hill. After about half an hour's ride, in drawing a donga, Mr. Hill espied two big lions making off about half a mile to the right, and the party of two galloped after the quarry, endeavoring to keep them in sight. Sir Alfred followed the bigger and slower animal, and Mr. Hill, the leader, which was some 400 or 500 yards on his left.

The object of the hunters was to turn the game into a donga, thus giving time for the rest of the party to come up, hoping that Mr. Grey would be given the opportunity to open the shoot. Unfortunately the second party had no opportunity of learning the tactics which had been agreed upon by Sir Alfred and Mr. Hill.

Mr. Grey, seeing the game, put his horse to the gallop, and practically started to course the brutes. His companions were immediately alarmed at his foolish temerity, and endeavored to warn him of the terrible danger he was courting. They were doubly alarmed at seeing one of the lions preparing to charge. Mr. Hill thereupon dismounted and fired a quick shot at the bigger lion, in the hope of attracting his attention from Mr. Grey.

The bullet unluckily fell short, and the lion charged Mr. Grey, who jumped off his pony, and awaited the onslaught. At about twenty yards, he fired, and the shot went into the shoulder, but without stopping the deadly charge. He got in another shot at about five yards, hitting the brute in the mouth, breaking two of his murderous fangs and injuring his jaw.

The lion flung his victim to the ground and began to worry him, just like a dog would a rat. Meanwhile, Mr. H. Pease had followed Mr. Grey, and the party waved him to come up on the flank; they then covered the 300 yards between them and the lion and his victim at top speed. When some fifty yards off, the lion noticed his fresh antagonists, and ceased to maul Mr. Grey.

At twenty-five yards the party dismounted and ran in. The beast immediately made towards them, and at this awful moment of peril, Mr. Hill's rifle jammed, and he, too, was out of action. Almost simultaneously, Sir Alfred and Mr. H. Pease fired, and the balls entered the lion's ribs. The thrice heavily wounded animal returned to his victim.

The horrified relief party scarcely remember what happened during the brief moments; further than that the lion was on top of Mr. Grey, and animal and man were so mixed up that it was most difficult to distinguish the lion's head from Mr. Grey's body in order to get in a deadly head shot, which was found impossible to place until the lion was almost lifeless.

During the fray the other lion was distant only about 100 yards, growling and lashing his tail. In spite of the double danger threatening them, the hunters paid no attention to the second animal, being intent on relieving their comrade. Mr. Grey's wounds were very numerous. The lion severely clawed his arms and head, bit his arms, hands and thighs, and inflicted several wounds on his back. After being rescued from his deadly peril, Mr. Grey was perfectly collected, and quietly instructed his anxious friends how they could best handle his lacerated body. Mr. Grey afterwards died from the effects of his injuries.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

This Railway Has Put Down 1,622 Miles of Steel to Date

The Grand Trunk Pacific has put down 1,622 miles of steel to date. This does not include passing tracks, sidings, etc., but does include 252 miles Gramah to Winnipeg) of the Eastern section. The Lake Superior branch, 195 miles (Port Arthur to Graham), has been finished for two or three years. West of Winnipeg to Edmonton the road is finished, ballasted and in first-class condition. Nearly 100 miles of the line building north and south from Melville to Canora and to Regina is in operation. It is 55 miles from Melville to Canora and 34 miles south to Balcarres. A daily train service (except Sunday) has been put on between Edmonton and Edson (123 miles), making 922 miles west of Winnipeg under operation. The steel now extends 57 miles west from Edson. It is expected that the grade will be completed into Regina, Calgary and Brandon by the end of 1911. Thirty miles of grade is finished south of Regina toward the International boundary. The grading west from Regina toward Moose Jaw and Lethbridge will be resumed as soon as the frost is out of the ground. At Young, the second station west of Watrous, Sask., a branch takes off for Prince Albert. Seventy per cent. of the grade on this line is finished and the steel laid for 25 miles. Eighty-two miles of steel have already been laid on the Tofield-Calgary branch, with the grade completed well on toward Calgary. Another good branch is the one building south-west from Edson to tap the big coal fields. About sixty per cent. of the grade is finished on the Biggar Battleford branch, and it is expected that this line will be completed in 1911.

TESTED THE WATCHMAKER

The Czar Sent Metal Which Were Afterwards Made Into a Watch

The Czar, hearing of the remarkable achievements brought about by a Polish watchmaker named Carron, and anxious to test the man's ingenuity, ordered that some brass nails, some wood splinters, piece of glass, and a broken cup, and lengths of iron wire be sent to the craftsman with the command that he turn this material into a watch. The porcelain cup served as the case, and the works were made of the other materials. The Czar was surprized to receive the completed work in an incredibly short space of time.

NO INDIGESTION OR STOMACH DISORDER

No Gas, Heartburn, Headache or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odours.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get rid of it in five minutes.

COIN FROM OLD CANNON

How French Copper Coinage is to be Increased

Old cannon to the extent of 300 tons are to be turned into new pence and half-pence as quickly as possible. In Paris, for some unexplained reason, the French copper coinage has a way of disappearing, and at the present moment the Mint finds it necessary to produce $360,000 worth of new pence and half-pence. For this purpose the War Office has made a present to the Mint of the old cannon which are in the forts in and around Paris, and which are of no particular value. This is the first time since the Revolution that French cannon have been melted down to be made into money.

THE LEGACY DWINDLED

Much amusement has been caused in the lobby of the Reichstag by an account of a legacy of $358 left to a Socialist member by an admiring constituent. The Frankfort Gazette says that a few days after receiving the legacy, the deputy was visited by a tearful lady who said she was the widow, pleaded poverty and induced the deputy to share the legacy with her. The next week the deputy received a bill for $72 from the crematorium where the remains had been treated. The sum of $278 was then left. Before the week was passed the local revenue authorities demanded the estate duty and other charges. The deputy's legacy thus dwindled to

NIGHT LIFE TRAGEDY

A Typical German Occurrence at Wilhelmshaven—A Lieutenant's Revenge

A typical German night-life tragedy-comedy occurred recently at the Dreadnought station of Wilhelmshaven. While sitting in a bar frequented by officers, two young naval lieutenants in mufti, named Berger and Opolski, quarreled with a commercial traveller, the latter eventually punching Opolski's face. The lieutenant attempted to return the blow, but was prevented from doing so by his comrades. He then left the scene of the dispute, but soon afterwards returned in uniform and demanded the traveller's card for the purpose of challenging him to a duel. The traveller, however, refused to disclose his identity. Thereupon Opolski again traced his steps homewards, redonned his mufti, and appeared dat the bar a second time, armed with a revolver. He fired at the traveller several times, but only succeeded in hitting a barmaid, who was slightly injured. The story of another night-life tragedy emanates from Munich, where a crowd of students, returning from a "carnival" shortly after dawn, engaged in a melee. One of them fatally stabbed an unknown reveller, and a number of children, who happened to be in the streets at that romantic hour, were injured during the fracas.

HARD LUCK

"What's the matter, my little man?"
"Aw, I had a nickel and I bought a balloon and me big brother busted me in the eye and let it go up in de air, an' I got a boil on me neck an' I can't look."

SHOT THE WRONG ANIMAL

A near-sighted sportsman strolled into a little hotel on the shores of Loch Carron, in Scotland, and, complaining, said:

At dinner an hour later he sat next a tourist who had a bandage around his head.

"Had an accident?" asked the near sighted sportsman.

"Accident!" growled the other. "Attempted murder, you mean! I was having a bath about an hour ago, when some lunatic with a gun fired at me three times from the shore, and shot part of my ear off. I don't know why such animals are allowed out without a license!"

SORRY HE SPOKE

Alonzo—A penny for your thoughts, my little man.

"Pneumonia"

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than "Lung Fever," or as it used to be called, "Inflammation of the Lungs" and the results come entirely from a local source, such as taking a violent cold.

There is more or less difficulty in breathing; a cough, at first dry, but soon accompanied by raising a thick, sticky, rusty-colored matter, composed of a mixture of phlegm and blood.

There is only one way to prevent Pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold just as soon as it appears. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this quickly and effectively.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont., writes: "Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time, at the beginning of each winter, I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse that I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room. Last winter, however, a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, saying it had helped her. I bought a bottle and before it was half used I was completely cured. I also find it a good medicine for the children when they have colds."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price 25 cents.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE EDITOR'S TRIALS OUT IN INDIANA

THE Rev. F. Wilson Kaler, Preacher, Apiarist and Publisher of the Unique Four County Herald, the Only Newspaper Published on a Rural Route

"OWING to the fact that ye editor is conducting a religious revival at Bulltown at this writing and meeting with a large measure of success, having got two converts right off, there will abt be any issues of the FOUR COUNTY HERALD for a spell, and we graciously ask the indulgence of our readers.

Somebody started the report around here that we had suspended publication for all time—but we believe the wish that we had was father to the thought—and we can assure our subscribers, one and all, that such is not the case, by any means. We believe our present occupation is a worthy one and that the better class of citizens are with us. We will put a stop to all uneasiness in a few weeks, when the revival is over, and will burn the midnight oil but what we get out a better paper than ever before. At the expiration of subscriptions, as many issues as we miss, will be added on free of charge, so you see nobody is really out anything on the deal."

This announcement recently appeared on the editorial pages of the Four County Herald, a unique Indiana weekly newspaper, which boasts among other distinctions, of being the only newspaper in the United States published on a rural route. The Rev. Mr. F. Wilson Kaler is responsible for the publication. Besides gathering all the news which appears in the four page weekly, the Rev. Mr Kaler sets up the type and prints the paper on a crude printing press he contrived himself, part of which consists of an old fashioned tombstone that saw service for many years on the sloping hill of a country graveyard. Filling the pulpit and filling the columns of the newspaper are only a few things which the editor-preacher does. For a livelihood he raises honey. That is, he is a highly successful apiarist and tends a large colony of bees during his spare hours, if any part of his life can so be designated.

Snugly nestled among the hills of Indiana there is a group of houses at the intersection of two cross-roads which divide four counties, Decatur, Rush, Fayette and Franklin. It is this quaint locale that the Rev. Mr Kaler has succeeded in bringing out of the full gloss of oblivion. For more than fifteen years he has published the Herald, struggling against the greatest odds imaginable. His peculiar style of writing has not only attracted the attention of the State press from time to time, but frequently the metropolitan newspapers have gleaned material from his paper to which they added facetious comment. For "Editor Kaler" writes with a free hand, courageously and fearlessly, "calling a spade a spade." This principle is boldly announced on a display line that stretches across the top of the front page of the Herald which reads: "Hew to the line and let the chips fall where they've a mind to." It is an interesting brand of English that he uses, "as she is spoke" in those parts among the hill folk.

Time was when the place was known to local fame as Andersonville. But that was when they had a Post Office there and were entitled to a name. With the introduction of a network of rural routes the little Post office was abolished. But do not think Uncle Sam did not hear from "Editor Kaler" on this score. Indeed, scathing editorials denouncing the government appeared week after week and marked copies of the papers were forwarded to Washington. But the ways at the nation's capital are peculiar and have a way about them of being final, so it was a losing fight for the disconsolate editor.

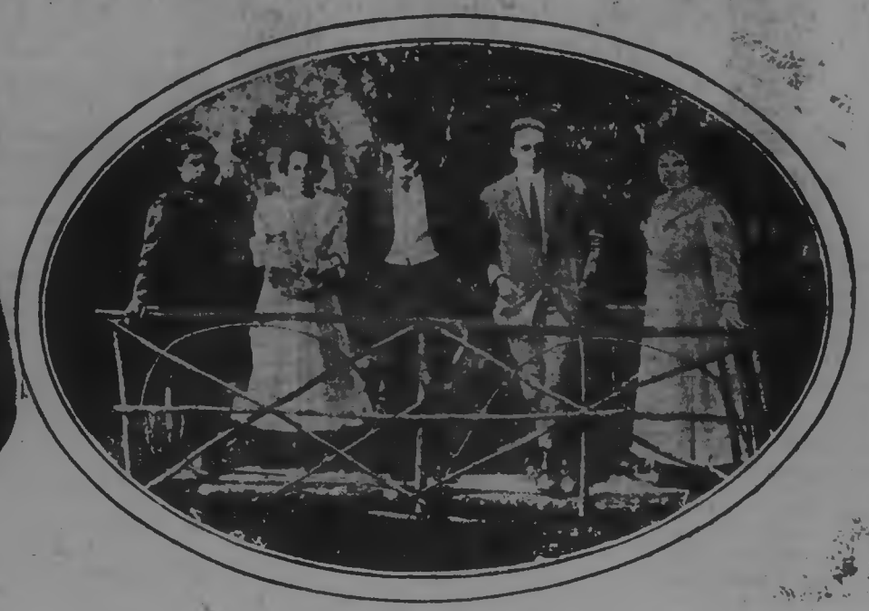
Imagine the chagrin and extreme humiliation he was subjected to in being obliged to print across his date line "Rural Route No. 18" in the very same place that every other newspaper in the county uses the name of a town or city. The Rev. Mr. Kaler is a stanch republican, but he never lost his political faith at that stirring time.

The editor preacher was not out of his teens when he began to assemble material for his printing office. He gathered the "newspapings" from several newspaper offices in the nearby county seats, in which were sorts of type and leads. The first money he saved as a boy was spent in purchasing a case of type containing one font. In a deserted cemetery near the settlement [illegible] which he acted [illegible] a tombstone which his father had erected for him to a [illegible] used as a playhouse. The tombstone was the foundation of his business, and withal the foundation of "Herald Square," in Andersonville, Indiana.

The stone was then mounted on a crudely built platform about two feet in height, which served as the bed for a printing press. Next a small tree was sawed down and from the trunk the ingenious young man cut a log four feet long, which he padded and covered with canvas to be used as a roller for the press. At the local blacksmith shop he directed the making of a crude iron chase, a square frame the size of a newspaper sheet, used in printing establishments to place the type after it is set up and arranged in the form of a page.

"Herald Square" in Andersonville, Indiana.

Rev. F. Wilson Kaler, the "Editor Preacher"



Mr. Kaler and Family

In the Composing Room.

His First Publication.

With these essentials at hand the young editor set about to get out his first publication. The iron chase was laid on the tombstone, and when the centre was filled with type it was held secure with small blocks of wood. From a discarded piece of printing press roller, made of rubber composition, young Kaler fashioned a small roller, which he used in inking the type on the form. Then he laid a blank piece of paper on the type and rolled the padded log over the top. The result was a somewhat blurred but still readable page of printed matter. In this manner the first issue of the Four County Herald "saw the light of day" and brought a thrill of delight to the proud sponsor.

The Rev. Mr. Kaler still uses that old printing press, but he has added many improvements during the many years of its service. His office equipment, too, in the way of more type for advertisements and news matter, has been increased from time to time. But most of the "sweepings" he collected when he began publication are still scattered through the type cases and occasionally appear along with the "bought" type. It is not an uncommon thing to be treated to a display of five or six varieties of type (including German "capes" and Roman italics) in the one line of news matter in the Herald. As the editor-preacher never installed a proofpress, it is superfluous to add that innumerable and highly ludicrous mistakes, such as an entire row of type upside down, words misspelled and errors of omission, creep into the otherwise dignified columns.

Circulation and advertising—the two mainsprings of every successful newspaper—were the two last things considered by the Rev. Mr. Kaler when he began publication. With him the first and evidently the only thing in mind was the anticipated joy of seeing a real for-sure newspaper born of his labors; possibly the same brand of thrill experienced by the bride wife on making her first loaf of bread.

The Herald started with just twenty bona fide "paid-up" subscribers on the office list. The young editor lost money on every issue, besides much time. But persistency marked his efforts, and, fortunately, time meant but little to him, for it was the one thing above all others that he could afford to sacrifice. He was intent on becoming a power and wielding a big influence throughout the little community by the medium of his newspaper. He was willing to walk in bare feet over the thorny path of endeavor as long as there was a hope of reaching the velvety, easygoing incline—the primrose path.

His neighbors began to take him seriously—and incidentally take his paper; he was the happiest of men. He could descend upon the country store forum at any hour and hear the "boys" discussing and "cussing" the latest children that sprang into the columns of the Herald from his pen. Not from his pen, however, if one desires to state the truth accurately, for rarely did he write an article. Each week he would go among his neighbors with a sort of dignified, clerical air, which plainly said:

"Peace be with you—what do you know today?"

Then, on learning of something he considered of news value, he would scroll back to his little office, mount a high stool at his case and soon reduce his thoughts into cold type. He never made notes of projected stories.

When there was an editorial of great import to be given to its readers he would set aside part of a certain night to do the work, alone in his workshop editorial sanctum, free from the interruptions of the "town loafers." Many times he labored far into the night on editorials of [illegible] "Why Don't Our Road Supervisor Put Gravel on the Pinhook Turnpike Sauce to Be Has Done on the Lower Grove yard Road? Taxpayers, There Is a Nigger in the Woodpile Somewhere."

Fearlessly ye editor would then proceed to point out that said supervisor lived "beyond" the Pinhook turnpike, and also that he had a married son and a brother-in-law living down that way.

In setting up the type for editorials and news matter, if the editor-preacher ever desired to make a change once he had the matter in type he could not "cross it out" after the fashion of the eager copy reader of the metropolitan daily with a big blue pencil, but he was obliged to throw all the type back in the case and "begin all over." And this meant a lot of time and previous labor lost and more kerosene for the big hanging lamp in his office. So, often after realizing that he had made a blunder or that he desired to change the tone of a news article or editorial, rather than lose time he would let the type stand and print it in the Herald against his better judgment. Such circumstances often resulted in bringing trouble down upon him and forced the publication of many retractions in subsequent issues.

Needless to say, the Rev. Mr. Kaler soon became the most talked of man for miles around. His friends were proud of him and declared he was doing a great work; his enemies—the kind that springs up in the wake of every aggressive man—said he should "stick to the preacher business and stop meddling in other people's affairs," while his wife implored him to give more attention to the now neglected stands of bees which were bringing them in their only source of revenue.

The circulation of the Herald grew by leaps and bounds, that is considering the sparsely settled and inhabited hilly country where it was received. There are more than seven hundred subscribers now on the "revised subscription list," and advertisements crowd from ten to twenty columns in every issue. The Rev. Mr. Kaler has made a success of his undertaking and has made "Herald Square" in Andersonville the most prominent point in the four counties that join each other in that locality.

Making His Influence Felt.

The editor-preacher has made his influence felt time and again. Was he not responsible for the installation of the horse watering trough at the crossroads, to say nothing of the fifteen street lights that blaze nightly in Andersonville? And the farmers have repeatedly risen up and called him blessed because he insisted on the County Commissioners putting in new iron chains in the hitch rack back of Morgan's general store.

It can be said in truth that the Rev. Mr. Kaler is at once a wag, poet, essayist, humorist and moralist, and his readers reap the benefit of his wide versatility. When a prominent citizen succumbs, for instance, every subscriber knows that in the next issue of the Herald, in addition to the usual obituary, will appear six or eight original verses with a tear in every line. Then, again, following a joyful occasion, such as a watermelon frolic or strawberry festival in the front yard of the Hardshell Baptist Church, verses of a highly humorous nature are sure to appear. Inspiration also comes to the editor-preacher at such times as the birth of twins in the community, the wedding of an elderly couple, defeat of the local horseshoe pitching squad, the chasing of a stray pig through the village streets and like occasions.

What he has repeatedly described as his "favorite poem" is one he wrote several years ago. It is entitled "The Local Stop" and has to do with the troubles of a countryman riding through an unknown part of Indiana on an interurban car. He has reprinted the verses on requests several times, each succeeding time putting them in larger type and in a more prominent position in the Herald.

The Rev. Mr. Kaler has often declared through his paper and from the pulpit and he believes the power of the press was a greater influence than that wielded from the pulpit. The argument in his own words was:

"There is just a certain element that go to church around Andersonville close together and made of them one great family. The weekly perusal of the Herald amounts to the same thing as the general discussion, in confidence, which the average family indulges in at the evening meal. Faults are pointed out in some and praise given to those deemed worthy, but the whole is always tempered with a general tone of charity.

For several years now the Rev. Mr. Kaler has been assisted occasionally by his wife and daughter. His wife can set type faster, and a deal more accurately, than the editor himself. His daughter Nora, who is thirteen years old, often assists him in printing the papers.

But he does not call upon them unless he is pressed for time in his ministerial capacity. Since they live in a little cottage hard by the Herald office they often prove a most desirable convenience. It is not uncommon for the neighbors to see the soiled aproned Rev. Mr. Kaler appear at the door of his office and hear him call out to his wife:—

"Sarah, oh, Sarah!"

"Yes," comes the reply, as a window goes up in the house.

"Can you come over a little while and set up five or six small items for the fourth page? I should like to go to press this morning."

"Oh, I don't know exactly. Can't you think of something to fill out? Let's see. I'll tell you. Might make two or three lines about Aunty Mirandy Smiley still being on the sick list, with no change in her condition. Oh yes, I know there was something I was forgetting. There's Orange Felt's new barn. I almost clean forgot about that. That would never do, for Orange would be mad as a wet hen and like as not cancel his subscription."

Thus it often occurs that many people owe their newspaper prominence in that locality to the "extra licks" contributed by the faithful wife, who deserts her household duties that the Herald may get to press on time.

But it does not always get out on time. On such occasions as the County Fair, Fourth of July celebrations, State ministerial conventions at Indianapolis or a revival the editor-preacher merely suspends publication and explains the next time he issues a paper. While it is always a disappointment to his readers to miss a single issue, they seldom complain. They feel that they are signally blessed in having in such a small community any kind of newspaper, regardless of its shortcomings and irregularity. Hence they are ever ready to grant the Rev. Mr. Kaler the sacred privilege of omitting a number or two occasionally if he so desires, without offering him to unfavorable criticism.

An Editorial Apology.

For instance, last winter he failed to publish the Herald one week, as he devoted five days to assisting the local druggist to cut ice from the creek and help store it away in sawdust for summer consumption. His apology, which appeared the following week, reads:

"Last week we helped Rayme Hargrove put up ice. Nobody can kick on that even if we didn't get out a paper. Because next summer it will be fine to drop in on Rayme some fine hot day and have a dish of his cooling, refreshing ice cream. Now can thank us, girls, [illegible] for part of [illegible] from your fellows buy you Sunday evenings after church. We helped kill the bear, we did. Ha! ha!"

For the most part the columns of the Herald are filled with small news items of local interest. News of the outside world is considered of such little significance that it is absolutely ignored. But if an Andersonville resident visits a next door neighbor it is liable to find its way into print. If a man goes hunting, paints his buggy or discharges a farmhand it is all duly chronicled in the Herald. The Rev. Mr. Kaler places a value of his own upon news matter.

"When I go out to gather matter for the Herald," he says, "I don't look for news. I look for excuses. Just any old excuse for putting a person's name in the paper. They all like to see it, and to this I attribute my success."

Whenever the only physician in Andersonville reports a birth or the illness of one of his patients his name always appears with the news item. Some of the characteristic items which have appeared in the Herald recently follow:

"Pl King was sick on the east side last week."

"Born to Dutch Eiswoller and wife this week, a ten pound boy—a little republican. Reported by Dr. Metcalf. It pays to be an officer, don't it, Dutch and Fatty?"

"Harry Miller and his best girl were at Pinhook attending church last Sunday night. He drove her home."

"Fred and Ray Conner were in town one day this week having some blacksmithing done."

"Joe Pike passed through Wed. en route to Glenwood to have a horse shod."

"Sallie Lewis and Irene Stevens kept house for Dr Metcalf while his fran was visiting in the city. Doc likes good cooking, eh, doc?"

For of such is the little kingdom ruled by the editor-preacher. His is the typical country newspaper, an institution which is fast passing out with the introduction of modern machinery at a small cost. Out of his almost inadequate and crudely arranged printing establishment he has preached the gospel of righteousness for many years now, moulding the sentiment of the community and directing every progressive move they have made since he entered the arena battling for public benefactions.

The Rev. Mr Kaler is not content with being the busiest man in that "neck of the woods," for hardly a month passes that he does not seek additional labor in other avenues than the one that now engage him during his waking hours. He is forever taking up the agency of some newly patented articles. Besides, he carries a full line of both fire and life insurance. Not long ago he took a dip in politics and was nominated for State Assemblyman. The campaign cost him quite a sum of money, not to speak of the dozen or more issues of the Herald he missed publishing. And in the end he was defeated. He has quit the political game forever, he says, but philosophically adds that it was a valued experience. Another thing that consumes a great deal of his time is his religious attendance at lodge meetings. He is what the countrymen call a "joiner," for he belongs to six lodges. In most of these organizations he fills an office, which requires his presence at a dozen or more meetings every month. But the Rev. Mr. Kaler says belonging to lodges is part of an editor's life, for it is at these gatherings that he often gets some of his best news.

Despite any shortcomings of the quaint editor preacher, or his publication, the folk around Andersonville are always ready to swear by him. They admire him, they respect him, they fear him and they love him. Of one thing they are sure, no sinister motive ever prompts him to take a position contrary to honest judgment. The sincerity of his stand on any question is never doubted, for during all the years he has conducted the Herald he has faithfully lived up to his motto:

"Hew to the line and let the chips fall where they've a mind to."

THE TIME OF HER LIFE

Result of a Visit to the "Shores of Bohemia."

By CONSTANCE D'ARCY MACKAY

One morning when Billy and I were lingering over our rolls and coffee Betty came in with a tragic air and an open letter in her hand.

"Listen to this!" she exclaimed. "Eleanor Cuyler is coming to New York to visit her aunt, and she says she simply must see us because she's always wanted to visit the 'shores of Bohemia!'"

"The shores of what?" said Billy. "I'm sure there's nothing bohemian about us."

"That's just it," wailed Betty, "but Miss Cuyler doesn't see it that way. She's daft about people who 'do things,' and she says she never met any, so she begs that she may come to dinner some night, quite informally, and be one of us. She thinks that because Kate writes and you're an artist and we all live in a little flat—I mean apartment—we are—well, we are queer and unconventional."

"Who is this Eleanor Cuyler?" said Billy, with a frown.

"She's a Philadelphia girl Kate and I met when we were in the mountains last summer. She was awfully nice to us in ever so many ways, and now it's our turn to do something for her. It's no use suggesting the matinee or a luncheon. Eleanor's rich as Croesus and tired of all that, and there's nothing else we can afford. Oh, I don't see what we're going to do!" And Betty puckered her brows in despair.

"Do!" cried Billy. "Why, it's as plain as day! Satisfy her craving for the unconventional! If we're not bohemians we can at least put up a good imitation of the real thing. We can ask the Englishman, Harry Rockminster; he'll add a continental flavor. And there's Perry Dashwood; he can sing stein songs better than any one I ever knew. We'll get Cynthia to come and recite and Worthington to bring his violin. They can pretend they're professionals. Cynthia will be an actress just starting on her career and Worthington a struggling musician. 'Struggling' is the right touch, isn't it? And—let's see—this is Monday. Write and invite Miss Cuyler for Wednesday evening. Bohemians aren't supposed to give much notice when they ask people to their parties." And Billy looked over at me and laughed.

While Betty was jubilantly writing her note I went to explain things to Aunt Pattie. Aunt Pattie has mothered us ever since we were children, and nothing we do ever surprises her, so she fell in with our plan at once. "But I couldn't be a bohemian if I tried," she declared. "I wouldn't know how to act, and I'd make you all miserable and myself too. You can easily excuse my absence."

"But you'll miss all the fun," I objected.

Aunt Pattie's eyes twinkled. "Oh, I mean to be there!" she cried. "Since we have no maid I'm going to serve the dinner myself."

In vain we all protested, coaxed, commanded. Aunt Pattie was firm in insisting that as Miss Cuyler had never seen her it could make no possible difference. Yet somehow it did to me, for I could imagine with what horror my Englishman might look on such proceedings. Even after I had written to him and explained the circumstances I was tormented by misgivings, for, although he didn't know it, his good opinion mattered more to me than anything else in the world.

All Wednesday Betty and I worked like majors. We had always rather prided ourselves on the artistic arrangement of our little parlor. Now, in order to make it look bohemian we had banked it with all the bizarre and startling things we could lay our hands on. Billy's delicate water color sketches were jostled by flamboyant posters, theatrical photographs adorned the mantel, and sundry pipes and ash trays littered the table. It certainly looked queer; but, as Betty and I confessed to ourselves, we didn't. Betty was demure in a gray gown, and I wore my black net. I was just fastening one of Harry Rockminster's roses in my hair when the bell rang.

"There she is!" cried Betty hysterically. "Now, don't act as if anything unusual were happening!"

Eleanor Cuyler was enthusiastic in her greeting, and she was still telling of her joy in seeing us when we crossed the threshold of the parlor. At sight of the room she smothered a little gasp, which showed that our work had not been in vain. Then Billy came forward, and the loose blouse and soft tie which he wore for the occasion made him look as if he had stepped straight out of the Latin quarter. But Miss Cuyler wasn't any more surprised at his appearance than he was at hers. Somehow neither Betty nor I had told him what a beauty Miss Cuyler was—a childish little beauty with a fluff of golden hair and deep blue eyes that opened very wide when anything astonished her.

Perry Dashwood and Harry Rockminster came early, but there wasn't a sign of Cynthia and Worthington.

"They're half an hour late already," said Betty to me in an aside. "What on earth can be keeping them? I'm afraid the dinner will be spoiled."

Something of our uneasiness reached Billy, and he turned abruptly to Betty. "I really think we'd better not wait for the others," he said. "They may be quite late. You never can tell what may happen on the shores of Bohemia."

But we were hardly seated before we heard the turn of Worthington's latch-key and the swish of Cynthia's skirt down the hall. She made a dramatic pause at the dining room door and looked perfectly dazzling in a crimson Spanish costume glittering with spangles.

"I hope you won't mind my coming in costume," she said. "We were kept late at rehearsal, and there wasn't time to change. I met Worthington on the stairs," she continued nonchalantly. "He'll be in in a moment. He's a musician, Miss Cuyler, and you know what uncertain hours musicians are forced to keep, especially when they are young and struggling."

Cynthia moved toward her chair with sinuous grace. She said afterward that the Spanish costume had entered into her blood and she wasn't responsible for anything she did. Neither was Worthington, for he wore a peculiar, shabby black coat and carried his violin under his arm. But his crowning glory was his hair, or perhaps I should say his wig, which was very long and straight.

"'The Music Master,' by Jove!" ejaculated Harry Rockminster.

Yet not once did a triumphant gleam illumine the eyes of Signor Worthington. To this day I've always wondered how he managed to keep that dreamy, abstracted expression. Of course I knew I could count on Cynthia and Worthington, but I never knew I could count on them to such an extent as that. Eleanor Cuyler was delighted. She looked at them and listened to them in open eyed wonder as if they were beings from another world. And all my fears of what Harry Rockminster would think were set at rest when he whispered, "I say, isn't this a stunning lark?"

And now if Aunt Pattie didn't act too much like a lady our bohemian dinner would be a complete success, but one false note would ruin everything. I toyed with the grapefruit as long as possible. Then I rang the bell. As I did so I kept my eyes fixed on Billy. He sat opposite the kitchen door and would be the first to see Aunt Pattie. The kitchen door creaked, swung open, and the expression on Billy's face signaled me that something had happened.

"Aunty," he burst out and then checked himself.

From behind me came a soft voice with the pleasant slurred accent of the south. "I reckon yo's s'prised to see me, Mars' Billy! Yo didn't know I was to cook de dinner, did yo'?"

I turned and beheld Aunt Pattie, and and yet not Aunt Pattie, for the face that beamed from beneath a bandanna turban was as black as the ace of spades!

To Miss Cuyler this apparition was nothing more than a loquacious dusky servant, but the rest of us were in ecstacies of mirth. We have vowed ever since that we owed the whole success of the evening to Aunt Pattie, for not only was the dinner deliciously cooked and splendidly served, but it went with a whirl. Harry Rockminster was never more brilliant in his life and told stories of marvelous escapades in which he had taken part. Cynthia recited "Lasca" with true dramatic fervor. Between courses Worthington played snatches on his violin, and we all sang songs—songs for which Perry made up funny impromptu choruses. The men smoked, and through the blue haze shone the radiant face of Miss Cuyler.

When dinner was over she leaned back in her chair with a little sigh. "It's just as I fancied Bohemia would be," she declared. "Oh, what fun you all must have gathering round the table this way every evening. Of course it's just a common occurrence to you, but I shall never forget it. Never! And I can't thank you enough for this glimpse of it."

Billy said she thanked him fervently again when he saw her to her carriage. "I've had the time of my life," she reiterated—"the time of my life!"

"Well, she wasn't the only one," said Worthington. He had taken off his wig and was mopping his brow, while the rest of us sat about the dining room table nibbling.

"Miss Cuyler did seem to appreciate it," said Cynthia.

"Appreciate!" cried Billy. "I think it's we who ought to appreciate her coming. Why, just to look at her is a feast! She has exactly the kind of eyes I want for my 'Queen Titania.'"

"Why don't you ask her to pose for it, then?" suggested Cynthia slyly.

"I have asked," answered Billy quite simply, "and we are going to begin tomorrow."

"Whiff," sniffed Betty. "I smell orange blossoms!" And under cover of the laughter Harry turned to me.

"Miss Cuyler's had the time of her life, Billy's had the time of his, and there's just one thing wanting to give me the time of mine." His lips were smiling, but there was no mistaking the look in his eyes.

"I'd hate to spoil your evening by saying 'No,'" I whispered back. And then, although I was so happy, I had an absurd desire to cry, and if Billy hadn't suddenly interrupted with a toast to the shores of Bohemia goodness knows what might have happened!

Glass That Won't Break.

Baccarat, France, has the honor of producing the first glass that is unbreakable. The new process has been successfully applied to the manufacture of lamp chimneys for use in coal mines containing much firedamp. The glassmakers of Baccarat have also succeeded in increasing the elasticity of the glass. This they accomplish by adding magnesia and oxide to the ordinary crystal glass.—Success Magazine.

Progressive Calgary.

The estimate of directory compilers place Calgary's population at 55,330. Directory figures are inclined to be just a little bit high. But allowance being made for this, the fact remains of extraordinary development taking place in the Alberta city. We have before us a document of the Board of Trade Calgary issued in the year 1907. This pamphlet is beautifully and fetchingly illustrated. It is a cheerful, optimistic booklet, bold in its praise of Calgary's automobiles, and kine, and business blocks. How out of date it is! Calgary of 1907 was a city of but 23,600 souls. Is it that she has more than doubled her population in three years? The same directory authorities who have been referred to in this article assert that the increase of people drifting in during 1910 was 9,000 more than in 1909. Figure out the per cent. yourself. It has been stated that the Board of Trade's publication of 1907 is out of date. Its figures are now only archives; but the spirit which breathes is as true of Calgary to-day as of Calgary three years ago. Calgary is still the haven of the green-capped Englishman striking out West. There is still fat prize stock in Cow Town. The aroma of the plains Indians is there—some say—growing faint.

Atavistic.

Moralists sometimes insist that the Neolithic Age has not wholly disappeared. Writers, like Jack London, sometimes uncover it in modern civilization—and their fiction rings almost true.

Fort William, Ont., does not need any moralist or novelist to talk atavism to her.

Fort William has seen the real thing. Out of the depths of the Northern Ontario forests recently, a police officer of Fort William, after a gigantic struggle, brought a man called Beck to the insane asylum. He was garbed in skins of wild animals, fashioned with a most extraordinary disregard for symmetry. For four years this man had hunted the bush. With rude clubs and with stones he killed his subsistence. He slept under skins, rocks for his pillow, the stars above him. All this time he struck terror into the minds of construction navvies and lumber-jacks by his bellowings and bestial actions. Rub a little of the veneer off and what is man?

The relatively largest egg is laid by the kiwi, a strange, wingless New Zealand bird. The egg is no less than five inches long, although the extreme length of the bird itself is only twenty-seven inches.

Palpitation of the Heart.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time, then go slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, through this unnatural action of the heart.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. John Thompson, Mill Cove, N.B., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart; would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all suffering with heart and nerve trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

This will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough — stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENTS WERE PASSENGERS ON WRECKED C. P. R. TRAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dawson on Their Way to Peterborough Had an Exciting Experience—Five Cars Were Derailed.

EVERYONE ESCAPED

Mr. and Mrs. James Dawson, who were called to Peterborough by the death of Mrs. Edgecumbe, were passengers on the C. P. R. train which was partially wrecked early Sunday morning, ten miles east of White River, and had the unique experience of participating in an accident in which five cars of a train going at full speed left the track and went over the bank and yet the passengers and crew escaped with a few minor injuries. The accident, Mr. Dawson informed the Examiner to-day, in speaking of the wreck, was caused by a broken rail, and the train crew in no way was to blame for the mishap.

"The accident happened at about 1.30 o'clock Sunday morning," remarked Mr. Dawson," and most of us were asleep at the time. We were suddenly awakened to find our car on its side, and ourselves sprawling out of our berths. For a moment there was silence, as we waited, expecting to find something come crashing down upon us. Then, realizing that the worst was over some one called out: "Is everybody all right," and the reassuring reply came from all parts of our car. Everyone behaved with the greatest coolness and there was not a scream or an outcry from any of the ladies. The passengers escaped with a few bruises. The accident might have been worse had it not been for a bank of snow which prevented the cars from going into the lake below. There was little delay, the passengers being placed in the empty cars ahead, which did not leave the track."

A despatch has the following about the wreck:

Fort William, Ont., March 26.—Railroad men declare absolutely that accidents come in circles of threes, and there appears to be considerable foundation for such belief. Since Friday last the Canadian Pacific Railway have had three, the latest of which occurred to No. 94, eastbound, about 1 a.m. to-day near Trideau, ten miles west of White River. Five cars, a sleeper, diner, first-class, tourist and colonist, went over the bank. Four cars lie on their side, while the sleeper is on its end. The injured are two men named Barker and Shafer, and an unknown Chinaman. A doctor from Chapleau is in attendance.

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent. of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Rexall Orderlies are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly, and have a soothing, strengthening influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effect. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c. and 10c. Sold only at our store.—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Bury.

Association Formed

Special to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, MARCH 28.—The call of Rev. Dr. Symonds on Sunday night for men to sacrifice their skin to save the life of a man terribly burned, has developed the fact that an Association, whose members will furnish skin for this purpose anytime has been formed in this city. They have stepped forward and will undergo an operation for the burned man on Sunday morning next.

Fireman Singer was slightly injured in the leg.

SWEARS HE WAS KNOCKED OUT AND ROBBED ON SIMCOE STREET LAST NIGHT

Alfred Meakens Appeared Before Magistrate and is Committed for Trial on a Serious Charge This Morning---Police Constable Meagher Saw the Assault and Arrested Meakens---Money Found on the Prisoner When Searched and Bills Were Discovered on the Street at Daylight To-day.

A serious charge of robbery, with violence, was laid against Alfred Meakins at police court to-day. Westley Wescot, the complainant, stated that while passing along Simcoe St. last night he was assaulted by the prisoner and relieved of $21. Mr. R. E. Wood, Crown Attorney, who appeared for the prosecution, examined the complainant as to the details of last night's episode. Among the many statements elicited from the witness were those to the effect that he was proceeding along Simcoe St. between the Y.W.C.A. and the King George hotel about 10 o'clock last night, when a man stepped out from an alleyway and struck him on the back of the head, following this up by a blow on the side of the neck, which proved to be of the sleep producing variety. When witness recovered himself he felt for his wad, which was gone.

P. C. Meagher, who had witnessed the assault from a distance of about 25 yards, followed the prisoner and arrested him at the Lock Works. He was searched at the station by Sergt. Adams and P. C. Meagher, but no money was found.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who took charge of the defence, then examined the witness, who stated that he had come in from Dummer yesterday morning and had partaken of a number of drinks.

This morning at daylight, P. C. Meagher and Sergt. Adams went over that portion of the streets which had been traversed by the prisoner on his way to the station last night and found three one dollar bills between Simcoe and Water street. On their return to the station a further search was made of the prisoner under the supervision of Chief Thompson by Detective Newhall and the further sum of $10 was found concealed in his clothing. The prisoner suggested that the money had been placed there by Detective Newhall, but he quickly retracted that statement when Chief Thompson made a move towards him.

The counsel for the defence asked for a remand, but His Worship decided to commit the prisoner for trial at the next assizes.

THE STORY OF RETIREMENT OF R. L. BORDEN IS NOT DISMISSED AS BEING A MERE RUMOUR

Gains Credence With Many Members of the Opposition With Whom the Wish May be Father to the Thought, However.

PARTY UNREST EVIDENT

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MARCH 28.—The story, originating in Montreal, as to the prospective retirement of Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, and the substitution of the leadership of Hon. R. McBride, Premier of British Columbia, is not dismissed at the Capital as a mere rumour. It seems to gain credence among members of the Opposition. The wish, however, may be father to the thought. It is an open secret that for a long time there has been a no insignificant wing of the Conservative members restive under Mr. Borden's leadership, which is regarded as too unaggressive, not to say, too unscrupulous. This feeling came to the surface last session with a result of a sort of party re-organization. Mr. F. D. Monk, Conservative leader for Quebec, was actually "turned down," and Hon. C. J. Doherty, M.P., for the St. Anne division of Montreal, elevated to Mr. Monk's vacant seat. Hon. G. E. Foster was morally sidetracked, but he refused to be silenced and his prestige as chief of the debating talent, on his side of the House, served, together with his self-assertion to retain him a seat in the front row, next to Mr. Borden. But the snake of party unrest was scotched, not killed; and now it has broken out, according to the Montreal story, in a new form, but with the same discontent with Mr. Borden's leadership still to the fore. There is little doubt that if he could do so with credit, Mr. Borden would be glad to be relieved of a few of his herculean tasks especially for a man who seems to lack initiative in the formulation of policy that would appeal to popular imagination and form a bond of cohesion amongst his followers, whose unruliness suggests necessity of the strong hand. He seems to lack the quality of gauging the temper of his followers and to suggest a way out of the impasse created for them by the Reciprocity agreements—to suggest some policy that will help his followers to, at the same time, support the agreement, and save great loss of prestige in the West, or to oppose it without losing strength elsewhere. Everybody, even those who admire Mr Borden for his high personal qualities, seem to feel that he is not the man to lead the Conservative host to victory, or even avert disastrous overthrow.

OTTAWA, MARCH 28.—(Later) It is known here that the talk of Leader Borden's retirement, while it may not work out that way, had some foundation in the fact that strong Conservative interests in Montreal, Quebec, and Western Canada have for a long time shown signs of defection. It is understood that a committee of Conservative financiers in Montreal have asked both Premier McBride of British Columbia and Premier Whitney of Ontario to take the leadership, but they simply called Borden's attention to the plot. Borden was absent from the Commons' Chamber the most of the day conferring with his lieutenants, and is said to have issued an ultimatum that he must have undivided support inside and outside of Parliament, or he would resign.

ROUNDING UP THE BLACK HAND GANGS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, MARCH 28.—Scores of detectives, including several Italian sleuths, are working on local black hand plots which, if the wanted evidence is secured, will result in many sensational arrests among all classes of Southern European foreigners here and bring about a trial as startling as that of the Cammorra in Italy. Only recently Judge Landis was threatened by black handers and cases of alleged tampering with a jury are common. It is stated that more than one murder theory leads in this direction here.

SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT OF MAGISTRATE DENISON

Matthew Wilson, K.C., Prominent Chatham Lawyer, Says Toronto Magistrate is a Prize Comedian--Makes Some Startling Charges.

Chatham, March 28.—At the annual dinner of the Kent Bar Association held at the Garner House, Matthew Wilson, K.C., made a severe arraignment of Col. Denison's police court in Toronto.

"I have been present to see and hear great comedians in my day," remarked Mr. Wilson, "but for pure buffoonery and clown acting I believe the Toronto police court outclasses them all."

He said the crown attorney and the magistrate seemed to vie with each other in providing coarse jokes merely to receive the cheap plaudits of the callow crowd.

He also charged that the Toronto police court magistrate had stated that he never listened to argument and did not care a rap for court of appeal decisions.

Mr. Wilson hoped that the time was coming when the government would step in and put an end to the undignified manner in which Toronto police court is conducted.

WATER COMMISSIONERS HOLD ROUTINE MEETING

The Water Commissioners met yesterday and transacted an amount of routine business. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Peterborough Light & Power Co.	$ 3.00
G. Spilsbury	1.00
Jones Bros.	4.50
G. Giroux	2.25
Examiner	6.50
City of Peterborough	286.30

Mr. H. Evans was present and asked that the rates on 549 Paterson St., except the lawn rate, be remitted, as the late J. Ballantyne had not intended to apply for a house service and did not use the water.

On motion it was decided to remit the rates with the exception of the lawn charges.

On motion of Mr. Hill, seconded by Mr. Moore it was decided to pay Mr. C. A. J. Duranceau $200 on his account for work on the heating plant

"THE HEROES OF IAN McLAREN" SUBJECT OF FINE LECTURE

Knox Young People's Guild listened to a rare and inspiring address last night by Dr. McCulloch, on "Ian McLaren's Heroes," treating particularly of Geordie Howe, "The lad O'pairts," Lachlan Campbell, that sterling Scotch character, who had the true heart of a "father," after all, and Dr. McLure, whose "family was the whole Glen." One would almost think Dr. McCulloch was a Scotchman, with his Scotch pathos and accent. Miss McFarlane moved an enthusiastic vote of thanks, which was seconded by Miss Eva Bartley, and the hearty hand-clap that followed was sincere and expressive. Dr. McCulloch repeats this address this evening before the Brotherhood, and we can assure all those who attend an enjoyable evening.

Judging from the large number present at the Guild last evening the "red and blue" campaign is meeting with great success. This is a campaign for two hundred members, which will close about April 21st, with a grand contest between the "reds" and "blues" as to who can give the better concert.

Next Monday the Guild meets at 8 o'clock, as usual, and the subject is a missionary one.

MADRIGAL CLUB HOLDS ITS FINAL REHEARSAL

Last night the Peterborough Madrigal Club held its final rehearsal preparatory to the concert in the Conservatory of Music Hall, to-night, in which the Club will be assisted by Carrie Ressor. There was a large attendance, over fifty voices, and a splendid rehearsal was had, showing the Club to be in splendid form for the concert TO-NIGHT.

PRISONER TRIES TO END HIS LIFE IN LINDSAY GAOL BY ATTEMPTING TO HANG HIMSELF

Young Man Committed as Being Insane Attempts Suicide by Means of Strips Torn From Blanket.

The Lindsay Warder says:

Five or six days ago a young man from Sonya by the name of George Willis, whose mind is slightly unbalanced, was brought to Lindsay, and temporarily lodged in the county jail. He was to be removed to the institution at Mimico this week. It was not thought necessary to place a watch over the young man until yesterday, when it was learned that he had attempted to end his life while in his cell.

It appears that when Turnkey Mort. Andrus visited the cell Sunday morning he noticed that the young fellow looked rather peculiar, and on making a closer examination he noticed several red marks about the neck, and also that Willis' head was slightly swollen. Willis said that he had fallen and bumped his head. Turnkey Andrus questioned the man, who at first denied having attempted to take his life, but on making a search of the cell the turnkey found that the young fellow had torn a strip off the bed quilt. This he found secreted in the bed clothing.

Willis afterwards admitted frankly that he had endeavoured to end his life and told the turnkey how he went about it. Like two other unfortunates, who committed suicide in the local jail some time ago, he tied one end of the quilt rope to the bar at the top of the cell door and the other securely around his neck. He then swung out and hung suspended with his feet almost touching the floor. However, he had not tied his hands together, so that after dangling in misery and agony for a short while, the young fellow stated to Mr. Andrus that his nerve failed him and not being able to endure the suspense any longer, and feeling himself being slowly strangled to death, he lost his nerve, and pulling himself up again he untied the knot around his neck and toppled over on his cot weak and helpless. He had just let himself down in time, as it is thought a few more seconds would have ended his life.

To Turnkey Andrus the unfortunate young fellow stated that he might as well be dead, and that he wished to die for the sins he had committed. He was very melancholy, and it was thought wise to place a watch over him so that until he is removed a day and night watch will be on guard.

The young man is in good health, and talks very sensibly. He fully realized what he was doing, and was determined to do away with himself but death by strangulation was too slow. For several days Willis would only eat whenever he took the notion.

POOLROOMS TO REMAIN OPEN

Examiner Special.

KINGSTON, MARCH 28.—Taking the ground that if the pool rooms were closed at ten o'clock the young men would spend the later hours in worse places, the city council last night refused the request of the Moral Reform League to make a law to that effect.

OFF TO LINDSAY

Three Characters Who Appeared in Police Court To-day Are En Route For the Scugog Capital

ONE WAS FINED

Seating room in the dock this morning at the police court was at a premium, but His Worship soon relieved the congestion by a quick treatment of the first three cases.

Arthur Cooper, a new arrival in the city yesterday, was charged with vagrancy. He pleaded guilty and was allowed to go on condition that he make himself scarce as far as this town was concerned.

Richard Gorman and James Ryan were charged with being drunk and disorderly on George street last night. They were arrested by P. C. Brown. Richard Gorman, who had $1.75 on his person was relieved of a part of this burden, by placing one dollar in the city treasury. James Ryan had no money to pay a fine, so he was admonished as to what would happen to him if he didn't leave for other parts immediately. All three decided to make Lindsay their next stopping place.

INFORMER'S STORY

Special to The Examiner:

VITERORO, ITALY, MARCH 28.—Continuing his evidence to-day Abbatemaggio, the informer, told how there was a quarrel over the division of some of the booty secured by burglary. One of the members denounced the other to the police, and the police induced Abbatemaggio to tell the whole story. Cuocculs, for whose murder the prisoners are being tried, was the one who demanded the exorbitant share of the spoils. His wife was murdered too, because of the jealousy of some other leaders.

LOOKING BACK NINE YEARS.

Nine years ago the "opposition" gave us six months to "peter out." This was in 1901. During 1910 we have enrolled more students and qualified more stenographers than any other college in the city. Nine years ago when 30-day Syl-la-bic Shorthand was a new thing) we taught the student, placed him in a position, told the employer to prove him before engaging him, and then, and not until then, would we ask the student to pay us our tuition fees. To-day we enjoy the largest enrollment of any stenographic college in Toronto, besides having 13 branch colleges throughout Canada. Schools and Systems have come and gone, but the Moon College has come to stay, and may be found at 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto; able and willing to verify every claim regarding their 30-day Shorthand.

ANNAPOLIS, N.S.

"I am over 80 years of age and have been suffering with Kidney and Bladder Trouble for fifteen years. I took doctors' medicine but got no help. I went to thank you for sending me the sample box of GIN PILLS.

I have taken six boxes of GIN PILLS altogether but got relief before I had taken near that amount. I used to get up some nights every fifteen minutes and had to use an instrument before I could urinate.

Now, I can lie in bed four or five hours without getting up. I can say that GIN PILLS have nearly cured me and I shall always keep a box in the house."

W. H. PIERCE.

Do as Mr. Pierce did—write us for free sample box of GIN PILLS and see for yourself just how much they will do for you,—then buy the regular size boxes at your dealer's—50c, or 6 for $2.50. GIN PILLS are sold with a positive guarantee of money back if they fail to give prompt relief. National Drug and Chemical Co., Dept. B., Toronto. 37

WEAK LOGIC.

The Brockville Times regards the vote in the Ontario Legislature as an expression of "what the sentiments of the people of Ontario are regarding reciprocity." Yet the Times is one of the shriekers for "an appeal to the people" on the subject of the trade agreement. The argument seems to be, that an irresponsible body like the Ontario Legislature, that has no constitutional authority to meddle with trade or commerce, is competent, without a "mandate," to express the sentiments of the people of Ontario so long as it is overwhelmingly Tory. But a body like the Dominion Parliament expressly commissioned by the Confederation act to deal with trade and commerce under which reciprocity comes—is not competent to express "the sentiments of the people of Canada" without special instructions at the hands of the people. The logic of the opponents of reciprocity gets very badly tied up.

RECIPROCITY AND MANUFACTURING.

The Montreal Herald thus refers to the speech of Hon W. S. Fielding at Montreal in regard to the relations of the government to the manufacturing industry as associated with reciprocity:

"The principal of Liberalism is trust of the people, qualified by prudence; the principle of Toryism is distrust of the people, qualified by fear." This dictum from Gladstone's famous Carlisle speech Mr. Fielding made the text of his answer to his opponents, fear of free trade in manufactures and of annexation. He told again, as Sir Wilfrid has told a couple of weeks earlier, what there was to tell of the exclusion of manufactures from the scope of the agreement, he repeated the assurances of Sir Wilfrid that nothing of the kind could or would be accomplished, he based his defence of the agreement wholly upon the statutory offers of the past as to which all parties had been agreed, he scouted the idea of political union, and recalled from his own youthful experience the warmth with which the then Prince of Wales had been received in Canada at a time when the old reciprocity treaty was in full force. Altogether it was a fine-tempered fighting speech, the keen audience recognized the first class fighting man and gave him, at the close, the full meed of its appreciation.

BEEF AND RECIPROCITY

The Canadian farmer continues to make conditions seem not nearly so much out of the live stock industry as the leaders Canada of today. The dairying side has been developed at the expense of the beef interests. Milk and milk only seems to be the aim. This puts any calf that will not be valuable for milk production out of favour and his days are not long in the land. Thus the production of beef is neglected and the farmer becomes a sort of specialist, instead of making the most of the cattle industry. But with reciprocity opening a larger market the possibilities of the development of the beef producing branch of the farming industry are vastly improved. Speaking upon this subject in the House of Commons the Minister of Agriculture said:

"One feature of the live stock trade is worthy of notice, and it is that in recent years there has been a large decrease in the numbers of live stock in proportion to the numbers of people occupying the land. That is a very serious situation. There is more live stock in Canada at the present time than there was ten years ago, but after careful investigation I have no doubt that there are now fewer animals in Canada in proportion to the population than there were then. The English authorities on the question point continuously to the fact that the supplies from America are decreasing, and they are looking more to Argentine and to Australia and to New Zealand for their supplies of meat. Still, America and the United States especially, send them large supplies. The reason for the falling off in the cattle export from America is that the continent of America affords to-day a better market than does the old country for these products. It is, therefore, very important for us to see to it that the whole market of the whole continent of North America is open to our farmers, and if we do not do that we shall be face to face with the fact that our farmers will be flooding the English market with these suplies and knocking down the price of these products below what is perhaps a living price."

A LITTLE HIGH HANDED.

We pride ourselves on being a self governing democracy. Yet the Whitney government has denied the people the right to manage their own domestic, civic business. Sir James Whitney can be very eloquent over the demand to let the people have a voice in deciding upon reciprocity. But he leads his hosts against the demand of the people to decide as to the matter of civic assessment. He has killed legislation which thousands of Ontario ratepayers have asked for—a bill empowering municipalities to decide by popular vote, whether or not they are willing to introduce the system of placing the bulk of assessment on land values, with a corresponding relief of improvements. Whether this would be the better way is a matter of opinion, but it certainly is in line with the principles of self government, to allow the people to decide for themselves. One would not be surprised at Sir James Whitney opposing a bill to make the exclusive assessment of land values compulsory. That would be rather revolutionary, but certainly it would not be undesirable to pass a law that would allow the people to decide by their votes how they would like to manage their municipal affairs as to the matter of assessment. The people have before them the example elsewhere of the benefits of making land values the basis of assessment; and they would naturally be glad of the privilege, as they have the right, of trying the experiment for themselves. But Premier Whitney, with the air and spirit of a czar, says "no; I'll give the people the power of regulating the number of licenses in a municipality, which nobody has asked for; but you shall not have a voice in deciding how you shall levy the taxes you have to pay, as thousands have demanded." Sir James Whitney certainly maintains a tyranical attitude towards the people. He plays the petty despot in a pretty large way. His government, in many respects, demonstrates the force of the saying: "Democracy is a government by the living, precedent is a government by the dead."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"The Whitney Government," says the Stratford Beacon, "purposes going wholesale into the business of sharing in the profits of the bar, the race-track and the stock exchange. With the Government as a sole partner in the bar, taking a takeoff on the amount of drinks sold, taking another takeoff with the "bookies" at the race track, and taking a share in the gamble in stocks this glorious Province of Ontario will certainly set an example in morality that no sister province can hope to excel."

No parsons seem to have good warrant for denouncing the harem skirt, which is a rudimentary variant of the trowsers of the lords of creation, for it is also denounced in Holy Scripture. See Deuteronomy chapter xxii, verse 5. "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth to a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment, for all that do so are an abomination." But if the ladies wish to wear what they like the higher critics will come to their aid. Deuteronomy of no Deuteronomy they have always smashed the "myth" of Creation and put the whole story out of commission. It won't be much trouble for them to make the prohibition of the pipe-culotte of none effect.

LENNOX COUNTY CONSERVATIVES PRONOUNCE FOR RECIPROCITY

Napanee, March 26. — The old Town Hall in Napanee was filled to overflowing yesterday with the stalwart yeomen of Lennox and Addington, who, at the call of the Liberal Association, had, irrespective of party, met to discuss the advantages of the reciprocity treaty. It was not the old-fashioned political meeting, ready to shout for their party, but was a sober, thoughtful audience face to face with a serious business proposition.

Mr. H. B. Sherwood presided, and in a few well chosen remarks explained the object of the meeting, and introduced the speakers of the day.

Mr. A. W. Benjamin of the Benjamin Manufacturing Company of Yarker declared that as a manufacturer he favoured the reciprocity movement, and all measures which tended to the general welfare of the country.

Mr. W. A. Martin, a prosperous Camden farmer, declared himself as delighted with the prospect of the wide market which the treaty would secure for the products of the farms of Lennox and Addington.

Mr. M. S. Madole, one of the leading merchants of the town, and Mr. F. S. Wartman, of Colebrook voiced the sentiments of the audience in extolling the great benefits the farmers would derive from reciprocity.

The speaker of the day, Mr. F. T. Congdon, M.P., for the Yukon Territory, delivered one of the best addresses ever heard in the riding. He briefly reviewed the trade policy of Great Brtain, whitch has raised her to the high position she now holds in the commerce of the world, and one by one he demolished the arguments which the Opposition have raised against the present movement for the improvement of our trade relations with the great Republic to the south.

At the conclusion of his able argument, Mr. J. B. Aylesworth, the venerable father of the Minister of Justice, moved a resolution in favour of the reciprocity agreement which was seconded by Mr. Charles Anderson, a Richmond farmer and a staunch Conservative.

Mr. Anderson said that he was Conservative, but as a farmer and a dairyman he had been one of a deputation to go to Ottawa to ask for the very terms which had been negotiated by Messrs. Fielding and Paterson, and he felt that he would not be true to the farmers and dairymen whom he then represented if he did not support the Government which had secured such a boon to the agriculturists. He refused to respond to the party call of any set of men. The time had come when the farmers should stand together for their rights, and he would support the party that fought for the best interests of the farmers.

Before putting the motion the Chairman called upon Mr. John T. Grange, another life-long Conservative, and formerly member for Lennox in the Legislature, who felt that the Liberal Government had done a good many things they should not have done, and that the Liberal party had virtually opposed many measures that were manifestly for the good of the country, yet with all their faults he could see some good in them, and the best thing they had ever done for Canada was in negotiating the reciprocity agreement. He was heart and soul in favour of reciprocity. The National Policy had been adopted in self-defence, because the Conservative party could not obtain reciprocity, and if that party were in power to-day they would jump at the chance to obtain these very terms, and would have thrown up their caps and shouted hallelujah over their great achievement; and now that the Grit party had obtained it he was not such a hidebound Tory but he could still join in the hallelujah chorus.

The Chairman put the resolution, and every hand went up in favour of reciprocity.

L. WIGLE ON RECIPROCITY GIVES STRONG SUPPORT

A Frank Letter From a Staunch and Well Known Tory "Stumper," Formerly a Member of the Legislature and the Commons —Strongly Argues for Reciprocity

Mr. Lewis Wigle, one of the best known of Tory "stumpers" in this Province, a former member in the Conservative interests, of the Legislature and the House of Commons, and one of the champions of the National Policy, is a firm advocate of the reciprocity agreement. He is stating his position openly and freely, as the following letter, written at Leamington, shows:

During the times when the National Policy was being discussed, those who knew me or even heard me discuss that policy from a public platform known that I always said, the United States refused to renew the reciprocity treaty which expired in 1866, and repeatedly refused both parties in Canada a renewal of that treaty, and that their answer was: We are doing all right, you go back to Canada and attend to your business, and when we want a reciprocity treaty we will let you know. Every man who spoke in favour of the National Policy said: Now that the United States will not renew the reciprocity treaty in the products of the farm we in Canada must have reciprocity in tariffs. This is the first time we have had a chance to make another reciprocity treaty, and I, with many others in Essex county, feel that it would be a great benefit to all Canada, and more particularly to the county of Essex. All the treaties that can be made by Canada and the United States cannot take away that good fruit land along the north shore of Lake Erie, nor can it take away Lake Erie, which protects that good land by keeping the early and late frosts away, all the way from Amherstburg to Niagara. No other land within twice the distance, from Detroit to Buffalo, can compare with the high lands all along the north shore of Lake Erie to Niagara. We need not be afraid of the early frosts from the south. There is no doubt in my mind but that the good, fresh, solid well-favoured fruits grown along the shore of Lake Erie would run the southern American fruits out of the markets of Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo and make the farmers in the States who now supply those markets pay freight to Winnipeg instead of our farmers doing it as at present. I read an article in the Mail and Empire on March 23 which stated that Essex farmers were almost unanimously against the treaty. The writer of that article could not have been very well poted or he would not have referred to tobacco, which is not mentioned in the treaty. The article says that some men take hay, others take berries and radishes, etc., to Detroit occasionally and pay the duty. If we had a reciprocity treaty we would get $4 per ton more for hay and one cent per quart more for berries. I attended a sale of farm produce, etc., a few days ago, when a farmer whom I well knew purchased all the hogs that were sold, about twenty-five. Upon inquiry I found that he did not have the corn of his own growing to fatten them, but had imported a carload from the States, free of duty. How much better for that farmer if the present treaty was passed so he could have taken a carload or two of hay to Detroit and gotten four dollars per ton more to fatten his hogs; instead of that his hay is in the barn, worth about $9 or $10, and he had to leave it there on account of the duty of $4 per ton, and pay out his good money for the corn. I was against free corn for feeding purposes, and thought it would ruin the corn-growing industry of Essex and Kent, but know now that I was wrong. It is about 500 miles from here to Ottawa and Montreal; in that distance in Canada we have probably 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 of people to sell to. If we had a radius of 500 miles in the States to deal with, which would cover such cities as Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Cincinnati and hundreds of other smaller places we would have say, 60,000,000 to deal with, instead of 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 as at present. To hear some people talk would almost make a person think that if what was said is true, all the produce of the United States would be shipped here. It might change the conditions of some things; but when regulated I believe it would be a great benefit to Canada. Lewis Wigle.

RECIPROCITY AND 'ANNEXATION'

One of the products of the manufacturing industry, is the cry of annexation as a result of reciprocity. Of course this is an absurd cry, yet it is insisted upon but its right to existence can easily be disproved. Test is the surest means of proving a theory or even a fact. We had reciprocity with the United States for twelve years—from 1854 till 1866. Not only had we trade conditions that were to the distinct benefit of all classes of Canadians, but buying and selling, exchanging products, did not impair one loyalty, or suggest a whisper of annexation. In fact, midway of that twelve year period of reciprocity Canada gave the most emphatic evidence of her deep, earnest loyalty to the throne and her fidelity to British connection that she has ever given. In this connection a portion of the great speech made by Hon. W. S. Fielding at the great Montreal pro-reciprocity meeting, is worth reading:

Just one word more and I will close. Annexation—is it not scandal and a shame that our opponents should talk annexation. I would not know—I do not know whether you do or not—I do not know where to look in the whole Dominion of Canada for a man who would call himself an annexationist. What can you say if our American friends receive an erroneous impression when they read that the men who are supporting this reciprocity agreement in Canada are advocating annexation in disguise, and when they know that thousands and hundreds of thousands of people in Canada are supporting this reciprocity agreement. Can you be surprised if our American friends are taught to believe that there is disloyalty in Canada? Who teaches them?

A voice: The Montreal Star.

Hon. Mr. Fielding: Somebody says the Montreal Star. I read the other day a headline in the Star to a cable from England—

The voice: Sorry you had nothing better to do.

Hon. Mr. Fielding: It was a scare headline and it caught my eye (laughter). It was a heading on a cable from England, and it read "Annexation hurts our issues" referring to the issues of securities in London Now, if anything hurts our issues who is responsible for it. The friends of reciprocity are not talking of annexation (hear, hear.) It is the opponents of reciprocity who are waving the flag—Heaven help us that the flag should be used for such a miserable purpose (cheers.) We are told that if we trade with the Americans that we shall cease to be loyal; we are told that if we buy and sell from them we shall impair our loyalty. That's it, is it not?

Several voices: That's it.

Hon. Mr. Fielding: Oh, no! There comes back to my mind a memorable scene of my childhood days; that was in the year 1860, nearly fifty-one years ago. All British America is astir with interest for the coming of the future King; the young Prince of Wales; at Halifax, a procession is formed, it passes down through the streets. I can see it as a child swinging up from Granville street, Halifax to the Grand Parade; thousands of children are assembled singing the National Anthem, and rendering with enthusiasm:

Among our ancient mountains,
And from our lovely vales,
Oh—let the prayer re-echo
God bless our Prince of Wales.

The procession moves, the triumphal arches span the streets, the housetops and windows are filled with loyal people, banners bear the loyal motto: "Welcome to our future King," and cheering thousands hail him as he passes along. And why do I recall this to-night—it is because that splendid demonstration of loyalty and devotion to the throne and person of our sovereign was in the very midst of the period of the old reciprocity treaty. (Cheers.)

We had bought from the Americans and we had sold to the Americans, and we had travelled to and fro and met them in all walks of commercial and social life but it never occurred to anybody to say that we ceased to be loyal. And the scene in my native city of Halifax, was repeated throughout every province of this country.

Mabel Ashton's Dream.

As the guests came together in the brilliantly-lighted parlours at the home of Mabel Ashton that crisp winter evening, there was nothing unusual in the appearance of the rooms to indicate that the party to which they had been invited was to be, in any respect, different from the round of gaiety to which they had been devoting themselves for the winter. Indeed, it had been the original intention of their lively young hostess that the only difference should be that her rooms should be more lovely, her music more stirring, her dancing more graceful, her late supper more delicious than any that had gone before.

She was a universal favourite, Mabel Ashton, for, in addition to great physical attractions, her disposition was sunshine itself. She was no selfish, tender-hearted as to sympathize almost to a fault, and in her plans for the party she had not thought as much of her own happiness as of that given to others.

The social circle in which she moved was almost select. A very large number of women to be counted in that circle must have a definite position for interests and for culture. More than half of the forty young people who came together that evening were members of various churches, not a few of them active in various forms of church and mission work. Mabel herself was a teacher in a mission Sabbath school and quite prominent in Christian Endeavor.

The few elderly people present felt well satisfied to see the young people seeking their amusement in such irreproachable company. Surely there could be no danger when the son and daughter of the Rev. Mr. Stoddard and the two daughters of Elder Smith were allowed to attend.

Soon all the guests, as they greeted their young hostess, noticed an unusual degree of nervousness in her manner, but attributing it to the excitement of preparation and anticipation, thought no more of it, and all were soon engaged in conversation, and at making up their cards for the various dances of the evening. The conversation was in their places, and the young people beginning to wonder why the music was not yet for the opening dance, Mabel Ashton, her cheeks flushed [illegible] stood [illegible] and, after clapping her hands [illegible] gently said:

THE INSPIRATION AND INFALLIBILITY OF THE BIBLE

Interesting Sermon Preached at St. Luke's Church on Sunday Night on This Topic by Rev. Dr. Langfeldt.

HIS REMARKS IN FULL

At St. Luke's church on Sunday night Rev. Dr. Langfeldt preached an eloquent sermon on the "Inspiration and Infallibility of the Bible." His remarks were as follows:

Peter I., 23: "The Word of God which liveth and abideth for ever."

I feel very strongly that, at the present time, no subject matter could be more appropriately dealt with than the words of my text: "The Word of God abideth." I like "the word of the Lord," not "the word of man." It is, and it alone, is infallible. Amidst all the changes and chances of this mortal life, it abideth for ever. It is the impregnable rock of God's Word. "Verbum Domini manet"—Thank God for it." "In hoc signo vinces." This is the means whereby Gods business is to be carried on. It is, therefore, most important; of most vital moment that God's children should have the most perfect confidence in it. Therefore we should speak of it with great reverence. Holy Scripture; God's inspired Word; The Book; the Sacred oracles. "Blessed Lord, Who hast caused all Holy Scriptures to be written for our learning" 'Not a mere portion of it, but all, All Holy Scripture. Embrace this truth. Hold it fast. Do not let it go. Never let yourselves be led astray from this great fundamental truth. It is virtually the touchstone of a standing or a falling church. When doubts as to the Word of God, with which God has entrusted to us the sword of the Spirit, with which His work is to be accomplished; when doubts are allowed to enter and work in the heart, then usefulness lessens, and if not driven out, the Church and her ministrations will be barren of good results. You grieve the Holy Spirit if you allow a doubt to enter your mind as to the veracity of the Word of God. You disparage the instrument through which the Holy Spirit works. His influence is removed. Your faith weakens; you have nothing left to depend upon if you allow Satan to cast these doubts in your hearts. At the first attack examine your own heart to find out. Is it carelessness? Is it pride? Is it love of novelty or sensation? Is it a desire to make some statement that will be talked about, so that for an hour you will be the centre of attraction and notoriety? Examine all this well, and rest not until the Spirit of Truth leads you back into the truth. Much as it is to be deplored, if, unhappily, some of the laity are led to doubt that the Scriptures are the word of God, it becomes criminal when one, in the garb of a minister, having sworn allegiance to God and His Word, would spread abroad amongst his hearers his own doubts. One of the favourite methods of Satan in his attack upon the Word is under pretence of much reverence to seek to introduce that which is fatal to a full belief in the Bible, namely, that some portions of the Word of God are fallible and parts only infallible. Have you ever thought out how specious is this form of attack? Yet how destructive? Who is to judge where the infallible begins and where it ends? Is it your reason that is to inform you on this subject? Then you make reason your God. To each one is left open the determination of what portions of Holy Writ so plainly teach spiritual truths as that they are to be accepted as infallible, and what portions may be, or must be rejected. By what sight is it that anyone claims the liberty thus to deal with the Word of God? And if, for instance, a minister would choose to enter upon this destructive and uncertain path himself, by what right is he at liberty to torture the flock which he was to kindly lead into the truth and to build up and edify, by leading the tender conscience into such an investigation?

God has written His Book so that he tat runneth may read. He has most unmistakenly recognized the rights of the unlearned. He made the unlearned Peter and his companions the recipients of His message, the Word of Life, to hold and distribute. For this I bless God, and thankfully, as one of the unlearned, claim my right to take His Word as He gave it as the Word of Truth, of life and light, without any inter-mixture of error, and without any permission to add to it or to reject any portion of it.

Why should so much be quite unnecessarily given away in connection with the Bible? As an instance of this mode of dealing with the Bible take two or three illustrations:

It is said that no person believes that the Holy Spirit dictated to Paul in 2 Tim. IV 13: "The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus when thou comest, bring with thee." I may here say that I object to the use of the word "dictation," or "dictate," in this connection. The Holy Spirit does not dictate. He inspires. He prepares the heart to receive, and then fills with His message. His sweet, soft influence is not dictation. I have never doubted the inspiration of this part of the Word, and do not doubt it to-day. The Father of Love looked down upon His beloved servant in prison, suffering for his testimony. He saw his needs, the poor, shattered frame; his forgetfulness of self, and breathed this kind, loving thought, showing forth His care. Is He not the Comforter? How gladly we contemplate Him; not only enlightening the soul, but, leading in the little everyday matters of life. A marvellous combination of Almighty force brooding at the creation over the vast abyss, and giving light and lovingly caring for the aged Saint in the last few months of his earthly career.

The same God, in the Old Testament, sees a dying lad in the wilderness of Beersheba. The omniscient eye of our Heavely Father sees the anguish of the mother and child, and sends His swift messenger to trace down from the tent of Abraham, where are the mother and lad, and to give the child a drink of water, and open a well for him and the parent; and then causes to be written this little incident to show that while guiding the great concerns of the world, He stoops down to listen to the wail of a child.

A thousand years afterwards, for our God never changes, He saw His servant Elijah, after the terrible day on Carmel, over-wrought, one man, as he thought, against King, Queen, court, and nation, nerves all gone; depressed beyond control; lying under a Juniper tree; and, again, His messenger is sent down to touch with His loving hand, and to place the cruise of water and the baked cake by his side, and he is awakened to eat, and the hand gently laid upon him, sleep again given to him, and then again to eat, and drink, and for our comfort the Holy Spirit again writes this.

It is said that S. John II. 18 "Now, Bethany was night unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off," could not have been inspired. Why would the Holy Spirit have given the distance at all, or why have said about fifteen furlongs. I never doubted that God in His goodness gave us this distance, and gave it in the way in which people ordinarily speak. If this had been given to a foot, it would have thrown discredit upon the story. It was written for readers not acquainted with Palestine, to show that this great miracle was not done in a corner; that it was under the very walls of Jerusalem, and, therefore, if not a fact, capable so easily of contradiction. And then, again, St. John II., 6: "And there were set there six water pots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece." It is actually brought as a ground for non-inspiration, that the expression is: "2 or 3 firkins."

How can it be said to the honest reader or hearer that any such conclusion can be drawn from this mode of expression? Possibly, the firkens were not all of the same size. It was well to show how large a quantity was affected by the Lord; and the language is again that in which is couched by a looker-on the account of such a transaction. The Holy Spirit condescends to speak as men speak, giving as accurately as need be all the details which He considers necessary to make complete the story. It is well to look at the remarks of a host of godly, spirit-filled men, as Matthew Henry, the late Bishops Ryle aid Lightfoot, and others, who give such passages as the above as illustrations of the fact that "the Holy Spirit condescends to use man's common form of language, and that such expressions are not inconsistent with inspiration." This wonderful blending is well illustrated in the 6 Acts. A simple business matter, the dividing up of the shekels among the poor; the ascertainnig who are really the needy; the finding out the number of children depending upon them. But, the Holy Spirit, in reference to such a matter, says: "Look ye out seven men full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business."

Under no circumstances, dear brethren, let Satan lead you to the dishonouring of God's Word by treating any part of it as fallible. Never let the mind rest on supposed discrepancies. You may not be able to reconcile completely all that the Holy Spirit has given you. Let God be true, and every man a liar. Now, you see through a glass darkly. In due time all will be explained. I stake my life on the veracity of the Word of God. This is the day in which we are to walk by faith, and not by sight. Remember that the Word of the Lord is to edify, to build up; doubts are worse than chaff, for they are bad seed. Use the Blessed Word to cleanse, to lead into truth, to give light, life, freedom, courage, and to bring forth fruit. How necessary it is to reaffirm the warning of the Master: "Take heed how ye hear; take heed what ye hear." It is our duty rightly to divide the Word; not to eliminate; not to cast out; not to depreciate. Look at three men who stood so splendidly by the Holy Scriptures in their entirety as the Inspired and Infallible Word of God, and see the marvellous good that they were enabled thereby to do. Look at Bishop Ryle, the late Mr. Spurgeon, and the late Evangelist Moody. Undoubtedly the world is witnessing, among nominally Christian people the most resolutely contested intellectual conflict between belief and unbelief that has been known since the dawn of the Christian era. But of the outcome orthodoxy need have no fear. What have the Higher Critics done? Not to give scientific, historical or logical proof of the truth of their theories or the untruth of the traditional view, but to accept as true the objections and conclusions of the infidels of past ages, and to teach Christian people that the Bible is a strange conglomerate of myth, legend, fabrication, idealized narrative, falsified history, dramatized fables, and after-event prophecy. Is this a great boon conferred upon the human race? Is it a great thing to have instilled doubt, and fear, and uncertainty, and trembling faith into the minds of millions of Christian men and women; to have overthrown the faith of not a few who once believed? If it is, then the critics deserve all the gratitude and laudation that is expressed toward them, and which they claim as their due.

But if, on the other hand, the Word of God has stood the persecution and brunt of all these ages, has been the means of comfort and hope, and light and life to many a wearied soul, and has made the world a better world to live in, then let us by all means hold fast the truth of God's Holy Word, the Inspired and Infallible Book, and believe firmly that all these Satanic influences and devices of the Higher Critics by this same Book, the Rock, will be brought to nought.

No. 6 Company Holds An Enjoyable Reunion Many Recruits Present

No. 6 Company of the 57th Regiment held a most enjoyable re-union and social evening in their quarters in the armouries last night and the spirit shown promises much for the continued success of Capt. A. P. McLean's company during the coming season. Some thirty-eight were present, including the twenty-two new men, the largest number ever recruited by the company in one night. The evening was one of thorough enjoyment. In the early part of the night games were indulged in, providing plenty of amusement. Music was supplied by Messrs. Roy Fuller and John Harstone, and their selections were thoroughly enjoyed and greatly appreciated by the gathering. A dainty supper was served by Mr. T. H. Hooper who catered for the occasion with his usual success. Bright speeches were made by Major E. B. Clegg, Major G. W. Bennett, Capt. Mills and Capt. McLean, while songs were contributed with acceptance by Messrs. Fuller and Huffman. The whole affair was most enjoyable and will do much to promote the esprit de corps that is necessary to the success of any organization.

"THE ROSARY"

An Appealing Play That Has Proved a Great Success This Season

Founded upon an emblem of purity and full of human interest that goes straight to the heart, "The Rosary," a new play by Ed. E. Rose, has made a most favourable impression. The production is a new one, and Messrs. Rowland and Clifford have given it a magnificent staging. The theme of the play, as expressed by the title, is presented in a gripping and forceful manner that strikes home and, at the same time there is an abundance of original and moral comedy. Seldom is a cast more fitted to their respective parts than the members of this company. Every member is so well placed that there it not the slightest jarring of any part in the play and the result is a perfect rendition.

In "Rev. Brian Kelly," played by J. J. Swartwood, theatregoers witness one of the best portrayals of this nature that ever has been seen on the stage. Mr. Swartwood is forceful, sympathetic and impressive, and gives just the right touch of realism to the character. "The Rosary" has just completed a most successful three months' run in Boston Grand Opera House to-morrow (Wednesday) evening.

MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING

Says Elder Cunningham

When pure healthy blood courses through every vein and artery of the body, the organs are in a healthy condition, and a strenuous active life is a pleasure to man or woman.

But if the blood is impure and sluggish, the appetite poor, digestion weak and vitality not up to the standard, life is a burden; then you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil. Such evidence as comes from Henry Cunningham, elder of the Baptist church, Kinston, N. C., should be convincing. He says, "I was run-down and weak from general debility, and suffered from virtigo. I took Vinol with the most gratifying results. I gained in health and strength and now feel unusually well."

Elder Cunningham's recovery was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of cod's livers, aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

INTERESTING DEBATE

The St John's Young People's Association met last night for their usual fortnightly meeting. In spite of the bad weather a large number were present and were given plenty of food for reflection as a consequence of the debate, resolving: "That the cause of Christian Missions, although assisted by modern enlightenment and travel facilities, is not progressing as in the days of old."

The leaders were Messrs G. A. Hannon and C. Coleman, and the opposers Messrs. W. G. Common and A. Jay. All acquitted themselves right nobly and a spirited debate ensued. When the vote was taken the majority decided against the resolution, although everyone present agreed that there was no ground for false congratulations on the rapidity of the growth of mission work, as much remained to be done.

It was one of the most enjoyable meetings which the Association has had, and a keen interest was displayed on behalf of the furtherance of the church's work, which cannot but produce good fruits in the near future in the cause of missions.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS OF CENTRAL ONTARIO HOLD THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET

Another Milestone in the History of the Association—Mr. J. I. Allin, of Peterborough, is the New President.

SPLENDID SPEECHES

The Life Underwriters of Central Ontario passed another milestone on the evening of the 24th of March, when they held their annual meeting and banquet. The business meeting was held at 7 p.m., in the spacious parlour of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. The gathering was one of the best in the history of the Association, and although the membership had passed the half century mark, many new names were added. In the centre of the table stood the beautiful trophy which the local Association had won from the Dominion Association for having the largest percentage of increase in membership in the Dominion of Canada. All eyes were centred upon the silverware as President Moore in glowing terms recounted the strenuous fight we had to win the prize.

The officers for the ensuing year are:

President—J. I. Allin, Peterborough.

Vice-Presidents — T. Mark, Peterborough; W. J. Robertson, Port Hope; A. E. Miller, Uxbridge; B. L. McLean, Lindsay.

Sec.-Treas.—George Southwell, Peterborough.

Short addresses were delivered by the new officers and others present.

At 8.30 a grand procession was formed, headed by the new President, Mr. Allin, who was closely followed by Mr. E. H. Reid, carrying the silver trophy (the mace of the Association) down George street; the procession filed and across to Hooper's palm gardens doubly attracted by the inspiring music of the Halpany orchestra and the delicious perfumes from the bountifully arranged tables which they found awaiting them.

After ample justice had been done the inner man, the President in a very neat speech, thanked the members for the honor they had conferred upon him, congratulated the Association on its great success during the past year, and asked for the hearty co-operation of all the members during the coming year in order to attain even greater results.

At this stage of the proceedings that clever comedian, Mr. J. A. Halpany, sent the members into convulsions of laughter by his humorous songs and clever impersonations.

When order had been restored, Wm. McBride, M.A., of Winnipeg, President of the Dominion Association, delighted the meeting with his humorous remarks and his instructive address on "Duty." In part he told us We must be true to ourselves. We must feel that self-approbation is guiding us on in the high calling we have chosen. We have self-confidence and backbone to "strike while the iron is hot." Our canvas should be strong and plain, our competition vigorous, but fair. We should appeal to the higehr qualities of our prospects and policyholders—their love for their families, and their duty to those dependent upon them. We should take a personal interest in their affairs after a policy is placed as well as before.

We should stand by the Association. It has done, is doing, and has yet to do a great work in the interest of insurance. We are kept out of ruts. Man is naturally a social being, and through the influence of the Association the unhealthy rivalry of former days is fast giving way to proper competition. At the association meeting "Company" is forgotten and "Association" is everyhing.

President McBride's kindly face and manner and the frank advice which he gave, largely from experience, will be long remembered and cherished by all who heard him. When we realize that a man of Mr. McBride's ability, education, experience, etc., and delicate health, has undertaken to spend a year of his valuable time at great expense and inconvenience to himself, in the interest of the Life Underwriters Association, we cannot help feeling that there must be something in the "movement" for the good of the insurance cause.

Alderman J. O. McCarthy of Toronto, next addressed the meeting in his usual happy and witty style. The clever speaker treated those present to a brief review of the history of insurance showing that it has undergone a great evolution since the days of King Alfred, when it was introduced. It was required of all freemen at that time to give "surety" to keep the peace. They banded themselves together, and that was the beginning of insurance. The perfectness of insurance to-day has evolved from the error of the past. In all times its business has been to benefit the community. True, there has been much misjudgment and misunderstanding but the Association can, and will, lift the standard to a higher plane. In unity there is strength. Just as it is necessary for a party of Alpine climbers to be literally roped together so is it quite as necessary in Association work, if it is going to prosper, for the members to lend their hearty cooperation. The insurance ideal of Canada should be the motto — "I WILL."

Mr. Gamble then delighted the audience with his clever impersonations.

After a hearty vote of thanks to the clever speakers, and all who assisted in making the meeting a success, by Past President D. H. Moore, and a rousing response by all present in singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows," the convention was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

HONOURED WITH ADDRESS AND A PRESENTATION

That Mr. J. H. Renwick, the new organist of the George street Methodist church and Mrs. Renwick, were appreciated by the congregation of the Port Hope Methodist church, was indicated in no uncertain manner by a presentation from the members of the choir to Mr. and Mrs. Renwick, accompanied by the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Renwick,—In view of your early departure from Port Hope, the membegs of the choir of the Methodist church gathered here through your kindness and hospitality to-night, desiring to express to you both their deep sense of regret at your prospective removal from the town. For twelve years your have occupied a warm place in the hearts and lives of the members of your choir and it was with much sorrow the news of your going from Port Hope to Peterborough was received by us all.

You, Mr. Renwick, as organist and choir master have not only shown during all these years your pronounced ability as an organist and musician, but your energy, courtesy and tact have succeeded in not only keeping together but steadily improving the musical portion of our church service. To regulate and control as well as at all times to evoke the enthusiasm and earnestness of a voluntary choir, is indeed no mean task but in this you have been eminently successful, and leave the choir an efficient and faithful organization of church workers in their own department.

You, Mrs. Renwick, as choir leader, have been an inspiration to all of us and possess not only our admiration for your talents as a vocalist, but our loving affection and warmest friendship. Ever regular in your attendance at our practices, always interested in the progress of the choir, and a personal friend of each member your leaving us is a cause of deep regret and sincere sorrow. In conclusion we ask you to accept the accompanying gifts from the choir as a mark of our esteem and regard, and whilst deeply lamenting the separation, we trust that in your new home you will both be as successful as here, and find as many warm friends as you leave behind in Port Hope.

We remain, yours very sincerely.

Signed on behalf of the Port Hope Methodist Church Choir.

BETTER LIGHT

MILLBROOK, MARCH 27. — It is said that the Central Ontario Light and Power Company has taken over the electric light plant here and will take charge about the first of next month. A twenty-four hour service now seems an assured thing. Mr. Harrington will probably remain in charge.

The Council is expected to submit a by-law for a thirty year franchise, when details will be made public.

FINGER SEVERED

Mr. Harold Legros, an employee of the Rapid Tool Company, who resides on Robinson street, was the victim of a painful acident this morning. In some manner he got his hand caught in a machine, and a finger was severed. He is doing as well as can be expected.

WHAT COMES IN THE TRAIL OF THE COLD

Spells Danger unless you Cure it With Dodd's Kidney Pills

Peel County man tells of three months' pain, that he found a complete cure for, in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Rockside, Peel Co., Ont., March 27. (Special.)—In these days when nearly every one has a cold and the cold brings on some form of Kidney Disease, the statement of Ernest F. Davidson, a well known resident of this place, is of general interest.

"When I would bend over," Mr. Davidson says, "a pain caught me in the small of the back, and I had other symptoms which I knew were caused by the Kidneys being out of order. It was a cold that started my trouble, and I suffered for three months. Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and three boxes cured me so that it has never come back. That's why I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

If your cold leaves you with a touch of Rheumatism or Lumbago or a pain in the back, you can be sure that your Kidneys are affected. Then you are in danger. Neglected Kidney trouble means Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel or Bright's Disease. The safeguard is Dodd's Kidney Pills. They always cure.

CONSTRUCTING TWO LARGE STERN PADDLE WHEEL BOATS

The Peterborough Canoe Co., have now under course of construction two large stern paddle wheel boats. They are of the knock down type and measure 50 ft. x 12 ft. and 85 ft. x 12 ft. respectively. When completed they will be shipped to the far distant north land, one to be used on the Great Slave Lake and the other will navigate the waters of the Peace River. These boats will be capable of developing a speed of from 12 to 14 miles per hour. This is a sample of the many large orders received by this progressive company from distant points.

The Shadow of the Cross.

—Remarkable indeed is the strange painting now in our midst. Explanations vague, varied and complex, are offered in number to account for its strange existence, but to all theory it stands in relief as the result of some natural law, a beautiful work of art, a religious teaching; the duty of everyone to view. The Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated on securing the exhibition of the strange work, which will be on exhibit the rest of the week, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM A. LANG.

The people of South Monaghan were shocked and saddened by the sudden death on Monday of a most highly respected resident, Mr. William A. Lang, who had been in the most robust health till his last brief illness, a severe attack of congestive pneumonia ending his life. Mr. Lang had been in the city as recently as Saturday and was heard to say that he had never felt in better health. Mr. Lang was taken ill Monday evening. About six o'clock he received a visit from his physician, who said he was suffering from congestion of the lungs and retired. After his departure Mr. Lang grew worse, and before the doctor could be brought the second time he passed away.

The deceased gentleman had reached the age of 51 years. He was a native of South Monaghan born on the old Lang homestead which has been in the family since 1825. He lived a quiet life, devoting his whole attention to the excellent management of his farm, which served as a model of well cultivated agriculture. He leaves behind him a widow, (daughter of Mr. Joseph Clarke), and three children; two boys, Robert and Earl and one daughter, Viola. His brothers are, Robert of Alameda, Saskatchewan, and Mr. J. C. T. Lang, Peterborough. Mrs. Joseph Perrin, of Baillieboro, is a sister.

The funeral will take place Thursday, March 30th, from the home stead, at 1 o'clock p.m.; interment in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. JOHN STONE.

An old resident of the township of Burleigh passed away on Sunday, March 26th, 1911, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Patterson, on Downie street, Peterborough. Mrs. Stone was in her seventy-fourth year. She had resided in Burleigh for fifty-five years and was widely and favourably known. She is survived by one brother, Mr. Wm. Matthews, of Peterborough: two sons, Mr. Robert Stone and Mr. W. G. Stone, both of Burleigh and four daughters, Mrs. Sam Bryson of Dummer, Mrs. Wm. Patterson of Peterborough, Mrs. Fred Bottom of Burleigh and Miss Elizabeth Stone of Harvey.

The remains were taken to Burleigh for interment. The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, Mr. Robert Stone.

MRS. ELIZABETH COULTER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Coulter died at 286 Crawford street, the residence of her son, W. H. McCormack, aged 78 years.

She was born in Wales, but came to Canada when a young woman. Her first husband was the late A. M. McCormack. From this union two sons, resulted, W. H. McCormack and J. M. McCormack. Mr. McCormack died, and she married Robert Coulter. Two daughters survive, Mrs. McIntyre of Peterborough and Miss Bessie Coulter.

Mrs. Coulter lived in Hamilton, and later in Peterborough. She came to Toronto some months ago to stay with her son, W. H. McCormack. She enjoyed excellent health until six weeks ago, when dissolution began. In religion she was an Anglican.—Toronto Star.

MRS. ALFRED MAYBEE.

Mrs. W. U. Read, Superintendent of the Young Women's Christian Association was called away two weeks ago to the bedside of her aged mother in Belleville.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Alfred Maybee, an old resident of Belleville and also of Warkworth departed to her rest and reward at the age of eighty-six. She is survived by one son, at present in California, and three daughters, Mrs. Geo. Thompson, of Belleville; Mrs. Bensley, Trenton; and Mrs. Read, of the Y.W.C.A. The funeral took place yesterday from the home of her daughter, in Belleville, to the family burial plot in Warkworth cemetery.

MRS. RICH. CAVANAGH.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Richard Cavanagh took place this morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, Douro.

The deceased was a highly respected resident of Douro for the past sixty five years and leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and two sons. The daughters are Mrs. James Sullivan, Weller street, city; Mrs. P. Nevin, of Schenectady, N.Y., and Mrs M. Sullivan, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The sons are Richard and Wilburn both of Douro.

LINDSAY CURLERS ATTEND CHURCH

Canon Marsh welcomed the curlers to the church, stating that as Chaplain he was proud of the Lindsay Curling Club, and that such a club was a benefit to the town both morally and physically. After a hard day's work the members enjoy the game and return morally and physically better, as there was just enough physical and moral activity to keep the body in condition as the eye, the foot, the body and the brain were needed to play the game properly. Curling, he stated, also teaches self control, as the player must control his temper when he himself or some other player loses the game, and it was not considered good form to cheer when the opponent made a bad break. It also taught perseverance, often all the game was not won until the last stone was thrown. Besides, it taught a man to take a defeat nobly or a victory won.

Then, said the speaker, curling was a clean game. In many sports, he explained, some player's dishonesty had won the game, and if he was not found out he was applauded for it, but he had never known in all the years he had been a member of the club, of a player trying to win by means of dishonesty and stated that he believed that if a member was seen to try unfair means that he would be asked to resign or even be expelled.

BASKETBALL

Two exciting games were played in the City Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night, the scores in both cases being remarkably close and the playing hard and fast. In the first game the Ponies beat the Pirates by 29 to 26, and in the second the Fairies won from the Giants by the small margin of one point, the score being 26 to 25.

Ferrer Case Debated.

Madrid, March 28.—The debate on the trial of Prof. Ferrer, the founder of the modern school at Barcelona, who was executed in October, 1909, opened in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and attracted unusual attention. The proposal to discuss this trial was made by the Republicans and accepted by the Government many months ago. The Republican press declares that the revival of the Ferrer case means the end politically of Senor Maura, who was Premier at the time, and his colleagues.

Deputy Soriano opened the debate and asserted that none of the facts charged against Ferrer constituted the crime of rebellion, according to the military law. The Government was advised to that effect, he said, by the local military authorities. Ferrer's trial and execution were directly due to political causes, for which the Conservative Government and party were answerable.

He pointed out that the court-martial before which Prof. Ferrer was tried had only four hours in which to examine the papers in the case, which took up the 1,200 pages of printed matter. This alone would give some idea of what the trial was worth.

C. P. R. Promotions.

Toronto, March 28.—The Toronto offices of the C. P. R. announce the following changes and transfers among their division superintendents:

J. K. McNeillie, superintendent of the Toronto terminals in 1907, and who has been superintendent of division 2 for the last two years, goes to Farnham, district 1 of the east division, including all lines from Megantic and Newport to Montreal, and branch lines.

A. L. Smith, an old Toronto boy, formerly of district 3, Ontario division, now in charge of district 1, east division, to which Mr. McNeillie goes, will be transferred to division 3, from which Mr. Hodge goes to London.

All these superintendents are bright and progressive young men, and these changes are in accordance with the C. P. R. 's policy of giving to their employes the widest possible experience in railway matters.

No Criminal Cases.

London, March 28.—When Sir Glenholme Falconbridge opened the spring assizes at the Court House yesterday afternoon he dismissed the grand jury The Chief Justice pointed out that there were no criminal cases on the calendar and that the public buildings had been inspected in January, as well as last fall, so that it was hardly necessary to make another tour of these.

In his introductory remarks the judge congratulated the County of Middlesex on the condition of affairs which resulted in an absence of criminal cases for the court docket.

There are but three jury cases to be tried. All are of small importance.

Want Bank Manager Released.

Brockville, March 28.—A petition largely signed throughout the town and district will be forwarded to the Minister of Justice praying for the release on parole of Robert Cughan, ex-manager of the Farmers' Bank at Athens, who is serving three years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

A Popular Candidate.

Cobourg, March 28.—The election of W. F. Kerr, crown attorney, as a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada, is being heartily urged by the Bar of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, his nomination paper having been very largely signed.

BISHOP IS DEAD

WIDELY KNOWN

Hamilton, March 29.—Right Rev. John Philip DuMoulin, M.A., D.C.L., Bishop of Niagara, passed away about 1 a.m. yesterday at the See House. He had been in failing health recently, but only a few days ago was able to go out walking. He was 78 years of age.

Born in Dublin in 1836, Dr. DuMoulin came to Canada through the influence of Dr. Cronyn, the first Bishop of Huron, and was admitted to the deaconate in 1862, being ordained priest in the following year.

His first curacy was under the late Archdeacon Brough, rector of St. John's, London Township, from where he went to Galt, and later to Trinity Church, Montreal, as assistant to Rev. Dr. Bancroft. He also served as assistant to Rev. Canon Ellegood at St. James the Apostle in the same city.

His first rectory was that of St. Thomas' Church, Hamilton, where he went in 1871. Four years later he was chosen first rector of St. Martin's Church, Montreal, where he remained till called to the rectorship of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, in 1882, with the rank of canon.

It was in the mother church of the capital of Ontario where he made for himself a name as one of the most forceful preachers of Canada.

Dr. DuMoulin was elected Bishop of Algoma in 1872, on the organization of that diocese, but declined the post.

His call to the bishopric of Niagara came in May, 1886, and he was consecrated to the office in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, by the late Archbishop Lewis on June 24.

He married in 1863 Frances, daughter of Ven. Archdeacon Brough. His son, Rev. Frank DuMoulin, is dean of the cathedral at Cleveland, Ohio.

Peace Soon In Mexico.

San Antonio, Texas, March 29.—Senor Madero, father of the insurrectionist leader, arrived here yesterday and predicted that peace would reign within a month.

Diplomatic exchanges had proceeded sufficiently to make it safe to state that the office of vice-president, at present occupied by Senor Corral, whom he called obnoxious, has been abolished. This would leave the functions of the office of vice-president for the new Foreign Minister, De La Barra.

Senor Madero said that Diaz will save his face by remaining in office for four or six months and then resigning. He will plead the weariness of his many years.

It will then fall to De La Barra to become de facto president, and to call an election. The administration party, it is said, will choose Limantour, the Minister of Finance, as its candidate for the Presidency.

McConnell Not Guilty.

Toronto, March 29.—At 3.30 p.m. the jury in the sessions returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Thomas McConnell of Toronto, charged with obtaining money by false pretences.

The case arose over a dispute between Mrs. Mollie Rottenberg and Mr. McConnell over the proposed sale of a house. The price quoted to her was raised, she alleged, by McConnell, and when she wanted back $100 she had paid as a deposit on account, McConnell told her that was impossible, as his lawyer had the money.

After his arrest McConnell paid the $100 to Crown Attorney Corley. Judge Denton has made an order of restitution for that amount in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs Rottenberg.

New Line of Railway.

Montreal, March 29.—M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, who built the Halifax & Southwestern Railway, and who is now building 600 miles in northern Quebec for the Grand Trunk Pacific, signed a contract yesterday for the building of the first section of the Quebec & Saguenay Railway, from just below Ste. Anne de Beaupre to Murray Bay, a distance of 56 miles, and later on this road will be extended to the mouth of the Saguenay. Rodolphe Forget, M.P., is president, and Senator Casgrain is vice-president of the road, which is to be completed by September, 1912.

May Buy Out Railway.

Ottawa, March 29.—At the meeting next Thursday night of the factory sites committee of the Greater Ottawa Association, N. Cauchon, the chairman, will introduce for discussion a most important question—that of the franchise of the Ottawa Electric Railway. He will urge the advisability of the city now either extending the life of the franchise held by the company or buying it out. The franchise of the Ottawa Electric Railway expires in 1920, twelve years hence.

Privy Council Cases.

London, March 29.—The Privy Council has dismissed with costs the appeal of American Asbestos Co. v. The Johnson Co. from Quebec. It allows with costs the G.T.R. v. Barnett appeal. Barnett was awarded damages for injuries received on the railway by an Ontario jury.

Some of the Farmers and others of the East Riding of Peterborough who took advantage of a Recent Short Course in Stock Judging at Norwood.

A very successful two day short course in stock judging was conducted by the Branch Office of the Department of Agriculture in charge of Mr H. C. Duff, at Norwood, in the tent, part of which appears in the background of illustration. Farmers turned out in large numbers to take advantage of instruction offered.

MANITOBA BOUNDARY

Premier Has Not Had a Message From Manitoba Says Roblin—Is Mixing Things Up—The I. C. R. Bill

YESTERDAY IN HOUSE

Ottawa, March 29.—The Premier and Mr. Borden had a little tilt over the Manitoba Boundary question in the House yesterday, in which the Opposition leader tried to make capital out of the delay in negotiations.

The short discussion on the subject was introduced by W. D. Staples (Macdonald), who asked the Prime Minister if he had any communication from the Manitoba Government regarding the proposition made by the Federal Government as to the extension of the boundaries of the province. Mr. Staples remarked that when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in the west last year he stated that if Premier Roblin would go to Ottawa the boundary question could be settled in ten minutes.

Mr. Roblin had come to Ottawa, and instead of a satisfactory proposition there had been submitted such a proposal that both the Government and Opposition of Manitoba had rejected. What they wanted in Manitoba was equality.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that so far he had received no communication from the Manitoba Government. When it arrived he would be in a position to discuss it. It was quite true, he said, that he had stated that if Premier Roblin came to Ottawa they could settle the matter in ten minutes.

"I am sorry," said the Premier, "that in making that statement I presumed too much on Mr. Roblin." He insisted that Mr. Roblin was simply uniting two things which were quite separate, (1) the extension of the boundaries and what terms should be given to the province in lieu of the lands; (2) another readjustment of the subsidies paid generally to Manitoba, as well as to the other provinces.

Mr. Borden said the Prime Minister was not doing justice to Mr. Roblin. The latter had come twice to Ottawa without getting any suggestion or answer, and even after going back to Manitoba, he had waited two months before an answer was made. Therefore, in saying that he was relying too much on Mr Roblin's moderation, or something of the kind, the Premier was not doing justice to Mr. Roblin.

The Opposition leader explained the position of Manitoba. The province was entitled to be put in the position of the two provinces to the west, or in the position of the provinces to the east. In the one case, it would be entitled to administer its public domain and to compensation for the public domain that had been disposed of by the Federal Government in the past. Mr. Borden concluded by saying that the position of the province could not be attacked logically.

Hon. George P. Graham introduced a bill to legalize the creation of funds on the Intercolonial Railway to provide for renewal of equipment, rail renewals and fire protection. The bill was of a technical nature.

Hon. Sydney Fisher introduced a resolution and a bill to amend the Seed Control Act, by adding to the list of noxious weeds, some not already named in the act, to include flax in the list of grains, and to provide for the grading of other seeds.

W. D. Staples (Macdonald) said this was an annual occurrence of the Minister of Agriculture. The Minister was on the wrong track. The only way to get clean seed was to establish seed grain farms. Mr. Staples claimed that grass seed purchased in Ottawa carrying the guarantee of the Department was "chocked full of Canadian thistles and sow thistles."

Crimean Veteran Dead.

Brockville, March 29.—The death is reported from Mallorytown of Nicholas Wolffe, a native of Switzerland, and a veteran of the Crimean War. At the close of the war he came to Canada and lived in this section over sixty years, following the occupation of farmer. He was unmarried, and had no relatives in this country.

AN OXFORD COUNTY OFFICIAL IS CONVICTED OF A BRIBERY CHARGE

Ex-County Councillor Youngs of Oxford Was Found Guilty But Sentence Was Suspended---He is Admitted to Bail on Condition That He Pay $200 for His Own Prosecution---Jury Makes a Recommendation to Mercy.

Woodstock, Ont., March 29.—John Youngs, ex-county councillor of Oxford, was last night found guilty on the charge of having offered R. E. Butler a bribe for the latter's influence in securing Youngs' appointment as a governor of the county jail at Woodstock. The jury added a recommendation to mercy. Messrs. Makins, for the accused, and Crown Attorney Ball and Crown Prosecutor G. T. Blackstock, conferred, and the crown announced its consent to sentence being suspended.

His lordship concurred, and sentence was deferred, on Youngs' giving his recognizance for $1,000 to appear when called upon, and on his paying the costs of the prosecution, which will be about $200.

The case was reached at the assizes late yesterday afternoon, it reached the jury at 7.15 o'clock last evening. James G. Wallace, barrister, told of Youngs having come to see him in 1908, a few months before Mr. Cameron resigned.

Youngs, he said, asked his influence in favor of his application for the position, when Mr. Wallace referred him to Mr. Butler, who controlled the patronage. Mr. Youngs had told him that he did not expect to get the position for nothing. John Lindsay, of East Zorra, met Youngs on Dundas street during the last year Mr. Cameron was at the jail, and Youngs said he was going to see Mr. Whitney and Mr. Hanna about the job, and Mr. Cameron had said that he would resign if Youngs was guaranteed the position.

Youngs asked Lindsay to see Butler about the matter.

D. M. Perry swore that Youngs had told him that he (Youngs) was going to get the position, and that he had $1,000 to say that he would land it. Under cross-examination Perry said that Youngs may have meant in the way of a wager, but the witness had not taken it that way.

R. S. Butler told of Youngs having come to see him in his private office about the job, and Mr. Butler had told him that he proposed to recommend Charles Wilson for the job, and that he would not do anything until Mr. Cameron stepped out. Then Youngs told him that there was a thousand dollars in it if he (Butler) would support him for the position. This Butler indignantly refused to do, stating that Youngs had not enough money to buy him.

Youngs went into the box on his own behalf and denied in toto the stories of both Wallace and Butler. He denied having asked Butler for anything but his influence. No money had been mentioned by him to anyone whom he had asked for the job.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Alfred Dupuis of Ville Marie, Ont., was killed by a premature explosion in the Hollinger shaft at Porcupine, and William Nash was injured.

The Russian Foreign Office has telegraphed the Russian Minister at Pekin to the effect that China's reply to Russia's ultimatum is satisfactory.

M. Cei, an aviator, was killed yesterday afternoon while attempting a flight over the Seine at Puteaux, France. When at a height of 2,200 feet he lost control and the machine crashed down.

Mayor Thorpe and Finance Chairman J. E. Carter yesterday announced that Guelph's tax rate this year, and perhaps next year, will be 23 mills. Last year it was 17. Permanent improvements are to be undertaken this year.

Mrs. Goff, 153 York street, Hamilton, and her five-year-old daughter were run down by an express wagon driven by Fred. Berg, while crossing King street at the Gore extension, about supper time. Their injuries were severe, but not serious.

A delegation waited upon Hon. Geo. P Graham yesterday to ask for a subsidy for a railway line through Kincardine, Owen Sound, Meaford, Thornbury, Collingwood and Orillia. Mr. Graham promised that if further railway subsidies were considered this year, this would be amongst the first dealt with.

Stole For the Church.

Montreal, March 29. That the Catholic Church is superior to the criminal law of Canada, when the jury is a French-Canadian Catholic jury, is the effect of the verdict in the Lemieux case yesterday.

A. J. Lemieux was charged with highway robbery of money and papers from L. Larose last autumn. He admitted taking the papers, but said he had returned the money, and pleaded that he was acting in the interests of the Catholic Church, as Larose was a Freemason, and secretary of the now famous Emancipation Lodge.

It was to secure lists of names of members and other papers of the lodge that the theft was committed.

His brother and two others who were with him, also acknowledged holding up Larose, but they too pleaded the return of the money and the interest of the church.

Judge Lavergne, in his charge to the jury, declared that no extraneous considerations as to the motives which prompted the prisoner in his alleged act should have any bearing upon the case.

"You must not preach the gospel with a pistol," he said.

The jury, after half an hour, returned a disagreement, but were locked up, and yesterday morning they gave [illegible]

Sensations Promised.

Guelph, March 29.—Coroner Dr. McLean has received a requisition from the Toronto manager of the London & Lancashire Fire Insurance Co., for an investigation into the fire which occurred in the local store of the Bowles Syndicate, on the early morning of Dec. 20. The firm claims that $15,000 damage was done, while the Canadian Underwriters' Association declare that they had no more than $4,000 stock on the premises at the time of the fire.

H. B. Corry of Toronto, adjuster for the Underwriters' Association, obtained the services, as private detective, of H. D. Merryweather, high constable of Wellington County, and the present requisition is a result of several weeks' investigation by him. Signed statements by Merryweather, in the hands of the authorities, are of a startling nature, and sensations are promised for the inquest, which will open on Tuesday, April 4.

No Harm From Preference.

London, March 29.—A. W. Wright, Toronto, speaking at Kensington, said he was convinced that in no way would the people of Britain suffer by giving a preference to the dominions which would immensely assist in the unification of the Empire. Sir Geo. Doughty followed by saying that no greater disaster could occur to this country than the completion of the Canada-United States treaty.

Col. Seely has accepted the chairmanship of the committee of entertainment for the Dominion Premiers during the conference and coronation. Other members are the Duke of Devonshire, Lord Lucas, Sir H. Verney, Sir W. F. Hely Hutchinson, T. C. Macnaghten.

No Mother to Guide Her.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 29.—Because a melodrama, which she had just witnessed and in which the heroine lacked the guidance of mother love, portrayed almost exactly her own life, Elizabeth Cook, 21 years old, of Clearwater, Mich., known here as Mrs. Richard Muir, committed suicide early yesterday.

When she returned home from the theatre she was greatly depressed and said to Muir, "I never knew what it was to be without a mother until now. Good-bye," and grasping a bottle of carbolic acid, she drained it before Muir could stop her.

Liverpool's Fears.

Liverpool, March 29.—The keenest disappointment is felt here at the Cunard's Canadian fleet sailing ex Southampton. Apprehensions are that the experiment may lead to the bulk of the Cunard New York service going the same way.

BUSY IN PITTSBURG

Already Had His Game Started —Advertising in All the Country Papers in That Section

IS GOING BACK

Montreal, March 29.—Chief McCaskill will go to Pittsburg to-day with warrants and papers for the extradition of C. D. Sheldon, charged with theft and false pretences, one of $10,000, the other of $25,000.

Owing to a warrant also taken out in Pittsburg, it is not thought that he will be brought to Montreal for some time. He had his game already started in Pittsburg, advertising in all the country papers there.

Custody of the Child.

Montreal, March 29.—As a result of the judicial decree last week annulling the marriage of two Catholics because a Protestant minister performed the ceremony a difficulty has arisen as to the custody of a child of the parted couple, who neither of them, in court, opposed the decree. Two children were born to the couple but one died.

There was no mention of the responsibility of the father as regards the child in the judgment handed down. That was left evidently to the separated parties to settle between themselves.

Speaking with reference to the matter, L. J. Lefebvre, attorney for Mrs. Hebert, declared that his client was anxious to retain the custody of her daughter, while the husband also wished to be the guardian of the child.

Mr. Lefebvre understood that there was to be some settlement made by Mr. Hebert on his wife, but the nature of this he would not say. The lawyer said he did not think that the parties would seek to be re-married by a priest of the Catholic Church.

Hotel Rates to Go Up.

Toronto, March 29.—"We will raise the rates on the first of May, when the new law goes into effect."

This was the announcement made last night by W. C. Martin, secretary of the Hotel Men's Association of Toronto. The decision was finally made at a meeting of the association in the afternoon. They have not yet drawn up their schedule of increase, but it will include practically all goods sold over the bars in Toronto, with the possible exception of champagne, and will be extended also into the dining-rooms and rooms of the hotels.

"Inasmuch as the Government has decided to take the major portion of our profits, the public must necessarily be expected to make up that which is taken from the hotel man," continued Mr. Martin.

Former President Indicted.

New York, March 29.—Joseph B Reichmann, former president of the now defunct Carnegie Trust Co., was indicted by the grand jury late yesterday, charged with having knowingly concurred in making a false statement last fall as to the condition of the institution. The Northern Bank is one of the string of banks which failed after exposure of the high financiering schemes of Joseph G. Robin.

The indictment yesterday is the second against an official of the Carnegie Trust Co. Other indictments are expected, and more than a hundred witnesses will be heard.

Laurier to Visit Ireland.

London, March 29.—The Manchester Guardian says Premiers Laurier, Botha, Fisher and Ward will visit Ireland during the summer, and receive civic receptions.

An Irish correspondent says Ald. Farrell, Lord Mayor of Dublin, has issued letters to citizens inviting their hearty co-operation in welcoming the four Dominion Premiers. He is sure they will sink all class and political distinctions. He is also inviting the Mayors of Belfast and Cork to assist in the welcome.

Nat Goodwin's Finish.

New York, March 29.—An interlocutory decree of divorce in favor of Edna Goodrich, the actress, from Nat C. Goodwin, the comedian, was signed yesterday. She may marry again, but he can't during her lifetime.

A Valuable Water Power.

Montreal, March 29. The great water power at Cedar Rapids was sold to Mr. D. L. McGibbon at a very large price yesterday. Cedar Rapids are 27 miles from Montreal, and will generate 150,000 horse-power. The property has long been looked upon as extremely valuable in Montreal's power field. Mr. McGibbon stated that prominent power experts in Canada would devote their time to the proposition.

Taft's Message to Congress.

Washington, March 29.—President Taft's message to the extra session of Congress next Tuesday will be exceptionally brief. He has decided to deal only with the reciprocity agreement with Canada.

Later the President may send another message to the extra session, urging the enactment of a law making the Tariff Board a permanent institution.

The President has been assured by the temporary board that it will be ready with a detailed and comprehensive report on the textile schedules by Dec. 1 next, and that the chemical schedule may also be ready.

Peculiar Insurance Action.

Kingston, March 29. An action to recover $2,500 insurance has been entered by Mrs. Mary Youlden, whose husband died some time ago. The action is against the London Guarantee & Accident Co. Plaintiff claims that death was caused by an accident, but, while admitting this, the defendants claim the injury was sustained before the policy was issued, and said injury was aggravated.

Philadelphia, March 29.—More than 50 per cent. of the stock of the Pennsylvania Railway Co. was voted at the election yesterday in favor of increasing the capital stock from $500,000,000 to $800,000,000. Only $40,000,000 of the first $100,000,000 increase will be authorized for the present.

Standard Rules on G. T. R.

Toronto, March 29. Supt. Ashald of the G. T. R. telegraph department has sent out a score of instructors, who will teach all G. T. R. employes the standard rules which will go into effect about June 19.

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

By KINGSLAND CROSBY

"I saw the buggy, but didn't know who was in it. . . . Professor Simpkins, you say?"

"No—Simpson. He's a professor from some down-east college or other, I hear, and he's a sort of camping out in one of the empty houses at Pithole, a couple of miles or so up the road."

"What's he doing there?" asked Barrett.

"Oh, he's studying the ground an' rocks an' such, trying to learn why oil give out so sudden, years ago."

In a few sentences the Pleasantville man told about the early history of Pithole, and of its deserted buildings, in one of which Professor Simpson was spending the summer.

Is he living there alone?" Barrett asked casually, as he stood up and peered at the sky.

"Oh, no!" the other responded. "He's got his father with him, an old feller with white beard; and his mother, too, besides his wife. She's sickly, sort of an invalid, I guess, though I don't know rightly just what ails her. Oncet or twice when I've been down there carryin' milk or eggs, and stuff from the store here I see her settin' in an old rockin' cheer on the front porch, with a light grey shawl over her shoulders, and a big scoop-bonnet on, an' her hands folded in her lap, an' her head bent forward. Never see her face on account of the big bonnet, an' never see her move hardly, except once, when I walked right up to the house with a pail o' milk, and the Professor's mother come out an' hustled his wife indoors quick as she could walk—which wasn't very quick, she stumbled so."

"Too bad!" Barrett exclaimed. "Which house do they live in?"

"The last one on the left side of the road. It's the only one anybody lives in, so they're not bothered much with neighbours."

"Well, I think the storm is going around us after all—at least the stars are coming out again, and I'll be going along, too. 'Any bad dogs between here and Pithole?"

"No—though a mighty bad road. Bill Tyson's got a dog, but he wunt bother ye none, only to bark, if he sees you. Probably, however, you wunt walk that far?"

"Perhaps not. I'll just keep on until I've gone far enough and then turn back. . . . Good night, gentlemen."

Here was luck, surely! At last he had found Eleanor, and without assistance. He had known all along he would find her—he had felt it, somehow, as an impending surety, from the first moment he had stood with bared head and reverent heart before her portrait in Winthrop's studio.

As the picture of girlish vitality once more swam before him, he suddenly realized that now she was weak, feeble, tottering, garbed in grotesque, ill-fitting garments; perhaps ill-treated.

He went forward with added speed.

Just what he should do when he reached the house where she was kept captive he had not determined. But now he must decide without delay. First of all, he must not let the abductors suspect his presence—or they might drive a knife into her, and disappear into the wilderness. Barrett had no doubt they would do murder rather than have her live to tell tales which would result in their capture. That, of course, must be prevented at all hazards. How should he proceed? If he only could get word back to Titusville and bring on Winthrop and Hambidge he would have no fears as to the outcome. They could surround the house, rush upon it, break in, and rescue the girl before the gang had inkling of their presence.

Just ahead of him stood a farmhouse. . . . It was a doubtful plan, but the only one he could think of. He would try it at any rate.

Over the fence he vaulted, and to the kitchen door—the room within was lighted. Two quick, determined knocks, and the door was opened by an elderly man, smoking a pipe, who held a lamp in one hand, a weekly newspaper in the other.

"I beg your pardon," said Barrett, "but I want to send a note back to Titusville to some friends of mine. Is there anyone here who can take it?"

The elderly farmer appeared confused.

"You want to send a note back?" he said. "Don't you mean you want to go back yourself?"

"No, I am out on a tramp about the country. It's been a mighty hot day, you know, and I thought I'd feel better if I had a good, long walk. So I want to send word back to my friends who will be waiting up for me."

"Come in," said the farmer, looking sharply at the stranger. "You don't look as if you'd been drinking."

"I haven't!" Barrett laughed. "I'm as sober as a judge, and what I tell you is strictly true. I know it's an unusual favour I am asking, but my friends will be worried if I don't get back pretty soon. Besides, I'll make it worth your while. I'll be glad to pay five dollars for the job."

"Well . . . I can't go myself, I only got back from Titusville with the team just before supper, and it's nearly eight miles from here. But if you say so, I'll ask Jim to go. He can saddle the colt and get there in an hour or a little more, I reckon."

"What's your name? I want to tell my friends who it is that's doing this favour for me?"

"My name? Oh, it's Tyson—William Tyson. Everybody in Titusville 'most knows who I am. Now you get the note ready and I'll send Jim out to the barn."

Pulling pencil and paper from his pocket, Barrett sat down by the kitchen table and wrote a note addressed jointly to Winthrop and Hambidge telling them to get horses at once and start for Pithole.

"The gang is living in the last house on the left side of the road," he added. "Leave the team when you reach Pithole and purry quietly down the main street. If you do not meet me before reaching that last house, burst into it."

The note, sealed and addressed, was handed to Jim, and as the latter rode off towards Titusville, Barrett started in the opposite direction.

XVIII.

The cipher cablegram from Brussels, which struck terror to the heart of that slender, bespectacled young man when he received it in Titusville, was a direct result—although he did not know it—of a series of events planned and executed deliberately, remorsely, by Mortimer Cuyler; who had suddenly reached out and seized two hemispheres with a grip of steel that Monday night, July 23, following his return from Washington—when Wotsirb called at his town house voicing the suspicion that foreign interests, desperately endeavouring to secure the Eastern railway project, might have had something to do with Eleanor's disappearance.

As he was leaving the financier's town house, that evening, as has been mentioned, Wotsirb passed several groups of gentlemen hurrying toward it—Bloodgood, Cuyler's partner; two bankers from Boston; a railroad president from Philadelphia; two New York bank presidents; and Morton, the great corporation lawyer.

Cuyler was waiting for them in his library on the second floor, to which they were at once taken. Entering it they nodded and spoke briefly to him and he to them. It was no time for palavering. They were there for business.

Morton stepped to a long, polished table in the middle of the room, pulled back a chair and sat down. The others quickly followed this example; Cuyler, as was his custom, taking his place at one side instead of at the head of the board. His keen, piercing eyes swept the group—eight able, determined men of extraordinary power, mental as well as physical—men with shoulders and jaws and chests. Faces clear-cut, alert—men ready to throw themselves into a struggle which could have but one ending; men trained in the technicalities of organization, familiar with business, politics, finance, statecraft.

Before they had fairly settled themselves in their chairs Cuyler began to speak, his voice quiet, calm, but incisive, commanding.

"Gentlemen, we are facing a flurry that may become a crisis. The trouble has its origin abroad among interests which are fighting to get the Eastern railroad matter away from us. In a desperate effort to undermine our credit and resources they are trying to bring on a panic here in this country. Our business is to stop that—to prevent a panic and restore confidence."

"The most disquieting feature of the American situation to-day is the strike in the coal regions. It has affected the whole country. As you are aware, some of the railways are already cutting off trains, factories are shut down because they cannot obtain fuel for steaming purposes; thousands of persons are already out of work, and the situation is rapidly growing worse."

Again he paused.

Bloodgood moved his chair a few inches and crossed one knee over the other.

Morton leaned forward inquiringly.

"The public is almost hysterical," Cuyler resumed, with increasing emphasis. "Credits are shaken. All over the country the feeling is gathering force that a general smashup is imminent. Something must be done, and done quickly to check the stampede. . . . I understand that the anthracite situation is far more serious than it appears to be; that strikers are terrorizing the mining regions; that a dozen murders have been committed, and a hundred murderous assaults. . . . Is that correct, Mr. Rittenhouse?"

"It is—absolutely," said the Philadelphian, whose railroad controlled one of the greatest of the anthracite companies.

"You must end that strike in two days," he commanded.

Rittenhouse started in his chair. 'It can't be done'" he declared.

"It's got to be done," returned Cuyler.

"It can't be done'" the other repeated. "More than a hundred thousand men are out—they have that whole section of the State in their power. You, yourself, have been holding conference after conference for two weeks, trying to bring about a peaceful settlement."

"Yes, a 'peaceful settlement,'" Cuyler repeated meaningly. "And now," he went on with a forcefulness that brooked no parleying, "the time has come for a settlement whether peaceful or not'"

He leaned forward slightly and looked Rittenhouse full in the eyes.

"This is Monday night," he said. "You have got to end that strike by Wednesday night. There is only one thing to be done—the Governor of Pennsylvania has got to throw his entire National Guard into the disturbed territory by Wednesday afternoon. I repeated. "More than a hundred thousand troops, Mr. Rittenhouse, and it is up to you to see that in forty-eight hours every available man of them—infantry, cavalry, artillery—is quartered in the anthracite region."

Rittenhouse rose from his chair and began to walk up and down the library with nervous step.

"I tell you, Mr. Cuyler, it can't be done. It can't be done'" he repeated. "The sheriffs of two of the disturbed counties telegraphed him yesterday that they were unable to preserve law and order, and demanded troops, but he refused. He's got to take care of the labour vote; he dare not antagonize it."

CABBIES' NICKNAMES

Some Amusing "Make Ups" to Describe the Cabmen

"Order, gentlemen, please, while 'Didy' gives us his song," and the chairman of the cabbies' "harmonic," known on the ranks as "Jim the Butcher," banged on the table with a fair-sized mallet, as "Didy" began his vocal effort. The convivial concert was being held by the cabdrivers for the benefit of one of the most deserving of their number, Mr. Brett, better known as "Guilford's Chicken," who had met with certain misfortunes, the chairman being supported during the evening by such well-known cabbies as "Tricky Tom," "The New Boy," "Little Fish," "Squib," "Hoppy a Locks," "Waddles," "Mike the Burglar," and St. Anne's Midget."

These were the nicknames bestowed upon them by fellow-drivers, and in no class of men does there exist such a varied and unique collection of nicknames as those associated with the cabdrivers of London. And the most curious feature of this concert was that the nicknames mentioned, together with many others, such as "Punch Peter," "All On Board," "Vallop," "Is Chicken," "Steaks," "King of Pimlico," "Young Spot," "Young Rabbit," "Truthful Ginger," "Ecclesiastic a Jack," and a host of others, were all on the programme.

These nicknames usually arise from some peculiarity of the driver himself. For instance, one veteran known on the rank as "Chaffy" used to "chaff before he took out a cab, and this becoming known he was promptly termed "Chaffy." Then, again, the story went round concerning one driver that when he was courting a servant girl she asked him to knock softly when he called, so that the "missus" should not hear him, and he was promptly dubbed "Knock-softly."

C.N.R. EXTENSIONS

Sir William Mackenzie says the Canadian Northern Railway built 560 miles of track in 1910 at a cost of $12,960,000, and plans to build 600 miles in 1911.

In Manitoba additional grading will be done on the Wakopa branch, which runs south-west from Greenway and serves the country close to the international boundary line. This year this line will reach Deloraine. Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, will be reached by the continuation of the Maryfield branch from the south, work on which will be rushed this year. Farther north in Saskatchewan the Rossburn branch will be continued through to Russell, and to join the main line of the Canadian Northern near Canora. Grading will be conducted on the Thunderhill branch north of the main line west from Swan River. This line will probably be extended to Prince Albert, or to join the Prince Albert-Regina road. The Prince Albert-Battleford branch will probably be completed. It will pass through the country north of the Saskatchewan River, where a large settlement has already been started. The Delisle line will eventually run to Swift Current to join the railway that the company is building from Mayfield to Lethbridge. Work will be done on four branches in Alberta. Two lines will be completed to Calgary, one from Saskatoon and one from Vegreville. A large force of workmen will be employed on the main line west of Edmonton to Vancouver. A great amount of grading will be accomplished on the railway to the Brazeau coal fields. This road begins at Stetler and crosses the Canadian Pacific at Red Deer, whence it proceeds west to Brazeau. Large expenditures will be made for betterment on the various branches and on the main line in the Prairie Provinces. East of Winnipeg a grade of rock will be built across Rainy Lake. The yards of the railway will be enlarged and improved at many points, and a large mileage of new sidings will be built. Heavy steel will be laid from Beaver to Grand view, a stretch of 132 miles. A station will also be constructed at Dauphin. Sir William said the company was building towards the Yellowhead Pass and the main line to the Pacific coast would be completed in about three years.

Mr. D. B. Hanna stated that the company now look for an opening of the railway from ocean to ocean during the fall of 1914. The five hundred miles through the Ontario clay belt would be completed either in two or two and a half years. Within a few years six daily trains will be leaving this city for different points on the Pacific coast. Two will be run by the Canadian Pacific Railway, two more by the Canadian Northern, and two by the Grand Trunk Pacific. "Why, then, asks Mr. Hanna, "if a new country can support six daily trains running across the continent, cannot we support a daily steamship service from British ports to the Dominion?" He believes that if Britain can send almost a steamer daily to an alien country, the day is not far distant when we will see the same to Canadian ports.

WHY A HORSE ROLLS

Mr. E. T. Daubeny, writing on this subject in "The Selborne Magazine," says: "Horses are fond of rolling on the ground, and no animal more thoroughly shakes itself than they do. After a roll they give themselves a shake or two to remove anything adhering to the coat. The habit is of much service to horses living in open plains. On being turned loose, at the end of a journey, an Arab horse rolls in the sand, which acts as blotting-paper, absorbing exudations from the body. A shake removes the sand, the coat soon dries. Cavalrymen in hot climates sometimes put sand on their horses as the simplest and quickest way of drying them."

A BIT TOO MUCH

A very old and infirm man called at a house one day, and begged for food, and the lady of the house, taking compassion on him, gave him some warm vermicelli soup. After gazing at it in silence, he looked up sorrowfully and said, "I am an old man, and very hungry, ma'am, and very grateful for anything you like to give me, ma'am, but really, ma'am, I can't eat maggots."

OLD TIME RAILROADING

TRIALS OF THE DAYS WHEN THE ENGINES BURNED WOOD.

They Used to Dig Peat for Fuel at Montreal—Veteran Engineer Tells of Early Life on the Old Great Western—A Man Never Knew When He Would Be Back—Anything Was Liable to Happen.

In spite of white hairs and snowy moustache; his eyes shone clear and keen as in the days when on their ceaseless vigilance depended the lives of scores of passengers. As he reminisced to a reporter a far-away look came into those once watchful orbs, and the old engineer imagined himself as of yore, back at the throttle, gazing out of the cab window at the twin ribbons of steel along whose shining course the locomotive would rush quivering like a living thing.

"Railroading. Ah! It has changed a whole lot since I first started into it as a call boy over half a century ago in England. I got my first engine when I was only nineteen years old," said the veteran with pardonable pride. "Then, soon afterwards, I emigrated to this country and joined the Grand Trunk. There was no starting in as fireman in those days and working yourself up to engineer as they do now. No, sir, leastways on the old Great Western. A man had to know all about it before ever the officials would allow him to take a train out.

"They burnt peat in those days running out of Montreal. That was back in '69," said the old railroader. "Some of the officials had got hold of the big peat bogs around about the city, and they sold it to the company, and the dirty stuff was handed out to us to fire with. Leaving St. Lambert, we had our tenders to load up with this muddy fuel; but it didn't last long. You can bet the firemen knew how to get rid of it in a hurry, for just as soon as the tender got partly empty we could load on cord wood. You should have seen the way they dumped that peat out by the cart load. It lay so thick in places along the right of way that the company sent about special trains to gather it up.

"Well, one fine day, just about the time that every fireman on the road had got good and sick of the dirty, crumbly stuff which was just a mess composed of mud and grass roots cut into little square-like bricks, some fellow on a locomotive threw a piece of blazing cotton waste right into the big stack where over a thousand tons of peat were stacked. The whole thing caught fire. There was an awful blaze, and the windows of passing cars were cracked by the heat. But that was the end of our troubles. No more peat was used on the Grand Trunk.

It was well on into the seventies before Canadian locomotives began using coal to any extent. The years '73 and '74 saw its introduction, but it was not until about '80 that it came into general use. Before that the cumbrous looking old wood-burners familiar only to the present generation from pictures, lugged the trains of box-like cars.

"Those wood-burners were all smokestack, and they were a terror for puffing out hot cinders," said the old man. "That's why the Government made them put on those wire bonnets on top of the stacks. But they were very serviceable little engines, too, though they only weighed thirty-five tons. In those days each engineer had to look after his own locomotive and try and keep it in repair. He would get down out of the cab and tighten up a nut or adjust a bearing, and generally keep his eye on the whole machine. You didn't see any hammer marks on the wheels in those days. If the big drivers showed the least dint you can bet the engineer would hear about it. We were provided with lead hammers to do our testing, so that we wouldn't mark things.

"How did you ever manage in the days before the air-brake was invented?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, we did well enough. The engineer knew his crew, and when he whistled 'on brakes,' the boys were all on the job. It certainly seems pretty crude compared with what we have nowadays—the running along over the tops of moving cars, and the twisting and turning of the old 'Armstrong' brakes on the platforms, but we seemed to get along with it.

"And let me tell you," said the old man, "up to the time of the Great Western's amalgamation with the Grand Trunk, in '80, we hadn't had a single rear-end collision on my division—St. Thomas to the Falls and Buffalo. And there was lots of freight traffic over that line then, too. That was the great stock route from the American west. In those days there were big herds of cattle on the plains, and hundreds of train loads used to pass through from Detroit east."

But if collisions were few, accidents of other kinds there were a-plenty. "The St. Thomas division was built in the early seventies," said my informant, "and the road was a sure enough rough one then. There was something running off the track all the time. It was only used for freight in the beginning; and I can tell you we freight crews had our own time of it.

"A man starting out never knew just when he was going to get back. Once I was a whole week making the round trip. Just think of it. St. Thomas to the Falls and back, seven days. There were five crews tied up all near each other for over a day. We hadn't any provisions with us, and had a hard time foraging for food at one of the few settlers' houses in the vicinity. Twenty hungry men finally deserted their trains and went over in a body to a farmer's place. We were nearly starved, being a good day and a half without food, and I can tell you the pork and potatoes that farmer set out for us fairly melted away when our gang got after them."

The Dragon Fly.

The dragon fly's appetite is never satisfied, although that amazing insect, with its 50,000 microscopic eyes, eats continuously from daylight until dark, capturing thousands upon thousands of flies and other noxious insects during the day. But the digestive apparatus of the dragon fly is such that all it takes into its long stomach is digested instantly.

Not Popular in England.

While the United Kingdom imported 263,000,000 pounds of apples, worth $20,654,000, in 1910, the imports of the dried fruit is a negligible quantity.

Apples are not dried in Great Britain, and the British consumer does not use them to any extent. The dried apples which find their way into the London market come from the United States and Canada, and are sold to cheap boarding houses, low-priced hotels and to firms dealing in ship's stores. One dealer in this commodity suggests that in an ordinary year London imports 50,000 to 60,000 boxes of dried apples at $6 to $9.75 per box. The year just closed, however, has been far below the average in this trade, and the imports into London are estimated at 10,000 to 30,000 boxes at a price much in excess of the average given.

Asquith's Clever Wife.

Mrs. Asquith was always something of a scholar. Prof. Jowett of Oxford resented it a privilege to talk with her on matters which could only interest the greatest scholars in Europe. Paderewski knew her as a musician who had mastered both the theory and practice of harmony; whilst in the world of politics Mr. Gladstone would chat by the hour with this Scottish visitor of his, who was privileged to pass in and out of his study at Hawarden when no one else would venture to cross the threshold.

Compensation Curiosities.

The British public has some queer ideas about the Workmen's Compensation Act.

All sorts of funny claims are made under its provisions, and an Answers' man, who has made inquiries of some of the leading companies who insure under the Act, has discovered some droll claims. Here are a few:

Servant receives shock through seeing large Teddy bear when room was only dimly lighted.

Clergyman bitten by toy dog whilst visiting.

"Death a Pleasure."

The fact that Lord Erskine recently celebrated his seventieth birthday recalls the amusing stories told of the first Lord Erskine, who was Lord Chancellor in 1806, and a great friend of the first Earl of Leicester, at whose place, Holkham, he enjoyed the society of Dr. Parr, the famous English scholar. Parr considered that the highest compliment he could pay anyone was to compose that man's epitaph, and was heard one day gravely informing Lord Erskine "that he had every intention of writing his lordship's epitaph," upon which Lord Erskine replied that "such an honor would make death a pleasure." The ignorance of this Lord Erskine concerning matters agricultural was such that, passing a fine field of barley with the Earl of Leicester one day, he threw up his hands with the most rapt admiration and exclaimed, "Good gracious, what magnificent lavender!"

She is an experienced yacht-woman, and one of the very few who hold a master mariner's certificate. When on board she goes to work in a practical manner. Your Danger From Kidney Troubles

BEGINS WHEN YOUR BACK ACHES.

Backache is the first and the sure sign of kidney disease.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Next to the heart, the kidneys are, perhaps the most important organs in the body. It is no wonder then that if the kidneys are affected the whole system must be.

On the first sign of backache Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go right to the seat of the trouble, heal the delicate membranes of the kidneys and make their action regular and natural."

Mr. E. J. Saulnier, Lake Annis, N.S., writes:—"I take a great deal of pleasure in telling you the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for several years; my back was weak, I had terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Didn't Know Doctor.

Mr. Jack Grant, editor and proprietor of The Gravenhurst Banner, has this recent reminiscence of Doctor Beattie Nesbitt: It was the day of the bank crash report in the papers, said Mr. Grant. The doctor and myself were on a train bound for Toronto. The doctor had been up at his island home and was returning to the city. Two young fellows were sitting opposite to us in the smoker. One of these was reading a Toronto paper which in big headline on the front page told of the bank's failure, and incidentally blazoned out that Dr. Beattie Nesbitt was first president of the defunct institution. "Did you ever see a blank thing that Nesbitt went in for that it didn't go to pieces," said one of the innocent young man to his friend. There was a laugh, followed the remark, as if it was the doctor's laugh, then he pinched me and the incident closed.

Mercury Troubles.

Frost-bitten men are dropping into Edmonton these days. The trails are cold, the nights are long, the snow is deep—all of which may tend to confirm certain phases of western conditions, sketched by a certain literary lady, who recently got into a brawl with Trade. According to despatches in Edmonton papers, the extreme rigor of northern temperature this year has kept many a mother's mail from its destination in the frontier places. When snowshoes have to break trail for the dogs, "it's very exacting weather."

The Willow Tree.

The tree which has the largest area under ground is the weeping willow. This tree's roots spread to such an extent that should there be any trees or shrubs planted within thirty feet of them in a few years the roots of the willow will be found intermingled with them.

THE QUEEN'S

Toronto the Queen City of Canada is the important business and tourist centre of the Dominion, its many handsome churches, artistic public buildings, imposing offices, public drives, parks and gardens, are the admiration of many thousands of visitors throughout the year.

One of the best hotels in Canada is located here, the old established "Queen's", a hostelry that is especially popular with all discriminating people, standing in its own beautiful and extensive grounds, it has an air of quiet and refinement that appeals strongly to the home-lover, its fame is far reaching, and many remember with pleasure the hours spent within its hospitable walls. 2

The "Queen's" is operated on the American and European Plan, the rates being: Rooms without Bath (American Plan) $3.00 per day up. Rooms with Bath (American Plan) $3.50 per day up. Rooms (European Plan) $1.50 per day up.

DODGING THE TAX MAN.

How One Wealthy New York Family Laughs at His Bill.

One method by which the rich man evades his legal taxes and leaves the poor man to bear the tax burden alone Mr. A. T. Nock describes in the American Magazine as follows:

"Let me tell you a story of a wealthy New York family, one of the many resident nonresident families whose legal headquarters are in New Jersey, but who are New Yorkers for every purpose but taxation.

"The family consists of three persons—man, wife and mother. They have a magnificent home in New York and under the nonresident law were assessed moderately on their household goods and ornaments.

"The assessment, $10,000, was entered against the man as head of the family. He appeared before the commissioners, swore that he did not own the property, and the assessment lapsed for that year.

"Next year it was entered against all three—man, wife and mother. Each appeared and swore that he (or she) did not own the property, and again the assessment lapsed. When asked who the owner of the property was they replied, by advice of counsel, that it was the commissioners' business to find out.

"The long and short of it was that to save the tax bill of about $170 a year the three had incorporated themselves as a New Jersey corporation for the sole purpose of holding those household goods. The property was owned by the family as corporation property, and none of the three was personally liable."

A Unique Comment.

An illiterate Irishman had just been convicted of cold blooded murder, and the death sentence was about to be pronounced upon him. All through the trial he had shown little interest in what had been going on, had not seemed to realize any of the proceedings and had not opened his mouth to any one but his counsel.

To pass sentence upon him the court ordered him to stand. He stood, blinking at those around him.

"Have you anything to say," droned the judge impressively, "why the sentence of death should not be pronounced upon you at this time?"

Whereupon the Irishman whispered to his counsel, who was standing by: "Ain't he th' gloomy divil?"

Seeing Trouble Ahead.

"My wife is always borrowing trouble."

"What kind is she borrowing now?"

"She is afraid whiskers will be in style when our little boy grows up, so that he will not have a chance to show the cunning dimple in his chin."—Chicago Record Herald.

You Can Cure Chest Colds

And Bronchitis by Using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine If You Get the Genuine

The mere mention of pneumonia and consumption causes a person to shudder, but a cold is such a common thing that it is too often left alone until these other ailments develop from it.

You can readily cure throat and chest colds, croup and bronchitis by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This medicine is both thorough and far-reaching in its influence on the system. For this reason its merits are well-known and its sales enormous.

But there are at least four imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. And imitations are always a little cheaper, how else would they sell. They are never sold on their own merit, but on the merit of the article they imitate.

Their likeness is in name only, and when you are in need of medicine you don't want to depend on a name or imitation. Every bottle of the genuine bears the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author. 25 cents a bottle, family size, 60 cents; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"I COULD NOT LIVE"

WITHOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Writes The Treasurer Of Caledonia Township

FENAGHVALE, ONT., Jan. 29th, 1910.

For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation.

No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure.

About two years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John Costigan regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give this fruit medicine a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for "Fruit-a-tives", I am satisfied that I could not live." JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The liver controls the bowels by giving up enough bile to make the bowels move. The only possible way to cure constipation is to make the liver active and healthy and thus store up sufficient bile to move the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver—ensures an abundance of bile—and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Queer Miss Egerton

She Was Unintelligible to the Last

By EMMA MOREHOUSE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Marcia Egerton was a peculiar girl. She seldom did anything as any one else would do it and was always doing things in a way that no one else would think of doing them. It is the purpose of this story to chronicle the roundabout way she acted in a matter that concerned herself and several other people.

In the first place, Miss Egerton, who was an orphan, inherited a large estate and came into possession of it when she was eighteen years old. The next most important thing about her was an intimate friend. Before her mother's death, when she was but twelve years old, she had conceived a violent affection for Agnes Hart, who was badly named, because she was not possessed of a heart at all. Marcia's mother opposed the intimacy and when her daughter was sixteen years old sent her off to school with no other purpose than to get her away from Agnes, but without avail. The two girls kept up an almost daily correspondence during the whole period of their separation and on Marcia's return were more intimate than before.

Mrs. Egerton died when Marcia was twenty, leaving her daughter her own mistress and in possession of a large property. She took her friend Agnes to live with her and lavished upon her everything a girl could desire. Several young men, each of whom would have liked to win Marcia either for herself or her fortune, declared that they were unable to separate her long enough from her girl friend to do so. And it was facetiously remarked that any one who married Miss Egerton must have two wives.

Marcia became interested in a young man—Edwin Bond—who found more opportunity to court than he availed himself of. He admired Marcia; but, having no fortune himself, he objected to being tied to a woman who possessed one. He was one of those young men who feel the zest of making a place for themselves in the world and knew that to do this he must be forced on by a powerful stimulus, for the man who marries a fortune is provided for, and he pays the price, which is —in nine cases in ten—constantly being reminded that his wife holds the purse strings and—money is power.

TWO PERSONS INTENDED.

Marcia, not making any headway with Edwin Bond, chose another lover, Cecil Baxter. Mr. Baxter was a frequent visitor at her house and divided his attentions between the two girls. His inclinations drew him rather toward Agnes than Marcia, but since Marcia possessed a fortune and Agnes was poor he accepted the encouragement of the former and proposed to her and was accepted.

When a certain scheme of Marcia Egerton's was whispered about, all who heard it wondered at her infatuation for her bosom friend. On the ground that she did not feel that she would live long she made a will leaving half her estate to a charitable institution to be named for and in memory of her mother. The other half she divided between her lover and her bosom friend.

Those who were observant noticed that Baxter's inclinations were rather toward his fiancee's friend than his fiancee. They also noticed that the friend, except when the fiancee was present, did not show any disposition to compel Mr. Baxter to reserve his especial attention for his betrothed. These people said, "What a pity that Marcia should not take herself off to heaven, leaving the poor their share of her estate and the lovers the rest of it." And yet there were others who claimed that, no matter what happens out of usual and conventional lines, tongues will wag; that these three young people understood one another thoroughly, and that was all there was about it. All agreed that the bequest was very lovely in Marcia, who was just the kind of gift to look out for the happiness of others and was as simple minded as a child.

Meanwhile Marcia Egerton seemed to be slowly failing. Her physician advised her to visit other lands. Since she couldn't very well go alone it was suggested that she be married and travel with a man. But she replied that she did not propose to throw any such obloquy upon a husband as making a courier of him. Then it was announced that she would take her girl friend with her. At this every one said: "That is exactly what was to have been expected. The society of the bosom friend is necessary; that of the fiance is not."

The two friends one day in January sailed on a Mediterranean steamer for Egypt. That is the last any one in America heard from them for several months; then one day Agnes returned, saying that she had left Marcia starting for a trip through the Holy Land. She reported her friend very much improved in health and not at all averse to traveling alone. Agnes was tired of traveling and preferred to go home. As soon as Marcia learned this, which Agnes said she had tried to keep a secret, Marcia would not hear of her remaining abroad any longer. Agnes, after refusing for a long while to return, had been literally compelled to do so by Marcia.

Since Agnes and Baxter were seen together a great deal after her return critical persons said that Agnes had come home purposely to monopolize him. The case excited more talk than any social happening that had been discussed in the place for years. Every one wondered that Marcia Egerton should be so blind. By some she was blamed for offering inducement for crime. Here were two lovers between whom she stood and who might be tempted to put her out of the way that they might be united, each with considerable means, into possession of which they would come at her death.

Then came a report that an American lady traveling in the Holy Land had been robbed and murdered. The report was confirmed, and the lady's name was given as Marcia Egerton. She had gone off on an excursion to a lonely place with a single guide where there was something curious to see, and he had returned to report that they had been set upon by thugs, the lady murdered and her money, including traveler's checks, taken. He said that he had buried the body at the place of the murder.

Baxter cabled and wrote to United States consuls nearest the scene of the tragedy asking for information. Nothing was adduced except the statement of Miss Egerton's guide, which was taken down in writing and sworn to. After waiting six months for the girl to turn up, nothing having been heard from her, the will was admitted to probate.

The evidence of the testator's death being deficient, the case dragged. Certain relatives who had hoped to benefit by the will opposed a settlement of the estate under the plea that there was not sufficient evidence that Miss Egerton was dead. It was six months after the reported death that the chancery court agreed to pay over to beneficiaries the three parts into which the estate was divided by the will.

About this time the announcement was made of the engagement of Cecil Baxter and Agnes Hart. A statement went forth that Marcia Egerton had had a presentiment that she would be summarily cut off and had requested in the event of her being so that the lover was to marry her friend. With angelic unselfishness she had provided in her will for their comfort. This satisfied every one except certain persons who had been watching Mr. Baxter and Miss Hart. They averred that though they might state truly Miss Egerton's part of the transaction it left much to be explained on the part of the two who were about to be married and inherit a fortune from her who was to have been the bride.

Baxter and Miss Hart were finally able to count on a date when their inheritance would be paid over to them, and they arranged to be married the day after receiving it. They agreed that they would place a stained glass window in the church they attended to the memory of the noble girl who had left each of them a comfortable fortune. The plan was laid, but the order for the work was not to be given until their property had been turned over to them. For a wedding trip they were to go to the Holy Land to gather information of the woman they loved and, if possible, bring the body home for burial.

One day they received a notice from their attorney that the papers in the case of their inheritance would be executed the next morning at 11 o'clock. They were all packed to go away as soon as the marriage ceremony had been performed the day after coming into possession of their property. All other matters, including the order for the memorial window, had received attention.

On the appointed morning they called on their lawyer and were taken by him to the office where the transfer was to be made. While they were sitting there two persons entered, one of whom especially they had not expected to see. They were Edwin Bond and Marcia Egerton, now Mrs. Bond.

There is no record of what was said between the testator, who had returned to life, and her expected heirs. All that is known about the sequel to the meeting is that Mr. Baxter and Miss Hart were never married. As to the memorial window, it was not required.

Many blamed Mrs. Bond for her action in deceiving her two friends, especially for going abroad and hiring a native to report her murdered. How she made it up with Bond she never told, but it was known that he went abroad while she was there and they were married there.

It has been said at the beginning of this story that Miss Egerton was a peculiar girl. What she meant by her performance, at what point she discovered the truth about Baxter and Agnes, she never told any one. She certainly went far out of her way to punish them, and punished them very severely. Whether they received more than they deserved is a question.

With few exceptions there is a marked equality between the length of the necks and of the legs of both birds and quadrupeds, and whether they be long or short is determined chiefly by the place where the animal must go for its food. This is especially noticeable in beasts that feed constantly upon grass, in which case the neck has just a slight advantage in that it cannot hang perpendicularly down. Crocodiles, lizards and fish have practically no necks. Fowls that feed in the water also offer an example of this correspondence between the members, with the exception of swans and geese and some Indian birds, which gather their food from the bottom of pools and must have long necks for that purpose, while the short legs make it more convenient for them to swim.—Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

A Story Pepys Tells.

Pepys tells in his diary that in the reign of King Charles II. a customer bargaining with a London merchant for claret hired a confederate to "thunder (which he had the art of doing upon a deal board) and to rain and hail—that is, make the noise of—so as to give them a pretense of undervaluing their merchant's wines, by saying this thunder would spoil and turn them, which was so reasonable to the merchant that he did abate two pistoles per tun for the wine in belief of that."

A Mighty Difference.

Brougham used to tell an anecdote about the flight from Waterloo. Napoleon was greatly depressed. His aid riding beside him thought he might be sorrowing over the loss of so many old comrades at arms and tried to comfort him by saying that Wellington also must have lost many friends. "He has not lost the battle," was the reply.

Utterly Useless.

"Pa, what is a futile remark?"

"The one a man makes for the purpose of changing the subject when his wife complains because he has forgotten their wedding anniversary."—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Was Wise.

You Can Get FREE a 50c. Bottle of Psychine (Si-Keen)

Because we want you to know this wonderful remedy as we know it.

Do you know another such sweeping proposition as ours?

Did you ever hear of anyone offering to prove any curative preparation along similar lines?

All the risk is ours, all the cost is ours.

You yourself are to be the sole judge of all we claim for Psychine.

Its beneficial effect alone will tell you, without prejudice, without any self-interest from any source.

It shows our confidence—this plan—does it not?

Yet our confidence to us is not phenomenal, not out of the way.

Nor would our confidence seem extraordinary to you were you in our place, and were you to know the things we know.

* * *

We know of the hundreds of thousands it has cured.

We have hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

It doesn't require any great stretch of confidence to know from facts like these.

* * *

These white corpuscles eat every disease germ that finds entrance to the body, when they're strong enough and in sufficient numbers.

Which science now knows will do just that.

We go to great expense to make Psychine.

Our materials come from the ends of the earth.

But costly and all as it is we know what it will do, hence the reason of our buying a 50-cent bottle from your druggist and giving it you, free.

Now if you have any of these ailments, fill out the coupon and mail it to us to-day.

You'll never regret your decision so to do.

Schoolboy Blunders.

The University Correspondent recently offered a prize for schoolboy mistakes. Here are a few examples: "Mute, inglorious Milton"—these epitaphs are used by a writer who was envious of Milton's being post orient. He finds "sermons in stones" expresses the same idea as Wordsworth's "the restless stone chat all day long is heard." Calvin was a noted scientist and poet, who died lately. Naples is an independent state in the north of India. Shakespeare made a mistake in mentioning Galen, who did not live until a hundred years after his time. The feminine of fox is foxhen. John Burns was the name of one of the claimants to the throne of Scotland in the reign of Edward I. The pyramids are a range of mountains between France and Spain. The three highest mountains in Scotland are Ben Nevis, Ben Lomond and Ben Jonson. Wolsey saved his life by dying on the way from York to London. When the English first landed in Australia the only four footed animal in the country was a rat. Monsoons are fertile gorges between the Himalayas.

When Bjornson Died.

Bjornson's son, in describing the last hours of his father, writes: "Now and then the bright flame of his humor flickered up. The doctor felt his pulse and said it was good. With his face beaming with humor he turned toward us and said, 'I am the first man to die with a good pulse.' He said one evening—and it seemed as if an old wise man was speaking with the weight of experience, 'Now I could write—yes, now I could write, for I have been in the realms of death and have felt the pain that attends death.' And when all of us thought that the indifference of death was upon him—my mother, who always gave him his food, which he would receive only from her, stood at the bedside with a brooch on her breast which she had worn at her confirmation—then he opened his eyes and looked at her. He smiled, lifted his hand and touched the brooch. This was the last sign to the outer world he was able to give."

A Cold Ride.

All through his life Senator Dolliver of Iowa had a horror of fast trains and possible railroad wrecks. Once he was on a train with Vice President Fairbanks.

Dolliver awoke in the middle of the night, and it seemed to him that the train was going at terrific speed. He climbed out of his berth and, arrayed only in his pajamas, started down the length of the train to find the conductor and ask him to order the train run at less speed. It was a cold night, but the senator did not mind that until the door of his car snapped shut and locked behind him and he found that the door of the next coach was also locked. He rode sixty-five miles locked out in the cold of the vestibule before he could wake up anybody to let him in. Mr. Fairbanks finally heard his cries for help and rescued him.—New York Tribune.

A Friend From the Cradle.

Alluding to the accidents of birth, Lord Warwick told an amusing story recently. Some years ago when he was connected with the Warwickshire Yeomanry, and drilling his men on the common, a man in very poor circumstances and indifferent health came up and said, "Good morning, colonel; I knew you very well, my lord." The peer answered that he did not remember the man, whereupon the latter rejoined, "My lord, I am the baby that you were vaccinated from."

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

A Perfect Food Good for all Ages

Its nutritive qualities and ease of assimilation makes it more wholesome than meat or eggs—besides it is much cheaper. Serve it regularly and note how the health of the whole family will improve.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 28.—There was but some widening of the discount on May wheat, that option to-day for the second time within 24 hours broke this year's low price record. Closing figures were easy, ¼c to ⅛c to ⅜c to ½c under last night. Corn finished ⅛c up to a shade down; oats at an advance of a sixteenth to ⅛c to ¼c, and hog products showing 7½c to 27½c to 30c decline.

Liverpool closed ½d to ⅝d higher on wheat, and ½d higher on corn. Antwerp, ⅝c lower, and Berlin wheat ½c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, March 28.—There was some demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, but, as bids were 1d lower, no business was worked. The enquiry from European sources for oats is good, but exporters in some cases claim that they cannot be bought in the west and laid down here afloat, May, within one cent per bushel of the prices bid. Round lots sold on spot to-day at 34½c for No. 2 Canadian western, afloat, May, and it is reported that 1,500,000 bushels have been sold for export from here this summer. The local trade is quiet. The demand from foreign buyers for spring wheat flour was fair, and sales of several round lots were made, but the local trade continues quiet. Eggs are active and steady. Supplies of potatoes are becoming scarce, and the market is strong at 90c per bag in car lots.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 35½c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 35c; No. 1 C.W., 37½c; No. 2 local white, 35½c; No. 3 local white, 35½c; No. 4 local white, 34½c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.60; seconds, $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.50; strong bakers', $4.90; straight rollers, $4 to $4.25; in bags, $1.75 to $1.85.

Rolled oats—Per barrel, $3.90; bag of 90 lbs., $1.85.

Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, 80c to 80½c.

Leves Investigation.

Toronto, March 29.—Ten public school principals told Judge Winchester yesterday that they had been solicited either by Chairman Levee of the Board of Education, or his agent, to buy stock in the Slocum Medicine Co., of which Mr. Levee is president and general manager. Five of them did subscribe to some shares and five refused, they said they had done so quite voluntarily, the majority of them going down to the office of the Slocum Medicine Co.

Inspector E. W. Bruce, also told of having subscribed to some shares at Mr. Levee's suggestion, but he said he was not urged, and had been a personal friend of Mr. Levee for a number of years.

Arbitration With France.

London, March 29.—The Government was asked in the House of Commons yesterday if the Governments of the United States and France were negotiating a treaty of arbitration, and if the Foreign Secretary would approach the French Government with similar proposals.

Sir Edward Grey said he had no information.

Lake Navigation Open.

Colchester, Ont., March 29.—Navigation can now be considered open. The City of Detroit passed down on her first trip to Cleveland on Monday afternoon. No ice is in sight here. The Colchester reef light was displayed Monday night for the first time this season.

Black Hand Outrage.

Chicago, March 29.—A Black Hand bomb early yesterday wrecked the front of the saloon of Sotto Santo, within a stone's throw of the 22nd street police station. The perpetrators escaped. Santo and his family escaped injury. The explosion followed close on the heels of the finding of the body of an unidentified Sicilian in a prairie at 90th and Yates avenue.

60th Ballot Without Result.

Albany, N.Y., March 29.—The 60th joint ballot for U. S. Senator to succeed Senator Depew, yesterday showed no substantial departure from the vote of Monday night's caucus so far as the ninety Democrats who entered the caucus were concerned.

DESCENDANT OF HERO.

Colonel Fitzgibbon Ancestor of Farmers' Bank Accountant.

Those who have followed the downfall of the Farmers' Bank will remember that the beginning of the end was certain litigation before the High Court sitting at Lindsay, Ont., in which three former employes of the bank were prosecuted for conspiracy, but who were honorably acquitted.

In those proceedings, and in the later one, a principal witness was the chief accountant of the bank, named Fitzgibbon. The presiding judge complimented him upon the transparent candor and unquestionable honesty of his testimony. The witness, said the judge, ought to be an honest man from the fact that his forebear was the hero of Beaver Dam, who, with Laura Secord, ought to be held in the highest honor. That generous reference by Mr. Justice Harding recalls two remarkable and very important events in Canadian history, and one of the most interesting characters of which that history contains an account.

The victory at Beaver Dam that made Colonel Fitzgibbon famous, is too well-known to need recital here, and the memory of that remarkable affair has been renewed by sketches of Laura Secord published during the past few months. It will be remembered that, in the early summer of 1813, the Americans were in possession of Fort George, situated at the mouth of the Niagara River on the Canadian side. An advance was made towards Hamilton, but it was checked by the night attack at Stoney Creek in which 1,400 Americans were defeated by 800 British-Canadian troops, who captured two generals, four cannon, and 120 men. The American advance party then fell back towards the Niagara River.

Shortly after that victory a British outpost on this frontier was a stone house at Beaver Dam, about 17 miles west of Fort George, held by Fitzgibbon and forty-seven men reinforced by a number of Indians, the entire force of regulars, militiamen and Indians making all told 320. Laura Secord, whose maiden name was Ingersoll, and whose husband was then lying wounded in his home at Queenston, hearing that the Americans intended to surprise Fitzgibbon, tramped at night alone through the forest to warn Fitzgibbon of the impending attack. The warning was turned to good account. The Americans were surrounded, and so confused did they become in the wilderness that they surrendered to a force very much smaller than their own. The heroine of Beaver Dam was Laura Secord, but great credit is due Fitzgibbon for the manner in which he made use of the information carried to him by the brave woman, for the resourcefulness displayed in meeting the crisis, and for the courage and dash with which he carried out his plan, and whose successful issue made Beaver Dam one of the most brilliant events of the war.

Sure of His Planks.

The late Sir John A. Macdonald, as all the world knows, rejoiced in a ready wit, and the following anecdote, which has not yet found its way into print, is typical:

In the old "N.P." days a hot campaign was being waged in Prince Edward County, and Sir John had been brought up to speak at a gathering in one of the western townships where the Grit candidate seemed to be getting too influential. Crowds were out to hear the Old Chieftain, and the extemporized platform groaned beneath the weight of more or less influential specimens of rural humanity.

As the speech wore on some of those in the audience nearest the platform noticed that the section of it, whereon Sir John stood, was getting shaky and motioned anxiously to him to come down. With a gay laugh, however, Sir John stepped nimbly to one end, calling out, "It's all right, gentlemen. Everything's solid where I stand."

It is needless to say that the quick fearlessness and the delicate hint of the solidity of the planks in his political platform, won him many votes.

Didn't Wait for Question.

One of the best of the quietly humorous situations not yet on record concerns a painter and several young men of a Toronto life insurance office.

Squatted on the floor, the painter was doing a little graining on a partition at the rear of the office. "Is that varnish you're putting on?" asked a clerk who had strolled away from work for a while. "No," said the painter, "this is a special preparation we use for this kind of work."

A couple more clerks happened along and, strange to say, one of them asked just the same question. The painter smiled and repeated his answer.

Soon there came along the office "junior," a bright lad who still wore short trousers. The youngster looked on with deep interest but made no remark. The painter, however, caused quite a laugh by looking up into the boy's face and saying, "This isn't varnish I'm putting on here; it's a special preparation we use for this kind of work."

Fixing the Line.

The fourth report of the Alaska Boundary Commission, which is signed on behalf of Canada by W. F. King, and on behalf of the United States by O. H. Tittman, states that boundary work has been completed between Mahaffey Ridge and the Yukon River. A line was traced from a point 40 miles north of the Yukon River, the terminus of last year's work, to a point about ten miles north of the crossing of the Porcupine River, 157 miles of line projecting wadose. The distance monumented was 146 miles, and the number of monuments placed 46.

Dicing for Legacy.

In accordance with a custom 215 years old, two maidservants threw dice at Guildford, England, recently for the "maid's money," $485, bequeathed by a former burgess. They had twice before one threw nine to her opponent's six.

Beer On the Wane.

Since 1900 the production of beer in the United Kingdom has been decreasing, and is now about 33,000,000 standard barrels annually.

What the KLENZINE MAID told the Policeman

"Good morning, Mary, I notice you must have the old standby."

KLENZINE MAID—"Well, really Officer, just feel my hands, how nice and soft Klenzine keeps them. Besides I can get through my work in half the time and everything looks so bright and clean. I wish you would tell Nellie Clancy about it. She thinks her work is so hard—I am sure she has never used KLENZINE."

MOODY'S KLENZINE banishes drudgery—makes housework a pleasure. For washing dishes, cleaning windows, or for Laundry Work it is unequalled.

A valuable disinfectant—keeps the kitchen, pantry and bathroom clean, sweet, and free from germs.

A SKILFUL ARCHITECT.

When it comes to ingenuity in construction and system in domestic arrangements the beaver, master builder that he is, can give the little Canadian muskrat few pointers. In building its house the muskrat selects a spot on the low marsh land that will be flooded at high tide or high water of non-tidal margins. The animal tunnels from the bank of the stream or lagoon or pond, as the case may be, beginning below the edge of the water mark, to the site it has selected for its home.

These preliminaries completed, the muskrat cuts with its chisel-like teeth the broad, strong stalks and leaves of the flag and long, coarse grass. These materials the busy little builder carries to the building site, where it braids and twists them together in circular form and builds them layer upon layer, gradually narrowing the structure until a firm, cone shaped house is the result. This is further strengthened and made comfortable by a liberal mixture of mortar made by the muskrat out of the marsh mud.

The interior of a muskrat's house is always divided into two floors or stories. Sometimes it will have as many as four apartments one above the other. The number is believed to be regulated by the expected height of the water. Access to them from below is by a chamber or gallery built around the inner edge of the house and rising like a spiral stairway. The muskrat expects and wants the ground floor of its house to be flooded, but there must always be a dry, warm room at the top. The interior is lined with a sheathing of dry grasses and leaves. The only entrance and exit to the house is the subterranean passage from the bank of the water, the ground floor being on a level with that tunnel.

William Sora Middlebro.

After the votes were counted at the last general elections, among the gains to be found in the Conservative column was North Grey. The turnover in a riding which had gone consistently Liberal by large majorities since 1896, was due entirely to the good campaign of William Sora Middlebro, a barrister-at-law at Owen Sound. Since he entered Parliament Mr. Middlebro has forged his way rapidly to the front and this session he was called upon by his leader and colleagues to fill the position of Opposition whip for Ontario. A forceful debater, with the ability of thinking clearly and rapidly while on his feet, Mr. Middlebro is easily a leader of the group of younger Conservatives who came to strengthen the old fighting line of Oppositionists at the last appeal to the country. He has a head which closely resembles in its contour that on which reposes the saucy black derby of Sir Alan Aylesworth. The Aylesworth head, with its long bald stretch, and massive forehead, is as familiar to those who frequent the precincts as the clock in the main tower. It seems to be built in a series of layers. But his fame does not rest on that alone. The member for North Grey is always in the thick of the fray, and his oratorical repertoire contains many a slashing uppercut.—The Mace in Saturday Night.

Canada's Trade.

Canada's trade for the first ten months of the current fiscal year totalled $634,431,075, an increase of $70,144,205 over the corresponding ten months of 1909-10.

Exports of domestic products totalled $238,207,285, a decrease of $6,767,954. Exports of foreign products were $19,043,370, a decrease of $1,819,054.

Fire Raged for Four Hours This Morning, Doing Immense Damage—The Building Cost Twenty-Seven Million Dollars.

TWO WERE KILLED

Special Wire to The Examiner.

ALBANY, N.Y., MARCH 29.—Two men missing, thousands of unreplaceable documents destroyed, and general damage to the extent of eight million dollars were the results of a fire which broke out at two o'clock this morning in the twenty-seven million dollar capitol building of N. Y. state here. It raged around the galleries, corridors and marble pillars of the stately building, but at eight o'clock seemed to be well under control of the fire fighters. The cause is supposed to have been defective push button wiring. The famous million dollar staircase in the west wing was destroyed as well as the celebrated papier mache imitation oak ceiling. The missing men were employees who slept in the building.

ALBANY, N.Y., MARCH 29. — The fire broke out afresh in the capitol building about eleven o'clock and in entering to extinguish the flames several firemen were severly injured by falling debris. The ruins are likely to smoulder for days.

SKEPTICS BEING CONVERTED DAILY.

For years it has required from 8 to 10 months. The Syl-la-bic System as being daily demonstrated at the Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street, Toronto, qualifies first-class stenographers after only 25 to 35 days' study. This means one-fifth of the time, or even less, and but one-half the fee, and enables the student to earn salary from 4 to 8 months' earlier than under any other system. A very cordial invitation is extended to any interested to thoroughly investigate the 30-day Shorthand at the Moon College, 282-286 Yonge street.

GOOD POSITION

Mr. Chris. Hughes Will be Assistant Manager of London Branch

Mr. Chris. Hughes, who has been in the employ of the local branch of Grafton and Company for eight years left to-day for London, where he will be assistant manager of the firm's branch in that city. His many friends in Peterborough will be glad to learn of his promotion and will wish him every success in his new and responsible position. He will spend a day in Toronto en route and will also visit the company's factory at Dundas. Before leaving he was presented with a handsome travelling bag by the employees of the local store.

COVERED WITH ECZEMA

Cured By Two Bottles D. D. D.

On March 21st, 1910, Mr. Angus McMillan, of Port Hood, N.S., wrote us:

"My little boy three years old was covered from head to foot with eczema. I tried over twenty different kinds of salves and washes but could not see any improvement—in fact it seemed to be getting worse.

I was about discouraged and had lost faith in all kinds of so-called eczema cures, when I saw an ad. telling about D. D. D. Prescription. I sent for sample bottle and the third application convinced me that I had at last got a sure cure. Two bottles effected a complete cure."

What D.D.D. did for this little boy, it will do for any skin sufferer. A mild, soothing liquid made up of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine and other ingredients, it penetrates to the root of the trouble and washes the disease germs out.

Why not get relief? Simply write to-day to the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. P E., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and they will send you a free trial bottle.

GOOD-BYE TO BEAUTY

It is good bye to beauty when kidney derangements set in. The skin becomes hard and dry and the form wastes away and becomes emaciated. One cannot be too watchful and the safest way is to keep the kidneys as well as the liver and bowels, healthy and active by the use of Dr Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This ensures pure blood and a healthy digestive system.

A WARSAW MAN MAKES FIND OF A STRANGE STONE

WARSAW, MARCH 29.—Mr. Fred Calder made considerable of a "find" in the woods near here the other day, when he ran across what he believes to be an aerolite, or meteoric stone. Mr. Calder's attention was attracted to the spot by an apparently freshly-made cavity in the ground, which, after examination was found to be about four and one-half feet in depth by three feet in length and one foot in width, and contained, what is thought to be the meteor.

The aerolite is in composition a dark, almost black material streaked with litish shades, and has the appearance of having been heated through, as some parts are quite rough with jagged edges. The curiosity will be brought to the village shortly, where it may be inspected at the home of Mr. Calder.

HILLIARD LANG TO BOX LANNON HERE

Peterborough Athletic Club Has Arranged a Grand Programme for Friday Night, April 7th---Ted Compton, Tommy Sturch and Other Good Ones are Coming.

One of the finest athletic events ever pulled off in Peterborough has been arranged by Manager Billy Breen of the Peterborough Athletic Club in the matching of Hilliard Lang of Toronto, the most talked of boxer in Canada to-day, and Joe Lannon of Syracuse, to appear here on April 7th in a six round boxing contest and not overdone. He also has arranged a 5 round bout between G. Moore, the Canadian featherweight champion, who won his last bout so decisively at Toronto a couple of weeks ago, and Tommy Sturch who boxed Willie Hurley of England ,in an eight round draw lately. Two other bouts also have been arranged between Fred Compton, ex-amateur lightweight champion and Ted Picton who ran him a close second for the championship last fall. One of the warmest bouts will be between Wack— Walton, of Hamilton and Jim Peters, Toronto. These two are clever little fellows, who keep going every step of the way.

All in all, no better and more evenly matched exponents of the manly game have ever appeared in Canada. Manager Breen expects special trains from outlaying districts. The contests will take place at the Grand Opera House Friday, April the 7th.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY FOR CHICAGO NOW

A Chicago paper, sent to the Examiner by Mr. Percy Rubidge, the well-known Peterborough lacrosse player, who is now a resident of the Windy City, contains the following interesting article:

Plans are now under way for the formation of a professional hockey league, either international or American, and it was made known officially yesterday by Charles H. Hermann, a director of the Ice Palace, that Chicago was certain to be one of the representatives. The rapid growth of the game in this country has been phenomenal and the rink owners throughout America are arranging to put the Canadian sport on the same basis in the winter as baseball is in the summer.

The interest manifested in hockey in Chicago during the past winter inspired the local promoters to start the movement of organizing a hockey league. Communications were sent to the leading cities where rinks are in operation and it has been decided to hold a meeting in Chicago some time in April to complete the league.

According to Hermann the plans are to organize an international league with four cities in America and four in Canada. This all depends upon the Canadians and their definite reply is expected to come within the next few days. If the northerners are unable to go through with the demands made, then a league in this country called the United States Professional Hockey League will be formed with six cities.

World Series is Planned.

If separate circuits are organized it will be with the understanding that at the end of the season a series to determine the championship of the world, just as in baseball, will be played. The American flag winners will be pitted against the Canadian pennant holders and the rules and laws will be on the same order as now on the National and American baseball leagues, with a superior body, as the national commission, to govern both leagues.

The cities in America which are certain to be entered are Chicago, Pittsburg, New York and Boston. Brooklyn and Philadelphia have yet to see the sport, but W. T. Richardson, owner of the Boston rink, has written Hermann that he will build plants in Philadelphia and Brooklyn and the league can count on having those towns represented. St. Paul and Minneapolis are anxious to come in and they will be considered.

The recent invasion of the United States by Canadian teams has been responsible for the advancement of hockey in these parts. The Ottawaholders of the Stanley Cup, the recognized championship prize in Canada met the Wanderers of Montreal in a two-game series in New York last week, and, according to P. J. Stowe, Jr., owner of the St. Nicholas rink, drew over 15,000 in the two nights' play.

Will Try For Canadian Players.

The hunt of hockey in this country in the past has been either amateur or of the collegiate style, but the entrance of the game professionally will bring about a new formation.

There will be but one slight drawback and that is securing players. It will be up to the promoters to invade Canada and coax the stars to this side. The ability of the Canucks was proven right here in Chicago, when the local stars were pitted against the Berlins and were completely outclassed.

With the meeting of the hockeyites in Chicago next month the present slight hitches will be smothered over. The schedule probably will start about November 1, and run until March 15, with the championship series to be played at the conclusion of the league's schedules.

Morris Won by "K. O." Route

SAPULPA, OKLA., MARCH 28. — Carl Morris, the Oklahoma "white hope," climbed a step nearer the pugilistic heavyweight championship here this afternoon by knocking out Mike Shreck, of Cincinnati in the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen round bout.

A hard right hook to Shreck's jaw after the sixth round had gone one minute and two seconds ended the battle. The Cincinnati man fell heavily to the canvas and was counted out by Referee Cochrane.

There was never a moment after the first round was a minute old that the result was in doubt. Morris completely outclassed his opponent, rushed him about the ring at will and landed almost as he pleased. He showed in his fight that he could battle with both hands. Heretofore his work with his left hand had been slow. Shreck made a poor showing. He landed less than a half dozen clean blows. None of them carried force enough to cause the Oklahoma "hope" any great worry.

It was a noisy audience of 12,000 that awaited the beginning of the fight. Hundreds of cowboys, dressed in the garb of the plains, occupied the inside seats. There being no ban placed on noise they frequently gave way to their enthusiasm, whistling and yelling as loud as they could. Several Indians were in the crowd. Morris himself is a part Cherokee and he has many faithful friends among the redmen. Hundreds of railroad workers who knew Morris when he was an engineer, and had not thought of his becoming an aspirant for the crown of Champion Jack Johnson mingled with the ringside throng.

DDenies The Story

Special Wire to the Examiner.

TORONTO, MARCH 29.—Nobody here will consider the idea that Hon. Clifford Sifton could possibly get the Conservative leadership, even were he willing to take it. He has given a flat denial to the story, characterising it as silly.

BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

"My baby boy while nursing broke out with running, watery sores all over his head and behind his ears," writes Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask. "Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered untold agony from the dreadful itching. Dr. Chase's Ointment soon made a lasting cure, and also cured an older son of eczema."

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mahood celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home, Maple Lane, Smith Township, yesterday, March 28th. The occasion was marked by a gathering of relatives and friends, and the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Mahood of two very handsome Mission easy chairs, accompanied by a suitable address from the members of the family. Mrs. Crossley, their daughter, read the address, while the presentation was made by their two sons. About twenty-five people were present and the event was most enjoyable. A delightful supper was served during the evening and Mr. and Mrs. Mahood were overwhelmed with congratulations. Mr. Mahood made a suitable reply.

Public Library Boards should be sure to send their Librarian to this library meeting. It is too good to miss

THE SPRING FRESHET

The spring freshet has already commenced to flow in the Otonabee. Much of the winters' ice has disappeared, and there is now abundance of water for power and the river looks better. One day's sun did not do it, but day after day, mild weather has had its effect. The process has been much the same as some business deals. A transaction that involves an amount of money to be paid in the future with interest accumulating, might be compared to the ice-bound river, but when there is no interest charged, every payment reduces the principal, the full amount paid, and is like a good warm period melting the ice, quickly clearing it away. The no-interest clause on the Carroll Piano Club agreement means more than one might think, and there are other features just as attractive. Any information will be gladly given at 372 Water street. BORDEN SAID TO BE DETERMINED TO STEP OUT OF LEADERSHIP

This is Admitted by the Rank and File of the Conservative Party---Does Not Want to Participate in Annexation Talk---A Final Appeal to Him This Afternoon.

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, MARCH 29.—Although all who attended the caucus of the Conservatives last night are seemingly pledged to secrecy, it is admitted by the rank and file of the party here this morning that Mr. R. L. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, plainly and determinedly intimated to his followers shortly after midnight that he desired to step out of the leadership. Just what is the trouble is not stated, but it is intimated that Borden is prepared to fight reciprocity on the basis of national economy, but will not participate in annexation talk. It is understood that the meeting broke up with Mr. Borden persistent in his resignation, but a final appeal will be made to him this afternoon by a strong representation from all the provinces to keep the leadership in the present crisis. There are said to be six influential Conservative members, who have irreconcilably stated they will continue no longer under his leadership.

LADIES' HATS SUBJECT OF A HEATED DEBATE

Peterborough, March 25th, 1911.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Mainster Editor.—Friday last, the 24th being the first annual meeting of the independent, never-to-be-forgotten, nameless debating society, and your humble servant being secretary, I wis ordered tae tak doon the notes and send them on tae you post haste. The subject for debate was, 'woman's hats.' Really it was a grand affair. Mainster Sandy McNab said he thought the hats they were wearing nowadays were far too sma'. They should be at least an inch bigger, as there was a wee bit o' the chin no jist covered. Donald Macdonald said they were na sae bad ava, only he saw a rose rinning away at the sight o' a bee hive hat. Then Angus Macerae jumped up and said that there was nathing he liked tae see better than a merry widow hat, it was sae becoming on a spinster, when Alister Macalister flew up, and thumping me on the back said it was the merry widow he licked tae see best without the hat, but the crooning time cam when our worthy chairman, amidst thundering applause, closed the meeting reading the following line:

P.S.—Mainster Anderson will please give you the Scotch grammar for this and oblige the above debating society.

SEVERAL CASES TRIED IN POLICE COURT TO-DAY

Five youths were arraigned in the Police Court this morning on a charge of being disorderly around the premises of Mrs. Parks, who keeps a small store on Rubidge street.

Mrs. Parks, the plaintiff, alleged that the boys had been annoying her for some time back by sitting on the window sill, using offensive language and making themselves a public nuisance, all of which was detrimental to her business.

They were discharged with a warning.

Michael Murphy, a blacklister, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly on March 22nd, was fined $10. He was unable to give any definite account as to where, or by what means he had procured the liquor.

Wm. Foster pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place on the 21st of March. Asked by His Worship as to what his future intentions were, he said that he intended going out to the North West, as soon as circumstances would permit.

He was allowed to go.

The Boxing Preacher

Toronto Star: Rev. J. D. Morrow, the athletic pastor of the partially constructed Dale church, better known as the "athletes' church," is an advocate of boxing. He says: "People say boxing doesn't develop the best side of a man's nature, but it does. It helps him to control his temper, to think of the other man's feelings, to build up his character, and to get rid of his surplus energy. And remember if a young fellow doesn't work off that extra bit of energy in a sane, honest way, he will do it by undesirable means to the detriment of his morality and his manhood. It is so; I know it."

"Reverend Jay Dee," as the athletes call him, can "go some" himself. He bumps into some pretty rough customers in his work, and he won't stand any nonsense. If he thinks that a whaling is what a man deserves and that it is coming to him, he hasn't the slightest bit of hesitancy in handing it to them. As he says: "If a man goes to jail he is where I can't reach him. If he goes to the hospital I can talk sense into him."

Rev. Mr. Morrow's methods and ideas sometimes shock the more staid ministers and leaders of his church, but he is the idol of the boys around town, and is a wonderful factor in the uplifting of a class that ordinary churches and pastors do not, or cannot reach.

Wolgast's Next Fight

San Francisco, March 28. "How long do I think it will take to defeat La Grave? Well, that is a proposition I do not care to speculate upon. The fight may go the full twenty rounds and again it may end before the halfway mark is reached. La Grave is a sturdy, tough boy, and while I am confident of victory I look to see him put up a good fight."

Thus declared Ad Wolgast, champion lightweight pugilist of the world, at the close of his day's work at the Seal Rock gymnasium. He meets La Grave Friday night.

La Grave showed no signs of a letup in his daily routine at Shannon's place in San Rafael. The Butchertown lad, according to the wise ones, is having considerable trouble in getting down to weight and there is somefear that the strenuous process may weaken him. Last night La Grave jumped on the scales and balanced them at 136 3-4 pounds. He declared later that the scale was out of balance and weighed fully a pound and a half too much. Stakeholder Clark is not entirely satisfied with the statement and will visit Shannon's tomorrow an dinsist that Anton submit to a test on regulated scales.

There is little or no betting on the fight. Wolgast's followers are willing to give substantial odds, but up to date no La Grave money has been produced.

WEDDING BELLS

MILLARD—PRESTON.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning, March 29th, at 9 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Preston, Grayrel Road, North Monaghan, when their eldest daughter, Miss Eva M., was married to Mr. Henry T. Millard, of Peterborough. Rev. Dr. Marsh, pastor of Springville Presbyterian church, officiated.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs Millard took their departure for Niagara, Buffalo and points west.

PERJURY CHARGE

APPEARS ON FRIDAY

The case of Innis, vs. the Village of Havelock, which has been prominent before newspaper readers for some time, promises to furnish some more interesting developments before the last is heard of this cause celebre.

The latest move has been made by Mrs. Maud Innis, the plaintiff in the case, who has laid an information against Frederick Bennett, the Village Constable of Havelock, charging him with perjury in connection with the action for damages, which Mrs. Innis brought against the Village for injuries she claimed to have received through a defective sidewalk.

The case was tried at Peterborough and was decided against the plaintiff. Mrs. Innis, however, appealed on the ground that Bennet had given false evidence, and the appeal was dismissed.

Now, Mrs. Innis has laid a charge of perjury against the Constable who appears before Police Magistrate Edmison at Havelock, on Friday at 10 a.m.

High County Constable Cochrane was in Havelock yesterday serving subpoenas on the different witnesses involved in the case.

"SENTINEL'S" PLEA

In Regard to Papal Decree Concerning Mixed Marriages

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, MARCH 29.—The Orange Sentinel is out to-day with an appeal to the Roman Catholic laity to resist the enforcement of the "Unjust and tyranical" Papal decree regarding mixed marriages, as their fellow churchmen in Germany and Hungary and other European countries have done. The Sentinel gives the opinion that the best and most intelligent of the Roman Catholic laity of Canada are bitterly opposed to the decree.

ATTENDED MEETING

Rev. Dr. Marsh and Messrs. T. A. S. Hay and H. O. Fisk of the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society have returned from Brighton, where they attended a special meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. The event was a great success in every way. Mr. T. A. S. Hay occupied the chair and was introduced by Rev. Mr. McCleod, the pastor of the Brighton Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. Marsh gave a very instructive and entertaining address upon "An Introduction to the Study of Astronomy," illustrated by slides from a lantern operated by Mr. Fisk.

The representatives of the local society were royally entertained by the people of Brighton and enjoyed their visit greatly.

FRUITS OF EXPEDIENCY.

Montreal is the chief centre of the annexation plot propoganda, which contains the seeds of national disruption. It is quite logical that the Montreal conspiriators, having scented failure of their annexation plot, should direct their energies elsewhere. It is stated that Montreal is the centre of a plot to wreck the Conservative party by creating dissension, beginning with knifing Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition. The Montreal scheme, from the standpoint of the plotters, promises well. If a new leader is selected - doubtless more unscrupulous and practical than Mr. Borden—the assurance is given that a mammoth campaign fund would be provided, a systematic crusade to capture Quebec would be put on; but if Mr. Borden were retained no money would be forthcoming. The trouble seems to be to get a new leader, who in the present disorganized condition of the Conservative party, will undertake the truly herculean work of bringing order out of chaos. Mr. Borden has himself largely to blame. A policy or lack of policy, founded on expediency, instead of principle, leads nowhere, but to trouble. He has been too much influenced by the idea of making party capital for the moment. His stand on the naval question was more parochial than patriotic, and his failure to take the patriotic stand against the Empire-wrecking campaign of the so-called "Nationalists," showed that he was dominated more by party considerations than patriotism. His stand and that of his party on the reciprocity agreement, is, without speaking disrespectfully, more demagogic than statesmen-like. The only place where there is a certainty of finding Mr. Borden and his followers, is on a policy of opposition to the government with an eye on the goal of office. Mr. Borden's position is a difficult one. He is in opposition to a government whose policy is so large and comprehensive that little excuse for displacing—little unoccupied room stands—it is to be found; a government whose administration is so manifestly in the national interests, that a change does not commend itself to the popular sentiment or judgment. Then Mr Borden's following is not of the most loyal character, it contains too many men carrying an axe and looking for a grindstone. All this is apparent on the surface, but there are doubtless other causes at work which do not meet the public eye. Expediency as a party policy does not pay, its fruits are what we see.

A VALUABLE FARM CROP.

The popular prejudice against scientific farming—"book farming" as it is sneeringly called—is rapidly dying, if it is not absolutely dead. The farmer who plods along in the same old rut, is hopelessly behind in the race. Science and farming go well together. Science is simply knowledge—knowledge of the principles that undrlie and affect successful cultivation of the soil. Many agencies have combined to place this science, or knowledge, within reach of the farmer. Our Governments by the agricultural colleges and experimental farms, and allied provisions, have brought the farmer to the light, or the light to the farmer. Farm journals have done a most important work in spreading the knowledge thus made available by scientific research and experiment. One of the most important and practical of these journals is "The Farm and Dairy," published in Peterborough. It has begun a crusade in the interests of the growth of alfalfa, a very valuable and absolutely sure crop except under the most exceptional conditions. In the issue of March 23rd, appears the first of a series of articles on alfalfa cultivation by Mr George Marsh of this city. This article will be found reproduced in the current issue of the Weekly Examiner, and should, as well as the succeeding articles, which will be similarly reproduced, be read with the greatest care, as we are sure they will be done, with the greatest interest, by the farmers of this country. The value and importance of alfalfa to the farmer is well suggested by the opening sentences of Mr. Marsh's articles, to the effect that the Ontario farmer cannot afford to farm without growing alfalfa. He instances the fact that bran sells for $20 to $25 per ton; that a ton of alfalfa is of practically equal in feeding value; that there is much Ontario land that grow four or five tons of alfalfa, so that the money value of the crop for feeding purposes, is from $80 to $125 per acre. This is not the place, if the ability were available, to discuss the subject of alfalfa. Mr. Marsh's articles and other sources of information open to the farmer, will give ample information. Alfalfa, or lucern (botanically medicago sativa) is, like the legumes, what is called an "air-feeder"—it appropriates from the atmosphere one of the most important plant elements—nitrogen; and, therefore, does not exhaust soil fertility, but, on the contrary, in this respect adds to it. Alfalfa is a permanent crop. There are fields of alfalfa in California 300 years old, and in other parts of the continent "stands" of alfalfa from 25 to 100 years old. Deep-rooted, alfalfa is not seriously affected by dry seasons. Altogether it seems that there are several cardinal points in favour of the farmers of Peterborough County growing alfalfa. It is a profitable crop; it is a sure crop, comparatively independent of weather conditions; it produces prolifically; it has a high feeding value; it draws lightly upon, and therefore does not exhaust, the soil—in a word it is the most valuable crop for growth in a dairying and stock-raising district like Peterborough. Farmers are urged to study the subject of alfalfa, by following and reading Mr Marsh's articles, as well as the testimony of enterprising Peterborough farmers, who have successfully experimented with alfalfa.

COMPARISONS IN HOG PRICES.

(Farmers Sun)

It is admitted by opponents of reciprocity that hog prices during 1910 were higher in Buffalo than they were in Toronto. Such admission is unavoidable in the face of easily ascertained facts. Sun market reports tell us that in every month of last year Buffalo quotations were above the Toronto level, the difference in favour of the former ranging from 10c to $1.55 per cwt.

Opponents of freer trade between kindred communities contend, however, that if we go further back a different state of affairs will be found to exist. This is in a measure, true. The Sun has compiled Buffalo and Toronto hog market figures for each one of the seven years from 1904 to 1910 inclusive. In preparing this statement the top quotations in both cities were taken in the middle of each month of each year. The result shows that in three years the Buffalo quotation was the higher of the two, that in three Toronto was higher; that in one both were the same and that on the average of the whole prices were slightly higher in Buffalo.

The advantage in favour of Buffalo is really greater than would appear from this statement because coarse hogs and over-fats, which make up a large proportion of the total arrivals in both cases, almost invariably bring a much higher price in Buffalo than they do here. For example, last week heavy hogs here were $6.65 against $7.10 in Buffalo; stags $2.50 to $3.00 as compared with $4.75 to $5.00, and sows $4.65 here and $7 to $7.50 in Buffalo. Here was a difference of 45c to $2.85 per cwt. in favour of Buffalo in the case of inferior hogs, while the difference between our selects and the Buffalo top was only 25c. It would be a good thing to have the American market open to our select hogs; it would be a still better thing to have it open to hogs of all classes.

THE FARMERS AND THE MANUFACTURERS.

(Toronto Star)

In his Montreal speech Mr. Fielding discussed the attitude of manufacturers toward reciprocity. He pointed out that the interests of manufacturers had been carefully guarded. President Taft had offered free trade in manufactured articles, but this offer had been declined. "We realize," Mr. Fielding said, "that the American manufacturer has a larger market, and can produce at a smaller cost than many of our manufacturers so we left manufacturers for the most part untouched. You manufacturers are disposed ot take alarm, but you have no need to fear. We are ready to stand by the manufacturer whenever he as a fair case. We have always tried to be frank and fair with you manufacturers, and you should still trust us. We have cared for your interests in the past, and we will continue to care for them in the future. There is no politics in tariff and industrial questions."

As the tariff does not, for the most part, touch manufacturers, it would surely be wise to refrain from any attempt to organize them in opposition to the farmers of Canada. The farmers are ready for reciprocity, the manufacturers are not. The agreement recognizes this difference of condition and opinion. It gives the farmer no privilege as against the rest of the community. It even removes from him any privilege which a protective tariff may confer.

Now, if the farmers are satisfied with this agreement, it would be unwise for manufacturers, whose own protection is not impaired, to organize in order to oppose the agreement. Such a course would create class feling and ill will. Mr. Fielding gave warning of the probable consequences of creating dissension between East and West.

"Suppose you organize to-day and with your money defeat this agreement. Your day of reckoning will surely come. Such an action will antagonize the West and will kindle in their breasts a feeling hostile and dangerous to Canada. The Westerners are in the minority today, but the time is not so very distant when they will control the destinies of this country. Is the West to be antagonistic or not? The answer is in the hands of you Eastern manufacturers and financiers."

This is the language, not of menace but of friendly warning. It is not an intimation of what Mr. iFelding will do, but of what the West may do when it obtains the political power which its vast extent and resources will give. When an attempt was made to prevent Manitoba from obtaining connection with the American railways, Sir John Macdonald said, "We cannot check Manitoba." So we cannot check Saskachewan. We cannot check Alberta. They will form their own judgment as to any restrictions we may impose. And they will not regard it as fair or reasonable that an offer of free access to the markets of the United States should be refused at the instance of Eastern manufacturers, whose own privileges are not affected by the agreement.

Sir James Whitney's Attitude Towards Demand For Tax Reform

(Ottawa Citizen, Conservative)

Sir James Whitney, in opposing Mr. A. E. Fripp's measure in the local legislature, calling for amendments to the Assessment act, providing for a lower tax on improvements than on land, made the curious assertion that there was practically no demand for such legislation, because no public meetings to support it had been called, nor was any conversation heard on the subject.

As regards the significance of public meetings and general conversation there may, of course, be differences of opinion, but the provincial premier must surely be aware that there has been a quite general demand for the amendments proposed by Ottawa's Conservative member in the provincial house. And the demand has come from the very backbone of the community, from the wage earners and workmen of the province. Disregarding the fact that 170 newspapers throughout the country have joined in the advancement of the movement for tax reform, and that some 250 municipalities have asked for the privilege of adopting the measure should the ratepayers ask for it, the further significant fact remains that over 200 labour unions have passed resolutions favouring such legislation. The most important trade association in Canada, the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress, at its last convention at Port Arthur endorsed the reform and sent a petition along these lines to the premier himself.

Nor is the agitation for tax reform any new development in this province. The Citizen of March 28, 1891, editorally refers to a similar effort of that period in language which exactly fits conditions to-day. Says The Citizen:

"There is a great deal of justice in the petitions now being presented to the Ontario Legislature, praying that all land held for speculative purposes be taxed to its full value. It is held by the petitioners, and with great justice on their side, that land in and around cities is made abnormally dear by parties, who have no use for it, purchasing and holding it for fancy prices. The result of this is the crowding of the poorer classes into unhealthy buildings, the great expansion of the area of cities, while large blocks remain unoccupied, and the enormously increased expense of lighting, draining, paving and policing a city so extended. The petitioners also urge that were all vacant lands and lots taxed to the full value for which they are held by the owners sales would soon lessen the number of unimproved city lots, while uncultivated fields in the vicinity of cities would be brought into cultivation. There is a good deal of truth in the allegations of the petitioners, and one does not want to go outside the city of Ottawa to see the evil effects of the system of holding land "for a rise." Ottawa has suffered much, and is still suffering from large blocks of land falling into the hands of parties who can afford to hold on to them for speculat purposes; and although the assessors have, in some cases, done their duty fairly well in keeping up the value of vacant lots, still there is altogether too much undervaluation of unimproved property. Ottawa is now pledged to grant very valuable privileges for getting an electric street railway to accommodate the outlying portions of the city, while there is not a street, even in the heart of the city, on which there are not vacant lots held for fancy prices. Almost every city in Canada is suffering in the same way, and it would be well if the local legislature would take this matter into serious consideration."

It is unfortunate that Premier Whitney has not seen fit to meet the wishes of a large number of ratepayers in the provnice in this matter. The advocates of tax reform however, are not discouraged, and, convinced of the ultimate triumph of the system proposed, will keep up the work of educating the people to demand an obvious measure of justice. In the support of many members of the legislature, including Hon. A. G. MacKay, who gave the bill a thoughtful endorsement, it is clear that much progress has already been made and that the demand in the provinces generally for such legislation must eventually impress itself upon the government of the day.

RISE OF "DR. TAFFY."

The Little Welshman Who Became a Court Favorite.

We all know that the parents of Queen Victoria—the Duke and Duchess of Kent—were in financial difficulties before the birth of their famous daughter, and that a succession of unexpected events brought them into great prominence. Few know the romantic happenings which occurred at the birth of the little Princess Victoria, and the part that a Welshman played then.

It is first necessary to go back some years. General Sir T. Picton—the hero of the Peninsula war, and Wellington's right-hand man at Waterloo—was a Pembrokeshire man, and was home on furlough after many years of foreign service. The grim old warrior was walking in the country roads one day, when he met a fine specimen of a country lad, clad in moleskin trousers, and with an old pair of clogs on his feet.

After some talk, the general was so taken with the boy that he asked, in his usual blunt way: "Well, my boy, whose son are you?" The boy replied promptly: "Mab Shoni'r Crydd, ser." (Johnny, the blacksmith's son, sir.) "Well, boy, what should you like to be?" "Doctor, ser." "Well, then, doctor you shall be." The old warrior kept his word, as he always did. To his credit be it said, he paid for the lad's education at Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School at Carmarthen, and sent him to one of the London hospitals, where he passed his examinations with great credit. But just at that time—by the irony of fate—Picton was killed at Waterloo, and trouble began. Without money or influence, Dr. Daniel Davies pluckily started a practice in Drury Lane and Seven Dials, at that time the worst slums in Europe. Great popularity attended him, and "Dr. Taffy" became a household word with the wretched inhabitants of this region.

Then Fortune knocked at his door, in a strange way. The Duchess of Kent's coachman's wife was given up for dead in childbirth. Someone suggested "Dr. Taffy," and in despair he was sent for. He saved her life and that of the child. Soon after the royal mistress was in a like desperate case, and the royal doctors gave up hope. The old coachman, however, saved the situation. "Send for 'Dr. Taffy,'" he said confidently; "he'll save her." The advice was acted on. Dr. Davies arrived. When he saw how matters stood with the royal patient he asked, bluntly: "Which do you want me to keep alive, the mother or the child?" The agonized duke instantly replied: "My wife." "Well," he said, deliberately, "I will keep them both alive." And he did. The little Welshman became court physician, and the baby became the great Queen Victoria. The debt the British Empire owes to that Welsh doctor can never be repaid.

Known in Every Home.

Sir William Hartley, the head of the famous British jam firm, whose system of profit-sharing is proving so beneficial to his employes, started life at the age of thirteen by helping his mother in a small grocer's shop at Colne, Lancashire, England. In three years the business had prospered to such an extent that he urged his parents to take large premises. At first they met their faces against this enterprise, but at last gave way, and in a surprisingly short time their son was employing a staff of fifty men. Then he started manufacturing jam, and soon Hartley's jam became known in every home. A deeply religious man, Sir William was the first layman for forty years to be appointed president of the Primitive Methodist Connexion. He has given thousands of pounds to the funds of his chosen religion. A short time ago he said, "Giving away the Lord's money has been my chief hobby and recreation. I try to do it on the same systematic lines that I use in business; and, in fact, to distribute my money is a harder and more anxious task than making it."

Great Men of the South of England.

The southern Englishman is constantly having the men of the north and midlands rammed down his throat as examples to himself.

But, really, among the prominent men of the present time, the south is by no means without its representatives.

Captain Scott, the great Antarctic explorer, is a Devonshire man; Sir Frederick Treves, the great surgeon, and Mr. Thomas Hardy, the novelist, are both Dorset men; Mr. H. G. Wells was born at Bromley, Kent; Sir William Dunn, who has done so much on behalf of the unfortunate depositors in the Charing Cross Bank, is a Cornishman.

Nor does London show up at all badly. Sir Vesey Strong, the Lord Mayor, was born in St. Bride's; while Sir John Wolfe Barry, the engineer, Lord Halsbury, Sir Rufus Isaacs, and Mr. John Burns are all London men.

A Good Example.

"But I go regularly," he invariably adds, "and, what's more, I get to the meeting house on time. It's part of my religion not to disturb the religion of other folks."

Strength of Bank Note.

As illustrating the excellence of the paper (which is made from unused linen scraps) upon which Bank of England notes are printed, it is stated that when one of these notes is twisted into a rope it will sustain a weight of 358 pounds.

Weight of Milk.

There are 65.4 quarts in 100 pounds of milk.

ELLIOT'S

For the Children

© 1910, by American Press Association.

MISS GLORIA GOULD.

Don't you think that a little girl of six is rather young to be interviewed by a newspaper reporter and to have her picture snapped by the camera man? Well, this experience happened recently to little Miss Gloria Gould when she was an interested spectator at a society circus given at Georgian Court, the magnificent home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, at Lakewood, N. J.

Miss Gloria was not at all scared at having the camera pointed at her; but, like many grownup people, she objected, just at first, to be photographed for publication. The picture shows what a charming little girl she is in her play clothes.

This little lady, who some day will have a splendid big coming out party like those of her older sisters, was very much broken up the day this picture was taken over the sudden death of her pet dog, Buster Brown, which was her constant companion and the family pet. Miss Gloria and the fortunate Buster used to have many a fine romp on the lawns at Georgian Court, and the small heiress felt very much aggrieved that her comrade had quit her companionship for that of the other doggies in dog heaven.

Fox and Hounds.

The boys and girls in the school at Monticello, N. Y., might have thought that they were having an object lesson in the game of fox and hounds when a wild fox ran into the schoolroom with two dogs in close pursuit. It was not really an object lesson. No teacher would make so much excitement over the teaching of any one subject. The excitement was great enough at first, but as the fox and the dogs circled the room the little girls climbed up on the desks and screamed and the little boys helped the dogs chase the fox. The hunted beast finally found refuge under the teacher's desk, where he snarled at the dogs and the children and kept them at bay. He would not let any one touch him, but at last one of the boys succeeded in putting a noose over his head. The boys tried to get him out alive, but he struggled so hard that he choked to death.

Ships' Eyes.

In the olden days, when the science of navigation was not as well understood as now, it was the custom to carve in the bows of ships a pair of large eyes, with the notion that they would watch the dangers of the deep and avoid catastrophes. Faith in such an idea has long been dead, but the eyes are still to be seen on ships. Through them pass the anchor chains when the ship is safe in port, and thus, though useless in the days of the old fancy, they fill a good purpose now.

The Rejected Valentine.

Sambo went a-courtin'
Of Miss 'Phelia Green.
'Phelia was the handsom'st
Gal he'd ever seen.

Sambo with his banjo
Stopped to play a tune
'Neath Miss 'Phelia's window
In the light o' the moon.

Played he there so softly,
Sang he song of love;
Then all of a sudden
Cried voice from above:

"What you want dar, nigguh?
Stop dat noise, I say!
Why are you hangin'
Roun' heah anyway?"

Sambo, sort of frightened,
Lifted up his eye,
Saw Miss 'Phelia's mammy,
Thought that he should die!

Vain he tried to answer,
He couldn't speak at all,
So he leaned in anguish
Per strength against the wall.

"Git you off!" cried mammy
Of Miss 'Phelia, mind.
"For my daughter doesn't want
No comic valentine!"

30 Years of Success

The B. M. Hyde Co. Offer a Remedy for Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing If It Fails

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer this medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Muco-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success to his record.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Muco-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew what a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Muco-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Muco-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to disinfect and cleanse the entire mucous membraneous tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the membraneous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the muco-cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good colour and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Muco-Tone, beginning a treatment to-day. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Muco-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Peterborough only at our store, McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

Tramped Forty Miles a Day.

It was a London policeman who referring to the splendid physique of Dr. Sinclair, Archdeacon of London, whose forthcoming retirement has been announced, said, "He ought to be one of us." Dr. Sinclair stands considerably over six feet in height, and is broad in proportion. His father was one of fifteen children, the shortest of whom was six feet in height and the tallest six feet seven inches. One day the tallest of the archdeacon's aunts was accosted by an Irish beggar-woman, who invoked blessings on her head in the hope of alms. Finding her blandishments in vain, the woman changed her tone, and exclaimed, "At least ye might give me your shoe to make a cradle for my baby." In his days of greater leisure, Dr. Sinclair used to ride a good deal and cycle—he once cycled from London to Thurso, 730 miles—and he has tramped for forty miles a day for pleasure for several days in succession, and even slept out on a moor in Scotland after such a walk.

Sir Wilfrid's Joke.

No one enjoys a joke more than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Premier's sense of humor is keenly developed, and when anything happens in the House which tickles his fancy, he throws back his head, gives a musical chuckle, and allows the famous sunny smile to shine out. When the joke is a very good one, in addition to the above-mentioned performance, Sir Wilfrid pokes his desk-mate, Hon. William Paterson, vigorously in the ribs, and out of courtesy the veteran Minister of Customs always laughs heartily, whether he sees anything funny in it or not.

After Mr. Foster's characteristic attack on the reciprocity agreement, in which the man from North Toronto spilled the vials of his sarcasm over the Fielding-Taft pact, turned it inside out, jumped on it, set it up again, and immediately dealt it a swift upper cut, Sir Wilfrid met the Tory orator in the lobby, at the door of the chamber. The Premier tapped him genially on the shoulder and said gaily:

"Why, George, you don't seem to think much of reciprocity!"—The Mail in Saturday Night.

Would Serve Useful Purpose.

On the opening of the New Brunswick Legislature in 1907 the speech from the throne referred to the exposed development of salt wells in the County of Kings, and the mover and seconder of the address spoke of the matter in glowing terms.

Dr. A. A. Stockton, the then leader of the Opposition, congratulated the Government on the anticipated development of this important industry, "because," he gravely announced, "the statements of honorable members opposite generally have to be taken with a good many grains of salt."

A Delight to Ivory Collectors.

In almost every home a piano is to be found, but in only one household here in America is there an instrument carved from ivory in an exact replica of the accepted baby grand model of commerce. This wonderful piece of work is the result of much patient labor on the part of a worker in handmade jewelry and of its kind is the most perfect specimen. The piano is correct in every particular, and not the cleverest part of the toy instrument is the rolled top over the keyboard, which works perfectly. The lid may be raised in approved concert fashion, and the little stool would meet the approval of even Josef Hofmann. The piano legs are beautifully carved, and there are tiny casters which must have taken an inexhaustible amount of patience to adjust. In length this exquisite ivory piano is two and a half inches long and an inch and a half high. Collectors of small ivory objects are enthusiastic over this miniature masterpiece.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cure Bowel and Kidney as well as Liver troubles, and keep you healthy. 25c a box at your dealer's. 14

A Miracle Under Orders.

In "The Glory of the Shia World," translated from a Persian manuscript, is a story that will interest Christian Scientists:

"Nadir, builder of the 'golden gate of Nadir,' in the sacred city of Meshed, was a world conqueror and a lord of perception, albeit cruel. Of his power of perception they relate that one day when he entered the sacred shrine he saw a blind man invoking the aid of the imam, and upon inquiry he learned that he had been there for several months. The great monarch asked him why his faith was so weak that his sight had not been restored and swore that if on his return he found him still blind he would cut off his head. The wretched man prayed so fervently and fixed his mind so intently on the imam that within a few minutes his sight was restored."

Might Be in a Nice Fix.

Two men of Milwaukee were discussing the case of a person of their acquaintance whose obituary, it appears, had been printed by mistake in one of that city's newspapers.

"Oh, ho!" exclaimed one of the Germans. "So dey haf printed der funeral notice of a man who is not dead already! Vell, now, he'd be in a nice fix if he vas one of dose beeble vot believes everything dey sees in der bapers."—Harper's Magazine.

Woman's World

Press Agent For the Biggest Show In New York City.

MRS. CHANNING POLLOCK.

"She's the best press agent in the country," so said a man recently who is in a position to judge of such matters concerning the publicity work of Mrs. Channing Pollock, better known in the professional world as Miss Anna Marble.

Mrs. Pollock comes of several generations of stage folk and seemed predestined for a career as an actress, but as she herself says, "I had no hankering for the limelight, but my relatives kept heading me toward the stage. Finally John Dunn persuaded me to become press agent for 'Flora-Flora,' which he brought to America, and my work has been cut out for me ever since."

From that time on Miss Marble has handled the publicity for Oscar Hammerstein's grand opera, press agented several vaudeville houses and went out on the road ahead of Nazimova when she first came to this country. At present she is press agent for New York's mammoth show, the Hippodrome, and in odd moments she writes vaudeville sketches and magazine articles.

Brides as Business Women.

Certain husbands now contend that brides should be educated in business methods. They are not satisfied that their wives are excellent cooks, superb housekeepers and gracious and tactful at the dinner table. They think women also should be sufficiently acquainted with business to be companions to them in affairs of vital importance. Said one man, "I think a wife should be educated in business. My wife is a perfectly modern woman in every way except that she cannot help me in any way in my business matter. She cannot understand business simply because she never had any instruction in it. Now, if my wife had studied a little about architecture she could have given me important advice on the question of letting a contract to a builder for the construction of our home. I certainly think wives should have a practical knowledge of business matters, including finance."

The Boys and the Peddler.

Even the roughest street gamin has a tender spot if circumstances shape themselves in such a manner as to appeal to his better nature. This was illustrated recently when an Italian peddler pushing his handcart along a New York street struck a stone and upset his vehicle, which was piled high with apples and pears. In a twinkling the fruit was rolling in all directions and a score of newsboys were filling their pockets. The Italian stood in hopeless despair, wring his hands and burst into tears. The astonished newsboys at first laughed and then, apparently touched by the poor fellow's grief, drew near and emptied their pockets into the cart. Then they pitched in vigorously and helped the now encouraged man to gather up the remainder of the scattered fruit. The apples and pears were soon back in the cart with not one missing, and the Italian felt so thankful to the boys that he presented each one of them with a large apple. The boys laughed merrily this time and soon disappeared in the crowd.

The Anteater.

The anteater, as its name implies, feeds largely on ants, as well as on termites and various other insects. Its long, flexible tongue acting as a hand for the purpose of conveying food to its mouth. The tongue of the anteater when protruded to its fullest extent bears resemblance to a great red earthworm, and as it is employed in its food collecting task it coils and twists about as if possessed of a separate vitality of its own.

Too Much Realism.

"Do you not feel at times," remarked the fireside critic, "that realism is carried too far on the stage?"

"Yes," replied the tragic actor, with emphasis. "The last man I was dressing for died. He wanted to play it all in stage money."

PART II.

SHOULD A GIRL TELL A MAN?

DON'T you think the woman who goes to a man without confessing runs a greater risk of losing him after the marriage than if she had told him everything? If a man couldn't forgive then, he surely couldn't when he found he had been deceived and he would surely find it out.

"I am a woman with something to confess. I came to the city alone when I was seventeen, believing in the same moral standard for men and women, and that a high one. I was thrown much in contact with a certain college student, and in time came to care very much for him. We had the usual student understanding that when through college if we still cared, we would be married." Follows a pitiful story of a man playing on a woman's affection for him and fear for his physical safety to work her downfall ,and then "We were separated soon after this and I no longer hear from him as can be expected.

"'Every cloud has a silver lining,' I've been telling you about my cloud and now I want to show you its lining. I believe I am a bigger, nobler woman than I would have been. I used to pass over suffering lightly. I cannot now. But most of all my heart goes out to the woman who has fallen. Now I know that if a man loves a girl he will protect her even against himself, and because I know the horror of the one kind of live which many mistake for the real, I believe I have a keener appreciation of the real and beautiful. I want to be worthy of being the mother of my husband's children and when temptation comes my way I think of that and it helps me.

"It isn't the losing of one battle that loses a country the war. It is giving up the fight and it's just the same with life. I don't consider my life ruined and I think less should be said about a woman's life being ruined if she makes one mistake.

"I am twenty-three now, surrounded by friends who believe in me, and am often spoken of as the girl who is always happy.

"Someday if I love someone who loves me I can make him just as good a wife as if this had never happened. I shall tell him. If he can't forgive me I shall be glad I told him because I shall not have deceived him, and I shall know that he does not care enough for me. I will lose him, but I should have lost him anyway and far better before marriage than after.

"Please tell the little girl for me that I am so, so sorry it happened, but that she must make the best of it."

Conservatory Concert Was A Great Success

The concert under the auspices of the Conservatory Madrigal Club, assisted by the Conservatory orchestra, Miss Carrie Reesor, of Markham, soprano, Miss McGill, pianist and Mr. W. McIlroy, baritone, held in the Conservatory Music Hall last night was a most artistic success, and thoroughly pleased a large and appreciative audience whose enjoyment was unmistakably indicated. The programme, varied in its nature, with every number a gem, was one of the most delightful that has been heard in Peterborough in a long time and can be given no higher praise than the statement that it was fully up to the Conservatory standard. The members of the Madrigal Club and orchestra, their talented director, Mr. Gliddon, and the assisting artists, are deserving of the sincere thanks of last night's audience for the magnificent programme and it is a matter of regret that more frequent opportunities are not afforded the music-loving citizens of Peterborough to attend such concerts..

The Madrigal Club, organized over a year ago to take part in the Earl Grey Dramatic and Musical Competition, has made splendid progress since its inception and although last night marked its first public appearance in nearly twelve months, the organization acquitted itself with credit to the individual members and to the director. The chorus is well balanced and capable and its three numbers last night were sufficiently diversified to demonstrate the versatility of the club and to indicate that the members have devoted themselves to a systematic and earnest rehearsal. Their opening number, the stirring selection, "Scots Wha Hae," was given with a true conception of the spirit of the chorus and the club established itself firmly in the favour of the audience by the manner in which the selection was sung. This impression was heightened by the beautiful rendition of Corbin's "Lullaby" perhaps the feature of the Madrigal Club's offering and certainly the number that was most enthusiastically received by the audience. The humming obligato by the male voices was an effective feature that added to the enjoyment of the selection. The third number by the Club, the descriptive chorus, "The River Floweth Strong" was rendered with acceptance and won hearty applause.

The Conservatory orchestra whose playing is ever a delight, and which unfortunately comparatively few opportunities are afforded to hear, was never heard to better advantage and their offerings were rapturously received. The orchestra is strong in all departments, being especially well favoured in the string section, and their work is most creditable. Their first number was the spirited "March of the Priests" from Mendelssohn's "Athalie," a difficult number that was played with an assurance and precision of attack that made it altogether delightful. A medley of favourite Scotch melodies and the lively "American patrol" were given masterly interpretations and in the latter case the audience would not be satisfied until the number had been resohn's "Athalie" a difficult number but by no means the least, was the selection from "Il Trovatore," in which perhaps the strength of the organization was most convincingly demonstrated.

Miss Carrie Reesor, of Markham, formerly of the Conservatory, whose sweet, well controlled soprano voice has been the cause of enjoyment to Peterborough people on many occasions in the past, won fresh laurels last evening, her numbers being warmly applauded. Her first, the sprightly little carol, "Welcome, Pretty Primrose" lost none of its charm through a sympathetic manner in which it was rendered and her recall number "If You Remember" was equally meritorious. Later in the evening Miss Reesor was heard to great advantage in the beautiful song "The Rosary," which was magnificently sung.

Mr. W. McIlroy's sweet and sononorous baritone was displayed advantageously in his solo "The Village Blacksmith" which was sung with a dramatic expression and feeling that was altogether charming and the applause was so enthusiastic that Mr. McIlroy had to respond with a spirited rendering of "O Canada."

Miss Reesor and Mr. McIlroy contributed by request a duet as an extra number of the programme and the two splendid voices made their offering one of the most delightful of the evening.

Mr. Gliddon directed the Madrigal Club and the Orchestra in his usual successful manner. The accompanists of the evening, Miss McKee and Miss Stark are deserving of especial praise, their sympathetic work at the piano adding much to the success of the occasion. The complete programme follows:

THE PETERBORO' COUNTY FARMERS WHO HAVE TRIED ALFALFA GROWING

Successful Agriculturalists of This Section Have Effectively Demonstrated the Advisability of Alfalfa.

GIVEN GOOD RESULTS

Mr. Geo. Webber, a farmer, a few miles west of Peterborough, fattened his cattle this past winter without giving them any chop whatever. He fed them roots and alfalfa hay. Last year Mr. Webber and his sons had 15 acres of their farm seeded to alfalfa, which they cut for the first season. Mr. Harry Webber, while conversing with an editor of Farm and Dairy last week, made the statement that their alfalfa was the most valuable crop they grew last year and as a result of the splendid returns they secured several of their neighbours will seed their land to alfalfa this spring.

Mr. Gordon Mann and his brother, Joe, of Bridgenorth, have had a most interesting and valuable experience with alfalfa and they, each of them, are seeding out a large acreage to alfalfa this spring. Mr. Gordon Mann already has seven acres seeded and he now has $40.00 worth of alfalfa seed on hand to sow this spring. Mr. Joe Mann, on his father's farm, seeded four acres to alfalfa last year. He has already purchased $45.00 worth of alfalfa seed, which he will sow this spring. While in the office of Farm and Dairy on Saturday last, Mr. Gordon Mann stated that last year he was feeding his cows two gallons of bran each per day. As soon as his alfalfa hay was cut he commenced feeding it and dropped the expensive bran altogether—the cows immediately increased in their milk flow.

J. K. Moore and Son, the well-Young Mr. J. H. Sanderson of Smith Township, have grown alfalfa for the last few years and are highly in favour of it. Last year they had eleven acres; this year they are seeding 10 more to alfalfa. They state that many years ago, when they were taking Hoard's Dairyman, a Wisconsin farm paper, they read much about alfalfa, which is doing so much for the farmers of that State. They were skeptical then as to the merits of alfalfa, but now they are regretting their folly and are rapidly seeking to make up for lost time, as is shown by the large acreage they will soon have seeded to this great and truly wonderful crop. Mr. Moore says why should we farmers continue to buy bran and other expensive protein feeds, when we can just as well grow protein—rich feed—alfalfa—on our farms at home.

Other leading farmers of the County of Peterborough have grown alfalfa for one or more years and as yet not one has been found who has grown it according to the most approved practice, but is highly in favour of alfalfa. Among these farmers we might mention as having been successful with alfalfa, Mr. Sandy Matchett, of Otonabee; Mr. Sam Devell of Otonabee; Mr. Alex McGregor, Mr. Sam. Stenson, Mr. Jas. Young, Mr. J. H. Sanderson of Smith and Mr. John Lancaster, and D. K. Cameron of Westwood, and we presume, many others of whom we have not heard.

Scores of Peterborough farmers are talking of putting in some alfalfa this coming spring. Mr. G. A. Brethren, who last year won the distinction of having the best diary farm in Peterborough County, as decided by the Special Good Farms' Competition, is seeding ten acres to alfalfa this spring.

All that is being said about alfalfa seems almost too good to be true. Our farmers would probably take to alfalfa more readily did it appear to have but half of the advantages claimed for it. There is no getting away from the facts, however, as they have been presented. Every farmer who has grown it and has been interviewed about his alfalfa is very enthusiastic about it and claims that it is the most valuable feed he grows.

The latest information in regard to alfalfa to come to hand is that contained in a report of the Maryland Experiment Station, where pigs were fed experimentally on rations, one of which included alfalfa. In these experiments valuing alfalfa hay at $28 per ton, the same as the meals that were fed, the alfalfa effected a saving of $2 ($1.96 to be exact) per cwt. of live pork produced.

In view of these facts farmers of Ontario, and particular of Peterborough County, cannot too soon start in to grow alfalfa, and grow it extensively. The Special Alfalfa Competition for Peterborough County farmers, as has been arranged for by Farm and Dairy, will prove of much benefit to any who are contemplating growing alfalfa since instruction on just how to grow this crop is offered free.

LETTERS IN DISCUSSION ON HIGHER CRITICISM

We are pleased to see that the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt has come out so strongly to the defence of our faith. Though we are told by the Higher Critics that the Bible is not the foundation of our faith, but Christ. If we lack faith in the word of God that reveals the Christ, what ground have we for our faith in Christ? 'Higher Critics' tell us, as we do not see as they do, nor believe as they do, nor teach as they do, that we are narrow minded and ignorant. There may be some truth in the statement. Some of us have not had a college training, of which the Higher Critics boast so much, but is our training in our homes, in Bible classes and pulpit instructions, and reading on Bible subjects for many years to go for nothing? Some of the best books on the Bible, such as commentaries, etc., have been our companions for years.

Men who knew the languages in which the Bible was written, men of mental grasp and deep piety such as Matthew Henry and G. Clarke, men who knew more about the Bible than a half dozen of the Higher Critics to-day. We are not concerned about the fate of the Bible. It will remain as it is after the stream of time has swept all of the Higher Critics into the eternal future.

We should not like to reap the harvest from the seed of doubt and unbelief that has been sown by what we call the Higher Critics. We have nothing to say against learning. We have wished a thousand times that it had fallen to our lot to have had more, but if it would lead us to mutilate the Word of God we don't want it. Is it any wonder that men are refusing to suport such a ministry? And are leaving their religious homes? Men whose piety no man will question. And men whose Christian fellowship any church would give a hearty welcome to. It does not afford us any pleasure thus to write, but as long as we see as we do, we must defend the old book that has been the guide and star and comfort to so many millions who have passed before us to the better land.

A LOVER OF THE BIBLE.

Editor Examiner:

Sir—When our Lord was on earth many of the great religious preachers and teachers of the day had departed far from the faith. He warned the people to beware of them and said, "Beware of the doctrine of the Pharisees." He accused them of "teaching for doctrine the commandments of men." He declared to the teachers of the law, "Ye have taken away the key of knowledge; ye enter not in yourselves and them that were entering in ye hindered."

We see much of the same thing today. Thank God for the faithful preachers and teachers that He has given us. Yes, we have constructive as well as destructive critics of Holy Writ. The trouble, is the destructives have crept in so privately and unawares that many look on them as constructive. Our Lord Jesus Christ was the most constructive critic of the divine word that ever trod on earth. A critic is a person skilled in the judging of the merit of literary work. Christ is called "the wisdom of God." It is written of Him, "It pleased the Father that in Him should all fullness dwell," and again, "In Him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge." He said Himself, "He that is of the truth heareth my voice." It becomes us to listen to such an one as this great master teacher. "God hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son." Heb. 1-2 We do well to listen to and believe Him instead of the orators and writers of the destructive, critical schools who deny Christ and with great swelling words and high sounding praises laud one another almost to the third heavens. Christ set His seal on the Book of Genesis; remember that, reader. If you do not believe that statement, read His words for yourself, as we have them recorded by the very man who heard Him and looked into His eyes as He spoke them. We all know that Christ said the Genesis story of the creation of man is true, for in Mark 10:6-7, He said, "From the beginning of the creation God made them male and female .for this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife." A quotation in part from Gen. 2-24 He taught the people that

Rug Season Is Here--It Is Spring

Commencing To-morrow FOUR DAYS' SALE Ending Monday

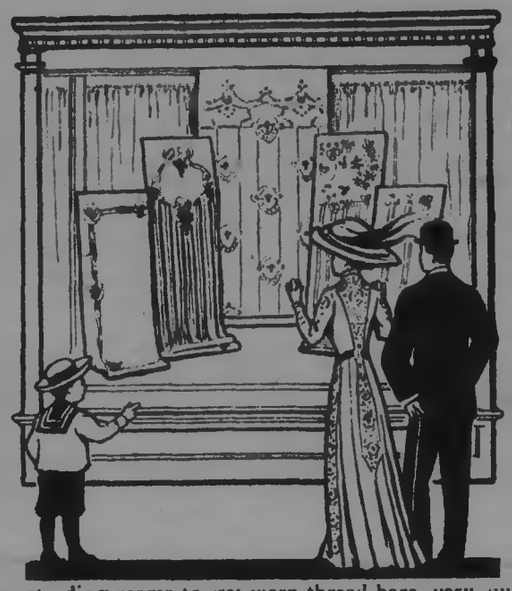
THE time when the home is turned inside-out and when it is turned back and settled down again it looks, not like the dusty winter-soiled abode, but a brand new, fresh, clean home. There was a time, and not many years ago, when the rug was in the present aeroplane stage, something to look forward to, more of an experiment than an actuality, a luxury more than a practical every day floor covering. To-day the rug cannot be replaced; it is the popular covering for the lowly cottage or the grandest mansion; more economical, sanitary and convenient than the old time tacked down carpet which was a dust trap and harbor for all kinds of germs and vermin.

This season we have prepared liberally for the biggest Spring trade we have ever had. We have all the latest Imported and Canadian made goods—the one-piece Scotch Axminster, Imported Wiltons, Velvets, Brussels, and the cheaper grades, such as Tapestries, Wools, Balmorals and Unions—rugs for every room in the home.

The Wilton Rugs which are of local make are prettier than ever—very new parlour rugs in self green centre with illuminated borders. pretty medallions in greens and fawns, rich floral effects on green and fawn grounds. In dining room rugs we are showing a great variety of oriental designs, Indian and Persian panels. These make very useful rugs and are highly recommended.

Our showing of Imported Velvet Rugs is very comprehensive—pretty and pleasing effects in delicate shades of greens and browns, suitable for any room in the modern home.

THE Brussels Rug is as ever, a fair favorite—a wearer and of very fine appearance, all sizes and qualities in pretty chintz designs in green and fawn, self green with floral sprays, good orientals in reds, fawns and greens, also handsome Persian panel effects.



We have Tapestry Rugs by the hundreds. They are moderate in price, durable and come in beautiful shadings and patterns, in all sizes from 2¼x3 yards to 4x4½ yards. The Seamless Tapestry Rug is the rug of the future; has no seams, being woven all in one piece which means better appearance and no protruding seams to get worn thread-bare very quickly. We are stocking these rugs in very large quantities and in all the new shades and designs.

THERE IS a great demand for Wool and Union Squares for bedrooms, etc. We have five qualities in a big selection of patterns and colourings in each line. The New Wool Rug, the "Gorovan," is a superb floor covering; comes in pretty shadings and warranted to wear well.

Below we quote a few prices which will make interesting reading for the housewife this Spring. These prices are only good for Four days—Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and ending Monday, April the third.

SEAMLESS AXMINSTER RUGS in the season's best patterns and shadings, well made and finished. Four Days' Sale—
Size 3x3 yards On sale for $16.75

MODERATE PRICED WALL PAPERS, BUT, GOOD IDEAS
We have the finest stock of Canadian and American made papers that we have yet shown. Our ideas are in advance of former years and our prices are very modest. Let us figure on your wall papering job this Spring. Come and see our grand exhibit.

Have you an Odd Sized Room to Carpet?

Rugs as you know are made in standard sizes only and when an odd sized room is to be carpeted it is necessary to have the rug made to order. This is easily accomplished by us. We have a very fine range of piece goods with or without borders to match. In fact our stock is too large for the amount of space we wish to devote to this part of the stock and as a result, it must be lowered at once to make room. The price-cutting will be tremendous as you will see by the following. As an extra inducement we will hand sew all carpets free of charge, also supply you with the best paper carpet lining free, except in the case of union and hemp carpets.

AXMINSTER CARPETS in bodies and borders, all good patterns, dainty rich shadings in the best colours. The best grade we sell. Regular $1.75 quality. On sale for Four Days at, per yard $1.33

the story of the flood was true—not a myth, as Prof. Jackson and his confederates teach. Hear Him: "For as the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and given in marriage until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away." Matt 24: 37-38. Now, listen, reader, to what the so-called constructive critics have to say about the Genesis story of the flood! Speaking of the story of the flood, Prof. Jackson, on page 112 of his book, "Studies in Old Testament," says: "Suffice it to say that this also belongs to the world of Hebrew legend rather than history . . . probably no intelligent person now believes in a universal deluge which submerged the tops of the highest mountains over the whole earth. But even the substitution of a partial for a universal flood does not carry us far along the road to credibility." There now reader, is not that a stunner? What do you think of that? What becomes of our Lord's authority now? Peter foretold long ago that these false teachers would come and "deny the Lord that bought them." They are on the spot to-day with their false teaching, and the apostle adds, "Many shall follow their pernicious ways, by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of."—2 Pet. 2: 1-2. Yes they will be popular for a while, but like chaff from the summer threshing floor, will soon pass away. Where or who is the preacher in this city that dare tell his flock from the pulpit that the books of Daniel and Esther are religious romance? Yet we read in Prof. Jackson's book, page 21 line 2, "Esther and Daniel are not so much history as rather what to-day we call historical romance." On page 74, line 8, he adds: "Again, as has been mentioned in the last lecture it seems probable that the Books of Daniel and Esther belong rather to the realm of religious romance. . . . than to history." Romance means fiction and fiction means an invented story a novel, a falsehood—see your dictionary. Our old fathers and mothers did not tell us Daniel and Ether were romance. Our old pastors and Sabbath school teachers and superintendents did not tell us that the Book of Daniel and Esther were not history but rather romance. Old Robinson Rutherford, of hallowed memory, did not believe that the Book of Daniel was a romance, when he gathered us, as little boys and girls around him in the long ago and taught us to sing:

"Dare to be a Daniel,
Dare to stand alone,
Dare to have a purpose firm,
Dare to make it known."

No, no, that faithful man sowed different seed from that, and that seed is bearing fruit in many hearts to-day Thank heaven we know these critics are astray, for best of all "God hath spoken unto us, in these last days, by His Son, and He tells us that Daniel was a prophet and that his book was a phophecy." See Mark, 13-14, Mat. 24: 15.

Now, in conclusion let me add that if my critic writing in Saturday's Examiner who signs himself "Believer *can swallow this theology of Mr. Jack*son, he signed the wrong name to his epistle, for if he can down that stuff he is a worthy candidate for canonization in the calendar of unbelief, and there is no mistake about that. What do you say, reader.

It is not the amount a man knows as it is the use he makes of what little he does know that counts. David didn't know much; he could play the harp and became the king's armour bearer. He could use a sling and down Goliath of Gath, and became king of Israel. It is written somewhere in a very old and most reliable book "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty. And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath oGd chosen, yea, and despised, hath God chosen, year, and naught things that are; that no flesh should glory in His presence."—1 Cor. 1-27-29.

A Lucky Find.

Charles T. Currelly, the well-known Canadian archaeologist, tells of a curious piece of luck which befell him on one occasion. He was working with a party of one hundred men on the excavation of a number of important tombs in Egypt, when a native came to him with the story of an interesting discovery some distance away. Leaving the work on which he was engaged, he went to the place described by the native, only to find that it was a wild-goose chase. On the way back, however, from this fruitless expedition he noticed a pile of gravel which appeared to him to be of an unusual arrangement. He stopped and sunk a pit. To his surprise and delight, a tomb was discovered which proved to be that of the Pharaoh "which knew not Joseph." This monarch had completely hidden his tomb, building it in an out-of-the-way place, and like that of the poorest peasant; underground, however, a veritable palace had been constructed.

ROBT. McNEELY.

The death occurred on Thursday morning, March 23rd, of Robert McNeely, at the age of 53 years, 10 months. Deceased had been in poor health for the past two years, heart failure being the cause of death. The late Mr. McNeely was born in the County of oDnegal, Ireland and came out to Canada in 1865 with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McNeely, and settled in Asphodel. He was twice married and leaves three sons by his first marriage (his first wife having died about twenty years ago). The sons are: Bertram and John of Belmont, and George Mackey McNeeley, Seymour. About ten years ago he married Mrs. Scott widow of the late James Scott of Asphodel, who still survives him. He is also survived by four brothers and three sisters, viz.: John, of Norwood, Thomas of Dummer, Benjamin of Peterborough, Joseph Trent Bridge, Mrs. Jas. Paget Trent Bridge, Mrs. Thos. Morrison Norwood and Mrs. Geo. Walker Lindsay. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Saturday afternoon from his late residence, Hastings Road to Norwood cemetery. Rev. G. F. Hurlburt, the local Baptist minister, assisted by Rev. W. Peer officiated. The pall-bearers were Messrs. C. J. Blake, Ira Cummings, Fred Fry, Hugh Adams, W. E. Pakenham and John Marks, members of the local lodge of Oddfellows, of which deceased was a member.

TIMOTHY CHOWLEY.

The death occurred on March 25th, at his late residence in Emily Township of Mr. Timothy Crowley, after an illness of one week. The late Mr. Crowley, who was one of the most highly respected residents of the Township, was born in the County Clare, Ireland, and emigrated to the United States when a boy, after coming to Canada and settling in Emily. He was eighty-three years of age. Fifty years ago he married Margaret Brennan, who predeceased him three years ago. Four daughters and one son are left to mourn his loss. They are Mrs. John Twomey, Peterborough, Mrs. Thomas Turcotte, Peterborough; Mrs. William Travis, Ennismore; Miss Jane Crowley and Mr. Thomas Crowley, at home.

The funeral took place on Monday morning, March 27, from the family residence, to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery. Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Father McGuire. The pall-bearers were Messrs Michael, Thomas and William Crowley, nephews; Thomas Turcotte, Peterborough, and William Travis, Ennismore, sons-in-law and Daniel Twomey, Peterborough, grandson.

PHILIP EDWARD CROUGH.

A sad death occurred on Wednesday, March the eighth of Philip Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Crough, Ennismore, and grandson of Philip Crough, Smith.

The deceased was a bright little child of two years and five months old. The funeral was largely attended by friends from Norwood, Lindsay and Peterborough.

The pall-bearers were Stephen, Arnold, Wilfred and Michael Crough. The sympathy of the community is extended to the parents.

Pushing and Pulling.

It has been wisely observed that most operations can be more efficiently performed by drawing them along through their proper course than by attempting to push and jam them through, just as it is much easier to pull a rope than it is to push it. There are probably not many persons who have tried to push a rope, but very many have attempted things almost as perverse. In many manufacturing establishments, for example, there may be seen numerous examples of men wasting a large part of their energy endeavoring to move heavy pieces of work upon small trucks, pushing and laboring in the exertion of effort, a small fraction of which goes to cause the actual progression. Even when such an effective aid to transport as an industrial railway is installed it is often used at less than its proper efficiency because there is too much pushing and not enough pulling.—Cassier's Magazine

WHERE WOMEN ARE WANTED.

Farmers of Canadian Northwest Suffering From Loneliness.

"The farmers hang about the tiny stations that dot the great transcontinental railroad tracks between Winnipeg and the Rockies, waiting for a sight of the emigrant girls on the westbound train that goes through once in 24 hours. Every one of them is on the lookout for a wife."

These are the words of a writer who has studied the conditions of western life and who knows that the need of domestic help in Canada is chronic and continuous. Loneliness is not good for a man, and that is why one finds hundreds of young fellows who are developing the land of the great northwest eager to find a mate.

How scarce the right type of girl for domestic work in Canada is may be judged from the words uttered by the Bishop of London a short time ago. "It is practically impossible," he said, "to get a servant in Canada for love or money. I could find places for 200 girls to-morrow if we had money to send them out."

Further proof of the dearth of women in Canada is furnished by A. M. Grenfell, son-in-law of Earl Grey, the Governor-General of Canada, who says: "There are eight men to every woman in the land. Domestic service of various kinds is to be had for the asking."

Just a word of warning, however. Girls must not expect to go out there, be snapped up by the first man that comes along and have a nice, easy time of it. Girls are only wanted who know how to work and who will work, and for them the wages range from $1 a month for common help to $3 and $50 for specialists—that is, for instance, qualified cooks.

Women, indeed, are wanted in Canada to the number of many thousands, "both as workers and wives," to quote the words of the superintendent of Canadian emigration in London, while both New Brunswick and British Columbia offer great inducements to women emigrants. Says the agent general for the latter country: "I do not know any part which is such a promising country for women as British Columbia," while the representative of New Brunswick says: "We are constantly sending girls out and are receiving satisfactory reports of their progress from time to time."

His Turn Next.

James L. Hughes, who has been chief inspector of Toronto's public schools for thirty-six years, has two families. His first family consists of two daughters; has second of a daughter and a son. His second wife's daughter has always been fond of mathematics. Even as a child she saw mathematical problems in her environment and experience very clearly One day at luncheon, when she was six years old, she was very quiet for some time, and then she turned to her mother and said: "Mamma, Helen and Bertha" (her older sisters) "are only half-sisters to Chester and me. Now, if you should die, and papa should marry again, and they should have children, would their children be any relation at all to Helen and Bertha?"

She knew that the death of one wife had done away with one half of the relationship, and she wondered whether the death of another wife would do away with the other half relationship and leave no relationship whatever between the first family and the third family.

Her younger brother, then about four years of age, was evidently not considering the question from a mathematical standpoint, but from the standpoint of justice only. He promptly said: "I think it's dad's turn to die next."

The Natural Park Man.

Howard Douglas, Edmonton, has been giving interviews down in Spokane, Washington. He's the natural park man who works for the Dominion Government. During fifteen years Douglas has managed eight national parks in Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. He was the first superintendent of the Banff Park, the first reservation of its kind in Canada.

Douglas is going to be superintendant of still another park. Up in the Yellowhead Pass through the Rocky Mountains, there are 4,500 square miles of hotsprings and scenery. This is Jasper Park—and Howard Douglas has commenced opening it up.

Gone to Church For Century.

Muskegon, Mich., March 29.—The possessor of good health and retaining almost unimpaired faculties, Mrs. Marie Esther Sturgeon has just celebrated her 106th birthday here.

It is said she has attended church regularly for 100 years.

Diaz to Resign?

Mexico City, March 29.—A report that President Diaz will resign is regarded as not wholly without foundation, though the date of such action is contingent upon the re-establishment of peace.

A ROMAN COMEDY

An American Girl Is the Heroine, but There Is No Hero

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Two Italian noblemen were sitting on a sidewalk in the Piazza Colonna in Rome, smoking cigarettes and drinking the wine of the country. They were both descended from families that had been prominent several centuries ago, the one from Barbarini, the other from the Sforza. Count Leo Barbarini was speaking to Prince Brunelli Sforza.

"So the fair American has refused you too!"

"She has," snapped the prince.

"Were you pleased with yours?"

"Oh, there are more of these American fish as good as any that were ever caught in the sea. I shall try again elsewhere."

"I would like," replied Prince Sforza, "to palm off upon her some low-born man as a prince with a fortune."

"It would require at least a thousand lira even to dress him."

"I can borrow that much."

"And I can raise a thousand more. We can place his estates in some inaccessible country."

"Good!" laughed the prince. "Your suggestions are admirable. Shall we really try it?"

"By all means."

Soon after this interview it was intimated to Miss Evaline Henderson of Idaho, U. S. A., that Prince Gregorio Colonna desired to be presented to her. The Colonna family was already known to Miss Henderson as one of the two great factions—the Colonna and the Orsini—that dominated Rome during the middle ages. She had not come to the Eternal City without preparing herself by historical reading to enjoy its antiquities and was curious to see a lineal descendant of a family that had taken so great a part in past struggles between the holy Roman empire and the papacy. She therefore received Prince Colonna graciously.

Prince Gregorio had been selected to play his part more from his personal appearance than his intellect or education, though he was really above his business, which was that of waiter at a hotel at Frascatti. He was tall, massive and solemn as the column standing in the piazza named for his (supposed) ancestors beside the Corso in Rome. His hair was combed straight up from his forehead, and his mustache was elevated from the line of his lips at an angle of forty-five degrees. His estates had been near Perugia; but, they having passed away, he had invested money in Siberian mines that had made him rich. The only means he had of palming himself off as a real Colonna was the 2,000 lira furnished by Count Barbarini and Prince Sforza, the reading of a brief history of his ancestors and these Siberian mines, which were not likely to be hunted up by Miss Henderson. But his chief attraction was his personnel. No American can visit Italy without being impressed with the solemn grandeur of some of their knights of the napkin whose battleground is the restaurant and whose fortunes consist of American tips. Prince Colonna was one of the most magnificent of these.

Now, the American girl is regarded all over Europe as a wonder. Europeans are used to their own girls, who are guarded till after their marriage and must then endeavor to throw off that want of familiarity with the world to which they had been heretofore doomed. The American girl begins to use her wings almost from the crib. Miss Henderson was as well able to take care of herself as a corps of guardians and duennas could have taken care of her.

The day after the presentation Henry Blackwelder, a young man from South Dakota, who raised wheat enough in one season to fill half a dozen elevators, came to Rome for the purpose of getting from Miss Henderson a reply to a suit of several years' standing. He came at a very inopportune time. Prince Colonna had just appeared on the scene and had evidently been very much struck with Miss Henderson. Mr. Blackwelder could not make out whether Miss Henderson was bent upon assuming Prince Gregorio's historical name or whether she was laughing at him. The prince had the good taste never to mention his family glory unless compelled to do so. When Blackwelder and Colonna and Miss Henderson were together the latter expatiated to the American on the marvelous deeds of the Colonnas of old, showing a remarkable familiarity with them—indeed, a familiarity which at times would startle the prince himself, especially when she gave the names of five Colonnas he had not met with in his historical studies, who had been hanged before the castle of St. Angelo.

Nothing will so fret a man, especially a man in love, as uncertainty. If Miss Henderson had announced her intention to buy her way in among the Colonnas or if she had openly made fun of the prince Blackwelder would have settled down to his fate, whatever it was. Unfortunately she seemed to be wavering between the two. The only persons who seemed to have been made happy by the introduction of the prince were the conspirators, Barbarini and Sforza. One day Miss Henderson, driving along the Corso in an open carriage with Blackwelder and the spurious prince, saw them sitting together in the Piazza Colonna drinking and smoking. They both rose and took off their hats to her, while she seemed to be very proud of the Italian portion of her company. After this she seemed bent on driving by the Piazza Colonna frequently at an hour when she knew her two discarded suitors would be there. If Prince Colonna on these occasions felt embarrassed he concealed his embarrassment under that stolid grandeur of mien which was born in him.

"Upon my word," remarked Count Leo Barbarini to Prince Sforza, "I believe our scheme will be a success. Our waiter will marry the American."

"You see, it required those Siberian mines to make it so. Though Americans spend money like water, they value it all the same."

"Who is the other fellow in the carriage, I wonder?"

"An American. But whether he is a suitor, too, cannot matter much to us—that is, provided we can keep up the sham. It is the Colonna name and the right to write princess after it that will win."

"In any event we have had the satisfaction of passing a waiter off upon her as a prince. Did you notice how proud she seemed to be of him as she passed?"

"And the smile she gave us."

And so the comedy went on, much to the satisfaction of the conspirators. Prince Colonna's capital was nearing an end, and one day he mentioned before Miss Henderson that a dividend from his mines had been delayed. She promptly asked him how much he required for his present expenses, and while he was refusing to be supplied by a lady she sat down at a desk and, writing a check for 3,000 lira, handed it to him.

"But my remittance will soon be here," he protested.

"Take it and pay when your remittance comes," she replied.

The same afternoon Miss Henderson telephoned to her bankers to know if Prince Colonna had drawn the check and learned that he had done so. Then she telephoned to the prince asking him to call during the evening. When he did so, magnificent in a fresh accession of jewelry, she asked him to be seated and said:

"Giovanni!—

The prince started.

—"you are not Gregorio Colonna. You are Giovanni Something-or-other, and you have this afternoon committed a fraud. Some one has been putting you up to this playing prince, and I wish to know all about the scheme. You are welcome to the 3,000 lira, but hereafter I own you, for the moment you refuse to obey my orders or try to deceive me you go to jail. Do as I direct and you are safe from the results of your crime."

Giovanni confessed that he had been a waiter at a hotel at Frascatti and that Barbarini and Sforza had hired him to play the part of Prince Colonna and marry Miss Henderson if possible. He further stated that he had agreed to pay each of them an annuity after his marriage.

"Indeed!" she said, with much surprise. "I did not suppose that Barbarini and Sforza had sunk to that. However, since it was murder in the middle ages, I suppose it must be swindling in the twentieth century. Go and steal the paper you signed agreeing to pay this annuity."

"It is not necessary, senorina. There were duplicates made. I have one in my pocket, but I do not like to part with it."

"Either give it to me or"— She went to a telephone and took down the receiver. The waiter knew the meaning of this, and Miss Henderson knew that with the transmitter near her lips she had little to fear. Giovanni opened a pocketbook, drew out a paper and handed it to her. She took it, read it and said:

"Now go to Frascatti and tell the keeper of the hotel at which you were employed that I desire dinner for four persons to be ready at 7 o'clock this evening. Any failure to do as I direct will result in your arrest at once."

With 3,000 lira in his pocket and a jail as an alternative there was not much expectation that he would disobey.

The next morning Count Barbarini and Prince Sforza received an invitation to drive with Miss Henderson to the hills near Rome for dinner. She said she had an important announcement to make to them. They accepted, feeling assured that they would learn of her engagement to Prince Colonna. They called at her hotel and were introduced to Mr. Blackwelder. Seeing that they were surprised at not meeting Prince Colonna, she told them that he would be of the party at dinner, but would go in his own conveyance.

The four entered a carriage waiting at the door and, driving across the Campagna, ascended the hill to Frascatti and stopped before the —— hotel. Dinner was served, but the prince did not appear.

"He will be late," Miss Henderson explained.

It was not till the coffee was brought on that he appeared, and then it was in the dress of a waiter, with a napkin on his arm. The guests stared at him astonished, but he avoided the gaze of all, serving the coffee with lowered eyes. The two conspirators paled.

"Gentlemen," said Miss Henderson, "I told you I would make an announcement. It is this—I am betrothed to Mr. Blackwelder."

Then the party broke up, the two gentleman retiring in confusion.

A YOUNG MAN SENTENCED TO THREE MONTHS IN GAOL

Harry Bennett Convicted on Charge of Theft of Watch and $5 From Boarding House---Three Young Men Face a Serious Charge.

Three months' incarceration in the county gaol at hard labour was the sentence meted out to Harry Bennett who was charged with the theft of a gold watch and chain and the sum of $5 from Mrs. Kate Reid.

The prisoner pleaded guilty to having stolen the watch and chain, but not the money.

Crown Attorney Wood appeared for the prosecution.

Mrs. Reid and Harry Barton gave evidence relative to the conduct of the prisoner during his stay at the boarding house, conducted by Mrs Reid on Hunter street.

"There is no excuse for a young man in good health robbing people," said His Worship in passing sentence on the prisoner.

Ross McCaul, J. Copperwaite and J. Shearer were charged with having stolen 50 bags of chop from the Quaker Oats Co. The case was adjourned for a week, as there was no bail forthcoming. Chief Thompson signified his willingness to allow the boys out on their own recognizance to appear one week from today.

MONTREAL WAS DELIGHTED WITH SHEFFIELD CHOIR

Read what the Montreal Star has to say: "Thousands are delighted with the Sheffield Choir". Sheffield choristers give remarkable examples of interpretation work in Arena. The Sheffield Choir Dr. Harriss has brought with him on his British Empire tour is a finer body than that which toured Canada under his direction two years ago. It is capable of even finer effects. Its balance is impeccable. The sopranos are of wonderful purity of tone, always full, never thinning even on the lightest notes, never losing pitch, even in the most involved, intricate and trying passages; the contraltoes have a limpid tone of unusual beauty; the tenors are real tenors—not baritones, forcing their limited registers, and the basses possess a rich sonority without in any measure overweighting the volume of the whole.

Special to The Examiner.

MONTREAL, QUE., MARCH 30. — Mr. L. Scolsi, the consul general for Italy, in Canada to-day denied the report that money was being raised under threat of death from Italians in Canadian cities by agents of the Cammora for the defence of the members of that society now on trial at Viterbo, Italy. He says the Italians have no such fear of the Camorra as alleged.

R. L. BORDEN TO REMAIN CONSERVATIVE LEADER

Although Desirous of Escaping From the Constant Worries and Bickerings With Disgruntled and Self-Seeking Factions Within the Party, He Has Consented to Remain at the Head.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MARCH 30.—The sensation of the hour is the state of chaos and doubt that reigns in the Conservative camp here. Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, if he did not actually resign that position, intended doing it and has consented to remain in defiance of the clique that fought hard for his deposition. But the fact that his retirement at this time would leave his party leaderless with no available successor in sight, has overcome his desire, to end his leadership and with it the constant worries and bickerings with disgruntled and self-seeking factions within the party. He wishes to retire to private life again, resume the practice of law, look after his already large financial interests and have some leisure hours, free from the incessant strain of seeking to please everybody, reconcile divergent interests and shape political compromises to cover all wings of the party. This attitude he made very clear to the insurgents last night and to-day.

Scurry to Cover.

As a result there has been a great panic. The great majority of his followers realize that there is no one to fill his shoes, and that if he resigns the last condition of the party will be worse than the first. Consequently a round robin was gotten up praying Mr. Borden to remain at the head of the party, and assuring him of the cordial support, sympathy and allegiance of his followers for the time being.

Round Robin Signed by Many.

This was signed by all the Conservative members now in Ottawa, with the exception of Messrs. Price and Foget, M.P.'s for Quebec West, and Charlevoix, respectively, who, backed by the other Quebec Tory capitalists and party managers, fomented the present insurrection, and with the exception of Messrs. Northrup, Owen, Schaffner, Barnard, Dr. Reid of Grenville, and E. N. Rhodes, and possibly a few recalcitrants who still declare themselves in favour of a change.

Mr. Borden Will Stay.

Yielding to the urgent request thus implied, Mr. Borden will for the present withhold his resignation and for the time being another rent in the party mantle has been patched.

Tories Fear an Election.

The Opposition members fear that if Mr. Borden retired to private life at this juncture Sir Wilfrid would bring on an election and the result would be the annihilation of the Conservative party in Canada, and its relegation to Opposition for years to come. There is no doubt of the fact that Mr. Borden is tired of Opposition leadership. He has been bothered to distraction by dissatisfied members of the Conservative party in Parliament and out.

A Friendly Version.

The Ottawa Journal, whose editor, Mr. P. D. Ross, is a warm supporter and close personal friend of Mr. R. L. Borden, has come out with the very frank statement of the trouble in the camp, resulting from the cabal against the Opposition leader. The party's dirty linen is washed in public, and the insurgents are frankly told to sit down and behave themselves or else get out. It is apparent to-day that as a result of the rallying of his friends around him Mr. Borden has again taken heart, and is now disposed to consent to remain at his post and fight the conspirators to a finish. He does not wish to retire under a cloud, but is nevertheless anxious to take the first opportunity of stepping out with dignity and honour into a calmer and purer atmosphere.

Meantime the insurgents will submit, and bide their time—a more opportune time—for building a nest of traitors. The Journal says the trouble is an old one, and is due to jealousy and the fact that Mr. Borden is not cut out to be a pliant enough tool in the hands of the members of the party who have axes to grind. In Quebec the Conservative members are hostile and the moneyed interests of Montreal have set out to defeat Mr. Borden. It is stated that Mr. W. B. Northrup, of East Hastings, is snatching at Mr. Borden's shoes. He is said to have been at the head of the trouble last session. The Journal concludes its review of the situation thus: "In summing up, it may be said, that the disgruntled forces have been swept aside by almost the entire force of the Conservative party. A round robin has been passed around asking him to continue, and it has been signed by all members now in the city, except it is understood, five or six."

MAYOR MORROW ENDORSES MISS CHOATE'S CONCERT

His Worship Hopes That There Will be a Large Attendance---She is to Take Part in Earl Grey Competition at Winnipeg, Representing Peterborough.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I would like to draw the attention of the citizens of Peterborough, through the medium of your valuable paper, to the concert which will take place on Friday, April 7th, in the Conservatory of Music Hall, by Miss Julia G. Choate, the talented and brilliant violinist of this city, assisted by Miss Beatrice M. Wellington, Reader, of Toronto. A strictly first-class programme is being arranged, and a genuine treat is in store for all lovers of good music. Miss Choate will represent the City of Peterborough, in the violin contest at the Earl Gray Dramatic and Musical Competition, at Winnipeg, in April, and the proceeds of above mentioned concert on April 7th, will go towards defraying expenses of Miss Choate and accompanist. It will be remembered that at the Earl Gray competition last year in Toronto, Miss Choate took second place in the violin competition, with a large number of entries to compete with. Peterborough will be ably represented at Winnipeg by Miss Choate, and we hope to have first honours this year for the Electric City.

I therefore bespeak a most liberal patronage for the concert on April 7th. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space, I remain

Yours faithfully,
W. G. MORROW, Mayor.

WILL KEEP CHARLES D. SHELDON IN PITTSBURG

Special Wire to The Examiner.

PITTSBURG, MARCH 30—After all, Charles D. Sheldon, the blind pool operator wanted in Montreal for defrauding Canadians out of thousands will not return there for trial without a fight. People here who accuse him have asked the district attorney to hold him here for investigation and this will be done.

THE CONTRACTS LET FOR NEW MURRAY ST. CHURCH

The first steps towards the erection of the new Baptist church on Aylmer street, have been commenced and today a gang of men under Mr. Jack Thirnbeck are at work raising the buildings upon the proposed site and getting ready for the actual work upon the new structure. Among the buildings that are being torn down are the Yelland residence and blacksmith shop and the building in the rear. The contract for the stone work has been let to the firm of Ross and Hawken, of Toronto, and the carpenter work to Messrs. McIntyre Bros. of Peterborough. The work will be carried ahead rapidly. The new building will be a credit not only to the congregation but to the city.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1911

MR. BORDEN STAYS.

The annual "spring rash" has broken out among the Conservative members at Ottawa the yearly revolt against Mr. Borden's leadership. Last year, about this time, there was a revolt of a somewhat similar kind; but it was patched up, and this year's rent in the party mantle has again been mended, for the moment, by Mr. Borden consenting to remain. With this process proceeding again and again, the Conservative party could not, so far as cohesion and unity, based on a community of policy and ambition, be more a thing of shreds and patches than it has been for a long time. To the sundering influences of jealousy and ambitions of leadership has been added the disintegrating influence of lack of unanimity in the matter of policy, especially in the matter of the reciprocity agreement, on which subject a concealed, but deeply-seated divergence of opinion exists. Policy is a poor substitute for principle, as a cohesive element in party solidarity Mr. Borden says, but his position is not by any means a bed of roses; he should be able to sympathize with Sir Mackenzie Bowell's sentiments in regard to the "nest of traitors."

YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

A pathetic case has lately come to light. An elderly woman, for years one of the society ladies in a Canadian city and thought to be wealthy, has through unfortunate investments fallen upon hard lines, and the sadness of her case is increased by the terrible fact that she has been stricken down by an incurable disease. During her prosperous years she thought but little of the future, and a large portion of her income was spent in "keeping up appearances." Now, penniless and homeless, she must seek admission to some place of refuge; her friends of yesterday know her no more. Such cases as these should cause young wage-earners to appreciate the fact that they may escape such a fate if they are but willing to take advantage of the Canadian Government Annuities scheme, for by investing with the Government but a small portion of their weekly wages they can provide an income to begin at 55 or later that will insure them independence and happiness no matter how long they live. Give the matter your most serious consideration, and if you desire further particulars on the subject these may be obtained on application to your Postmaster, or to the Superintendent of Government Annuities Ottawa, to whom all letters go free of postage.

WORTHY OF THE OCCASION.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company does well because it does well anything it undertakes; and it undertakes and accomplishes enough to qualify it as being the greatest transportation company in the world. In keeping with its character it has issued, and the Examiner has the pleasure of acknowledging the receipt, through Mr. W. McIlroy, the city representative of the company, of one of the handsomest announcements ever issued for a similar purpose. It is entitled "The Coronation of George the Fifth," an event of unexampled splendour and elaboration unequalled in the coronation of British sovereigns—one that will attract the world, and congest every avenue of transportation to London. The brochure is a splendid specimen of binding and bookmaking de luxe. It contains the details of the coronation service, full-page portraits of the King and Queen, a two-page group picture of the noted historical scenes in London and England. It contains besides—and this is the pith of the pamphlet—illustrations in picture and explanation of the best, swiftest, safest, and most luxurious means, for Canadians, to reach the Old Country. There are numerous pictures of the exterior and interior of the palatial "Empresses of the Atlantic" showing every detail of luxury and comfort for the voyaging guests of the Company. The pictures throughout the book are print-perfect photo-engravureures, and the whole book is a work of art of the highest character, worthy of the occasion and worthy of the great Company producing it: and, above all, an indication of where travellers can best place their patronage so as to insure, on their way to and from, the coronation, the acme of comfort, and even luxury, of transportation.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

In another part of this issue appears two letters, in which correspondents deal, respectively, with the matter of a coronation gift by the Georges and Marys of Peterborough. That of "One of the Georges" contains a benevolent suggestion that might well be adopted by the Marys in case their enterprise takes form.

The proposal of "One of the Georges" does not at all conflict with the idea behind the proposed gift—it is not to be a gift of value, but a recognition, a tangible mark of loyalty and devotion to the person of the sovereign. The gift could be made to serve the same purpose by being diverted to the form suggested and be more pleasing to the king, who from his known character and goodness of heart would be better pleased that a gift that commemorated his name and recognized the crowning event of his life, should take the form of such a noble work of charity in a hospital, either the one suggested or in the city hospitals. Thus for all time the name of King George and Queen Mary would be associated with the spirit and work that animated the good Samaritan, the divinely prompted and noblest type of altruism the world knows. This may not be in keeping with the idea of pooling the contributions in the great Imperial fund, but Peterborough is under no obligation to co-operate, and the Georges and Marys of Peterborough would gain distinction — be in a class by themselves—by taking a course that would as well demonstrate their loyalty and at the same time show that their hearts were in the right place and at the same time lay the foundations of a grand and lasting beneficience. The names of the Georges and Marys would as in the general scheme be forwarded with the documents that in duly engrossed form, would announce to the King and Queen that a permanent source of charity and healing bearing their name had been established by their name-sakes in Canada. To illustrate how such a variation of the coronation gift would appeal to the kind heartedness of the King, the following despatch received from London to-day, is submitted:

LONDON, MARCH 29.—A story of King George's kindness of heart was related last night. The King recently visited an aged couple in moderate circumstances, who had resided for a long time on the Royal estate at Norfolk, and after a friendly chat the King offered the husband a cigar. The old man thanked the King, adding: "I don't often get a chance to smoke cigars." A few days later the man received a letter in the King's handwriting giving to him his house rent free for the rest of his life and expressing the hope that this little relief to his outlay would enable him to afford cigars as long as he lived.

THE MANITOBA BOUNDARY QUESTION.

The apparently boundless Manitoba boundary question engaged the attention of the House again on Wednesday. In answer to Mr. Staples, M. P. for Macdonald, who sought additional light on the subject, the Premier made it plain that responsibility for the prolongation of the boundary question did not lie with the Dominion Government, but with the Government of Manitoba. The latter persisted in mixing the simple question of the extension of the boundaries of the province, with the entirely distinct question of the relative allowances to the provinces in the matter of cash and lands. Sir Wilfrid pointed out that the two questions are quite distinct and must be treated and settled separately on their own merits. Manitoba can only manufacture a grievance by the confusion of the two distinct issues. There has been little difficulty between the two governments in the matter of extension of boundaries, but the separate question of subsidy and land allowance constituted the rub. As Sir Wilfrid explanation as to the position of the Dominion Government may not be amiss. That position is that, in the first place, the arrangement as to Provincial subsidies made at the Provincial conference of 1906 should not be disturbed except by a subsequent conference; second, that the Dominion Government is nevertheless willing to make such addition to the present gross subsidy of Manitoba on account of the added territory as will put the Province either actually or approximately on the same footing as Saskatchewan in regard to Dominion subsidy, but the allowance to Manitoba cannot be made more favourable than those to the adjoining Province of Saskatchewan, having due regard to the much larger area of land suitable to agricultural occupation, and therefore entailing very much higher expenses of Provincial government in the Province of Saskatchewan than in Manitoba.

At present the Manitoba Government receives from the Dominion $100,000 on land account, as against $375,000 allotted similarly to Saskatchewan. But the Manitoba Government has been allowed also lands for university purposes, yielding $24,000 per annum, and swamp lands, which bring in $156,000 per annum, sales not being reckoned, but only rentals and interest on sales. The total subsidy of the Manitoba Government on land account is, therefore, practically $280,000. To this the Dominion offers to add $200,000 for the new addition, rising with the increase of population there to a maximum of $300,000 a year. It is estimated that the swamp lands placed at the disposal of the Province will be quadrupled in time, so that the increase of revenue from them should be at least $450,000. The present total subsidy to Manitoba is $1,017,000, including the receipts from swamp and university lands; this would at once be increased by $200,000, and also by 80 cents per head of the population in the added territory, and a proportional extra amount for civil government, to a total comparing very favourably with the present total subsidy to Saskatchewan of $1,239,000.

Of course, Saskatchewan's land allowance of $375,000 may rise to a maximum of $1,125,000, greatly increasing in time the present total subsidy; but Manitoba stands to receive with the development of her territory at least that amount on land account, if she accepts the terms now offered her. The Dominion Government is anxious to have the question of the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba settled in such a manner as shall be satisfactory to the people of the Province, but can only agree to such terms as will not cause adverse criticism from other provinces as being unduly favourable to Manitoba. In a word, the object of the Dominion Government is not to inflict any injustice upon Manitoba, but to secure a solution of the question, that will be permanent and satisfactory to all the interests concerned.

Ontario Government Extravagance Condemned By A Farmers' Journal

"Weekly Sun" Deals With the Way in Which the Provincial Treasury is Emptied Under Whitney Government

Few sessions of the Legislature have attracted less of public attention than that which came to an end last week. This is mainly due to the fact that the question of reciprocity, now being discussed at Ottawa, has overshadowed everything else; it is partly because few sessions of the Provincial Assembly have been less fruitful in useful legislation. No measure of really first-class importance was placed upon the statute book and some of the more important legislation has been put there in a sort of half-baked form. The Act allowing urban communities to fix standards for their milk supply, for example, will permit of as many different standards as there will be communities acting under the law and the result will be endless confusion. On the other hand time was worse than wasted in discussing the reciprocity trade agreement with the United States, a matter with which a Legislature has no more to do than it has with militia and defence or the control of banking and currency. The people of Ontario have very little to show in the way of useful legislation for the increase of $400 in the indemnity which their representatives in the Legislature have voted themselves.

But, if there is little to show in this way, there is a great deal too much to show in the way of expenditure. The Provincial outlay has of late been growing in a way that is truly alarming; and, what is worse, the public mind is being confused by the manner in which the public accounts are published. In statement No. 1, at page a14, the Provincial Treasurer places the total receipts for the year 1910 at $8,891,004.68 and the "total expenditure" at $8,887,520.09, thus showing a surplus of nearly $3,500 for the year. Away near the back of the report, in statement No. 6, Mr. Matheson acknowledges to a "grand total expenditure" of $12,501,529.64. Thus, instead of there being a surplus of some $3,500 on the year's operations there was really a deficit of almost three and three-quarter million dollars; and this notwithstanding the fact that the receipts of the year included nearly half a million dollars for lands sold, the Provincial assets of course being reduced by that amount.

The discrepancy in the two statements is due to the fact that all the expenditures of the year are not included in the first. An item of $785,000 advanced to the commission having charge of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway is excluded from the first statement; so, too, is one of 2,130,466.78 advanced to the Hydro Electric Commission. Other smaller sums are omitted as well. Among these are $28,000 for addition to Osgoode Hall, $90,000 for new Government House, $150,000 for good roads, $174,000 for new Provincial prison, and $270,000 for repairs and additions to Parliament buildings.

The two million odd dollars advanced to the Hydro Electric may, perhaps, be properly excluded from the ordinary Provincial expenditure of the year because the interest and sinking fund on this sum are to be repaid by the municipalities to be served by electric power through the Commission. It must be remembered, however, that the Province is undoubtedly held responsible for the debt incurred in building the power line while it is not as certain that the Provincial Treasurer will be able to recover from the municipalities benefitted. The sum of $785,000 advanced to the T. & N. O. Commission for the purpose of extending and improving the railway the Commission has in charge may also be possibly treated as an investment, although to pay interest and sinking fund after providing for operating expenses. Against the $90,000 for new oGvernment House and $270,000 expended on repairs and additions to the Parliament buildings, there may be set off the $80,000 received on account of the sale of old Government House and $139,000 in insurance on the burned wing of the Parliament buildings, items which are not included in the regular receipts of the ear, but this would still leave a shortage of $141,000 on these two accounts. There is no justification whatever for excluding, as the Provincial Treasurer has excluded, from the ordinary expenditure of the year, the sum of $150,000 spent on good roads, $174,000 for the new Provincial prison and $28,000 on addition to Osgoode Hall.

When, therefore, the whole account is fairly balanced it will be seen even after all possible allowances are made, that, instead of there being a surplus of some $3,500 on the year's transactions, there is an actual deficit of something like half a million. If the item of nearly half a million received from the sale of lands in New Ontario, a sale of assets, is excluded from the ordinary revenue of the year, the deficit—leaving out of account outlay on the T. & N. O. and Hydro Electric altogether—is almost the even million dollars.

The Sun repeats that "there is need of a man with a gun at the door of the Provincial vaults."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is quite natural that the ladies should be "divided" in opinion upon the subject of the harem skirt.

A profound thinker, who naturally complains of a headache as a result, suggests that the coronation will be the crowning event of King George's life.

The Montreal Star under its first attack of reciprocity hysterics declared that it was "up to" Laurier to "save Canada." Now, Sir Hugh Graham, is demonstrating that it is "down to" him to wreck the Conservative party. He wants a more pliant leader than Mr. Borden, one that will be a mere mouthpiece of the moneyed interests of Montreal.

INDIGESTION GOES IN FIVE MINUTES

Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Gas and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fulness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave, sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion

ELLIOT'S

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

By KINGSLAND CROSBY

"Who made him Governor?" Cuyler suddenly demanded.

"Who made him Governor? Why Hotchins and Blake, of course."

"Who made Hotchins and Blake?" Cuyler demanded still more insistently.

"It is now eight-thirty, Mr. Rittenhouse. You can catch the 9 o'clock train for Philadelphia. You will see Hotchins and Blake early to-morrow, and tell them I say this strike has got to be over by Wednesday night. You three can reach Harrisburg by four o'clock to-morrow afternoon. By Wednesday the National Guard must be moving toward the scene of trouble . . . . Good night, Mr. Rittenhouse."

The Philadelphia capitalist nodded to the others and quickly left the room.

"Now, gentlemen," said Cuyler, turning to those who still sat around the long, broad, polished table, "there are a few other matters to attend to. You, Mr. Barton, and Mr. Cooke," he continued, addressing the bankers from Boston, "find business conditions excellent through out New England, I understand? There is hardly a ripple of this New York excitement, which, I take it, you believe to be merely temporary and superficial. Everything is optimistic; sober, conservative New England has confidence in herself and in the country as a whole, and looks forward to industrial activity, and excellent business, from this time forth?"

"I suggest that you go at once to your hotel, gentlemen. My secretary will see that reporters call on you within an hour. To-morrow's newspapers here and in Boston must have strong, buoyant interviews. . . . . Good night, gentlemen."

The New England bankers silently withdrew.

"Bloodgood, you'd better take the midnight flyer out to Pittsburg. Wire the Senator to come on from Chicago and meet you there to-morrow evening. He's at the University Club for a day or so—I heard from him this evening. Tell the Senator I expect to see spread over Wednesday's newspapers the strongest kind of an interview he feels justified in making about the prosperity and business confidence of the Middle West."

When Bloodgood had departed, Cuyler glanced at his personal counsel.

"Anything further you can think of, Morton?"

The lawyer shook his head. "Nothing," he said.

"And you, gentlemen?" Cuyler then added, addressing the two New York bank presidents.

The other made no response, but arose and reached for his hat.

"I'll be in my office by nine," Cuyler remarked. "The market must be supported with large buying orders. Issue them. Let me know when you get downtown. Good night, gentlemen."

XIX.

When the front door had closed after them Cuyler called Johnson, who had been waiting in a room near by.

"The Russian Minister is at Manhattan Beach for a week," he said. "Go down there as quickly as possible. Insist on seeing him personally. Say I must have a talk with him to-night on a matter of supreme importance and bring him back here with you."

The secretary bowed slightly.

"It's just nine," Cuyler commented glancing at a tall clock in the corner. "You should be back with him by 11.30. That's all."

"Give me Long Distance. I want to talk with Lenox, Massachusetts. Call me when you get the connection."

He hung up the receiver, and paced back and forth, across the dim, spacious library, thinking, planning, for he had work ahead of him; difficult work, that would tax even his powers.

The telephone bell interrupted his train of thought, and he sat down before it.

"Is this Lenox?" he said. "I want the summer residence of the British Minister."

Two minutes sped by, and again the banker spoke.

"Is this the British Minister's house?"

"Yes," came the response over the wire.

"Is he at home?"

"Yes, sir, but he cannot be disturbed."

"I'm sorry, but I have to disturb him. . . . . Send him word immediately that Mr. Mortimer Cuyler must talk with him on the telephone."

"Hold the wire, please?"

"Yes," said Cuyler.

Three minutes, for, five, went by, and then the banker heard a voice that he recognized.

"I am Mr. Cuyler," he responded, his vibrant tones carrying with perfect ease far up into Massachusetts. "A situation of great importance has arisen. I must see you in New York as soon as you can get here."

"No, sir! Not the end of the week or to-morrow, but to-night!"

"Utterly impossible—not to be thought of for a moment!" the diplomat exclaimed. "We are giving a large dinner, and I left the table only [illegible] But I couldn't think of going to New York to-night."

"Sir George," he declared, "the situation I speak of is not personal to you. It is of importance to the Government you represent—of very great importance. There is no such thing as an alternative choice in the matter.

"In one hour you will find a special train waiting for you at your railroad station. You should reach New York by two o'clock to-morrow morning. My secretary will meet you at the Grand Central Station, and bring you to my house. . . . Good-bye."

He hung up the receiver without waiting for the other to reply, but soon took it down again to order a special train sent to Lenox with all possible speed.

This attended to, there was nothing more to be done until Johnson should return from Manhattan Beach bringing with him the diplomatic representative of the Tsar's Government, and they would not be due for two hours.

Cuyler had no doubt whatever that the Russian Minister would come back with Johnson, nor did he question that the British Minister, having excused himself to his dinner guests, would shortly be starting for the Lenox station to board the special which would bring him to New York. He took it as a matter of course that his plans would be acquiesced in. There were few of experience who dared to stand up and dispute his overmastering personality. He never talked for publication: he never expressed an opinion that could be quoted in the street for or against any enterprise. He was a man who "did things," in the world of finance—that little world standing back of the world of commerce and industry, which is literally the heart of all modern business.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You can stop a headache with powerful drugs. But it is not generally wise to do so.

Awaken the liver to healthful action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only free yourself of headache, but remove the cause which will soon lead to more dangerous results than headache.

Invigorate the action of the kidneys by the treatment and you take away the dangers of Bright's disease as well as free yourself of headache.

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can be almost sure of relief and cure when you cleanse and regulate the vital organs by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. You can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case, so long as the cause is the sluggish, torpid condition of the liver and kidneys.

If you don't feel like risking 25 cents for a box, write for a free sample. A trial will convince you of their merits. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Caught a Heavy Cold.

It Left Him with a Hacking Cough.

Mr. J. H. Richards, 1852 Second Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Allow me to write a few lines in praise of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Last fall I contracted a heavy cold which left me with a hacking cough, and every time I would get a little more cold this hacking cough would become a lung splitting one. It kept on getting worse and I kept on spending money buying different cough remedies until a friend asked me if I had ever tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I was willing to try anything I thought would cure, and on the same day bought two bottles. Before half the first one was used my cough began to get much easier, and by the time I had used a bottle and a half my cough was gone. I am keeping the other half bottle in case it should come again but I am quite sure I have a positive cure. Let me recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup to all who suffer from a cough or throat irritation of any kind."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

MUCH of the darkness of our lives is due to our walking in our own shadow. And our shadow will never trouble us when we walk towards the light."

There is a big pot of fluffy yellow daffodils on my working desk.

Yesterday morning when they were being watered they were accidentally turned away from the sun.

In the middle of the forenoon in a pen-nibbling moment, I gazed at them and was brought out of my abstraction to realize that these yellow blooms were slowly turning their faces back towards the sun.

By noon they had completely accomplished this tremendous—for a flower, of course—change.

Brave little daffodils.

A neighbour of mine lost her little baby six months ago. It was a beautiful pink and white and gold baby. It was cruel, hard to lose it, torture to have it taken from the warm cuddling place of her arms and put away, in the cold indifferent earth.

My neighbour's grief hang like a pall on her home. Her manner is as the sombre fluttering of crape on a door. There are four other beautiful children in that home. They are enough to make sunshine anywhere. And they need their mother's companionship. They suffer from the depression of her determined grief. I wonder how long she will persist in facing that dark corner of her loss instead of turning towards the sunsh.... of her great possessions.

You see she is not as wise as my daffodils.

Every life has its dark corner of loss or deprivation or unfulfilled desires and ambitions.

Every life has its sunshine of human beings to love and to be loved and needed by, of work to do, of a religion to be felt, of friendship and pleasures to enjoy.

There are times, of course, when circumstances face us towards that dark corner for a time.

But to grow, facing it, is not. And if we permit ourselves to do so, our lives will lose their spring and radiance just as surely as my daffodils would have lost their colour and freshness and faded before their time if they had not turned back towards the sun.

Sometimes it is a great effort to turn away from that dark corner, I know, but think of the persistent effort my daffodils made.

Wise little daffodils.

How much wiser they are than many, many people.

ST. JAMES' BROTHERHOOD WILL HOLD A DEBATE

The Most Vital Question of the Day Will Be Discussed

The Weekly Brotherhood Literary Society of St. James' church will hold a debate to-morrow evening, with Park Street as the opposing force. The subject of the debate will be resolved that "Reciprocity will lead to annexation." The affirmative will be taken by Messrs. W. S. Robinson and E. McLaren, the negative by Messrs. W. J. Dawson and A. Jackson. These meetings, which have been held weekly have proved an infinite amount of good, having been the means of development and bringing forth into public prominence a vast amount of intellectual ability in the platform speaking line, which would otherwise have remained hidden. The meetings have also been largely attended, and it is hoped that to-morrow night will prove no exception to the rule.

FOR FALLING HAIR

You Run No Risk When You Use This Remedy

We promise you that, if your hair is falling out, and you have not let it go too far, you can repair the damage already done by using Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, with persistency and regularity, for reasonable length of time. It is a scientific, cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal preparation, that destroys microbes, stimulates good circulation around the hair roots, promotes hair nourishment, removes dandruff and restores hair health. It is as pleasant to use as pure water, and it is delicately perfumed. It is a real toilet necessity.

We want you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic with our promise that it will cost you nothing unless you are perfectly satisfied with its use. It comes in two sizes, prices, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store.—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury.

Clydesdale News Items

Examiner Special.

CLYDESDALE, MARCH 29. — The last snow and sleet have made the roads very sloppy. Many of the young people are sorry.

Misses Marion McPherson and Edna Trotter, who have been visiting friends in Warsaw, Lakefield and Peterborough returned home Saturday. Miss McPherson leaves shortly for Murillo, where she has secured the position of teacher.

A box social in aid of the R. C. church was held in the schoolhouse on Friday night. The program consisted of recitations, dialogues, speeches and instrumental music. Miss Berlin, of Coe Hill, was the vocal soloist, and Dr. Brown an orator, was also greatly appreciated. The local talent was also present. John O'Brien occupied the chair, and much credit is due to the Coe Hill talent and others connected with the programme for their efforts in making the concert such a successful event. The boxes were auctioned by Mr. F. J. Bullied assisted by Mr John O'Brien, the auctioneers of Clydesdale. The proceeds amounted to $109.15.

Mr. Willie Johnston has purchased a farm from Mr. Joe Trotter, jr., and he is intending to get a team of horses in the near future.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The basketball games scheduled for Friday night will be postponed as the Hexathlon contest is to be run off on that night. The following are expected to be out at eight o'clock to take part in the above event: Annan, Willis, Rae, Flowers, Hill, Bartlett, Laing, Howden, Hall, Loomis, McCarrell, Shore, Ellis, Gilbert, Currie, Elliott, Scott, Sisson, F. Turner, M. Turner, Nicholls, Little, Hanwell, Irvine. The junior Hexathlon is being run off to-day, the Collegiate boys competing this afternoon and the intermediates to-night.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE ROSARY.

Peterborough people saw for the first time last night the famous human play "The Rosary" and its presentation at the Grand by a most capable company fully justified all the good things that have been said about it by the critics everywhere. There was a large audience present and the play most favourably impressed everyone not only by the strength and purity of the lines and action, but also because of the excellent acting of the judiciously selected cast in which there was not a weak spot. The plot is somewhat unusual but is gripping and impressive and lost none of its merit by the manenr in which it was interpreted. Mr. J. J. Smartgood in the role of Reverend Brian Kelly won especial favour by his finished and realistic acting and shared the honours with Miss Verginia Elwood who had the principal role. The other members of the cast were fully up to the standard of the principals.

Household Economy

How to Have the Best Cough Syrup and Save $2, by Making It at Home.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large quantity of plain syrup. If you take two cups of granulated sugar, add one cup of warm water, and stir about 2 minutes, you have as good syrup as money could buy.

If you will then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup, you will have as much cough syrup as you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly.

And you will find it the best cough syrup you ever used—even in whooping cough. You can feel it take hold—usually stops the most severe cough in 24 hours. It is just laxative enough, has a good tonic effect and taste is pleasant. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, etc.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the healing pine elements. No other preparation will work in this formula.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup is now used and prized in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has often been imitated but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. FRANK EMERY, Lindsay, Ontario.

We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration.

PRESENTATION WAS MADE

To Miss Marie Payne Who is Leaving for Western Ontario

WARSAW, MARCH 29. — A very pleasant event took place at the residence of Mr. Geo. Taylor on Thursday last, when the children of the school met to bid adieu to Miss Marie Payne, who leaves shortly to live in Western Ontario. Following the reading of the address and the presentation, Miss Payne arose and in a few appropriaate words thanked the donors in hearty appreciation of their kindness and thoughtfulness.

To Miss Marie Payne—

Dear Marie,—As you are about to leave us, we desire to express to you our good will. As you have lived in our midst, we have learned to love you and feel in your departure the loss of a very dear little friend. Please accept this biscuit jar and companion as a very slight token of our love and affection for you. May you live long and grow up to be a true, noble woman is the sincere wish of your school mates,

ANAEMIA AND WEAKNESS

Constantly Being Cured by Vinol—An Interesting Case Reported

Greensboro, N. C.—"I would not take a thousand dollars for the good Vinol has done me.

"I was told that cod liver oil was the medicine I needed for poor blood and my weakened condition. I could not take the [illegible], but when my druggist explained to me that Vinol contained all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, without the grease, and tonic iron added, I made up my mind that Vinol was the medicine for me.

"I tried it, and to-day am strong and well.—Mrs. J. T. Snider." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol is a specific for impure, impoverished blood and it is the greatest tonic we know of.

We sell Vinol always with the understanding that if the purchaser is not satisfied with the result it gives we will cheerfully refund his money. That seems fair. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte street; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

POST CARD COLUMN

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—"Strange sequence of events," says the Sunday World, and although hoping for little benefit from reciprocity, I am interested, since the question is discussed: "Has Canada once more been sacrificed for the supposed good of the Empire as seen by the Imperial Government?" . . . "It appears as if the reciprocity pact were the result of a huge conspiracy, in which the Government of Great Britain, through Ambassador Bryce, the Washington Government, and the Ottawa Government were concerned."

I have before me the programme of the Banquet of The Economic Club, on May 18th, at the Hotel Astor, New York, the subject for discussion being "Our Commercial Relations With Canada". Speakers, Henry H. Whitney, Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., Hon. C. S. Hamblin, Mr. F. L. Stetson, President.

Mr. P. Lorne McGibbon, President of the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Co., etc., said that British preference "need not necessarily interfere with the consummation of close trade relations between the United States and Canada, since Canada is absolutely free in shaping her own tariff policy, but the British preference may be said to be the keystone of that policy and must receive the first consideration.

The First Step.—"The first natural step towards a reciprocal arrangement should come from the United States. . . . The future rests with the United States. The solution of the problem is in your hands."

Yours, etc.,
W. A.B.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—It would seem to me that a gift for a King would be best made by the Georges of Peterborough raising $100 or $200 and endowing a couple of cots in the Muskoka Sanitarium for Consumptives.

King George has an income of a few millions annually, so a gift from us is like a present to J. Pierpont Morgan. No doubt some one who started this movement tried to do something loyal, but fell over himself in the effort.

The most loyal citizens are those who do not shout their loyalty from the house tops, but by quiet acts of charity, assist their fellow citizens in time of trouble and misfortune.

I trust this Committee of Georges will use this money in some way which will benefit those who require it, and not waste the money on a glittering gift, wich has no usefulness other than to please the eye.

I have my proportion to use for some charity, but I intend to consider the question of a gift direct to the King by the Georges of this city.

One of The Georges.

MISS DAVIES MADE A FINE IMPRESSION

Miss Helen Davies was one of the soloists at the grand concert under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterian choir of Lindsay on Tuesday night and made a most favourable impression as the following extracts from the press reports will show. The Lindsay Warder says:

Miss Davies has a voice of great power and penetrating sweetness and she sings with good judgment and taste. She is well qualified for dramatic work, her artistry being invariably in evidence. Miss Davies is also a vocalist of sincerity and refinement. Lindsay citizens will be pleased to hear Miss Davies on any future occasion.

The Post has the following:

The chorus was assisted by two artists who have already achieved more than a Provincial reputation—Miss Helen Davies of Peterborough and Mr. Russel G. McLean, of Toronto. Both were in excellent voice last evening and they won fresh laurels by their artistic rendition of the numbers assigned them.

Miss Davies possesses a magnificent soprano voice of wonderful range and purity. Her rendition of Hayden's "With Verdure Clad" was a triumph for this child of song, and she very gracefully responded to the hearty recall tendered her with another vocal number. Rarely indeed has an opportunity been presented our town of hearing such a gifted vocalist as Miss Davies. Her work in the chorus "With Sheathed Swords," and in the quartette was particularly fine.

NO ABATEMENT

The demand for farm labour shows no abatement and farmers continue to besiege Mr. G. H. Howson, the Government Employment Agent, for some help, which, in most cases, he is not able to supply. Eleven immigrants, who sailed on the steamer Montrose, arrived in Peterborough yesterday morning and before night all were at their new homes. There were two married couples in the party all of whom should prove worthy citizens of Canada, and seemed anxious to get along. Nearly all the parties coming to Peterborough have places waiting for them when they get here. Mr Howson would have no difficulty on placing three times as many as are arriving.

A GOOD COMPANY WITH A GOOD AGENT IN PETERBORO'

The Sun Life Insurance Company considers itself fortunate in having a chain of agents extending throughout Canada from coast to coast whose standing among the business community is worthy of the Sun's own good name.

In Peterborough their representative is no exception to the rule, and Mr. W. H. Hill is known as a keen and successful exponent of the merits of Life Insurance. "Prosperous and Progressive" as the Sun Life is, it owes no little share of its prosperity to its agents, who have shown the business men of the community that confidence in the Company which the Sun Life has come to deserve by the best years' work it has done.

MARYS SHOULD CONTRIBUTE A GIFT TO THE QUEEN

It has been suggested, presumably by one of the Marys of Peterborough that a subscription be taken up for Queen Mary, on the same basis as that which concerns the King George presentation fund. Several of the Marys of Peterborough have already signified their willingness to subscribe, in event of such a fund being raised, and there is no reason why they could not be given an opportunity to express their loyal admiration for Queen Mary in the form of a suitable coronation gift. The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire have been asked to receive collections for the gift, in Ontario. Contributions to range from five cents to five dollars, and may be given only by those who bear the name of Mary, May, Maria, Marian, or Marie. The list must be closed by April 20th. This is a suggestion that well deserves the attention of the ladies of this city, who bear one of the above names.

Why it will pay you to buy INVICTUS SHOES

It's then that the inferior leather shows its defects, both in looks and wearing qualities.

When you buy a pair of shoes you are at the mercy of the maker.

If he puts inferior leather into them he's going to lose your future trade.

But, if he uses good, high grade, selected leather, it means that your purchases won't stop with the one pair—you'll become a permanent buyer.

Because INVICTUS Shoes are made of the best selected leathers, by skilled workmen, on modern machinery, over stylish, up-to-date lasts.

They're made with the object of giving the maximum of wear, style & comfort that any shoes can give

NOT HER DAY

"It's St. Patrick's Day" Said the Small Boy

Clever children are not all imaginary. A Rubidge street four-year-old lad has a literal turn of mind. A few days ago—to be exact, March 17th—during the absence of his mother, he was left in charge of the house. A lady on her social rounds, called, was admitted by the youngster, and was told that the lady of the house was out.

"How is that? Isn't this her day?"

"O, no, ma'am, it's St. Patrick's Day."

This ready reply, worthy of the prompt wit of a son of St. Patrick, took off the edge of the lady's disappointment over making a fruitless call.

Booth's Kidney Pills Cured

What Doctors Called Bright's Disease

Mrs. M. Lewis, 13 St. David Place, Toronto, Ont., says: "I had doctored for over two years with many different specialists but could find little relief for what they termed Bright's disease. I was so weak and run down that I could not get up from a chair without supporting myself with both hands. My whole system had become so weakened and run down that I could scarcely walk. I was advised by a friend to try Booth's Kidney Pills. They gave me quick relief and I was soon rid of my suffering. I will always gladly recommend Booth's Kidney Pills and speak a good word for them."

Don't neglect your kidneys, once they go wrong they get a firm hold before the sufferer knows it, and backache, headache, lameness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Cure the kidneys with the guaranteed and safe remedy, Booth's Kidney Pills. Sold by all druggists, 50c. box, or postpaid from the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold and guaranteed by Wm. HILLIARD LANG WON FROM CY FLYNN

Canadian Welterweight Champion who Appears Here a Week From To-morrow Night had the Best of his Bout With Buffalo Boxer Last Night.

TORONTO, MARCH 30. The first entertainment of the newly-formed National Sporting Association of Canada was held last night in the Lyric Theatre. The chief attraction was the meeting of Hilliard Lang, welterweight champion of Canada, and Cy Flynn, the Buffalo boxer, in a ten-round bout. About one thousand club members witnessed the contest.

Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., and Mr. J. G. O'Donoghue addressed the house before the bouts. No decisions were rendered when both contestants went the specified distance.

Flynn, who is a tall, rangy boy, had a decided advantage in weight and reach. They met at catch weights. The Buffalonian must have tipped the beam at about 160 pounds, which would mean an advantage of at least fifteen pounds. In the last five periods Flynn was strictly on the defensive and refused to mix matters.

Lang's cleverness was very much in evidence in the early part. His blocking and covering up were fine, and he had no trouble getting inside Lang's defence. Flynn kept hammering Lang on the ribs, while the last named was aiming for the jaw. In the fifth round the local boy succeeded in landing a terrific left swing over the eye, which caused the blood to flow. From then on the Buffalo boy's utter lack of condition was quite apparent, while Lang improved as the bout progressed. Flynn seemed content to remain on his feet the balance of the bout, and did considerable holding.

THE PARK ST. BAPTIST CHURCH HAS ARRANGED INTERESTING SERMONS

The subjects for discussion at the Park street church on Sunday evenings during the month of April will be of vital interest to all concerned. Next Sunday evening the subject will be "Why Baptists do not believe in the baptismal teachings and traditions of Rome. The other subjects for the balance of the month will be as follows. Every Sunday evening at 7 p.m.:

April 2nd—Why Baptists do not believe in the baptism and traditions of Rome.

April 9th—"Love."

April 16th—"Courtship."

April 23—"Marriage."

April 30—Special addresses by Senor Ray, a Bolivian citizen, who was adopted by the savages of Paraguay.

Mr. Ray is the author of that famous book of travel "Through Five Republics on Horse Back." Rev. G. W. Ray had the royal honour, F.R.G.S. conferred upon him by the London Society. As government explorer he has trodden where no other man has, and Mount Ray, in the heart of Brazil, 2300 miles from the coast, is named after him by a grateful people. Senor Ray will preach at Park stret Baptist church, morning and evening, and at 3 p.m. will give a missionary lecture that will be open to all.

On Monday by special request, Mr. Ray will give a high class missionary entertainment, illustrated with beautiful stereopticon views. A large number of South American curios will be on exhibition. This is Senor Ray's first visit to Peterborough, though several attempts have been made to bring him. All should hear this great lecture.

ECZEMA NOT A BLOOD DISEASE

Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood. For this reason internal medicines have never been a success in curing eczema. Whatever the cause local application is necessary to heal the sores and restore the skin to a healthful, natural condition. For this reason Dr. Chase's Ointment has a world wide reputation as being without a rival for the cure of Eczema.

Coming Changes

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, ONT., MARCH 30.—While there seems no doubt to-day that Mr. Borden will retain the leadership of Conservative Opposition for the present it is also stated on good authority this morning that before another session Premier McBride of British Columbia and Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, Manitoba, will be elected members of the Commons. If there is no general election it is understood that Staples of McDonald, Manitoba and Barnard of Victoria will resign to make by-elections for Rogers and McBride.

Letters to Housewives No. 2

Why is it you don't like dish-washing?

China and glass-ware are easy enough to wash and dry—

But the dirty, greasy pots and pans—ugh!

If you only had something in the house that would clean them for you—

That would be a great boon, wouldn't it?

701 B

Letters to Housewives No. 3

You'd welcome anything that would make it easier to get the floors really clean.

Something that would make less rubbing and scrubbing necessary.

Something that, added to the water, made the dirt literally "melt away."

You can get it.

PEACE AND THE BIBLE

Tercentenary Can Be Made the Occasion of a Peace Pact—Big Meeting in London

PREMIER'S HOPE

London, March 30.—At a great meeting of churchmen and statesmen in Albert Hall last evening to celebrate the tercentenary of the revision of the English translation of the Bible by a commission which completed the so-called King James version in 1611, Premier Asquith and Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, who were the principal speakers, seized the opportunity to eulogize the arbitration movement.

Suffragettes interfered with the proceedings, and when the Prime Minister began, they unfurled banners bearing the inscription: "Votes for Women." The banners were torn up after a free fight.

In his address Mr. Asquith said:

"The English Bible belongs not only to the subjects of King George, but to the whole English-speaking world. One of the truths which has been slowly realized, and which now I firmly believe is rooted in the faith of Christian men and women on both sides of the Atlantic, is that war between English-speaking people would be not only a crime against civilization, but an unforgivable breach of the few commandments which are enshrined in the New Testament, on which both nations have been bred.

"There surely could not be a more worthy, a more appropriate, a more splendid monument to this tercentenary year than that it should witness the sealing of a solemn pact between us which would put an end, once for all, to the hideous and unthinkable possibilities of fratricidal strife."

Speaking of how the Bible furnished the strongest and most indestructible bond for the present practical unity in the aims and aspirations of the English-speaking family, Ambassador Reid said:

"While that community of aims and aspirations endures, starting as it does from our common possession and use of this book, and supported by the same language, the same common law, the same Parliamentary institutions, the same civil rights and largely the same blood, it is the greatest single guarantee for the peace of the world."

WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY.

Doctor Said That Sometime He Would Never Come Out of One.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork, or confinement in an overheated or overcrowded room or public building makes them feel faint or dizzy.

If you neglect the warning the slight feeling of dizziness gives you, and fail to take treatment, there will be a gradual progression to something more serious.

There is no reason you should wait till your case becomes desperate before you avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. F. S. Chute, Wheatley, Ont. writes:—"It is with gratitude I tell how your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. I was very weak and run down, and had headache, nearly every day and would very often faint away.

"In fact, my doctor said that sometime I would never come out of one of them. After taking three boxes of your pills I am glad to relate that it has been a number of years since I have had a fainting spell and scarcely have had a headache. Too much cannot be said in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for in me they have effected a perfect cure."

Had Ticket to Toronto.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 30.—Magistrate Fraser yesterday fined Frank Krewanics and Gregory Melynk $50 each for smuggling the latter's brother, Joseph, into Canada by making false representations to the immigration officials. They paid their fines and were deported last night. When the foreigners crossed the upper bridge late Tuesday, Gregory Frank, who could speak English, explained that they were going to Fallsview to visit friends. Joseph could not speak English.

Tuesday night, when two English-speaking Hungarians returned to the bridge without the other member of the party, the immigration officials were told that Joseph was drunk with his Fallsview friends and could not return to the American side. The pair were detained, and a search instituted. The missing man was found in Victoria Park Station of the Michigan Central with a ticket to Toronto.

Jack Johnson Sentenced Again.

San Francisco, Cal., March 30.—Ordered into the Police Court yesterday, Pugilist Jack Johnson was again sentenced to serve twenty-five days in the county jail by Acting Police Judge Treadwell so as to forestall any question of the legality of the original sentence, from which Johnson appealed.

An additional charge of automobile speeding will be heard April 4.

PLEA FOR FARMERS

Nationalist Member Wants One Tenth of the Revenue—More Pay For the I. C. R. Men

EXPERIMENTAL FARM

Ottawa, March 30.—Drummond-Arthabaska had its innings in the House yesterday. Arthur Gilbert, Nationalist, introduced an amendment to the motion to go into supply, calling upon the Government to spend 10 per cent. of the annual revenue in the interests of agriculture. The discussion for the most part was in French.

The motion was finally lost on division, and the House went into committee on supply on the Intercolonial estimates.

Hon. Mr. Graham explained that an additional $300,000 would be required this year on account of the payroll, owing to certain salary increases, following an adjustment all around. About $300,000 was required for betterments to the system, exclusive of certain amounts to be set aside for renewing rails and equipment, a bill to legalize which is now before Parliament. There was some discussion over the inertia of the traffic department. John Stanfield (Colchester), remarked that the Intercolonial officials were not as enterprising in going after tonnage as the officials of other railways.

Mr. Gilbert introduced the discussion on agricultural topics by moving in amendment to the motion to go into supply a resolution calling upon the Government to spend one-tenth of its annual revenue upon the development of the country agriculturally. He said he would like to see a model farm established in every county, where the farmers could receive practical instruction from competent teachers. Up-to-date methods in connection with the dairy interests of the country, he said, would more than double its value to the country.

Mr. Gilbert suggested that the Dominion Government should give aid to farmers' co-operative societies on a basis of $5 per member. He pointed out that since Confederation was accomplished in 1867, $14,464,000 has been spent on agriculture, as compared with $607,776,900 on railway subsidies, $83,193,399 on the militia, and $17,600,000 on iron and steel bounties.

Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) and Dr. Reid (Grenville) supported the motion with brief speeches in English. Both complained that the Government was not spending enough money on the agricultural development of the country.

R. Lanctot (La Prairie-Napierville) said he could not agree to the proposal to limit the amount to be expended on agriculture to any particular amount.

He said that the millions spent on railways, on the development of the St. Lawrence waterway, and for similar projects had really been spent in the interests of the farming community.

Andrew Broder (Dundas) said that the resolution was too local to control the situation. No man, he said, was stealing as much from mother earth as the farmer. But the farmer didn't need to be put to bed at night and wakened in the morning and carried about. The farmer wanted help and instructions.

J. E. Armstrong (East Lambton) supported the resolution. He dwelt upon the necessity of the Government taking steps to have the British cattle embargo removed. He was interrupted several times by E. W. Nesbitt (N. Oxford), who declared that the farmers of Canada did not want the embargo removed. Finally, the interruptions being so frequent, the Speaker called Mr. Nesbitt to order.

Hon. Sydney Fisher quoted Hansard to show that in 1899 he had made a proposal to the House to put an experimental station in every county. The Opposition had fought the proposal so vigorously that the Government was compelled to withdraw the vote from the estimates.

Haughton Lennox (N. Simcoe) asked if the vote had ever been renewed, and the minister said that it had not. Mr. Fisher added that the expenditure should be based on the needs of the service, and declared that the principle set forth in the motion was vicious. In the estimates for the fiscal year which will open on April 1, an increased vote had been included. The Opposition was crying for more money, but he did not notice any eagerness on their part to pass the estimates, especially the agricultural estimates.

During the discussion in the Senate yesterday on Senator Dandurand's motion to curtail the length of speeches reported in Hansard, Senator Lougheed declared that Hansard was a monument to the vanity of speakers.

Senator Roche of Halifax made an attack on the press. Reporters of the press, he said, were not men of the highest influence, but were chosen rather for the smallness of the salaries they would accept. The attitude of the press on public discussions was indicated by the fact that Ottawa papers would dismiss a debate with a brief report and give a page to an account of a hockey game. Electors were entitled to know the sentiments of their representatives, and they could not get them accurately, except from Hansard. In many cases the press were anxious to pervert the remarks of public men, and therefore their remarks should be officially recorded, and not left to be garbled by penny-a-liners of the press.

Approve Arbitration Scheme.

New York, March 30.—The board of directors of the American Peace and Arbitration League, which is holding its annual meeting in this city, yesterday sent to President Taft a letter of congratulation on the marked progress of the world peace movement. "We heartily commend," the message reads, "the Government's views, and those of Great Britain for definite action and all-inclusive arbitration between our kindred countries. We pledge our support in this great work."

MAKES GRAVE CHARGES

Coal Man Accuses Toronto School Trustees With Graft—Says Contracts Were Given to Firm Who Made Friends With Board Members

INQUIRY ENLARGED

Toronto, March 30.—A new sensation was sprung in the Levee investigation yesterday afternoon, which may call for special consideration by the Board of Education, to see if the scope of the enquiry shall be broadened to take in the conduct of ex-Trustee W. H. Smith, in conjunction with Chairman Levee, in connection with allegations that they were acting as agents for the Connell Coal Co. while the school contracts for coal were being considered.

Alf. Rogers of the Elias Rogers Coal Co. was the witness who made the charges in this matter. He told of having tendered on hard coal, and although his figure was from 25 to 35 cents per ton lower than the Connell, the latter was awarded the contract. He had been unable to get his bids accepted for the past five years, and to ascertain why it was he had engaged a private detective named McNamara of Chicago, to ferret things out.

The investigation, so far as the solicitations of the Blocum Medicine Co. amongst teachers are concerned, concluded at 6.15 last night; but Judge Winchester announced that he would not make his report until the Board of Education shall have had an opportunity to decide what it intended to do with regard to the coal case.

J. R. L. Starr, counsel for Mr. Levee, interposed that it should be treated as a separate matter; but his honor declared that it should come up in the present case if the Board of Education deemed it worth investigating.

Thirty-five witnesses were examined yesterday, including Inspectors Chapman and Hughes, Secretary Wilkinson and Supt. Bishop of the Board of Education.

Bishop's Body In State.

Hamilton, March 30.—The standing committee of the synod met yesterday afternoon to make arrangements for the funeral of Bishop DuMoulin. Arrangements will be made to have the body lie in state at Christ Church Cathedral for two days.

Messages of condolence poured in yesterday from all over Canada and the States, and from across the seas.

The dead bishop and Bishop Dowling, head of the Catholic diocese of Hamilton, were warm friends, and Bishop Dowling expressed keen regret at the news of Dr. DuMoulin's demise.

Rumors of War.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—A rumor was current last night that the Chinese had surrounded and were attacking Blagovieshichensk, capital of the Amur Province, on the Amur River, in Asiatic Russia. The rumor is without confirmation.

Blagovieshtchensk is situated close to Manchuria. It is cholera infected, and some trouble has arisen between the Russians and Chinese over the epidemic and quarantine measures. This town was unsuccessfully attacked by the Chinese in 1900, during the Boxer trouble.

Rare Painting Reproduced.

Quebec, March 30.—The rare painting of Blessed Thomas More, discovered in the possession of an old English family in Ontario, and shown at the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, will be reproduced in colors, giving the original and authentic portrait of the Chancellor of Henry Eighth, taken from the living person by the great German master, Albert Durer. The painting has been etched by R. J. Wickenden, and is to be taken to Rome to be consecrated, and later taken to England for exhibition.

McCaskill In Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, March 30.—K. P. McCaskill, chief of the provincial detectives of Quebec, arrived here last night to take Charles D. Sheldon, with many assumed name, to Montreal, Canada, where he is wanted, charged with operating "get-rich-quick" schemes.

MORRIS A PHYSICAL MARVEL

Carl Morris, Oklahoma's favourite son, must have made a tremendous hit with his native State friends on Tuesday, when he sent over the sleeper that put Mike Shreck away.

Morris came into prominence by beating an Indian named Euchre Joe, who had terrorized the police force, and the victor was at once heralded as the man to put the snuffer on Johnson. Morris followed his defeat of Euchre Joe by beating several pugilists well and favourably known.

If looks counted for anything in the squared circle, Morris' blows would already be decorated with the bays of victory. Physically he is an inspiring spectacle. Johnson and Jeffries are pygmies in comparison, as is shown by the following measurements:

	Johnson.	Morris.	Jeffries
Age	33	26	35
Weight	205	235	225
Height	6.1	6.4	6.1¼
Chest, in.	40	49	46
Reach, in.	72	81	75

Morris' record in the ring to date is as follows: Tim Hurley, knocked out, third round; Ed. Anderson, knocked out, third round; Battling Britt, knocked out, one round; Jim Harper, knocked out, third round; Marvin Hart, knocked out, fourth round; Spike Kennedy, knocked out, second round.

Morris has every incentive to develop himself. He has a millionaire backer, and also one Con. Riley, as trainer, who is reported to have swam the Ohio River once with a pair of boxing gloves on his hands. This unique natatorial feat is said to have ben performed after Riley had finished 3½ unsatisfactory rounds with a rough and ungentlemanly opponent.

"THE DECADENCE OF HOCKEY", AN AMERICAN SATIRE

Amusing Article by Chicago Tribune on Canadians' Great Winter Game Which is Taking a Firm Hold Upon the People of the Windy City.

The following amusing article entitled "The Decadence of Hockey," by a writer called Richard Henry Little in the Chicago Tribune, will be read with interest:

We saw our first game of hockey at the Ice Palace, on Marshfield avenue, the other night, and as the game is little known in Chicago, we hasten to describe it. We stood far back in the big crowd that bordered the ice during the game, and much of the information we gleaned regarding the sport was furnished by a short, thick set man with a long black mustache and a retreating forehead who stood near us.

The man also wore a bright red necktie and a diamond horseshoe stickpin, and used his Adam's apple in place of a chin. Outside of this he was all right. We asked the black mustache man why hockey had to be played on the ice, and the man said that as the players were required to wear skates they found they could get around better if they played on the ice. He said that the game had been tried on a grass field, but the grass tangled up in the skates and prevented rapid work.

Also a grass field was too soft. When a man is thrown down on a grass field it doesn't kill him. Ice is nice and hard, and when a player cracks it with his nose it hurts the player just as much as it does the ice. The black mustached man said that the game of hockey had sadly deteriorated.

Under the old rules of hockey there were seven murderers on each side. The black mustached man said they had to be murderers because it's a very rough game. We asked him why burglars, or second story men, or members of the legislature couldn't have played the game, but the black mustached man said we had failed to understand his remark. Hockey, he said, was not a dishonest game—that, is, not necessarily so.

"But 'tis a bit rough," said the black mustached man He went on to explain in a deep undertone heavily freighed with sorrow and rye whiskey that in hockey neither the strangle hold nor the half nelson was barred. He asked us to remember rule 4. We tried with great earnestness, but could not recall rule 4. Never having seen the laws that govern the grand old game of hockey, we couldn't even remember rule 2. It seems that in rule 4 the players are required to use only long clubs to pound each other with. There is, to be sure, another use for the clubs, and that is to drive the little rubber dingus called the "puck" back and forth on the ice and across the goal lines. But this is only incidental. The black mustached man said that the game is being ruined by the reformers who put in rule 4 and made it a law of the game

According to rule 4, the work of the reformers, who are attempting to reduce the game to the level of jackstraws or tiddleywinks, no player is allowed to carry a revolver or knife. We were horrified at the diabolical work of the reformers, and so expressed ourselves. We asked the black mustached man if the players were not even allowed to carry brass knuckles or sand bags, but he mournfully shook his head and said no. The only deadly weapons now used by hockey players are the clubs, which are not any bigger than fence rails.

The game began and the players dashed madly at each other. The clubs whistled through the air. The carnage was terrible. The referee blew his whistle and the game stopped.

"Why the delay?" we asked the black mustached man.

"The other side has sent in a "flag of truce," said the black mustached man. "They want to stop the slaughter for five minutes while they bury their dead and carry off their wounded."

True enough. Three players were borne solemnly from the field. Thinking it was the proper thing to do, we applauded vigorously.

o-o-o-o-o

During the wait the black mustached man gave us further information regarding the sport. He said that the reformers had changed rule 7 so that we could hardly recognize it as applying to hockey or pinochle. "Rule 7," said the black mustached man, with tears in his eyes, "would be all very well in the brutal game of seven-up or in the fiendish game known as 'button, button, who's got the button?'"

As a matter of fact the seventh rule, the second one crowded into hockey, was copped bodily from the constitution and by-laws of the Buena Park Ladies' Whist Club. It prohibits hitting an opposing player on the nose or even slapping in the breakaway, or pulling the hair, or holding with the teeth.

"Well, well, well," we said to the black mustached man, "what a diabolical outrage!"

"It sure is," said the black mustached man. "Before long they will be padding the ice. That's what the reformers will do to a game when they get started."

The black mustached man harked back to the past again.

Only a few years ago, and hockey was played right. In those happy, carefree days, before the reformers had got in their deadly work, hockey players carried axes and had their clubs studded with spike nails and razor blades. The game had much greater possibilities then than it has now. There was an opportunity for head work and strategy. For instance, when one side would see that its goal was in danger of being crossed the players would mass in front of the opposing team and hold them back while one of their number would quickly dig a hole in the ice and insert a stick of dynamite.

The explosion would cause a deep hole in the rink, into which the opposing players would fall as they rushed on toward the goal. Then the team which had dug the hole would stand around the edges and whack the other players over the head with their clubs until they gave up or became unconscious.

"When did the game begin to deteriorate?" we asked the black mustached man.

He said that the decadence in hockey began in 1904 when the reformers succeeded in having the sport brought within the scope of the international peace conference at The Hague. The friends of hockey agreed to this proceeding in order to have the action taken by The Hague tribunal against dumdum bullets apply to hockey. For a long time there had been a growing sentiment among the players against the use of exploding bullets. Sometimes the players were so massed up by these bullets it was impossible to identify the bodies, and as each casualty counted the opposing side fifteen points, naturally it was highly important to know on which side a dead man belonged.

This was all very well, but when the reformers went further and claimed that all the rules of civilized warfare, as laid down by The Hague conference applied to hockey, the friends of the sport recognized they had been imposed upon. For example, the game as played under the rulings of The Hague conference no longer permits firing on the wounded nor the filing of the teeth of the players to a razor edge.

Hockey must have been some game in its time.

FOOTBALL

At the meeting of All Saints' Football Club on Tuesday night, Messrs. Abbott, Downs and Moffatt were appointed delegates to attend the league meeting on Saturday night. The club decided that their colours should be black and white. All those wishing to become members are asked to send in their names to the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. T. B. Moffatt, 139 Rubidge street.

Two Wonderful Cures

Zam-Buk Heals Terrible Injuries.

Just think of a little fellow of two years burned so badly that the flesh peeled off! That was the case of the two-year-old son of Mrs. A. Peters, of Wilton, Ont. The little one's arm from his hand to his shoulder, was terribly burned, and the tendons and muscles of the arm badly injured. He received medical treatment, but the shocking burn did not get better—the flesh would not heal under ordinary treatment. For long it was hoped the arm would get better, but hope seemed in vain. The family then turned to Zam-Buk and note the effect. Mrs. Peters says:

"A few applications gave him ease, and the sores then began to heal. In a few weeks they were completely healed. Not only so, but Zam-Buk had such a beneficial effect on the injured tendons and muscles, that these too recovered their usual functions, although they had previously become shrivelled and almost useless.

"This is not the only proof of Zam-Buk's wonderful value we have had in our family. My father, who is 76 years old, has found Zam-Buk highly beneficial for eczema. He has been troubled with this disease for twenty years, being unable to get more than temporary relief from doctor's prescriptions, but after persevering with Zam-Buk the sores are entirely healed."

Zam-Buk, cures eczema, ulcers blood-poison, abscesses, skin eruptions scalp sores, chapped places, cold sores, piles, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes. Try Zam-Buk Soap too, only 25c. tablet, at all druggists.

CONTESTANTS WILL BE IN BEST OF SHAPE

Frank Carroll, Canada's clever lightweight champion, who manages and will bring Tommy Sturch and Fred Crompton to Peterborough on April 7th, may appear in the near future, in a bout for the lightweight championship, here. Carroll says Sturch and Compton will be in first-class shape for their bouts here.

Dr. McPherson will be asked to examine the contestants before entering the ring. The reserved seat plan will be opened Tuesday. Admission will be reserved $1.00 and 75c General admission, 50c. The public in Toronto, at any of the clubs there are charged $2.00 to see bouts of this calibre. On account of the large seating accommodation here the management are able to let the sport-loving people of Peterborough see these bouts at such a reasonable price.

WEDDING BELLS

BELL—McWHA.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Luke's church to-day at half past two when Miss Mary McWha, daughter of Mr. Hugh McWha was married to Mr. David Bell, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt. The bride, who was given away by her brother, looked petite and dainty in a dress of white mulle trimmed with valeciennes lace and insertion and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the home of the bride, where a dainty dejeuner was served. The happy couple left amid showers of rice and confetti for their future home in Toronto. The bride travelled in a smart black tailor-made suit with hat to match. We all join in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

Indian River Happenings

Special to The Examiner.

INDIAN RIVER, MARCH 28.—Mr John Lonergan has all the material on hand for the erection of his new dwelling house.

Mr. Frank Sullivan of Peterborough, spent last Sunday with his parents here.

Mr. Peter McCrea of Peterborough, is visiting friends here.

Mr. John McCormick has enlisted with Mr. Stephen Murphy for the summer. He is an apprentice to the blacksmith trade.

The death occurred a few days ago of one of the oldest, widely-known and highly respected residents of Indian River, in the person of Mr. Matthew Breckenridge. Mr. Breckenridge had been a life-long resident of Indian River and his many good qualities as a neighbour and citizen won for him many warm friends. He was 79 years of age and leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife, one daughter, Miss J. Breckenridge, who is at home, and five sons, John of Westwood, Gavin and Matthew of Edmonton, Alta., who attended the funeral, and Thomas and William, who reside here. Mr. Breckenridge is a brother of Mr. Breckenridge, Westwood Township, Clerk of Ashphodel.

GERMANY NOT ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE PEACE PACT

WILL NOT SOLVE PROBLEM

Berlin, March 31.—In the course of the debate in the Reichstag on the questions of universal disarmament and universal arbitration, Count Von Kanitz, Conservative, devoted the greater part of his speech to the American affairs, contrasting the speech of Commander W. S. Simms of the American navy at the Guildhall, London, which called forth a reprimand from President Taft, with the utterances of Congressman Champ Clark concerning the annexation of Canada, saying "While an American naval officer is assuring England of the friendship of the United States, a future President of that nation is talking of the absorption of Canada."

"Canadian reciprocity," he said, "raised the point of what compensatory favors were to be had by Germany."

Of the proposed Anglo-American complete arbitration treaty, the speaker said that the plan promised little if questions like that of the Monroe doctrine were excluded.

Discussing the proposed extension of international arbitration in the Reichstag yesterday, Chancellor Von Bethman-Hollweg classed universal arbitration and universal disarmament as ideals impossible of realization.

The imperial chancellor saw the chief difficulty in a disarmament agreement in the impossibility of supervision of individual states. "Control over these," he said, "I regard as absolutely impracticable. The mere attempt to control would have no other result than continual distrust and universal turmoil. General disarmament is an unsolvable problem so long as men are men.

"It will remain through," continued the chancellor, "that the weak will be the prey of the strong. If any nation feels that it is unable longer to spend certain sums for defensive purposes it will inevitably drop to the second rank. There will always be a stronger one ready to take its place. We Germans, in our exposed situations, cannot shut our eyes to this dire reality, only so far as we can maintain peace.

"The nations, including Germany," said the chancellor, "have been talking disarmament since the first Hague conference, but neither in Germany nor elsewhere has a practical plan been proposed. Great Britain wishes the limitation of armaments, but simultaneously wants a superior or equal fleet. Any conference on this subject is bound to be fruitless. No standard for a limitation can be found, and any conceivable proposal will be shattered on the question of control."

Von Bethmann-Hollweg instanced Napoleon's limitation of the Prussian army, when Prussia, adhering to the letter of her treaty, trained a fourfold army by shortening the period of training. Germany was willing, he said, to accept the English proposal for an exchange of information regarding navy building programs. He accepted the idea of arbitration in principle, but universal arbitration was as impossible of accomplishment as universal disarmament. By this principle, two nations, like the United States and Great Britain, could seal the de facto status, but if new questions arose arbitration might prove inadequate.

China Playing For Time.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The Novoe Vremya and Retch yesterday editorially call attention to the provocative attitude of the German press, which is urging China to resist the Russian demands in Mongolia.

The opinion is widely entertained here that China's reply to the Russian ultimatum was merely intended to gain time until she is ready for hostilities.

Scepticism as to the finality of the Russo-Chinese settlement is growing, and the newspapers are full of reports of Chinese military preparations.

Expulsion of Chinese.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—An official telegram received by the Foreign Office from Harbin yesterday explains that Wednesday night's rumor of a Chinese attack upon Blagovieshtchensk, the capital of the Amur province, arose from the expulsion from the Russian bank of the Amur river of many Chinese, who had fled thither from plague centres.

They are now returning in a starving condition, and frequently attack Russian travelers.

Quebec City Loan.

Quebec, March 31.—At a meeting of the civic finance committee last night the tender of the Bank of Montreal for the new city loan of $1,000,000 at 101 1-2 for 100, payable in London was accepted. Interest will be at 4 per cent., payable semi-annually, and a sinking fund is to be created to be deposited semi-annually so that the entire loan will be paid when due, fifty years hence.

EXTENDS LINES

Hydro Electric Commission Will Run Lines to Windsor and Will Also Go East to Kingston and District

IN NORTH AS WELL

Toronto, March 31.—Hon. Adam Beck and the members of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission had an epoch making day at the Parliament buildings yesterday. Two great industrial projects of vast provincial, if not of national proportions, were adopted, and concurred in by the Ontario Government after a conference with the commission.

One of the two big projects was the extension of the Hydro-Electric power transmission line from St. Thomas to Windsor.

The other was the adoption of a plan to supply the Napanee-Kingston group of cities and towns with Hydro-Electric power.

Provision was also made to supply Midland, Penetang and Waubashene with electricity to the extent of 1,600 horse-power.

The transmission line from St. Thomas to Windsor as previously announced, was contemplated when the Legislature was asked to authorize a new provincial loan, but was made dependent on a reasonable demand for power at Windsor and on the route of the extension westward being assured. This is now regarded as available, and the commission was authorized to proceed with the undertaking, provided conditions satisfactory to the members of the board were made for the operation of the Michigan Central Railway tunnel with Hydro-Electric power.

Jubilation will be likely to manifest itself in the southeastern portion of the province at the announcement of an optional contract by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission with the New York & Ontario Power Co. for a supply of 15,000 horse-power for Napanee, Kingston, Lansdowne, Brockville, Lynn, Prescott, Cardinal, Morrisburg and Athens.

Crisis In Austria.

Vienna, March 31—The Lower House of the Reichstag was dissolved yesterday and a new election ordered.

A recent despatch from Vienna said that Czech obstruction to the passage of the estimates had brought another Parliamentary crisis. The total extra credits asked for the army and navy during the next four years amount to $105,000,000, and the Ministers intimated before the delegations that the estimates would be increased later. It was pointed out at the time that the creation of a large fleet of battleships was necessary so that Austria could keep her place with the other powers. None of the Ministers, however, have been able to state how the money was to be found, except by incurring a new debt. Stormy debates were expected when the Reichstag met.

Alaska Railway Completed.

Cordova, Alaska, March 31.—The last spike completing the Copper River & Northwestern Railway, between Cordova, on tidewater, and Kennecott, where the Bonanza Copper mountain is situated, was driven yesterday. Trains will be in operation over the entire line within two days.

Work on the railroad, which is 197 miles long, and cost $20,000,000, was begun Nov. 15, 1906. The railroad is owned by the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate, which also owns the Alaska Steamship Co. and copper mines.

Construction of the road was one of the most remarkable engineering feats of modern times.

Grain Elevator Burned.

Broadview, Sask., March 31.—Fire early yesterday destroyed A. R. Calhoun's elevators, containing 6,000 bushels of grain.

FAVOURS THE PREFERENCE WITH BRITISH POSSESSIONS

Mr. Fielding Says the Government Will Favourably Consider Better Trade Relations.

YESTERDAY IN HOUSE

Ottawa, March 31.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Hon. Geo. E. Foster urged upon the Government the advantage of promoting trade with the West Indies. These islands presented a most promising field for mutual preferential trade, and he hoped that the proposed arrangement with the United States would not prejudice Canada in widening the scope of trade within the Empire.

He did not advocate a preference of twenty per cent. to such places as British Guiana, Barbados and Trinidad, as nothing was to be gained by that course. Jamaica was on a different basis. That island enjoyed a trade with the United States, and he did not want to place it in a position of suffering from reprisals by the United States. There were grounds for an inference in the report that this would not be done, but he thought it should be made clear with the United States that reprisals would not follow on any trade arrangements made between colonies of the Empire or between any colony and the Mother Country. The conclusion of the commission was that conditions were most favorable for a reciprocal trade arrangement.

Hon. Mr. Fielding did not think that the trade pact with the republic would affect relations with the West Indies. Tropical fruits were already free, and were excepted in the free schedule of the United States agreement. While Jamaica had rejected the proposal, the Government was in full sympathy with the movement suggested by Mr. Foster. Canada had done everything to improve steamship service, but the attitude of the islands in demanding a direct service prevented a subsidy, being applied.

Mr. Fielding stated that when he was in England he had spoken of an arrangement whereby the West Indian mail would come to Canada and would be forwarded from Canada to its destination by fast steamers. But the islands desired the direct mail, as had had been the custom in the past, and only a few days ago he had received word that the British Government could not enter into the contemplated arrangement on account of the desire of the islands for the direct route. This was rather a disappointment, as it took away the British assistance in the matter of a fast steamship communication. What the Government would do ultimately would be announced later.

In reply to Mr. Borden, the Minister of Labor gave a long explanation regarding the situation at Springhill, N.S., which was to the effect that the position taken by the parties did not admit of any settlement by the Government.

Mr. King could give no further information concerning the threatened strike in Alberta. Telegrams had been despatched to the union leaders, and an official of the Department was on the spot.

E. N. Lewis (W. Huron) asked the Government to prorogue the House after voting supply, and complete business next autumn, in view of the present epidemic of typhoid fever in Ottawa and an outbreak of smallpox.

Mr. Lewis' motion was without a seconder. The Speaker appealed in vain to several members. Dr. Daniel declined the honor, as did others.

While the House was in committee of supply last night, there was a little discussion over the proposed Welland Canal. Mr. Graham said the intention of the Government was to construct locks for a 30-feet canal, but the canal itself would be built for the present to accommodate boats with a 25-feet draft. The locks were the most expensive part of the canal, and as the cost of excavation was the same 30-foot locks would be provided. The width of the canal would be 200 feet.

A. McCall (Norfolk) thought there was no need for a canal of more than 20-foot depth. Vessels on the great lakes did not draw more than 18 feet.

The Minister told Dr. Sproule that he could not tell when the work would commence, or what the cost would be.

The House adjourned, after passing a few other votes, at midnight.

A RIGID SYSTEM.

Camorrists Possessed Elaborate Government, Says Witness.

Viterbo, Italy, March 31.—According to the revelations of Abbatemaggio, who is appearing as a witness against his former associates in their trial for murder, Naples is divided into fourteen Camorrist regions, each having its Camorrist hierarchy. In every one of these regions a member of the organization is daily entrusted with the maintenance of order among those affiliated with the Camorra. His powers and influence are greater than those of the police or Carabineers, as he is expected to denounce those who commit disorders, and thus compromise the existence of the association, which is destined for more important enterprises.

The entire afternoon was taken up with the evidence submitted by Abbatemaggio at the various investigations, the counsel for the defence endeavoring to trap him into contradictions, but the witness maintained his composure and gave a good account of himself, energetically refuting their remarks.

Abbatemaggio said that shortly after the murder of Cuoccolo, when he was in the company of Giovanni Rapi, he met the priest, Vitozzi, who suggested that Erricone, so that he might not be suspected, should go frequently to the Mimi-a-Mare Cafe in order to give the police the impression that he was a frequenter of the place. It was in this inn that the report of the murder of Cuoccolo is alleged to have been communicated to Erricone.

Vitozzi, on hearing this statement by the witness, raised his hands and eyes, and with horrified expression exclaimed, turning towards the prisoners' cage:

"If I had ever suspected that Erricone was stained with such a monstrous crime I would have delivered him myself to justice, saying to him, 'Bear the burden of your sins'."

The tone of his voice was so melodramatic that all burst into laughter, Rapi appearing even more amused than the others. Abbatemaggio swore that Vitozzi was an active member of the Camorra, that he frequented the meetings of the organization, dressed as a layman, and was particularly aggressive in helping to carry out the Camorrist schemes.

Dead Now 144.

New York, March 31.—The death yesterday of Sarah Kupla, a sixteen-year-old girl, who jumped from the eighth floor during Saturday's fire horror, brought the list of victims up to 144. The girl's back was broken, and she had been unconscious ever since the fatal leap.

The identification of another girl's body, by a strange arrangement of buttons on her shoe, brought the list of unnamed down to 12. There seems little chance of further identification, and the charities' board has made arrangements to bury them in the cemetery of Evergreens on a plot donated by the city.

Fire Marshal Beers, who is conducting an investigation into the disaster, besides visiting the Asch building yesterday, further examined save cores.

Contributions to the relief fund yesterday totaled more than $50,000.

Australia's Naval Defence.

Adelaide, March 31.—Vice-Admiral [illegible] strongly endorses Admiral Henderson's naval defence in Australia, and urges the necessity of the Dominion coming under the white ensign. The public feel the speech greatly increases the movement for the co-ordination of the naval policy within the Empire.

Must Pay the Tax.

London, March 31.—M. Bayard Brown, partner in the banking house of Brown, Shipley & Co., who lives in retirement on his yacht at Brightlingsea, was yesterday ordered by the courts to pay a $50,000 income tax. Brown claimed exemption from the operation of the law on the ground that his income came from the United States, but the court held that, although he was an American citizen, he was a resident of the United Kingdom.

$7,000 Fire at Tamworth.

Kingston, March 31.—The Barrie Block at Tamworth was destroyed by fire at midnight. Three stores and dwellings were in it, including W. Coulter, photographer; T. M. Barry and W. A. Yorke's barber shop, where the fire began. The loss is about $7,000 with some insurance. Floyd & Co.'s store and stock adjacent were badly damaged.

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

By KINGSLAND CROSBY

At the time of Eleanor Cuyler's disappearance a small group of private citizens constituted this financial heart of the nation. Some of them were wholly unknown to the general public; almost all of them lived quietly, unostentatiously, shunning notoriety as much as possible. Their names seldom appeared in newspapers, but could be found recurring again and again on boards of directors in the greatest of business enterprises. They were the handful of men who had made or unmade the presidents and other high officials of practically all the great corporations in the United States, and dictated the policy of each. They possessed in a literal sense the power of a Napoleon—and knew enough not to use it.

From the days of Alexander Hamilton and Robert Morris, down to the present, few men have rendered their country greater service than those constituting one group after another of financiers, self-developed from the ranks, whose integrity, ability, experience, have guided this nation in the most wonderful material development known to history. They have been as necessary to the nation as the locomotive engineer is to the trainload of passengers for whose safety he has assumed responsibility.

During a considerable period the one greatest individual force in American finance was Mortimer Cuyler. He had suspected, before Wotsirb voiced the suggestion, that there might be some connection between his daughter's disappearance and the terrific raid, from foreign sources, upon his securities; for which reason his determination became the determination of a fanatic to throw himself into the struggle, and fight, fight, fight, his European enemies until they were crushed, gasping, dying; ground to powder beneath his heel. And with the full approval of the few financiers whose interests were linked with his own, he had sprung to the attack as quietly, as remorselessly as ever a tiger leaped upon its prey.

Not loud words, or heated brain, or angry gestures for Mortimer Cuyler. He moved swiftly, silently and struck hard—again and again, from directions never expected, with a celerity astonishing, bewildering—all the time calm, unruffled, sure of his goal.

When he telephoned the British Minister, that night, and ordered a special train for him at Lenox, he already had decided upon his first superficial moves. There would be other attacks direct, unseen, by which he would reach the vitals of those conspiring financiers on the other side. But, first of all, it was necessary to keep American stockholders in his scores of great enterprises from throwing hundreds of thousands of shares into a crazy, panicky market; from sacrificing their holdings at ruinous rates, from practically giving away securities which until then had represented, and would in future represent, good, sound bases for comfortable incomes, even permanent competencies.

Ten o'clock went by; eleven, twelve. It was nearly one Tuesday morning when a carriage drove rapidly up to his front door and stopped. Then faintly, he heard voices coming up the main staircase, and Johnson, pausing in the doorway, said:

"Mr. Cuyler, the Russian Minister."

Cuyler stepped forward as the other entered: a tall, rugged man of soldierly erectness, with masses of blond hair brushed from his forehead, and a flowing beard.

"I thank you for coming, General," the banker said.

"It is a great pleasure to respond to your request. I hope I may be of some service to you."

Two younger men stood close by the splendid Muscovite—one at his right hand, the other directly back of him.

Cuyler glanced at them inquiringly.

The younger men bowed respectfully, and Cuyler acknowledged the salutation.

"Mr. Johnson will invite you to await His Excellency downstairs," he said.

The Minister hesitated. He did not relish this idea of being separated from his body-guard at one o'clock in the morning, in a strange, lonely house—even if that house were Mortimer Cuyler's.

"Mr. Johnson, you will take His Excellency's secretaries downstairs," said Cuyler, with significant emphasis. And at a slight gesture from the diplomat the three younger men withdrew.

"Pray, be seated by my desk," the banker continued, indicating a chair.

He pressed a button, and that part of the room was flooded with electric light.

For a single instant he gave his visitor a searching glance. Then, true to his character, he plunged at once and directly into his subject. Leaning forward a little, and speaking with a finality that admitted of no contradiction, he said:

"Your Excellency, that military railroad cannot be built southward to the Persian Gulf."

The Russian Minister sat immovable. Not so much as the tremour of an eyelid betrayed the anxiety he had felt ever since Johnson had found him an hour previous.

"First of all, Mr. Cuyler;" he remarked easily, "I must apologise for the delay in responding to your call. I left Manhattan Beach early htis evening, and was on board a yacht in the Lower Bay, when your secretary found me. He had chartered a tug for the search."

He paused, but Cuyler said nothing. After a moment he added:

"Will you permit me to light a cigarette?"

The banker bowed, still leaning forward, tense, insistent.

In a moment or two a spiral of creamy smoke floated from the Minister's lips, and then he spoke again.

"Pardon me, Mr. Cuyler, but what was it you said just now?"

"I said that the projected military railway cannot be built southward to the Persian Gulf."

"That is," suggested the Minister, in tones of polite regret, "you find that you yourself are unable to build it."

"I mean," repeated the financier, "that it cannot be built. I will not build it and you cannot get anyone else to undertake it."

"Ah?" the other inquired, raising his eyebrows, "I am sorry you cannot. We must arrange, then, with Paris or Berlin, and London. . . Do I understand that Cuyler & Company definitely withdraws from the project?"

"Definitely, and absolutely. Furthermore, your Excellency," Cuyler continued, laying one hand firmly on the desk, "no other bankers will be allowed to carry out the undertaking."

"Ah?" the Muscovite repeated, but this time there was a shade of anxiety in his voice. "And may I be permitted to inquire why you speak so confidently?"

"You may—although I may be permitted, perhaps, to observe that you know the reasons as well as I do. Your Excellency knows that Great Britain, views that projected railway with the greatest apprehension. Your Excellency knows she has made representations to your Government regarding it, and has also sounded the Powers as to their feeling. Your Excellency knows, furthermore, that completion of that railway is viewed with alarm by states of Central Europe, and that no financial interests in the world save those of America can be appealed to in your present emergency. And I say to you positively that not one dollar of American money will be used to build that military highway. . . . Your Excellency will see, therefore," Cuyler quietly concluded, sitting back in his chair, "that my first statement was correct. . . . The projected railroad to the Persian Gulf cannot be built—by anyone."

He remembered to the full what Cuyler had suspected—that continuance of his appointment as Minister to the United States depended upon his success in obtaining American financiers to handle that railway project. That was the one reason he had been sent to Washington. Success in carrying it out meant a long future of increasing political preferment, honour, wealth, high position for himself and his family. Failure to complete the negotiations meant ruin to him and an obscure, ill-paid, miserable army post a thousand miles from Petersburg.

Suddenly a new idea occurred to him. He wondered why he had been such a fool as not to think of it before.

"Of course," he remarked with a little smile intended to inspire confidence, "I understand that in America you have, sometimes, what are called—eh—Gentlemen's Agreements. Not necessarily ever to be mentioned, but of value to facilitate large undertakings. Now, my dear sir, of course, if any of your associates or assistants would accept a moderate additional commission of say one or two million roubles, I think we could—"

His Excellency will please be careful!" Cuyler interrupted, rising from his chair, hands clenched, head thrown back. For a moment they faced each other: not longer, for no living creature could stand before those terrible piercing eyes.

The foreign diplomat recovered his poise and bowed deeply.

"My apologies to Mr. Cuyler; and my congratulations to the United States that the honour of their greatest of financiers is above suspicion," he said gravely.

There was another slight pause and he again spoke; this time with true American directness.

"What" he said, "is the message I shall have the honour to forward my Government—what is your position in the matter?"

"This: the projected road to the Persian Gulf cannot be built. Under fair terms Cuyler & Co. will, however, finance a road eastward through Siberia to some open port on the Pacific coast. Such a plan would quiet the uneasiness of Central Europe, preserve present amicable relations with the United States, overcome the hostility now spreading through England, and restore to Russia the friendship and faith of the British Government.

"I understand," said the Muscovite. "I will endeavour to give you a reply in five days."

"You will give me a reply in five minutes," Cuyler remarked quietly.

The Minister raised his hands in protest. The ruddy tinge fled from face and throat. An expression of alarm passed over his countenance.

"What you ask, sir, is simply impossible—out of question! I could not assume responsibility fraught with such grave results! I must lay the whole matter before my Government."

"Your Excellency," Cuyler began, and there was a warning note in his voice—"your Excellency has thrice represented to me that you have full authority to conclude agreements—binding contracts—in the matter of this railway."

"But that was concerning the road as originally planned!"

"You are right. The situation has changed. You say you cannot officially accept the new route to the Pacific—but you certainly can give me assurance that you will use your best endeavours to have it adopted by your Government?"

"I can do that, Mr. Cuyler. . . . Suppose, however, that I fail? Suppose my Government refuses to accept the line eastward to a Pacific port?"

"Then," said Cuyler, with a grim smile "within thirty days American aggressiveness, British influence, French capital, and German constructive genius will have under way two military railways—one running from the Persian Gulf northward; the other from a port on the Japan Sea eastward through Manchuria and Mongolia. These roads will connect at a point—to be announced later."

His Excellency's head swam, and he gripped the back of a chair to steady himself. He saw in such a plan not merely ruin for himself, but for ever checked, and effectively, that expansion of Russia's dominions which had been the dream, the purpose, of five generations of Tsars and their statesmen.

"Of course," he said, hesitatingly, "I see at a glance what those proposed railroads would mean, and I see as do you, Mr. Cuyler, that they are not at all necessary to any of the several interests involved. Therefore, while I cannot, without consultation, absolutely promise that my Government will agree to your Pacific route, yet I can give you my personal assurance that there is no doubt about it. What my Government wants first of all is an outlet to an open port. It will be perfectly safe for you to go ahead on that basis.

"And now, Mr. Cuyler, if there is no way in which I can be of further service, I will bid you good night and good wishes."

The financier pressed a button twice. His secretary reappeared.

"Mr. Johnson," he said, "His Excellency desires to return to Manhattan Beach."

Once more Cuyler was alone in his library.

XX.

A tall clock across the room gently sounded its mellow chimes, and then by a single positive stroke announced the time—half-past one. Cuyler was almost exhausted. He must have rest, for the most difficult part of the night's work was yet to be done; and to win the coming struggle he would need strength, keen vision, poise of mind. The crisis so close at hand meant not merely his business supremacy, his financial prestige, either increased or shattered; but it meant far more—the routing of his enemies, who, if quickly defeated, would order their agents to release his daughter from captivity.

In every move he had made, in every plan he had laid, in every word spoken thus far during the brief, furious campaign, one figure, and only one, had stood forth radiantly as his guiding star, as the goal toward which he was working so hard, fighting so desperately. For her sake, for Eleanor's safety, he must have rest before facing the crucial point.

He lay down on a couch, closed his eyes, decided to awaken in fifteen minutes, and instantly fell into deep sleep.

It was one-forty five, exactly, when he roused himself, and stepping across the library pressed a signal button. In response thereto Johnson again hastened upstairs and entered the room.

"You will go to the Grand Central Station," said Cuyler, "and meet a special train bringing the British Minister from Lenox. The train should arrive shortly after two o'clock. Take a carriage and drive back with him. I will be waiting for you."

He was himself again, erect, active, over-mastering.

As Johnson turned to go, he continued: "On your way out please send a servant to me."

A few moments later a man in livery appeared at the library door.

"I am going for a walk around the block," said Cuyler. "When I return, have ready for me some cold chicken, a pitcher of milk, graham bread and sliced peaches."

"Will you have it served here, sir?"

"In the dining-room," Cuyler replied.

The man stood at one side while he left the library, went downstairs, and out to the street. His step was elastic, he held his head up, and filled his lungs with the cool, refreshing air of an ideal summer night. It was nearly three hours before sunrise and the stars were shining brightly. Down to the corner he went, and turned northward in Sixth Avenue, thinking of nothing but the exhilaration of his walk. Once more he had cast from his mind all of the problems with which it had been seething. What he wanted, and was getting, was fresh air, exercise, and the buoyancy which comes with these. Soon he would return home, eat his light supper with added zest, and be ready for the British Minister. The diplomat, hurriedly called from his own table, would be anxious, of course, and fatigued by a long journey at dead of night. Cuyler's sense of hospitality prompted him to order a repast for Sir George also. He would see that one was served—after they had finished their interview.

The banker had returned from his walk, and eaten with keen enjoyment and was on his way to the library when the Minister arrived, with the Secretary of his Legation, and Johnson. Cuyler heard them enter, and came back down the stairs to greet them. He and the Minister were old acquaintances.

"I thank you heartily, Sir George," he said, "for responding to my request. Nothing short of a critical situation would have made me send for you."

"I am fully aware of that, Mr. Cuyler. I am glad to be here."

The two men, representing—one officially, the other unofficially—the most influential peoples on the face of the earth, cordially shook hands, and Cuyler briefly welcomed the Legation Secretary.

"Possibly Mr. Trevelyan will remain here with Mr. Johnson," he said to the Minister, "while you and I go to my library?"

"Certainly," Sir George responded. "Just as you wish, Mr. Cuyler."

MIRACULOUS RESULTS IN DUNVEGAN, C.B.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

"I suffered untold misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for over ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good or relieve my painful condition. My trouble was Inflammation of Kidneys and Bladder.

I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

Two days, however, before my intending departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket, insisted on my taking it. I did so and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing more or less than miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney Trouble."

A FEW LITTLE "DONT'S"

From Farm and Dairy.

E. R. Jones, Madison, Wis.

1. Don't dodge the wet spots in cultivated fields. A few dollars spent in drainage will make these spots yield valuable crops, and will make the cultivation of the whole field more convenient.

2. Don't be content with raising marsh grass on muck and peat marshes. Drainage is the step that begins their adaptation to tame grasses and other farm crops.

3. Don't condemn the muck and peat marshes on which timothy has died out once. Drain thoroughly and then apply barnyard manure or commercial fertilizers, as is done on uplands. In other words, give the marshes a square deal.

4. Don't wait for nature to drain the wet lands without assistance. Nature alone did not remove the stumps and stones from the wooded, stony lands. Neither does she irrigate the arid lands of the West without the aid of man.

5. Don't let damaging water get on to land, if it can be prevented An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in drainage.

6. Don't think it takes a wizard to lay tile properly. Have a survey made sufficient in detail to show that there is sufficient fall. An intelligent use of this fall will then insure success.

7. Don't install a part of a drainage system to which the remainder of the system cannot later be joined with advantage.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

A Germ Disease Which is Baffling the Doctors and Alarming the People Generally

It may be said that doctors are only agreed on two points regarding this much dreaded disease.

First, that it is a germ disease, and, second, like all germ diseases can only be fought with pure, rich blood.

Prevention is always the better way and that is why we are always talking about the wisdom of keeping the blood pure and rich and the nerves healthy and strong by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rich, red blood is a deadly foe to disease germs whether they are germs of infantile paralysis, of colds of consumption or any other disease.

Don't let the blood get thin and watery. Don't let the nerves get exhausted. The risk is too great. Every dose of Dr Chase's Nerve Food goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich blood. For this reason you are certain to benefit by this treatment.

You need not wait until you have some form of paralysis before testing this great medicine. Be warned by headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, failing memory and power of concentrating the mind. Restore the system while still you have something to build on.

Get new energy and vigour into the system by using Dr Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HAD KIDNEY TROUBLE.

COULD NOT CROSS THE FLOOR PAIN WAS SO GREAT.

Miss Hazel Hess, Winchester Springs, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for five years. They were so bad, at times, I could not cross the floor for the pain. The doctor could not do me any good and a friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought six boxes and now I have been cured for over four years. I will recommend them to every sufferer."

No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realizing quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The F. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LONG HOURS ON THE FARM

From Farm and Dairy.

Stephen Culver, Haldimand Co., Ont.

Long hours on the farm are and have been an objectionable feature, which seems to be connected to a greater extent with farming than with any other occupation. The idea that these long hours of farm work are necessary is fast losing ground. Long hours on the farm are no more necessary than they are in any other occupation. There are certain times in the year, of course, when longer hours are necessary. One cannot always be governed by any specified quitting time in seeding, haying or harvesting. But, even then there should be no need of working day in and day out from sunrise to sunset. Overtime may be necessary, owing to bad weather, bad luck, such as breaking machinery or the upsetting of a load—and very often false calculation and poor management.

The whole question is a serious one as regards the son and the hired man. Even the man who works his farm alone has a responsibility in this connection. A man is making a sad mistake of life who shuts himself in from the world, works the year round until 10 and 11 o'clock at night, takes no time to attend public meetings or even to plan his work, apparently believing that by long hours, regardless of good management, his ambition and desire (which is to diminish his mortgage or increase his bank account) will be reached. Such a man would be disagreeable to hired help did he hire any, and furthermore he would also make his neighbors weary when they observe such work, and he would be talked of unfavorably by all the community.

TWO SIDES TO A STORY.

I have often heard men talk about "this hired man" and "that hired man" as being no good. Such assertions may be true in some cases, but there are always two sides to a story, and perhaps those same men do not know how to use the hired help decently. I have had some experience myself in this connection and know what some hired men submit to, such as working from five o'clock Monday morning until dark Saturday night without even a noon-spell, and their only period of rest being that taken in bed after work for the day had ceased.

If a boy or a man works for a farmer who is a hustler and who is inspired by greed to get out of the hired man all that he can, and works late evenings, that boy or man should at least be let off at five o'clock Saturday evening. I have in mind the case of a man working until dark on one Friday evening in seeding time. He worked through without his supper. The objection to his treatment was aroused the next evening when the man was compelled to work after sundown or else displease his boss.

I would not have it inferred that the farmer who hires men is always to blame. There are always more or less chores to do in the evening on any farm. On the part of the average boy, there is no objection to doing these chores if he is fairly treated and let off early now and then on an evening when he wishes to have a bit of amusement. There are some boys who will work with all their might for half a day in order that they may go to a ball game. Others again are surly and independent and must attend everything no matter in what condition the work is they leave.

DISAPPOINTMENTS.

I have been cheated out of holidays because I did not take them as they came along. I have often worked like a fool, doing more than was expected of me for the day, anticipating that I might get off a little before sundown. It ended almost invariably in disappointment, however, if the boss was around. In spite of the old saying, "Man's work is from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done," this should not, and need not, be true, and while the farmer may have it rather easy during the winter months, he is not of a hibernating class that he need arouse from a state of torpidity at the approach of spring to indulge in a life of work without ceasing and have no recreation.

It is a pleasure during summer months for one to feel and to know that he has done a day's work and yet have some of the day left, free from toil and care, and which he can spend in a game of croquet, music in the parlor or amusements in general. It is a consolation for one to be able to fold his arms and feel that he is not under severe bondage and slavery, but that he can take some comfort and enjoy the good things of life.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts, a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties: Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

OLD RESIDENT OF HASTINGS HAS PASSED AWAY

Examiner Special.

HASTINGS, MARCH 29.—Once more death has visited us, and carried away an old and respected resident in the person of Mrs. Alex. Clydale, who departed this life on Saturday 18th at the age of 67 years. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and two daughters. The sons are George, who resides in Otonabee, and James at home, and the daughters Agnes of Campbellford and Minnie at home. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon to the Trent Valley cemetery. The family have the sympathy of all in their sore bereavement.

The weather for the past week has been quite March like and the farmers are still hauling wood on sleighs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Preston are rejoicing over the birth of a son.

Mr. Robt. Oakman has purchased the grocery business which has been carried on for the past year by Mr. Charlie Lynch and is taking possession at once.

Mr. Harold Bowes and family left on Friday to reside on their farm near Dartford. Mr. and Mrs. Beavis have been resident of Hastings for a number of years and their many friends wish them success in their new venture.

Mrs. Stephen has returned from an extended visit with friends in West Ontario.

Mr. G. V. Pelton L.L.B., left last week for Western Canada, where he intends following his profession. Mr. Pelton gave an address at the Epworth League which was very much appreciated by those present.

Mr. Richmond of the Bank of Toronto staff, has moved to Toronto, while Mr. Wilson of St. Catharines, takes the position vacated by him here.

Mr. R. Lees, P. S. I., of Peterborough, has been visiting the rural schools in this district in his official capacity.

Rev. D. A. Thompson has returned from Port Hope, where he was attending a meeting of the presbytery.

Rev. G. Andrews, of Albert College, Belleville, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church at both services on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Carter, of Havelock, spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. J. Carter, town.

Miss Annie Short was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Collins on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McKay, of Otonabee, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Beavis.

Miss Mae Huycke has returned after a pleasant visit with friends in Peterborough.

Miss Ethel Collins has accepted a position as clerk in Mr. Robt. Oakman's grocery store.

Mr. Erica Tate, of Peterborough, spent the week in Hastings.

One evening quite recently as Mr. Nelson Beavis was wending his way homeward, he was surprised by the appearance of what is supposed to have been a meteor but resembled a large ball of fire, appearing in an ordinary tea kettle, passing within a hundred yards of him in fact so close that the light flashed in his face. The ball went on in its course until within about a mile of the Otonabee river, when it burst and went out of sight.

WILL TRAVERSE THIRTY MILES

Great Distance to be Travelled by the King and Queen in Coronation Procession

More than thirty miles of London streets are to be traversed by the King and Queen in the splendid festivities of May and June, and at the lowest estimate there will be ample roumm upon the pavements alone for 5,000,000 loyal spectators. As the vast work of organization progresses it becomes more and more strikingly evident that no such season of glorious pageantry has ever before been in prospect in the Empire's capital. Leading up to the climax of the Coronation on June 22 is an array of royal ceremonies. On May 12, the King and Queen drive to the Crystal Palace for the opening of the Festival of Empire. A few days later comes the visit of the Kaiser and Kaiserin for the unveiling by the King and Queen of the Victoria Memorial in the Mall on May 17. The assembling of the Imperial Conference takes place on May 22, and the ceremonies connected with it will hold the stage until the Coronation week. Besides the crowning on June 22, the royal progress through London of June 23, the service in St. Paul's and the Guildhall ceremony of June 29, there will in all probability be yet another royal procession on June 30. It is almost certain that the King and Queen on that day will go once more to the Crystal Palace to welcome the hundred thousand children who will be their guests. In this event the total distance of the streets to be traversed by the royal cortege at the various ceremonies will be raised to forty-five miles. And in all the colossal work of organization for the Coronation pageants, the reception of royal guests and of the Dominions' delegates, there is one supreme arbiter, the King himself. To him are referred all vexed questions of plan and precedent, and his swift and sure decisions clarify and dispose of numerous problems every day.

Her Face and Body Were Litterly Covered With "BOILS."

Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Them.

Mrs. John H. King, Johnston, N.B. writes:—"Last summer I was very much troubled with boils, and my face and body were literally covered with them A friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters. I got three bottles, and before I had taken all the first one my boils began to go away. I had just taken a few doses out of the last one when they all disappeared. My husband has also used Burdock Blood Bitters with much benefit."

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time, are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to put the blood in good condition, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal that old and tried remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

SOCIALIST PROTEST

Preparations in Austria-Hungary for an Imposing Demonstration

Great preparations are being made by the Socialist parties in Austria-Hungary and Italy to ensure that their demonstration of protest against armaments on Palm Sunday shall be as imposing as possible. This demonstration promises to be on a gigantic scale. Not only will the Socialist leaders of both countries meet in Rome on April 9th to make a vigorous protest against the immense burdens laid by the military authorities upon the shoulders of the two peoples, but it is also intended to convene mass meetings and to arrange processions and other demonstrations in all the towns and industrial centres of Austria-Hungary and Italy on the same day. The Socialist argument is that armaments are supernumerous, as the Austro-Hungarian and Italian peoples have no wish to make war upon each other, and are, therefore, a criminal waste of national property. The money spent on Dreadnoughts and upon fortifications and guns, they declare, should be used for building more schools and hospitals and other useful social purposes.

THE ZIONIST FEDERATION

In spite of the prognostications of the pessimists, the recent Conference of the English Zionist Federation did not display as hopeless a state of affairs as was expected. A working organization has again been formed, and apart from the two great rival protagonists, Dr. Gaster and Mr. Greenberg, practically all the active leaders of Zionism in England have joined forces, all breaches are healed and all differences are adjusted, but the task before the Zionist party in England and abroad is stupendous and more difficult of accomplishment than at any time since Dr. Herzl first launched his project. To them, indeed, the future looks dark and depressing, and if the Zionist vessel is safely steered out of its present sea of trouble into the far distant, but ardently desired haven, once more will a miracle have been performed on behalf of the Children of Israel.

BIG RADIUM DEAL

Practically the Whole Output of the Trenwith Mines in Cornwall, England

One of the biggest deals on record in radium has just been carried out between the British Radium Corporation and a number of leading German scientists. The arrangement provides for practically the whole output of the Trenwith Mines in Cornwall, the total cost being put at $500,000 annually. Germans will thus establish practically a corner in British radium, and the success of several huge schemes of putting radium within popular reach the world over depended upon an assured unlimited supply. Among the plans proposed by the German scientists is one providing for the introduction of radium into various medicines and compounds, which are guaranteed to cure maladies like rheumatism, gout, sciatica, diabetes, heart weakness, etc. Then a "radium exhaler" is also promised. This is a machine which if placed in the centre of any room gives forth emanations which have the same effect on the clothed occupants of the room as if they had taken a journey to the radium baths at Johannsthal or Badgastein. The mud which is the refuse of pitchblende after radium has been extracted, is also to be treated and sold for "radio-mudbaths." Radium salts, another invention, have universal use. For example, a piece the size of a pin's head, placed on electric light switches, keyholes, etc., will in darkness, indicate their location; while the same principle is also to be applied to ship's compasses, thus dispensing with artificial light. When the scientists' plans have matured, an extensive campaign is to be prosecuted in the United States for the wider use of radium compounds. The result of new processes will be the more rapid consumption of radium, which will eventually be as easily obtainable as pills.

MURDER OF MAJOR LAING

Statement of Mezieres, Who Found His Body at the Foot of a Tree

Further particulars regarding the murder of the British explorer, Major Laing, at Timbuctu, in 1826, are supplied by M. Honnel de Mezieres, who has just returned to France. M. de Mezieres recently discovered the explorer's remains buried at the foot of a tree. M. de Mezieres explains that it was extremely difficult to induce the natives to speak, as, according to their customs, the price of blood can be exacted after several generations. The story of the murder, however, was finally elicited. Major Laing was proceeding from Timbuktu to Arawan. On the day after starting he was joined by the chief of the Barabiche tribe, who was to act as his guide. Believing himself in perfect safety, he allowed the Barabiches to approach, whereupon the chief treacherously slew him. The natives believed that he had come for the purpose of poisoning the country, and all his baggage, clothes and papers were burned and buried. The murder was carried out with the complicity of all the chiefs of the district, and Major Laing's young servant shared the same fate. The explorer's body was left to birds of prey, and had been partially devoured when it was discovered by a native of another tribe. This native buried the remains at the foot of a tree, where they were recently found. The same native, now a very old man guided M. de Mezieres to the spot. A search was undertaken at the request of the British Government, and the documents relating to the discovery have been handed to the British Consul at Dakar.

THEY GROW FINE SEED

Good Quality of That Found on Prince Edward Island

Three seed fairs were held on Prince Edward Island this year, whilst three years ago there was only one. So much importance is attached to these that on two occasions the Island Legislature adjourned in order that the members could attend and deliver addresses at these fairs. Judges from the mainland pronounce the Island seed to be unsurpassed for quality in the Dominion. A shipment of selected seed oats, sold to the Seed Government Association at Quebec realized ninety cents per bushel.

BRAVE OLD MAN OF EIGHTY-TWO

General Booth Has Both Eyes Bandaged and Awaits an Operation in the Autumn

With unshaken courage, such as the leader of an army should display, General Booth has been preparing calmly and methodically for the blindness which it is feared must overtake him unless the wonderful operation to be performed in the autumn is successful.

General Booth has lost the sight of one eye owing, it is believed, to a speck of dust blown into it during one of his many motor-car tours. The other is so enfeebled that he can hardly see. He can write, using his fingers as a guide, but he cannot see what he has written. In the autumn surgeons will attempt the delicate task of clearing away the obscured lenses of the remaining eye. If that is accomplished General Booth will return once again to the "war," which he is now watching from the rear of the fighting line. But if it is not, General Booth will be blind. So every day this brave old man of eighty-two has had both his eyes bandaged round, and thus he has walked about his home, familiarizing himself with the feel of objects which one day he may be unable to see. He still received his despatches from the "front," and discussed the direction of the Salvation Army with commissioners whose voices he could hear, but whose faces he could not see. If darkness falls completely, the brave old General is determined that it shall find him fighting still. If he cannot see with his eyes, he will see with his fingers.

ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE

The Kaiser Has Honored the Members of a New Institute

Members of the new institute for the advancement of science, which was created by the Kaiser last October, have had a number of extraordinary insignia conferred upon them. Shortly after the inauguration of the institute the Kaiser decreed to them a dark green uniform, heavily embroidered with gold and faced with purple velvet. They are now to wear a medallion portrait of the Kaiser fastened on their breasts. But the most remarkable ornament is that which the Kaiser has conferred upon the President of the institute, Dr. Harnack, the well-known Professor of Church History and Dogma. This is an elaborate neck-chain, richly enamelled in renaissance style, and having as links alternation forget-me-nots and female heads. Suspended from the chain is a heraldic eagle of brilliant coloring and an enamel medallion of the Kaiser surrounded by a laurel wreath. Dr. Harnack may safely say that the president of no other learned body in the world has a chain like his.

THE PASSION PLAY

Net Profits of the Performance in 1910 were $108,975

The financial result of the Oberammergau Passion Play of 1910 has been declared as follows: Gross revenue from sale of tickets, photographs, etc., $426,150; expenditure for the performance—road and river regulations, etc., $122,925; salaries of 865 performers, $181,650; for the poor of the parish, $2,600; net profits, $108,975. This sum remained to the parish to be devoted to further improvements, public buildings, and the like. It is now very doubtful whether, apart from the financial and artistic side, the performance is a success. To a large extent the arrangements for visitors—for their railway journeys, lodgings, and seats in the theatre—are in the hands of agents, who reap a considerable profit out of the performances. Oberammergau has become a den of pickpockets, and batches of policemen in plain clothes are required to watch them. More to be regretted than anything else, however, is the danger of the simplicity of the people and the purpose for which the Passion Play was instituted deteriorating.

700 MILES OF FENCE

C.P.R. Will Use 5,000 Miles of Wire in Prairie Provinces

Over 5,000 miles of wire will be used by the Canadian Pacific this year in building new fences along their lines in the prairie provinces.

This quantity of wire will build 700 miles of fence, which is the amount suggested for the work of the year. The fences are seven strands high, the wire used being the class without barbs.

Some of the old fences will be replaced, but for the most part the wire will be used in the construction of fences where there are none at the present time.

The work of building is done by contract; the company supply the posts, the contractors supplying the wire and doing the work. This latter will be done by one of the local companies.

WHO WILL SUCCEED REID?

The question of a successor to Ambassador Whitelaw Reid has long been exercising the minds of Americans in London and the members of the Diplomatic Corps. Some of these latter profess to see in the selection of John Hays Hammond as United States representative at the Coronation more than a hint of who the next Ambassador will be.

LORD KITCHENER HIS BIG TASK

He Will Have in His Command at the Coronation 45,000 Soldiers and 5,000 Sailors

Lord Kitchener, who will return from British East Africa to command the Coronation troops, will find himself faced with a severe, but congenial, task in generalship and rapid mobilization, for an army of 45,000 soldiers, with probably some 5,000 sailors, will be in possession of London. The War Office is actively preparing for this great invasion of London from the military depots and garrison towns throughout the country. It is expected that the majority of the regiments will be billeted in the parks, at any of the Council schools, and in several big buildings like the Agricultural Hall. Accommodation in the Metropolitan barracks is utterly inadequate, and not more than 10,000 or 12,000 men will be able to find room at Chelsea, Wellington, Knightsbridge, and the Tower.

A week before the Coronation an army of Sappers will start trenching the soil in Kensington Gardens. Tents will be erected in the leafy avenues, and field kitchens placed in the vicinity of the Round Pond. Nearly 10,000 men will camp in the gardens. The official list of Metropolitan depots is not quite prepared, but it is expected to include Battersea Park, Regent's Park, a small portion of Hyde Park, Bishop's Park, Fulham and Hampton Court. London, in the hands of this large army—the largest perhaps ever mobilized within its borders—will be one of the instructive features of the Coronation. Camp fires will burn in the parks at night, and the ordinary law-abiding citizen, who probably has never seen a handful of soldiers bivouacking in open country, will find a very picturesque imitation of it in the leafy areas in town. This army will include representatives of every State and Dominion in the Empire. Several distinguished transport officers are to be chosen for duty on a special military railroad staff, which will supervise the detraining of the troops. These will be brought in to Waterloo, and other stations on the morning of Coronation Day.

THE TROUSERS' SKIRT

An Attempt to Popularize It Resulted in Street Riots in Vienna

Persistent efforts on the part of French dressmaking firms to popularize the trousers skirt in Vienna have resulted in a mnumber of street riots on a small scale. No women have yet dared to wear the offending garments in public save dressmakers' models, and these have been mobbed to such an extent by indignant street throngs that traffic has been stopped and extra detachments of police summoned to restore order. Several scenes of this character occurred in the heart of Vienna recently. In most cases the unforaunate girls sought refuge in shops, which were consequently besieged by the crowd. In one instance the occupants of a shop in which a trouser-skirted woman sought refuge tried to disperse the crown by throwing water from the upper windows. This angered the anti-trouser-skirt gathering, and they retaliated by smashing all the shop windows. It is not likely that the new garment will ever become popular in Vienna.

AN ALPINE DRAMA

Little Girl Lost her Life in Trying to Save a Chamois

A pathetic little Alpine drama is reported from the village of Fernez, in the Canton of Grisons, where a nine year-old girl, named Grouter, lost her life to save that of her little chamois. At Christmas the Greuter family received a present of a baby chamois, and the animal was brought up and cared for by their only daughter. Two days ago the chamois escaped, and was followed by the young girl across the valley.

As the girl did not return, her parents and some friends organized a search. They first found the dead body of the chamois at the bottom of a precipice, and half-way down, the mangled body of the girl. She had apparently seen her pet fall over the precipice and tried to climb down after it.

"Now We Are Enthusiastic"

Our fine Tailoring Stock is replenished with new Semi-ready Clothes—advanced styles in the finest tailoring.

What we promised has come to pass. The new styles help not only to distinguish between Semi-ready tailoring and ready-made clothing, but to emphasize the larger service in the real meaning of Semi-ready tailoring—tailoring, mind you, not ready-made.

We want to show you.

We want to show more than we desire to sell, for it is future business we are thinking of.

To offer you such service as will bring you again and yet again.

To show you the styles worn in New York, in Toronto, Montreal, and in all the creative centres of fashion.

Your buying now is not what we want. It is your interest, and the helpful impressions which may come from your frank expressions—which I shall prize most.

Now we are enthusiastic. The shipments of new garments which have just arrived force unstinted praise, and we have spent a brief lifetime in their study.

And the new Semi-ready Tailoring will win your enthusiasm.

Do not for one moment feel that this is a store of embarrassing insistence. We assist you to a finding of what will suit you and please you.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Albanians have revolted against Turkish rule.

The Toronto harbor bill passed the Senate railway committee.

Fierce fighting and heavy losses are reported from San Rafael, Mexico.

The Macassa arrived in Toronto on her first trip from Hamilton, opening navigation on Lake Ontario.

After a raid on the blind pigs in Cochrane and Kelso fines amounting to nearly two thousand dollars were imposed.

P. T. Hancox, a Sault Ste. Marie tailor, lies at the hospital suffering from burns, which will disfigure him for life. A gasoline stove exploded.

It is stated that Prof. J. W. Robertson, head of the Commission on Technical Education, is likely to succeed Dr. Wm. Saunders as director of the Dominion experimental farms.

Dr. Robert Law, medical health officer for Ottawa, around whom so much strong criticism has raged of late, resigned last night. His resignation was unanimously accepted.

There was a unique scene in the House of Commons yesterday when the Sheffield Choir, now touring Canada, gathered in the gallery and sang some selections for the benefit of the members.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, one of the greatest boosters of reciprocity on the other side of the line, arrived unheralded in Ottawa yesterday morning and visited the Ministers.

In the bye-election at Fredericton, N.B., yesterday to fill the vacancy in the local Legislature caused by the death of Thomas Robinson, M.P.P., Dr. O. E. Moorehouse, Government candidate, defeated Geo. F. Burden, Opposition, by 1,210 majority.

Prof. Dyde Banqueted.

Kingston, March 31.—At Grant Hall last night, university men and prominent citizens numbering two hundred, tendered a farewell banquet to Rev. Dr. Dyde of Queen's, who has been appointed principal of the Presbyterian Theological College at Strathcona. Attv. W. F. Nickle, M.P.P., was chairman, and Prof. Dyde's old teacher, Prof. John Watson, proposed the toast to "Our Guest."

Dr. Dyde was presented with a handsome cabinet of silver and an address, which was read by J. G. Elliott. Following the presentation, which was made by D. G. Laidlaw, addresses were delivered by Mayor Graham, Dr. E. Ryan, vice-president of the Board of Trade; W. J. Renton, chairman of the school board; Principal Gordon, Rev. Dr. MacGillivray and J. B. Walkem. Prof. Dyde's mother, who is over 80 years of age, was present at the banquet. Prof. Dyde leaves next month to take up his new work.

Fire at Laval.

Quebec, March 31.—About 11 o'clock last night two gentlemen, walking down the Ramparts, noticed smoke issuing from the lower flat of Laval University, near the gate facing the river. They immediately sounded an alarm, and in a few minutes a detachment from No. 1 station, closely followed by Nos. 4, 5 and 9 stations were soon on the scene. The fire had originated in the extreme eastern room of the building on the corner flat, which had been occupied for some time past by workingmen employed in making the improvements on the building. An overhearted stove was the cause of the fire, as there was lots of paper and dry timber in the room, and was very fortunate that the two men, who gave the alam, were passing there at the time, as otherwise a more serious fire would have had to be reported.

Miners Are Determined.

Fernie, B.C., March 31.—The mass meeting of miners held at Michel took the same decided stand against continuing work after the termination of the present agreement, which expires to-day, as did the Fernie and Hosmer locals.

The hall at Michel was crowded to overflowing yesterday afternoon, and there were no dissenting voices to stand behind the action of the district officers in their efforts to arrange a new agreement with the operators at the Calgary convention. Three thousand men have now declared in favor of their officers, and there is scarcely a doubt about the remainder of the local unions taking the same action.

Drastic Proposals.

Halifax, March 31.—Dr. Wendall (Liberal) often takes the House of Assembly by surprise with more or less drastic resolutions. Yesterday he gave notice that he would move for a redistribution of representatives in the House, so that industrial centres may have a greater representation at the expense of the rural communities. Coupled with this was a clause calling for the abolition of the legislative council, if necessary, by pension of the members, which, he said, would be the cheapest and only way of getting clear of that body.

Insurgents Dominate Scutari.

Rome, March 31.—A special despatch from Constantinople to The Tribuna says that the insurgents now occupy all positions dominating Scutari, which is practically in the hands of the rebels. The latter are in great force, are well armed, well directed and determined by five battalions of Redifs. The first proves the Turkish forces, whose condition is desperate unless reinforcements arrive soon.

Fire Awakened Children.

Montreal, March 31.—Twenty-two people were driven out of their homes by fire early yesterday morning and Ernest, aged five, and Florette, aged four, children of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lacoste, were seriously affected by the smoke. The bed on which the children slept was burned.

Little Florette awoke first, as she slept near the wall, and the flames, by eating through the wall, scorched her hand. Her screams brought the parents from the front of the house. The interior of the room was then in flames.

Big Bark Was Abandened.

London, March 31.—A shipping report from Lisbon states that the captain and crew of the four-masted steel bark Buteshire, which was abandoned in the Bay of Biscay, were landed there yesterday.

Meanwhile the Buteshire was sighted on Wednesday with sails set, but pilotless, careering Englandwards, 70 miles southwest of the Scilly Islands. Later, she was taken in tow by the steamer Raphael, which, however, was obliged to cast off the bark 45 miles off the Lizard.

Works Nearing Completion.

Byng Inlet, March 31.—The new C.P.R. coal landing at this place, regarded as one of the most important in their system, is nearing completion. The towers, trestles and offices are already finished and the power plant for lighting the works is expected to be ready for operation in a couple of weeks.

Miners' Strike Collapsing.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 31.—It is reported that the miners' strike, affecting 10,000 miners in this district and throughout eastern Ohio, is collapsing.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Lower, Chicago Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Green bugs, alleged to be threatening wheat southwest, were given much of the credit to-day for rallying the local wheat market. Most of the buying, tho, was on the part of successful bear speculators, who were busy taking profits. Closing prices were steady at 3-8 to 5-8 and 3-4 advance over last night. Corn finished with a gain of 1-4 to 3-8 and 1-2; oats up 1-4 to 3-8, and provisions varying from unchanged to 17 1-2 higher.

Liverpool closed ¼d lower on wheat, and ¼d to ½d lower on corn. Antwerp, unchanged, and Berlin wheat ⅝c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, March 30.—There was an increased enquiry for foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, but no business was done, as bids were 9d to 1s per quarter out of line, with values here. A more active business was done in oats, including sales of 300,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian western for shipment to Ontario millers at 34½ c.i.f., bay ports, and 50,000 of extra number one feed for export at 35½c afloat May. The demand for flour for local and export account was better and a fair business was done. Demand for eggs good. Potatoes fairly active and strong at 90c per bag in car lots.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, March 30.—The railways reported 79 carloads of live stock, consisting of 631 cattle, 2583 hogs, 402 sheep and lambs, 40 calves and 7 horses.

Butchers.

Choice selected cattle, $5.90 to $6, and a few were sold at $6.05, but the number sold at $6 and $6.05 was very small; loads of good to choice, $5.60 to $5.80; good, $5.50 to $5.70; medium, $5.15 to $5.40; common, $4.85 to $5.10; cows, $3 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Receipts were liberal, selling at $40 to $65 and one choice cow was reported at $70.

Veal Calves.

There was a fair delivery of veal calves for which there was a fair trade, at $4 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were liberal for this season of the year. Sheep, ewes, sold at $5.75 to $6.25; rams, $4 to $4.50; yearling lambs, $6.50 to $7.25; spring lambs, $4 to $7 each.

Hogs.

Selected hogs, fed and watered, sold at $6.90, and $6.60 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars at country points. We heard of $6.75 and $6.80 being paid at one or two western Ontario points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, March 30.—Cattle—Receipts 50 head; market fairly active and steady; prime steers, $6.40 to $6.60; butcher grades, $5.85 to $6.25.

Calves—Receipts, 200 head; market active and firm, cull to choice, $5.75 to $8.50.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 2200 head; market active and steady; choice lambs, $6.75 to $7; cull to fair, $5 to $6.60; yearlings, $5.50 to $6, sheep, $3 to $5.60.

Epidermis Society Grows.

Montreal, March 31.—The membership of the Epidemis Supply Society has now reached the number of 63. All these members will not be called upon to serve in the individual case at present in the general hospital which has been the immediate cause of the formation of the organization. It is expected that only about 35 of the volunteers will be required and these will then become honorary members and will not be asked to donate any more of their skin for a year at least. Men and youths are still coming forward and expressing their willingness to join this unique club, and with the care that is being taken in the choice of members, an established source of healthy skin will be at the command of the hospitals in the city.

Liberal Unseated.

London, March 31.—Richard Matthias, the shipowner of Cardiff, who was elected to the House of Commons from Cheltenham, has been unseated by the courts, upon the strength of a petition alleging illegal practices upon the part of his agent during the recent campaign.

Matthias is a Liberal, and on his second try ousted Viscount Duncannon, Liberal Unionist, by a majority of 93. He is a member of the firm of J. Matthias & Sons, shipowners and managing directors of the Cambrian Steamship Co.

Zeppelin's Latest.

The craft replaces the passenger airship Deutschland, the highest developed of all the famous aeronaut's models, which, after a few thrilling exhibitions, came to grief amid the fir trees of the Teutoburgian forest on June 28 last. The motors and the vertical steering plane of the Deutschland were saved from the wreck and utilized in the construction of her successor.

LEADER ON TRIAL

Head of the Camorra Examined To-day and Preserves an Insolent Attitude Throughout—Many Charges.

HARD TO CONVICT HIM

Special to The Examiner:

VITERBO, ITALY, MARCH 31.—An added interest was given this morning to the Camorrists trial, when the examination of Enrico Alfano, commonly known as Erricone Real, the leader of the gang of murderers which has been terrorizing Italy for so long too place. He is accused personally and in connection with his followers of many murders and crimes. Throughout his examination he maintained an insolent attitude. It is not thought he can be convicted.

BETTING EVEN ON BOAT RACE

Examiner Special.

LONDON, MARCH 31.—Betting is about even on the great Henley race between Cambridge and Oxford to-morrow. The crews are about evenly matched and from all appearance as good as either university has put out for years.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MARCH 31.—The Supreme court to-day quashed the conviction and ordered a new trial for Gunner Allan, sentenced to death for killing his officer, Capt. Ellison at Esquimalt on the ground that certain evidence admitted was really inadmissable.

MUST FLY THE FLAG

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MARCH 31.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, has ordered that not only on the public buildings on the frontier, but on every public building in the interior cities and towns, shall the Union Jack be displayed every day from sunrise to sunset.

INCREASE IS LARGE

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MARCH 31.—The customs revenue of the Dominion for the fiscal year ending to-day will exceed that of last year by over thirteen million dollars and is the largest in the history of the country. The returns received up to noon to-day show that the revenue for the year 1910-11 has been seventy-two million dollars.

BERT SELLS GETS SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON ON A CHARGE OF STEALING $20

Money Was Taken From Pocketbook of Campbellford Woman at G. T. R. Station—Conductor Saw Man Concealing Money as Train Pulled Out.

WIFE WAS WITH HIM]

A trio, consisting of husband, wife and child were charged at the police court this morning with having stolen a sum of money amounting to about $20 from a Campbellford lady at the G. T. R. station yesterday. They answered to the names of Bert and Laura Sells. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by His Worship Magistrate Dumble. Crown Atorney Wood appeared for the prosecution.

The lady who lost the money was the first witness called. She stated that while waiting for the Belleville train at the G. T. R. station yesterday at noon she observed the prisoners loitering about the waiting room. On the arrival of the train she left the waiting room and boarded it. While depositing her parcels on the seat she noticed that her satchel, containing the money was missing. She hurried back to the waiting room and found it on the window sill where she had left it, but the money was missing. The alarm was immediately given and the police notified.

Conductor Adams of the Belleville train, testified to having seen the male prisoner conceal some of the money on a ledge of the brick wall on the outside of the station house. This was while the train was moving out. He immediately stopped the train and was instrumental in securing the apprehension of the prisoners.

Chief Thompson gave evidence relative to the searching of the prisoner. A lady was secured to search the prisoner's wife. A portion of the money was found concealed in the baby's clothing. Prisoner accused the wife of having stolen the money, which statement she denied, saying that he had placed the money in the child's clothing while on the way to the station.

P. C. Meharry, who made the arrest, gave further evidence as to the finding of money on the prisoner. Altogether the sum of $18.35 was recovered.

His Worship in summing up the evidence, decided that the male prisoner would have to take the responsibility. He then sentenced th prisoner to 6 months in the Central Prison. The woman will return to Detroit, where her people live. She poses as a palmist.

Thomas Young was charged with having been found drunk in a public place. He is a machinist by trade, and intends to leave for Orillia, where a job awaits him. He was discharged with a warning.

NORTH WARD COMMITTEE READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Ratepayers of That Section of the City in Line to Support the Passing of the Independent Tire Company's By-law---Determined to Clean Up Every Possible Vote.

The North Ward committee met last night at Mrs. Lees' shop, corner of George and Smith street. The following arrangements were made:

Polling Div. No. 18—F. Dobbin.

Polling Div. No. 19—J. J. Hartley and H. C. Stabler and Jas. Kendry.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, 5th April.

All were enthusiastic and determined to clean up every possible vote.

It was clearly explained at the meeting that this industry will cost the town nothing—only the labour to get out the vote. It will carry all right.

McBRIDE AND ROGERS TO COME TO THE RESCUE

Two Explanations Are Offered, One That Mr. Borden Was Forced to Compromise—the Other That He Wanted Lieutenants.

TO COME TO TORONTO

OTTAWA, MARCH 31.—The latest developments show that the patching up of the rents in the Conservative Opposition ranks is only temporary, and that Mr. Borden's consent to retain the leadership has not been recognized in good faith by the plotters who are still after Mr. Borden's scalp. It was admitted that one of the reasons that influenced Mr. Borden to continue in the leadership of the Conservative party was the fact that no man was available to succeed him. Though it is known that Premier McBride flatly refused to consider acceptance of the leadership it is now asserted in Conservative circles here that Hon. Richard McBride, Prime Minister of British Columbia and Hon. Robert Rogers Minister of Public Works for Manitoba, are to enter Federal politics. The week is perhaps parent to the rumour, that Premier McBride has promised to come to the aid of the party and has consented to contest a constituency to be made available by the retirement of Mr. G. H. Barnard, of Victoria, B.C., at the next general election. The grouse that the Conservative party has no hope of winning at the next general election, therefore McBride is being kept in pickle, as leader of the progressive Opposition in the next parliament.

Mr. Rogers' Job.

Hon. Mr. Rogers is not going to seek for an election. He is content to remain as confidential extra-mural adviser of Mr. Borden over the opposition skirmishes generally. It is said he will contest a seat in the next general election, but, in the meantime, and pending the situation clear itself, he is now looking for a constituency to be opened for him in Manitoba. He will make his headquarters at the Russell House, and there conduct a class in political and electoral strategy for the benefit of the Opposition.

The Explanations.

There is a difference in the explanations for the advent of the two western Protestant men into the Federal game. One is this: Mr Borden feels that his present lieutenants are not up to cyclone-swimming qualifications, and he insisted that he should have more effective aids. The other explanation is different. It is stated that an invitation to Messrs. Rogers and McBride was the price which Mr Borden had to pay the critics in his own party to retain the Opposition leadership.

Whichever is the correct story, the fact seems to be that McBride and Rogers will be heard at the Federal capital as soon as they can make arrangements.

The Nationalists at present at the capital in force are making of course Mr. Rogers' presence as referable to a desire to complete the deportation of the Conservative party. The Nationalist leadership has sought conference with both the satisfied and the discomfited wings of the Conservative party, one bent upon [illegible] the other upon [illegible]

SHOULD A GIRL TELL HER PAST?

Every Examiner reader who reads Ruth Cameron's entertaining Chit-Chat each evening—and who is there who does not?—has been greatly interested in the articles dealing with the question, "Should a girl tell her past?" and Miss Cameron's treatment of the subject has aroused much discussion. To-morrow the Examiner will publish a clever and vividly interesting letter upon the question as viewed from a masculine standpoint written by a Peterborough reader. It is likely that this will be followed by other communications upon the subject, and for a few days the Examiner will throw its columns open to those who desire to discuss the question.

Five Months Of Winter 140 Days Of Snow And Cold And The End Is Not Yet

Winter Season Began on October 28 Last and is Still Doing Business at the Old Stand--And the Probabilities Say Colder To-morrow, Too.

Five months of winter!

Scarcely any interruption for almost one half of the entire year. This is the record for the winter in this district.

We had our first ice in Peterborough on Oct. 13th, and the first snow storm on the 8th of the same month, when about four inches fell. Fine weather but cold, then favoured us until Nov. 9th, when more snow came and the remainder of the month was generally wintry. The jingle of sleigh bells was first heard on Nov. 28 and sleighing continued good continuously from that date until the end of February, and fairly good for several weeks longer. Count it and see how long the winter has lasted:

	Days
October	6
November	15
December	31
January	31
February	28
March	29
	140

And the end is not yet, but it is apparently in sight.

TOO MUCH WINTER.

This is too much winter. In 1909 winter did not begin properly until the second week in December, and a year ago spring started in earnest on the 1st of March. To be sure, April and May were not desirable months, being too wet and cold, but there was no snow or ice on the streets or pavements.

Those who believe in the influence of the moon as a weather prognosticator (and their name is legion) tell us there will be a new moon on the 30th. If the new moon comes in with a cold spell, order more coal, bank the house and prepare to hibernate for another term, or until there is a change in the moon.

The coldest day during the winter now about at an end, was Dec. 31st, with 26 degrees below zero. Other cold days were Dec. 17th, with 15 below, and Jan 4th the same figure. December was much the coldest month of the winter.

	Inches
October	4
November	13
December	19
January	4
February	13
	67

There was more snow on the level during the second week in February than any other time last winter.

PETERBOROUGH MARIES MAY CONTRIBUTE TO THE GIFT

Arrangements Are Being Made to Take Up Contributions for the Fund in Peterborough—Those Who May Give Donations.

CORONATION PRESENTATION

On the occasion of the Coronation of the Queen it is proposed that the Marys of Canada shall unite with their namesakes throughout the British Empire in offering a gift to Her Majesty. The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire have been asked to collect for the gift in Ontario. Contributions will be received from five cents to five dollars and may be given only by those who bear the name of Mary, May, Maria, Marian or Marie. A list of contributors will be forwarded, but not the amount given by each.

The choice of the gift will be left entirely to the Queen. It is hoped that the Marys of Canada will appreciate the opportunity of showing their affectionate loyalty to Queen Mary.

Miss Plummer, Sylvan Tower, Toronto, is secretary of the committee for Ontario.

Arrangements are being made to take up subscriptions in Peterborough.

BRIDGE TO BE OPENED MONDAY

Preparations are being made with a view to opening the Grand Trunk railway swing bridge on Monday afternoon. The first craft to pass through will in all probability be the government dredge, which has been moored here all winter. It will be used in connection with the work now under way on the new W. A. S. park at Yankee Bonnett.

MR. JOHN MILLER IS NEW DEPUTY REEVE

Nominations were held in the town hall, Keene yesterday, for the purpose of filling the vacancy in the Otonabee Township Council caused by the resignation some weeks ago through illness, of Mr. W. B. Stewart, who was elected deputy reeve at the municipal elections in January. Yesterday Councillor John Miller was elected deputy reeve by acclamation and the acceptance of the position necessitating his resignation as a councillor. Messrs. Ernest Deyell and David Lawrie were nominated to contest the vacant council position. Mr. Miller will by reason of his election as deputy reeve be a new face on the County Council.

FROM PETERBOROUGH TO VERULAM IN THE OLD DAYS

Recently the Farmers' Advocate offered prizes for the best pioneer stories, the competitors being very numerous. Describing the life of Mrs. Annie Bartlett Robinson, Mr. J. H. Taylor of Bobcaygeon, in her story, gives this description of a trip through the woods:

Mrs. Robinson and her two brothers, boys of sixteen and ten, respectively, came to Verulam to prepare for the coming of the rest. They walked the whole way from Peterborough by a route which must have been fully thirty miles, much of the way a mere blazed trail through the bush. In one place they waded water for nearly a mile, and, be it remembered, each carried a load of clothing or provisions. Night overtook them in the swamp, which they crossed on fallen logs, guided by a little dog. The writer knows that swamp, and would not dare to cross it even by daylight on fallen logs, and she does not wonder at Mrs. Robinson's statement. I was not to the forest, my dear, from shortly after the [illegible] and when we came to an old log shanty, where you turn up to go home, we were so thankful to get shelter. There we were, the two boys and I, without fire or light, but glad of the shelter. I was too tired to feel. I just laid down and slept but we never would have found our way without the little dog. He scented human footsteps ahead of us and would run on and whine until we came up, and then he would go on again."

CROP TO BE GOOD

One of the Best Years in the History of the West is Being Looked For—Reports Bright From All Sections

A GREATER ACREAGE

Special Wire to the Examiner.

WINNIPEG, MAN., MARCH 31.—That crop conditions for nineteen eleven promises to be one of the best in the history of the west is indicated by the reports of deputations of grain buyers and those who have made an investigation throughout all the provinces. There is a great increase of acreage in fall wheat and the ground broken for spring plowing was a thousand acres greater than last year. The advent of gasoline and steam gang plows have brought a revolution in the turning over of soil.

CASE WAS ENLARGED

Constable Bennett to be Tried Wednesday Next

The perjury charge against Constable Fred Bennett, of Havelock, which was to have been heard to-day in connection with the recent action of Inmates, the village of Havelock has been enlarged until Wednesday next on the advice of the Crown Attorney. The reason for the postponement was the inability to secure the presence of an important witness for the hearing called to-day.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE PAINTING?

Have you seen the painting? This is the general question asked in Peterborough to-day. At the Y.M.C.A. is being exhibited what is possible the most remarkable painting in the world. To comment upon The Shadow of the Cross would be a summary of thirteen years continuous exhibition under the auspices of most every known charity in North America. The exhibitors claim nothing supernatural or of a miraculous nature responsible for its existence, strange though the spiritual inference unconsciously awakens this significance. The painting is a beautiful work of art, irrespective of the commanding majesty of the Saviour's outline silhouetted in the field of radiant light. As one divine once said: "It was the duty of everyone as a religious mission to visit this peculiar accident from the art world.

HELPING THE FARMER.

Mr Gilbert, the "Nationalist" party in Parliament, demands that one-tenth of the annual revenue of the Dominion be expended in the interests of agriculture. At first blush there seems to be reason in his contention. The farming interests are by far the most important, especially in their relation to national interests and national prosperity. It may be that no other special interest demands so large a share of our national income, but special interests, there is reason to believe, get an equivalent. The industrial interests draw from the country at the expense of the people at large, indirectly, a great deal more than ten or eleven millions that represents a tithe of the national revenue. But as a matter of fact, the farming interests do not demand or require the expenditure of ten or eleven millions a year. They demand and require unobstructed opportunity to make their calling a success. They want markets and the more and larger the better. They want transportation facilities to enable them to get their goods to market. They need good roads from their farms to the nearest railway station. They want obstructions removed to their gaining access to the most convenient market, and in this regard the reciprocity agreement that opens a new market of ninety millions is of far more value than the expenditure of millions in educative work. If Mr Gilbert will sit down and do a little calculating he will see that indirectly, in the provision of transportation services, educational work, and other things, much more than ten millions a year is spent in the interests of agriculture. All the educative work possible, even if it helps the farmer to grow abundant crops, is wasted if he has not a market and facilities, including free access, for getting to it. What the farmer asks and needs is a fair field and no favour. He asks no protection, only protection from the obstacles that prevent him from producing and marketing his crops. Give the farmer these, and he will make his way, whether it is necessary to spend two or ten millions, to place the farmer in a position to hoe his own row without interference from tariffs or otherwise.

INCONSISTENT CONSERVATIVES.

"I find that in the fourteen years before the Liberal Government came into power, Canadian imports increased nothing, but actually decreased fourteen million dollars. That was the result of "the national policy." In the fourteen years of Liberal administration the imports increased three hundred million dollars (cheers). The exports of the country in the glorious period of Conservative administration increased twenty-two millions, while in the fourteen years since Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power the increase was one hundred and seventy-one millions (loud cheers). Fourteen years of Conservative Government showed a total increase in trade of eight and a half millions, as contrasted with a total increase of four hundred and seventy-one millions during the past fourteen years (more cheers). Just a word with regard to trade with Great Britain. During the fourteen years that the party which is so ultra loyal now, was in power down to 1896, our imports from Great Britain fell back eight millions whereas during the fourteen years of Liberal administration, they increased seventy-one and a half millions.

Now the Opposition want to take it all back and say that everything is lovely and that the tariff policy is perfect. Very ugly things are said just now about reciprocity just like what Sir Charles Tupper said about the tariff policy of the Laurier Government. But if they now find that policy to have been so good, are we not justified in believing that in five years hence, some good Conservative will come and tell you all about the blessings of reciprocity (laughter and cheers). Hon W S Fielding at Montreal.

CANADIAN TARIFF CHANGES UNDER RECIPROCITY.

A correspondent requests the publication of a "list of the natural and manufactured products from the United States, on which the duty now imposed, will be lessened, or removed, should reciprocity become law."

List of Free Exchange Articles.—

As to natural products the list can be generalized so as to give a fair idea of the free list; that is, of articles that will pass to and fro between the two countries, free of duty. This list includes the following:

Live animals, viz.: cattle, horses, and mules, swine, sheep, lambs, and all other live animals.

Poultry, dead or alive.

Wheat, rye, oats, barley, and buckwheat; dried peas and beans, edible.

Corn, sweet corn, or maize (except into Canada for distillation).

Hay, straw, and cow pease.

Dried fruits, viz.: apples, peaches, pears, and apricots, dried, dessicated or evaporated.

Eggs of barnyard fowl, in the shell.

Honey.

Seeds, viz.: flaxseed or linseed, cotton-seed, and other oil seeds; grass seed, including timothy, and clover seed; garden, field, and other seeds not herein otherwise provided for, when in packages weighing over one pound each (not including flower seeds).

Fish of all kinds, fresh, frozen, packed in ice, salted or preserved in any form, except sardines and other fish preserved in oil; and shell fish of all kinds, including oysters, lobsters and clams in any state, fresh or packed, and coverings of the foregoing.

Seal, herring, whale, and other fish oil, including cod oil.

Salt.

Mineral waters, natural, not in bottles or jugs.

Timber, hewn, sided or squared otherwise than by sawing, and round timber used for spars or in building wharves.

Sawed boards, planks, deals and other lumber, not further manufactured and sawed.

Paving posts, railroad ties, and telephone, trolley, electric light and telegraph poles of cedar or other woods.

Wooden staves of all kinds, not further manufactured than listed or jointed, and stave bolts.

Pickets and palings.

Plaster rock or gypsum, crude, not ground.

Mica, manufactured or rough trimmed, only, and mica ground or bolted.

Feldspar, crude, powdered or ground.

Asbestos not further manufactured than ground.

Fluorspar crude, not ground.

Glycerine, crude, not purified.

Manufactured Free Products.

In the list of what may be regarded as manufactured or partially manufactured articles, free both ways, are included the following:

Talc, ground, bolted or precipitated, naturally or artificially, not for toilet use.

Sulphate of soda, or salt cake; and soda ash.

Extracts of hemlock bark.

Carbon electrodes.

Brass in bars and rods, in coil or otherwise, not less than six feet in length; or brass in strips, sheets or plates, not polished, planished or coated.

Cream separators of every description, and parts thereof imported for repair of the foregoing.

Rolled iron or steel sheets, or plates number fourteen gauge or thinner, galvanized or coated with zinc, tin or other metal, or not.

Crucible cast steel wire, valued at not less than six cents per pound.

Galvanized iron or steel wire, curved or not numbers, nine, twelve, and thirteen wire gauge.

Barbed fencing wire of iron or steel galvanized or not.

Coke.

Round rolled wire rods in the coil of iron or steel, not over three-eighths of an inch in diameter, and not smaller than number six wire gauge.

(The United States wanted free pulp and paper (to a value of 4 cents per pound, placed on the free list) but insisted that Canada should remove prohibition of pulpwood in the log. Canada could not consent to this and so pulp and paper remain as before.)

Reduced Duty on Natural Products

The following articles have the duties assessed the same rate both ways.

The proposed duty and the present duty (general tariff rate) are designated for convenience of tabulation as "new duty" and "old duty" respectively:

A COMPLIMENT TO CANADA.

(London Advertiser.)

The American Economist, which savagely denounces the reciprocity agreement, prints a letter from "one of the largest handlers of American fruit and farm produce in the United States," who analyzes the arrangement as follows:

Potatoes—New Brunswick (Canada) can grow double the crop of New York State.

There is an element of truth in this tribute to Canadian agriculture. It is another proof that the arguments used against reciprocity in the United States destroy the arguments used against it in Canada. Here the farmers are warned against a flood of American competition. There the farmers are warned against a flood of Canadian competition. The opponents of reciprocity in the United States have the better case, they have only to cite the market quotations. With free exchange there will be a flow of farm products in both directions as at present, but the larger stream must flow to the United States market, where prices range higher. There are a few sections of Canada which, by reason of geographical or climatic conditions, buy and will continue to buy, American foodstuffs in considerable quantities, but the amount imported will be small compared with the amount exported to the United States on a basis of free exchange. Canadian exports in turn will be small compared with the volume of American production and will not tend to depress American prices, within the near future at any rate. No doubt in time Canadian production will reach such proportions as to appreciably affect the level of prices in the United States. This production will be stimulated by free access to the greatest market in the world. The Canadian farmer who would vote to refuse the boon has to learn the rudiments of his own business or he puts his party above his personal interests.

A DISTRESSED OPPOSITION.

(Toronto Star)

In the last two years the Government at Ottawa has been called upon to deal with two questions of first-rate importance—the organization of a navy, and the negotiation of a reciprocity agreement with the United States. Such questions usually bring troubles to a Government. The task of an Opposition, though important, is less onerous. It has only to lay down a principle and adhere to it. It is confronted with none of the difficulties incident to carrying the principle into effect. But the burden has apparently been too much for the Conservative party. It split into factions on the question of the navy. For a time it preserved a semblance of unity by agreeing with the Government. But this course was regarded as too moderate. Borden was subjected to persistent nagging, and the ultimate result was that in a desperate effort to make party capital the Opposition was thrown into utter confusion.

Two months ago it was announced that the Government had negotiated an agreement for wide reciprocity covering natural products. It was not in the ranks of the Government had made an error, and was out of touch with public opinion. If this was true, here was another grand opportunity for the Opposition. But what do we find to-day? Confusion worse confounded. Not a ministerial crisis, but a crisis occasioned by disunion and discontent in the Opposition. The leader of the Opposition worried and discouraged. He has now consented to continue his thankless task. The disturbance is apparently not due to that kind of treason which is founded upon personal ambition. Nobody else appears to be eager to take Mr Borden's place. There is a lack of clearly-defined purpose in the grumbling and nagging that has been going on. It is not a robust call for reform, but the querulous repining of a sick man who feels there is something wrong, but does not know what he wants. Liberals are accused by the News of fomenting the difficulty. But in the depths of his sad heart Mr. Borden knows there is no need to apply artificial irritants to his tired and peevish following.

Some dissatisfaction is expressed because Mr. Borden does not shout annexation, wave the flag, obstruct the proceedings of Parliament, and declare that reciprocity can be carried only over his dead body. The complaint is a tribute to his common sense. The real trouble, from the viewpoint of an Opposition, is that the agreement is so good that it cannot be opposed with credit or profit. The more it is spoken against, deplored in resolutions, discussed and delayed, the better it appears. The party which is out of office when so good a thing falls to the lot of a Government deserves sympathy rather than blame.

Prince Edward County Conservatives Favour The Reciprocity Agreement

Prince Edward Stalwart Strongly Upholds It—Benefit to Dairy and Cheese Industry.

(Staff Correspondence of The Globe.)

Picton, March 7.—Everything in nature "was stretching to greet the springtide's dawn" in Prince Edward county to-day. The bitter cold of the past three days was mellowed into balmy breezes and hospitable warmth by the tempering rays of a ruddy sun. It was an ideal market day, and being also a Saturday, the streets of Picton were thronged with farmers. The secret of the town's splendid stores, its busy bank branches and its fine residential district was an open one; it was a town almost wholly dependent upon the surrounding rurality. There is only one manufacturing institution of any account in Picton, and it, too, is aided by the prosperity of the neighbouring farmer.

Not Prejudiced Partisans.

As a class the farmers of Prince Edward county would be considered well off. Many of them are living on land that has been handed down through the family for a hundred years, and being thus well established, one finds here a certain type of resident that exists in no other part of Ontario. They are essentially a conservative people, but in politics they are not prejudiced adherents to party. The same electorate that sends a Conservative to the Ontario Legislature is represented in the Dominion House by a Liberal. Intelligent understanding of the issues of the day is the basis of public opinion in Prince Edward, and in this connection it may not be irrelevant to remark upon the intimate knowledge of history which is shown by the people in their discussion of the reciprocity agreement. Go into their farm homes and they will point proudly to their books, and they will show you the representative daily papers and agricultural weeklies which they subscribe for and read. And from the opinions expressed there you will conclude that all the thinking is not done in the towns.

Strong Support From Conservative.

One of this type that thinks for itself is Mr J. W. Anderson, of Ameliasburg township. Although he lives at Mountain View, seventeen miles from Picton, Mr. Anderson drove the entire distance to express to The Globe his views on reciprocity and to bring the opinion of his township as he had found it since the agreement had become a question before the country. Mr. Anderson is Master of the Grange at Mountain View, and is Treasurer of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, and he says that nine out of every ten farmers living in his neighbourhood favour reciprocity in natural products with the United States. "At present the actual vote in Ameliasburg along party lines would give a Conservative majority of 100," said Mr. Anderson, "but there is no party in this question of reciprocity. I have always been a Conservative in politics," he said, "but I am working hard for this trade agreement.

What it Would Mean.

"I deal in dairying and hogs and a little fruit," said Mr. Anderson. "People in the towns have the idea that the farmer is making more money than anyone else these days. But I want to say that it costs us pretty nearly as much to produce our output as what we get for it. Prices for many kinds of farm produce are higher than they used to be, but it costs us more than ever before to do our work and live," said Mr. Anderson. "I sell creamery butter for 25 cents per pound and it costs me nearly that price to produce it. Again, three years ago, I could fill my silo with corn at a cost of $60 per day. This year it will cost me $90 per day I have figured out," said Mr. Anderson, "that free trade with the United States would mean $400 more per year to me in my business as a farmer."

Good for Cheese Industry.

Dr. "Charlie" Publow is possibly better known throughout Ontario and New York State as an expert dairyman than as a physician. He paid his way through medical college at "Queen's" by taking up daily work during the holidays, and when he graduated as a doctor he still held to dairying. Up till six months ago Dr. Publow was a lecturer on the staff of the Agricultural College at Cornell University and belonged to the New York State Agricultural Association. He was qualified, therefore, to speak on reciprocity from the standpoint of the dairying industry.

"I have yet to hear a real argument against freer trade in farm products with the United States," said Dr. Publow. "So far as cheese is concerned, and I am interested mainly in that product, there is no doubt that reciprocity will prove beneficial to the Canadian farmer. Let me quote what Mr. Frank Erner, of the Erner-Barry Company, publishers of The Price Current, says in The New York Produce Review and American Creamery. Mr. Erner is the best dairy authority in New York State," said Dr. Publow. "Every day he sets quotations for dairy produce for all the markets in New York state. This is what he says: 'As a result of reciprocity between Canada and the United States there will be more movement from Canada to the States than vice versa, but the reduction of prices in this country from that cause would not be great.'

Prices That Tell.

"Another evidence," said Dr Publow, "is the scale of prices offered by Borden's for this year throughout the States. The Borden Condensed Milk Company of New York are the biggest milk firm in the United States. They offer per cwt. as follows: April $1.50; May, $1.25; June, $1.10; July, $1.30; August, $1.45; September, $1.55. How do these prices compare with an average of 85 cents per cwt. in Prince Edward county last year?" asked Dr. Publow.

"It is a wrong argument," said Dr. Publow, "to say that the United States is a large exporter of cheese to Britain. The United States does not ship her good cheese to any place. It is only the old culls that she cannot use herself that are sent to Britain. The old country market will not warrant higher than 11 1-2 cents per pound for cheese, while for the best grades on the New York Exchange 14 1-2 to 15 cents per pound is offered. In case of reciprocity the Canadian cheesemaker would have the advantage of making the softer variety for the United States market. The American cheesemaker produces eleven pounds of cheese from 100 pounds of milk, while the Canadian maker only produces nine pounds of cheese from 100 pounds of milk, or in other words, there is from forty to forty-two per cent. of water in the softer American cheese, while there is only about thirty-six per cent. of water in the Canadian product. With American cheese at fifteen cents per pound and Canadian at twelve cents per pound," said Dr Publow, "you can easily see how 100 pounds of milk in the United States is worth fifty-seven cents more than it is in Canada."

They All Want It.

Dairying is Prince Edward county's first interest. Hogs, as a by-product of the dairying, with cattle and horses come second, while third in importance are the allied industries of fruit. All of these pursuits were amply represented on the market to-day. Mr. Joseph Trumble, Bethel post office, favoured reciprocity strongly. "It will help everything we grow," he said. "There is no danger of our becoming 'Yankees' either. No people in Canada would shoulder a musket more quickly than we would in Prince Edward if the country needed us."

Mr. E. R. DeLong, Hallowell township, believed in free trade throughout. "I am in favour of reciprocity and in freer trade in all we produce in Canada," said Mr. DeLong.

Mr. C. A. Vincent, Belleville road, said that reciprocity suggested the only natural way for countries to trade. "I have grown tomatoes and I keep bees, too. Not so much do I think that freer trade will help me, but it is what Canada needs."

Mr. M. Flake, Cherry Valley, thought reciprocity would help dairying in the county very greatly, and it wouldn't hurt to apply the measure to all other industries.

Mr. P. Talcott, Bloomfield, follows dairying mostly, but also raised hogs and grows canning stuffs. "I think reciprocity will benefit this country and especially Prince Edward county," said he.

Mr. Charles Henry, Demorestville, a grower of canning stuffs, thought reciprocity would aid trade in fruits as well as in dairy produce.

One Opponent.

Mr J. D. Stinson, Hallowell, was opposed to the reciprocity agreement because he thought it interfered with the present prosperity of this county.

HELPING THE FARMER.

Mr. Gilbert, the "Nationalist" party in Parliament, demands that one tenth of the annual revenue of the Dominion be expended in the interests of agriculture. At first blush there seems to be reason in his contention. The farming interests are by far the most important, especially in their relation to national interests and national prosperity. It may be that no other special interest demands so large a share of our national income, but special interests, there is reason to believe, get an equivalent. The industrial interests draw from the country at the expense of the people at large, indirectly, a great deal more than ten or eleven millions that represents a tithe of the national revenue. But as a matter of fact, the farming interests do not demand or require the expenditure of ten or eleven millions a year. They demand and require unobstructed opportunity to make their calling a success. They want markets, and the more and larger the better. They want transportation facilities to enable them to get their goods to market. They need good roads from their farms to the nearest railway station. They want obstructions removed to their gaining access to the most convenient market, and in this regard the reciprocity agreement that opens a new market of ninety millions is of far more value than the expenditure of millions in educative work. If Mr. Gilbert will sit down and do a little calculating he will see that indirectly, in the provision of transportation services, educational work, and other things, much more than ten millions a year is spent in the interests of agriculture. All the educative work possible, even if it helps the farmer to grow abundant crops, is wasted if he has not a market and facilities, including free access, for getting to it. What the farmer asks and needs is a fair field and no favour. He asks no protection, only protection from the obstacles that prevent him from producing and marketing his crops. Give the farmer these and he will make his way, whether it is necessary to spend two or ten millions, to place the farmer in a position to hoe his own row without interference from tariffs or otherwise.

INCONSISTENT CONSERVATIVES.

"I find that in the fourteen years before the Liberal Government came into power, Canadian imports increased nothing, but actually decreased fourteen million dollars. That was the result of "the national policy." In the fourteen years of Liberal administration the imports increased three hundred million dollars (cheers) The exports of the country in the glorious period of Conservative administration increased twenty-two millions, while in the fourteen years since Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power the increase was one hundred and seventy-one millions (loud cheers). Fourteen years of Conservative Government showed a total increase in trade of eight and a half millions, as contrasted with a total increase of four hundred and seventy-one millions during the past fourteen years (more cheers) Just a word with regard to trade with Great Britain. During the fourteen years that the party which is so ultra loyal now was in power, down to 1896, our imports from Great Britain fell back eight millions, whereas during the fourteen years of Liberal administration, they increased seventy-one and a half millions.

Now the Opposition want to take it all back and say that everything is lovely, and that the tariff policy is perfect. Very ugly things are said just now about reciprocity, just like what Sir Charles Tupper said about the tariff policy of the Laurier Government. But if they now find that policy to have been so good, are we not justified in believing that in five years hence, some good Conservative will come and tell you all about the blessings of reciprocity (laughter and cheers).—Hon W. S. Fielding at Montreal

CANADIAN TARIFF CHANGES UNDER RECIPROCITY.

A correspondent requests the publication of a "list of the natural and manufactured products from the United States, on which the duty now imposed, will be lessened, or removed, should reciprocity become law."

List of Free Exchange Articles.—

As to natural products the list can be generalized so as to give a fair idea of the free list; that is, of articles that will pass to and fro between the two countries, free of duty. This list includes the following:

Live animals, viz.: cattle, horses, and mules, swine, sheep, lambs, and all other live animals.

Poultry, dead or alive.

Wheat, rye, oats, barley, and buckwheat; dried peas and beans, edible.

Corn, sweet corn, or maize (except into Canada for distillation).

Hay, straw, and cow pease.

Dried fruits, viz.: apples, peaches, pears, and apricots, dried, dessicated or evaporated.

Eggs of barnyard fowl, in the shell.

Honey.

Seeds, viz.: flaxseed or linseed, cotton-seed, and other oil seeds; grass seed, including timothy, and clover seed; garden, field, and other seeds not herein otherwise provided for, when in packages weighing over one pound each (not including flower seeds).

Fish of all kinds, fresh, frozen, packed in ice, salted or preserved in any form, except sardines and other fish preserved in oil; and shell fish of all kinds, including oysters, lobsters and clams in any state, fresh or packed, and coverings of the foregoing.

Seal, herring, whale, and other fish oil, including cod oil.

Salt.

Mineral waters, natural, not in bottles or jugs.

Timber, hewn, sided or squared otherwise than by sawing, and round timber used for spars or in building wharves.

Sawed boards, planks, deals and other lumber, not further manufactured and sawed.

Paving posts, railroad ties, and telephone, trolley, electric light and telegraph poles of cedar or other woods.

Wooden staves of all kinds, not further manufactured than listed or jointed, and stave bolts.

Pickets and palings.

Plaster rock or gypsum, crude, not ground.

Mica, manufactured or rough trimmed, only, and mica ground or bolted.

Feldspar, crude, powdered or ground.

Asbestos not further manufactured than ground.

Fluorspar crude, not ground.

Glycerine, crude, not purified.

Manufactured Free Products.

In the list of what may be regarded as manufactured or partially manufactured articles, free both ways, are included the following:

Talc, ground, bolted or precipitated, naturally or artificially, not for toilet use.

Sulphate of soda, or salt cake; and soda ash.

Extracts of hemlock bark.

Carbon electrodes.

Brass in bars and rods, in coil or otherwise, not less than six feet in length, or brass in strips, sheets or plates, not polished, planished or coated.

Cream separators of every description, and parts thereof imported for repair of the foregoing.

Rolled iron or steel sheets, or plates number fourteen gauge or thinner, galvanized or coated with zinc, tin or other metal, or not.

Crucible cast steel wire, valued at not less than six cents per pound.

Galvanized iron or steel wire, curved or not, numbers, nine, twelve, and thirteen wire gauge.

Barbed fencing wire of iron or steel galvanized or not.

Coke.

Round rolled wire rods in the coil of iron or steel, not over three-eighths of an inch in diameter, and not smaller than number six wire gauge.

(The United States wanted free pulp and paper (to a value of 4 cents per pound, placed on the free list) but insisted that Canada should remove prohibition of pulpwood in the log. Canada could not consent to this and so pulp and paper remain as before).

A COMPLIMENT TO CANADA.

(London Advertiser.)

The American Economist, which savagely denounces the reciprocity agreement, prints a letter from "one of the largest handlers of American fruit and farm produce in the United States," who analyzes the arrangement as follows:

Potatoes. New Brunswick (Canada) can grow double the crop of New York State.

There is an element of truth in this tribute to Canadian agriculture. It is another proof that the arguments used against reciprocity in the United States destroy the arguments used against it in Canada. Here the farmers are warned against a flood of American competition. There the farmers are warned against a flood of Canadian competition. The opponents of reciprocity in the United States have the better case; they have only to cite the market quotations. With free exchange there will be a flow of farm products in both directions as at present, but the larger stream must flow to the United States market, where prices range higher. There are a few sections of Canada which, by reason of geographical or climatic conditions, buy and will continue to buy, American foodstuffs in considerable quantities, but the amount imported will be small compared with the amount exported to the United States on a basis of free exchange. Canadian exports in turn will be small compared with the volume of American production and will not tend to depress American prices, within the near future at any rate. No doubt in time Canadian production will reach such proportions as to appreciably affect the level of prices in the United States. This production will be stimulated by free access to the greatest market in the world. The Canadian farmer who would vote to refuse the boon has to learn the rudiments of his own business or he puts his party above his personal interests.

Prince Edward County Conservatives Favour The Reciprocity Agreement

Prince Edward Stalwart Strongly Upholds It—Benefit to Dairy and Cheese Industry.

(Staff Correspondence of The Globe.)

Picton, March 7.—Everything in nature "was stretching to greet the springtide's dawn" in Prince Edward county to-day. The bitter cold of the past three days was mellowed into balmy breezes and hospitable warmth by the tempering rays of a ruddy sun. It was an ideal market day, and being also a Saturday, the streets of Picton were thronged with farmers. The secret of the town's splendid stores, its busy bank branches and its fine residential district was an open one; it was a town almost wholly dependent upon the surrounding rurality. There is only one manufacuring institution of any account in Picton, and it, too, is aided by the prosperity of the neighbouring farmer.

Not Prejudiced Partisans.

As a class the farmers of Prince Edward county would be considered well off. Many of them are living on land that has been handed down through the family for a hundred years, and being thus well established, one finds here a certain type of resident that exists in no other part of Ontario. They are essentially a conservative people, but in politics they are not prejudiced adherents to party. The same electorate that sends a Conservative to the Ontario Legislature is represented in the Dominion House by a Liberal. Intelligent understanding of the issues of the day is the basis of public opinion in Prince Edward, and in this connection it may not be irrelevant to remark upon the intimate knowledge of history which is shown by the people in their discussion of the reciprocity agreement. Go into their farm homes and they will point proudly to their books, and they will show you the representative daily papers and agricultural weeklies which they subscribe for and read. And from the opinions expressed there you will conclude that all the thinking is not done in the towns.

Strong Support From Conservative.

One of this type that thinks for itself is Mr. J. W. Anderson, of Amelianburg township. Although he lives at Mountain View, seventeen miles from Picton, Mr. Anderson drove the entire distance to express to The Globe his views on reciprocity and to bring the opinion of his township as he had found it since the agreement had become a question before the country. Mr. Anderson is Master of the Grange at Mountain View, and is Treasurer of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, and he says that nine out of every ten farmers living in his neighbourhood favour reciprocity in natural products with the United States. "At present the actual vote in Amelianburg along party lines would give a Conservative majority of 160," said Mr. Anderson, "but there is no party in this question of reciprocity. I have always been a Conservative in politics," he said, "but I am working hard for this trade agreement.

What it Would Mean.

"I deal in dairying and hogs and a little fruit," said Mr. Anderson. "People in the towns have the idea that the farmer is making more money than anyone else these days. But I want to say that it costs us pretty nearly as much to produce our output as what we get for it. Prices for many kinds of farm produce are higher than they used to be, but it costs us more than ever before to do our work and live," said Mr. Anderson. "I sell creamery butter for 25 cents per pound and it costs me nearly that price to produce it. Again, three years ago, I could fill my silo with corn at a cost of $60 per day. This year it will cost me $90 per day I have figured out," said Mr. Anderson, "that free trade with the United States would mean $800 more per year to me in my business as a farmer."

Good for Cheese Industry.

Dr. "Charlie" Publow is possibly better known throughout Ontario and New York State as an expert dairyman than as a physician. He paid his way through medical college at "Queen's" by taking up daily work during the holidays, and when he graduated as a doctor he still held to dairying. Up till six months ago Dr. Publow was a lecturer on the staff of the Agricultural College at Cornell University and belonged to the New York State Agricultural Association. He was qualified, therefore, to speak on reciprocity from the standpoint of the dairying industry.

"I have yet to hear a real argument against freer trade in farm products with the United States," said Dr. Publow. "So far as cheese is concerned, and I am interested mainly in that product, there is no doubt that reciprocity will prove beneficial to the Canadian farmer. Let me quote what Mr. Frank Erner, of the Erner-Barry Company, publishers of The Price Current, says in The New York Produce Review and American Creamery. Mr. Erner is the best dairy authority in New York State," said Dr. Publow. "Every day he sets quotations for dairy produce for all the markets in New York state. This is what he says: 'As a result of reciprocity between Canada and the United States there will be more movement from Canada to the States than vice versa, but the reduction of prices in this country from that cause would not be great.'

Prices That Tell.

"Another evidence," said Dr. Publow, "is the scale of prices offered by Borden's for this year throughout the States. The Borden Condensed Milk Company of New York are the biggest milk firm in the United States. They offer per cwt. as follows: April $1.50; May, $1.25; June, $1.10; July, $1.30; August, $1.45; September, $1.55. How do these prices compare with an average of 85 cents per cwt. in Prince Edward county last year?" asked Dr. Publow.

"It is a wrong argument," said Dr. Publow, "to say that the United States is a large exporter of cheese to Britain. The United States does not ship her good cheese to any place. It is only the old culls that she cannot use herself that are sent to Britain. The old country market will not warrant higher than 11 1-2 cents per pound for cheese, while for the best grades on the New York Exchange 14 1-2 to 15 cents per pound is offered. In case of reciprocity the Canadian cheesemaker would have the advantage of making the softer variety for the United States market. The American cheesemaker produces eleven pounds of cheese from 100 pounds of milk, while the Canadian maker only produces nine pounds of cheese from 100 pounds of milk, or in other words, there is from forty to forty-two per cent. of water in the softer American cheese, while there is only about thirty-six per cent. of water in the Canadian product. With American cheese at fifteen cents per pound and Canadian at twelve cents per pound," said Dr. Publow, "you can easily see how 100 pounds of milk in the United States is worth fifty-seven cents more than it is in Canada."

They All Want It.

Dairying is Prince Edward county's first interest. Hogs, as a by-product of the dairying, with cattle and horses come second, while third in importance are the allied industries of fruit. All of these pursuits were amply represented on the market to-day. Mr. Joseph Trumble, Bethel post office, favoured reciprocity strongly. "It will help everything we grow," he said. "There is no danger of our becoming 'Yankees' either. No people in Canada would shoulder a musket more quickly than we would in Prince Edward if the country needed us."

Mr. E. R. DeLong, Hallowell township, believed in free trade throughout. "I am in favour of reciprocity and in freer trade in all we produce in Canada," said Mr. DeLong.

Mr. C. A. Vincent, Belleville road, said that reciprocity suggested the only natural way for countries to trade. "I have grown tomatoes and I keep bees, too. Not so much do I think that freer trade will help me, but it is what Canada needs."

Mr. M. Flake, Cherry Valley, thought reciprocity would help dairying in the county very greatly, and it wouldn't hurt to apply the measure to all other industries.

Mr. P. Talcott, Bloomfield, follows dairying mostly, but also raised hogs and grows canning stuffs. "I think reciprocity will benefit this country and especially Prince Edward county," said he.

Mr. Charles Henry, Demorestville, a grower of canning stuffs, thought reciprocity would aid trade in fruits as well as in dairy produce.

One Opponent.

Mr. J. D. Stinson, Hallowell, was opposed to the reciprocity agreement because he thought it interfered with the present prosperity of this county.

NORMAN LAMBERT

A DISTRESSED OPPOSITION.

(Toronto Star)

In the last two years the Government at Ottawa has been called upon to deal with two questions of first-rate importance—the organization of a navy, and the negotiation of a reciprocity agreement with the United States. Such questions usually bring troubles to a Government. The task of an Opposition, though important, is less onerous. It has only to lay down a principle and adhere to it. It is confronted with none of the difficulties incident to carrying the principle into effect. But the burden has apparently been too much for the Conservative party. It split into factions on the question of the navy. For a time it preserved a semblance of unity by agreeing with the Government. But this course was regarded as too moderate. Borden was subjected to persistent nagging, and the ultimate result was that in a desperate effort to make party capital the Opposition was thrown into utter confusion.

Two months ago it was announced that the Government had negotiated an agreement for wide reciprocity covering natural products. It was not in the ranks of the Government had made an error, and was out of touch with public opinion. If this was true, here was another grand opportunity for the Opposition. But what do we find to-day? Confusion ment, but in the ranks of the Opposition. Not a ministerial crisis but a crisis occasioned by disunion and discontent in the Opposition. The leader of the Opposition worried and discouraged. He has now consented to continue his thankless task. The disturbance is apparently not due to that kind of treason which is founded upon personal ambition. Nobody else appears to be eager to take Mr. Borden's place. There is a lack of clearly-defined purpose in the grumbling and nagging that has been going on. It is not a robust call for reform but the querulous yearning of a sick man who feels there is something wrong, but does not know what he wants. Liberals are accused by the News of fomenting the difficulty. But in the depths of his sad heart Mr. Borden knows there is no need to apply artificial irritants to his tired and peevish following.

Some dissatisfaction is expressed because Mr. Borden does not shout annexation, wave the flag, obstruct the proceedings of Parliament, and declare that reciprocity can be carried only over his dead body. The complaint is a tribute to his common sense. The real trouble, from the viewpoint of an Opposition, is that the agreement is so good that it cannot be opposed with credit or profit. The more it is spoken against, deplored in resolutions, discussed and delayed, the better it appears. The party which is out of office when so good a thing falls to the lot of a Government deserves sympathy rather than blame.

ELLIOT'S

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

AT vesper-tide
One virtuous and pure in heart did pray,
'Since none I wronged in deed or word to-day,
From whom should I crave pardon? Master say.'

A voice replied:
'From the sad child whose joy thou hast not planned;
The goaded beast whose friend thou did not stand;
The rose that died for water from thy hand.'"

—Emily Sargent Lewis.

This is a letter which I received last fall.

It was written me by the widow with the invalid daughter whom I have told you about before in this column.

"——— what I want to tell you now is something very nice and the thought I am sending you is the result of this great kindness.

"A friend of ours rented a cottage in a beautiful spot near a lake for a season, and now that school has opened she has had to go back to the city like many others in the beautiful month of September when the trees are putting on their lovely colours.

"This friend of mine sent for me and told me God had put a thought into her heart that it would be very beautiful if our girl could be brought down to this cottage for a few weeks.

"We asked the doctor and he said 'Yes, by all means.' So here we are, so comfortable and such a lovely spot. I do hope it will be a benefit to my child. How she has longed all summer to get away from the city. She thought that if she only could she would get well and strong.

"The thought that I have for you came to me yesterday while going along the road to the store. I saw so many beautiful rooms shut up till next summer and I thought how much good could be done if some of these houses could be loaned to people who need it as badly as we do—someone who would thank God for a chance to breath pure, fresh air. There are about a dozen places here and just think of all the idle places by the seaside and all over this lovely country which might be used to the glory of God. All it needs is just a little thought for the good of others."

I did not pass this letter on to you last summer because it came to me too late for use then.

I saved it to bring to you just after you had hired your cottage for this summer.

And now I suppose you have done that and are planning to go down the middle or last of June when school closes.

That means that during May and part of June "and what is so rare as a day in June?"—and if you have to return to school during part of September and all of October—and if there is anything rarer than a day in June it is undoubtedly a day in October—that cottage will be empty.

Can you afford to have it so?

"Afford" in the highest sense of the word. I mean of course, "afford" in the sense of your obligation to leave undone no kindness which you might have bestowed.

The Scotch Clans.

The Scotch clans are said to have arisen in the reign of Malcolm II., about 1008. There were forty-five or fifty of these clans, each with its distinctive badge and traditions.

Sugar Test.

A simple test for the purity of sugar is to burn it. If pure fire will entirely consume it; if adulterated it will leave an ash.

Ostrich Eggs.

Baked Potatoes.

If baked potatoes are wanted in a hurry they may be parboiled and finished in the oven. They should be put in the oven without wiping, as the steam hastens the process of cooking.

A Tea Legend.

One ancient legend says that the virtues of tea were learned by accident by a Chinese monarch, King Shen Nung, "the divine husbandman," who flourished forty centuries ago and who in boiling water over a fire made from the tea branches on which the latter still hung allowed some of the latter to fall into the pot.

The Pendulum.

It was the oscillation of a chandelier in a cathedral that suggested to Galileo the use of the pendulum, and about the year 1630 he applied it to clocks.

Danish Convicts.

Convicts in Danish prisons wear light gray uniforms made of coarse material. The blouse is ample, but the trousers come only to the knees. When half the term has been served the trousers are lengthened, and they are made longer from time to time, reaching full length at the end of the term.

Soil and Frost.

Water, says the North Dakota experiment station, being a nonconductor of heat, will prevent deep freezing of the ground. Therefore a dry soil will freeze deeper than a moist one.

Turning Rust to Good Advantage.

A Hessian lieutenant of the name of Ludwig von Siegen noticed the effect of the dew upon his gun barrel, which had become rusted from the dampness. Some time after he experimented upon the discovery and obtained what is now known as mezzotinto. In the year 1643 he engraved a portrait of Princess Amelia of Hesse by its application.

HILLIARD LANG HAS A SPLENDID RECORD

Clever Toronto Boxer Who Meets Joe Lannon, of Syracuse Here Next Friday Night, is a Most Promising Professional---Other Good Bouts on the Programme.

In the programme, under the auspices of the Peterborough Athletic Club in the Grand Opera House a week from to-night, Peterborough will see its first real boxing for many years, and at the same time the local fight fans will have an opportunity of seeing the best known and most promising boxer in Canada, Hilliard Lang, the Canadian welter-weight champion. Lang is hailed as a comer of the first water. He has speed, science, the ability and willingness to mix it and to take and give punishment, and a good punch in either hand. He wants to get to the top, and knows that in order to do so he has to fight his way there, and with that conviction he is meeting them all. Wednesday night he took on Ck Flynn, a Buffalo boxer, giving away fifteen pounds and out-pointed the big fellow. Monday night, at Hamilton he meets Paddy Lavin and hundreds of fans are going up from Toronto to see the bout. Manager Breen received a letter from Charlie Conkle, the well-known Hamilton wrestler who is Lang's manager, that he will be in the best of shape for Friday night, realizing that in Lannon, the Syracuse boy, he has an adversary worthy of him.

Lang's record, as an amateur and professional, is given for the benefit of the fans who want to get a line on the clever Toronto boy:

Amateur Record.

Lightweight Champion 1907.
Welterweight Champion 1907 1908 1909, 1910.
Middleweight Champion, 1908, 1909 1910, all titles won in A.A.U. of C. tourneys at Toronto.
1910 — International welterweight Champion, won at Boston.

Professional Record, 1910

Cobalt—Kid Lowell, 4 rounds, draw.
Hamilton—Won from Kid Hoy, 9 rounds, knockout.
Buffalo—Won from Paddy Lavin, 10 rounds, decision.
Buffalo—Won from Fighting Nelson, 10 rounds, decision.
Buffalo—Lost to K. Moha, one round.
Orilla—Won from Fred Crompton, 6 rounds, knockout.
Belleville—Won from C. Laing, 6 rounds, decision.
1911
Windsor—Won from Jack Herrick, 8 rounds, decision.
Winnipeg—Won from Kid Brown, 10 rounds, decision.
Hamilton—Won from Clayton Wildfong, 6 rounds, knockout.
Toronto—Outpointed Ck. Flynn, of Buffalo.

In addition to the star bout of the evening there will be three preliminaries of five rounds each, that will be alone worth the price of admission. Tommy Sturch, the ex-Ontario amateur champion, will meet G. Moore, of Montreal, the ex-Canadian champion, at 118 pounds, in a five-round bout that should be a corker all through, as both men are fast and willing.

The old rivals Ted Picton and Fred Crompton of Toronto, the latter holding the amateur title at his weight, before jumping into professional ranks, will meet in what will be a merry battle all the way through. There is no bout in Toronto that attracts more attention than a go between these two boys.

The other preliminary is a five-round battle between J. Walton of Hamilton, and Jim Peters of Toronto, two very clever little fellows, who will give the crowd action all the way.

The programme will be as follows:
Hilliard Lang of Toronto, Canadian Welterweight Champion vs. Joe. Lannon of Syracuse, N.Y., 6 rounds.
Ted Picton, of Toronto, vs. Fred Crompton, ex-amateur lightweight champion, 5 rounds at 138 pounds
G. Moore of Montreal, 125 pound Champion vs. Tommy Sturch of Toronto, 118 pound champion, late of England, 5 rounds.
Jack Wilton of Hamilton vs. Jim Peters of Toronto, 5 rounds, at 115 pounds.

LAST HOCKEY GAME IN LINDSAY

The Lindsay Post says:

Last night the All Stars hockey team made up of old-time hockey players succeeded in winning from the junior O.H.A. seven by 15—7. It seemed a little more like old times to see some of the boys on the rink again. Much disappointment was expressed that Leon Koyle was unable to play. The ice was in fine condition and the game itself was fairly exciting. Following was the line-up:

Juniors — Goal, Primeau, point, Brown; cover, Callaghan; centre, Knowlson; wings, McConnell and McIntyre.

Referee—A. Gamble.

This game, which is the last of the season, was a good work out for the juniors, and the executive feel that they will have excellent material from which to select a strong junior seven next winter.

BASEBALL

Pitcher George Mullin, crack pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, does not believe that there is a batsman in the big league to-day who can place a ball where he wants it.

"There are a number of players who claim they can place a ball, but there was one that I ever thought could do it," said Mullin. "That was Willie Keeler, of Toronto. I think he was one of the greatest hitters the game ever produced. He seemed to know exactly where every ball he hit was going to land. I saw him bunt perfectly with two and three on in the ninth inning. No batsman would have attempted to do a thing like that unless he had perfect confidence in his ability to lay the ball down just where he wanted it. Keeler rolled the ball between the pitcher's box and third base so accurately that the man on the base scored easily."

"Rube Marquard, the $11,000 lemon of the New York Giants, may replace 'Iron Man' Joe McGinnity with the Newark team. McGinnity, out of commission for a couple of weeks and perhaps longer as a pitcher, realizes that he must have a first-class man to take his place on the Newark twirling staff, and he looks to John McGraw of the Giants, to help him out by turning over the famous Marquard.

Marquard, while a failure as a pitcher in the big show, might prove a whirlwind in the Eastern League. It was in the American Association that he made the record that induced McGraw to turn over a small-sized fortune for him. While the American Association is a bit slower than the Eastern League, Marquard might be able to make good in this league, after the experience obtained in the big league.

Now that McGinnity will be unable to pitch for at least six weeks, Capt. Lew McAllister will be in full control of the Newark team.

Dave Callahan is the only one of the men trying out for the Cleveland outfield who did not start his baseball career in some other position, Dave having always been an outfielder.

Mr. Harry Wier, who comes from Oshawa to reside here, will make a valuable addition to the junior hockey team next year, he having played wing on the Oshawa team this season. Harry is also a baseball player and will no doubt be secured by some town league team, if such a league is organized this summer.—Lindsay Warder.

ALFALFA

From Farm and Dairy.

Although alfalfa has been before Ontario farmers for many years it has not been taken advantage of and grown generally. Many of the older men who attempted to grow alfalfa 25 and 30 years ago did not succeed any too well with the crop. At that time the needs of alfalfa were not well understood. It was not known that bacteria was required for the alfalfa roots before the plants would grow their best. It was not recognized that alfalfa would appreciate a dry, deep, rich soil and that lime and manure added greatly to the yield of alfalfa. Methods of curing were at fault and the alfalfa was allowed to get too ripe. It became too woody and the leaves dropped off, leaving coarse, woody stalks, which did not make the best of feed.

During the past few years a great number of progressive farmers here and there in various parts of Ontario have experimented with small acreages of alfalfa. We have yet to find one of these men who has grown alfalfa on suitable soil and has grown it according to the modern, approved methods of culture but has been successful with alfalfa and now wishes he had more of it. Hundreds of these farmers are planning to seed increased acreages to alfalfa this spring. A canvass Farm and Dairy has made of a number of leading farmers in Peterboro County has shown that a great number of fields will be seeded to alfalfa this spring.

Alfalfa has proved itself to be a money crop beyond peradventure. There is no reason why each and every farmer should not grow at least a reasonable acreage of alfalfa. In our own best interests we need to break away from any old time prejudices that have kept us from growing this great crop. We cannot afford to do otherwise than cast in our lot with the progressive ones who are growing alfalfa in increased acreages year by year. Even that objection of alfalfa interfering with rotation should not be countenanced. American farmers who grow alfalfa use it in a rotation and as Mr. Marsh shows in his article elsewhere in this issue, alfalfa works well into a rotation of crops.

Waterspouts.

A waterspout is a miniature tornado originating in a strong upward draft of air which occurs above the surface of a body of comparatively warm water. Its effect first becomes visible in a circular motion at the point in the clouds to which it ascends. This becomes a whirl, which condenses the vapor at its center, causing the portion of the cloud there to drop downward in the shape of a gigantic jelly bag. At the same time the continuing upward draft increases the rapidity of its original swirl and the condensed vapor caught within it until the ascending and descending masses join to form the waterspout. Necessarily by this process the air beneath the spout is rarefied, and thus where the phenomenon comes at sea the water always seems to be sucked up into it, although this is not really the case to any considerable extent. For similar reasons where a waterspout or tornado passes over a building it does most of its damage by exhausting the air outside, causing what is within to expand and blow the structure to pieces.

The White Whale.

The white whale, or beluga, is an arctic cetacean and closely allied to the narwhal. It is pure white in color, twelve to eighteen feet long, whalelike in form, with a huge muzzle and numerous sharp conical teeth.

The white whale swims with extraordinary speed by doubling its huge tail under its body and then striking out with it. Scientists who have studied it in its natural environs say that it is able to catch the swiftest of fishes, often pursuing its prey far up the northern rivers. It is gregarious and may be seen at times in herds of forty or fifty.

These herds not infrequently gambol around boats in the arctic seas, and the natives of Greenland often capture them with harpoons or nets. The flesh of the white whale, in fact, is a considerable source of food supply to them. From it also is derived one of the finest grades of commercial oil. The skins are tanned and the leather sold in the trade as "porpoise hide."—New York Times.

Sing a Song of Sixpence.

The London Globe attempts an explanation of the rhyme "Sing a Song of Sixpence." Here it is: "The four and twenty blackbirds represent the four and twenty hours. The bottom of the pie is the world. The top crust represents the sky. The opening of the pie is the dawn of the day, when the birds begin to sing, and surely such a sight is fit for a king. The king in his counting house counting out his money is the sun. The money the king is counting represents the golden sunshine. The queen, who sits in the parlor, is the moon. The honey she is eating is the moonlight. The industrious maid who is working in the garden before the sun has risen is the day dawn, and the clothes she hangs out are clouds. The bird that so tragically ends the song by slipping [illegible] is the hour of sunset."

Names for the other wards will be announced as soon as completed. Those who desire to subscribe to this fund, should place their subscriptions early, as it will be found necessary to close the fund by April 20th.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM DAWSON.

Miriam Hodgson, relict of the late William Dawson, of South Monaghan peacefully passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. P. E. Rutherford, 541 Aylmer street on Thursday evening, March the 30th, aged seventy-nine years and eleven months.

Deceased was born at Whitby, Yorkshire Co., England, April 27th, 1831 and at the age of eighteen came to Canada with her sister, who was the late Mrs. Hancock of Bethany.

Her husband predeceased her thirty one years ago, leaving seven step-children, five of whom are living, viz., William, Nichol, Peter, George and Thomas, all of South Monaghan and Cavan townships. She also leaves to mourn her loss seven children, Mrs. J. J. Kerr, of Souris Man., Mrs. Dr. Marshall and Mrs. P. E. Rutherford, of Peterborough and Henry Welford, Clarence and William Fell of South Monaghan.

During the last fifty years she has been a constant resident of South Monaghan, where she always took an active part in charity and church work, being a faithful worker in Bailieboro Methodist church, where her presence will be missed.

Up till the very last she retained great physical and mental vigour Her hospitality was proverbial even in the hospitable community in which she lived. Especially did she assist the needy, and never turned a deaf ear to a tale of distress.

"Her house was known to all the vagrant train

The funeral will leave the residence of her daughter, Mrs. P. E. Rutherford, 541 Aylmer street on Sunday morning, April 2nd, at 10 a.m., and proceed to South Monaghan cemetery for interment.

WILLIAM FAVERSHAM IN "THE FAUN"

William Faversham will be the attraction at the Grand next Wednesday, April 5th. He will present Edward Knoblauch's comedy, "The Faun." This new play was written especially for Mr. Faversham's use. The story is one of great novelty and dramatic daring. In this play Mr. Faversham impersonates a faun — a son of Pan the great god of Pan, the father of all gods. The faun in Mr. Knoblauch's play happens to wander into London one night and is captured occupying a huge vase in the garden of an important city house. He is taken into society, dressed up like a human being with the result that very curious incidents and situations are involved by the dramatist. Not since Mr. Faversham appeared as Lord Agly, in "Lord and Lady Algy," has he had a part that at all aproaches this fantastic role. It was Mr. Knoblauch's original purpose in writing a play for Mr Faversham that he would embody in it a side of the actor's nature that had not before been revealed to the public—in short, the gay, the humorous, the lovable Faversham. The Faun achieved a marked success, when presented at Daly's Theatre, New York. All the important people that appeared with Mr. Faversham last year will be seen with him in "The Faun," and in addition to those there will be added to the company several important new players. The seat sale opens Monday.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAINED

A very pleasant evening was spent last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs Charles Bergoine, 514 Water street. A number of young people were invited and the evening was spent in cards, games, etc., after which a dainty luncheon was served. The party broke up at an early hour, expressing themselves as being delighted with the very enjoyable evening that was spent.

Why it will pay you to buy INVICTUS SHOES

You'll know the difference between good and bad leather only after you've worn it.

It's then that the inferior leather shows its defects, both in looks and wearing qualities.

When you buy a pair of shoes you are at the mercy of the maker.

If he puts inferior leather into them he's going to lose your future trade.

But, if he uses good, high grade, selected leather, it means that your purchases won't stop with the one pair—you'll become a permanent buyer.

Men who buy one pair of INVICTUS Shoes keep on using them from year to year.

Because INVICTUS Shoes are made of the best selected leathers, by skilled workmen, on modern machinery, over stylish, up-to-date lasts.

They're made with the object of giving the maximum of wear, style & comfort that any shoes can give

MORE COLD WEATHER AND RAIN IS APRIL PROGRAMME

According to Irl Hicks the Outlook For Next Month is Not of the Brightest---Nothing Springlike in His Description of What the Conditions Are to be.

A reactionary storm period is in progress as we pass from March into April. Storms of rain, wind and thunder will culminate on and touching Sunday the 2nd, winding up with possible snow in the northern extremes. Rising barometer, fair weather and frosty nights will visit most parts of the country between the 2nd and 4th. A seismic period, which is central on March 30th, will reach three or four days later in April.

A regular storm period covers the 4th to the 8th, having its centre on the 6th. Falling barometer, change to much warmer, with growing cloudiness and storms will begin in the west by the 4th and 5th. During the 6ht to 8th, storms of rain, wind and thunder will make their transit from west to east, touching most parts of the country. These storms will be in the form of heavy April showers, breaking into severe thunder squalls and hail storms in many localities. Fair weather and cool nights with possible frosts northward, will follow these storms.

A reactionary storm period marks the closing days of earth's vernal equinotial, central on the 11th, 12th and 13th. Low barometer and very high temperature on and touching the 11th and 12th will bring severe thunder, rain and hail to many sections. Hot, muggy conditions, with very low barometer and angry, electrical clouds, should be admonitions of tornadoes at this period. This also is a period in which seismic disturbances will be heard from, say within three days of Thursday, the 13th.

A regular storm period extends from the 16th to the 21st. We will designate the 18th, 19th and 20th as the crisis of this period. On and touching these dates, expect many active April storms and squalls, attended by hail and followed by a change to much cooler.

A reactionary storm period has its centre on the 24th and 25th. This period will, most likely, not react into high barometer and general anti-storm conditions but run into a series of daily April showers.

A regular storm period is central on the 29th, extending from the 26th to May 3rd. On the 28th, new moon or moon's conjunction with earth and sun, is at a total solar eclipse ode. From the date of this eclipse of the sun, the 28th, to the end of April, there is a combination of astronomical causes which is certain to excite phenomenal disturbances in the atmosphere and in the terrestial globe. From the 25th of April to the 4th of May is one of the most positive seismic periods of the year.

ITS WORRY THAT KILLS

Nothing so wastes the vital nerve force as worry. Nothing so certainly retards restoration to health. Get out into the sunshine, be cheerful, use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food to rebuild the wasted nervous system, and you will be surprised how quickly there will be a change for the better. This advice will be better than gold to you if you will but follow it.

Presentation Was Made

To Salvation Army Lieutenant Who is Leaving For Nova Scotia

The meeting at the S. A. Temple last night was interesting in a double sense.

An interesting visitor at the meeting was Lieutenant Whiffin who has just completed her training at the Toronto Training College. She is visiting her parents here for a few days prior to leaving for Annapolis, Nova Scotia, where she has been appointed to help take charge of the crops. After the meeting a party of her friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Wm. Ford for the purpose of wishing her success in her new undertaking. A happy time was spent together and on leaving the Lieutenant was the recipient of a well filled purse from her well wishers.

Your Easter Linen — For Table, Bed and Toilet Needs :: ::

The Easter table napery should have the same attention as is given the Thanksgiving or Christmas linens. While Easter is not the festive event that the former two are, yet the table should reflect the same spirit of peace and contentment. How much nicer the Easter table will look with exquisite linen to reflect the April sunlight.

The same can be said of the bed and toilet napery—the linen bedspread and shams, the dainty little guest towels give a tone to the chamber when you usher in the welcome guest who has come to renew pleasant acquaintances.

See our very fine stocks now on exhibit in the linen section for your discriminating approval. See these lines of linen and staple goods, special for Saturday—

Montreal Conferences.

MONTREAL, MARCH 30. — The fact that Mr. Edmund Bristol, M.P., of Toronto and Mr. G. H. Barnard, M.P. for Victoria, B.C., and other Conservative memmbers have this morning been closeted with various prominent Conservatives in Montreal has lent strength and persistency to a belief in the street that Mr. R. L. Borden's leadership of the Conservative party is the question at issue. Their presence together in the city would in itself not be conclusive, but their frequent visits this morning and the air of secrecy hanging around their conferences have led to this conclusion ,and the subject has almost ousted reciprocity as a burning topic of discussion.

"A TRIP THROUGH LABRADOR"

To-night Dr. Marsh will give his interesting lecture "A Trip Through Labrador" in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium Hall. Musical numbers will also be enjoyed. A silver collection is asked for the educational work of the association. The public are cordially invited.

The Worktess Welcomed.

The man who is genuinely on the road looking for work is finding things made easy for him just now in Berkshire, England, and adjacent unions in Oxford and Buckingham.

Bread stations are established at easy intervals, and men who prove they are really searching for work are given "way tickets," which entitle them to a mid-day meal at these stations.

And then at casual-wards they are given special treatment.

The idea is to test the system with a view to stamping out vagrancy. For the tramp there will be no such consideration shown. Indeed, notices have been stuck up all over Berkshire requesting the public decline to assist beggars, and to report all cases to the nearest police-station.

When the King Motors.

It may not be generally known that the drivers of the motor-cars of the King, the Prince of Wales, and the Duke of Connaught are all policemen. The late King's instructions were, "Run no risks, but lose no time." The latter clause used to be obeyed so implicitly that Lord Derby once, when returning from Newmarket a "horse's length" behind the King, on whom he was in attendance, was stopped in his motor by the police at Barnet—a happy illustration of the principle that the King can do no wrong. The royal drivers do not rely on a motor-horn alone. Alongside them on the box there sits a footman, who plays a hay-bugle to announce the approach of the car.

New Brunswick Amendments.

J. K. Pinder, one of the prettiest members of York County in the N.B. House of Assembly, once did some work for the old Conservative Government on Grand Island Bar in the River St. John, which was very severely criticised by his political opponents.

Some years later Mr. Pinder was making some remarks in the House which rather ruffled the temper of a member on the opposite side, who called out "What about Grand Island Bar?"

"I do not wonder at the question," replied Mr. Pinder, "for all of the honorable member's troubles in life have sprung from the work on 'bars,' but there is this difference, that there is plenty of water on Grand Island Bar."

Do You Want to Get Slender?

A food specialist said of dieting: "The simplest, easiest and most efficacious diet to bring down the weight is the one dish diet. At no meal, that is, should more than one dish be eaten. The dish may be what you will—Irish stew, macaroni and cheese, roast beef, vegetable soup, bacon and eggs—but no courses are to precede or follow it. You may eat as much as you choose of the dish, and yet, for all that, you will lose weight steadily. It's the variety of dishes—the oysters, soup, fish, turkey, mince pie, ice cream—it's the variety of dishes, creating an artificial appetite when the body has really had all it requires, that causes corpulence. If we confine ourselves to one dish we know when we've had enough—we don't know otherwise—and the result is that we soon drop down to the slimness natural to children, and male and temperate and healthy men and women."—Kansas City Star.

ALBERTA COAL MINERS TO GO OUT ON STRIKE

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LETHBRIDGE, MARCH 31.—Indications are that between three thousand and four thousand miners throughout the coal mines of Alberta will go on strike to-night as a result of an agitation which has been going on sometime .In some places they are already out. The question largely involved is the recognition of the Union. The situation is looked on as quite serious for one of the Provinces's chief industries.

SHEFFIELD CHOIR SINGS TO MEMBERS OF HOUSE

Ottawa, March 30—When Parliament rose at 6 o'clock to-night, the Commons chamber was the scene of an unusual spectacle. The members of the Sheffield Choir, some two hundred strong, under the direction of Dr. Charles Harriss, were gathered in the upper Press Gallery, Senators and Commoners crowded upon the floor of the House and the galleries were filled to overflowing with ladies and their escorts. On behalf of Canada, Speaker Marcil extended a cordial welcome to the visiting choir and the House stood while they sang, "O Canada," responding to an enthusiastic encore, and finally concluding the impromptu and delightful program with the National Anthem. Led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Senators and Commoners then accorded the visiting choir three hearty Canadian cheers, while Dr. Harriss reciprocated by leading the songsters in applauding the members o fthe Canadian Parliament. The members of the choir were then escorted to the floor of the House, where they met the members. Lady Laurier led the Chautauqua salute from the Speaker's Gallery.

Gallows Chips.

The chips from a gallows upon which several persons had been hanged were one of the items of medieval materia medica. These were thought to be especially valuable in treating cases of obstinate ague.

The Thumb.

It is said that if a person is trying to deceive you he will invariably draw his thumb in toward the palm. On the other hand, if he is telling the truth the thumb will be relaxed and point away from the palm.

Seaweeds.

Miss of the Arc Light.

When an electric arc light hisses the carbon, melted from one of the rods, is actually boiling in the little crater formed in the end of the rod. The superheated liquid, with blinding flashes of light, moves and jumps about very much as water does on beginning to boil.

The Centipede in China.

An exceedingly poisonous variety of centipede is found throughout China in great numbers under old buildings or old logs. The bite is extremely painful and in children sometimes fatal.

The Snow Leopard.

In the highlands of central Asia lives the snow leopard, which never descends below the snow line of the mountains. Its color is a gray, inclining to buff. A few large dark spots show about the lower parts and a number of smaller ones congregate about the head and the neck. The back and the sides are marked with faded looking brown rings or rosettes. The comparatively enormous tail of the animal is fully as large as its body.

THE PSALM OF THE SUFFRAGETTE.

Show me not with scornful numbers
You're too many voters now.
Woman, wakened from her slumbers,
Wants the ballot anyhow.

Life with Bill or life with Ernest
Is no more our destined goal.
Man thou art, to man thou turnest,
But we, too, demand the poll.

Not enjoyment, naught but sorrow,
Is the legislator's way,
For we'll get to him tomorrow
If he should escape today.

Art's expensive; styles are fleeting.
Let our less edged banners wave.
Thus inscribed, o'er every meeting,
"Give us suffrage or the grave!"

Heroines, prepare for battle!
Lend your efforts to the strife!
Drive all husbands forth like cattle!
Be a woman, not a wife!

Trust no man, however pleasant,
He'll agree to all you say,
Send you candy as a present—
Go and vote the other way.

Wives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime
And, preceding, leave behind us
All the rest at dinner time.

Let us then be up and doing,
Don the trousers and the coat,
For our candidate pursuing
The elusive, nimble vote.

—Smart Set.

It Often Happens.

When Alfred Pool first went to school
He stood no chance whatever,
But he grew up and "played the fool,"
And people called him clever.

What She Could Do.

A correspondent recalls a pointed but discourteous and yet not wholly undeserved interjection made at a local political meeting.

A lady, whose husband had temporarily lost his voice, loyally appeared to make a speech on his behalf. She said a good deal at the outset about the state of his larynx and then plunged into politics. Having speedily exhausted that theme, she returned to her husband's health and described not only his disappointment at being unable to address them, but her own efforts to patch him up for the fray. She had tried hot fomentations, she had tried poultices, she had made him gargle his throat, she had steamed his throat for him, she had sprayed his throat and made him try every kind of lozenge. Was there anything else she could do for his throat? And a voice said, "Aye, mem, cut it."—Tit-Bits.

Catalogued.

Two women on a train, seated together, held each a covered basket. From one a faint shuffling noise proceeded, while from the other came now and then an indignant purr.

The conductor came by.

"Dogs ain't allowed on this train," said he.

"This is a cat," protested the owner of the purring basket.

"Makes no difference; dogs ain't allowed," repeated this stolid logician.

"Must I get off, too?" inquired the other woman. "I have a turtle in this basket."

"No, ma'am; turtles is insects, but cats is dogs," he told her.—Short Stories.

Obiter Dicta.

A member of the American Bar association, leaving one of the meetings at Chattanooga last summer, met a colleague who asked him what was going on.

"Judge Blank has been talking over an hour."

"On what subject?"

"The judge didn't say."—Chicago Legal News.

His Defense.

"What defense," asked the grafter's wife, "did you make when you faced the investigating committee?"

"I vehemently called the man who had brought the charges a liar."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not Bragging.

"There are a lot of girls who don't ever intend to get married."

"How do you know?"

The Irishman Had Him.

John Tolmie, who represents North Bruce in the House of Commons, tells among his good stories, of the time when the joke was neatly turned on him.

An Irishman, who knew that Mr Tolmie was Scotch and that he had been a politician for a great many years, asked why it was that Scotchmen showed such great ability in opposite directions. "Scotchmen are either preachers or politicians," said the Irishman.

"The Irish are just as remarkable," said Mr. Tolmie. "They are either policemen or—". The remainder of the remark was drowned by the laughter of the listeners.

At a gathering of the Bruce Old Boys' Association in which most of the people were Scotch, Mr. Tolmie told how he had got back at the Irishman. But an Irish Old Boy at the gathering turned the laugh on Mr Tolmie. Said the Irishman: "I must admit that it takes about half the Irish as policemen to keep the other half out of jail, but Mr. Tolmie mustn't forget that it takes half the Scotch as preachers to keep the other half out of Hades."

Too Careful.

In politics as well as in business it is sometimes necessary to do things with a rather free hand, and it was perhaps the lack of ability to so rise to the occasion that made a former occupant of a Cabinet position in the Ontario Legislature not altogether suited to his position.

When this man was appointed, a newspaper man got from him some information for a write-up. The Minister was asked if he would like a few copies of the paper in which the write-up was to appear, and he said, "Yes, send me a dozen."

The newspaperman saw the Minister a few days later and said: "I've given you a pretty good show in that write-up. Don't you think you ought to get quite a number of papers and send them to some of the country editors?"

"It's a splendid idea," said the Minister enthusiastically. "How many papers did we arrange for you to send me?"

"Oh, we said about a dozen."

"Well," said the Minister in a tone indicating great decision, "send me two dozen, and send the bill to me."

The announcement that Johnston Paudash, the well known young Mississauga Indian, from Hiawatha, is going to join the ranks of the benedicts, taking as his bride, Miss Florence, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Chief Isaac Johnston, of the Scugog Reserve, caused no very great surprise to those of his friends who have been camping on his trail for the last few months. Johnston has been on a prolonged stay to the Scugog Reserve and it was openly hinted that there was something doing in the matrimonial line.

Johnston tells a very amusing story concerning his approaching wedding, which, by the way, is to take place on Thursday of next week. When in Ottawa a year or two ago on one of his periodical semi-official pilgrimages, Johnston paid a visit to the office of Sir Wilfrid. He desired to talk over maters of importance to the Indians generally and incidentally find out how the Premier enjoyed the wild rice and wild duck that the Hiawatha Indian had some time previously sent down. Before Johnston took his leave the Premier intimated that he would like to tender him a little present. He thereupon gave Johnston a letter to a well known firm of jewellers in order that Johnston might select a ring for himself. Johnston returned in due time to show Sir Wilfrid his selection. The latter appeared much amused to find that Johnston had selected a wedding ring. However the Hiawatha brave assured the Premier that he would make good use of it.

When Johnston was down to Ottawa this week, he of course paid his respects to Sir Wilfrid. The Premier in the course of the interview said: "Well, Johnston, have you made use of the wedding ring?"

"Not yet," replied Johnston, "but I hope to, next week."

Sir Wilfrid expressed his pleasure in learning of Johnston's intended plunge into matrimony, and expressed his desire to present to Johnston's bride-to-be, a wedding present. Accordingly Johnston arrived home from Ottawa with a handsome silver tea service, neatly engraved on one of the pieces being the words, "Presented to Miss Florence Johnston, by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, 1911."

Johnston says Sir Wilfrid is all right. Sir Wilfrid's parting words were in wishing Johnston many years of happiness, and Johnston's reply was to shove the reciprocity agreement through right away quick, as the farmers wanted it.

Mr. Conroy Tells Of The West

Mr. David Conroy, one of the city's best known realtors, returned this week after a six months' pleasure trip throughout Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Mr. Conroy also paid a brief visit to the State of Oregon, where his son Dr. Robert Conroy enjoys an extensive medical practice.

A representative of the Examiner had an interesting chat with Mr. Conroy, and found him to be most enthusiastic concerning the natural resources of Western Canada, the wide and varied opportunities for investment there, and the astounding development that is taking place in railroad construction, city making, ranching, fruit farming and almost every line of agricultural pursuits. He is strongly of the conviction that there is no greater opportunity in the whole wide world to make money, than in farming operations in the west, providing, however, that one is prepared to forsake certain luxuries and conveniences that are enjoyed by the farming communities of Eastern Canada, and in return endure for the most part, a more severe winter, and certain periods of intense loneliness. But the money one can make in a few years' time will be astonishing.

Meets Old Friends.

Mr. Conroy finds; as is the case with almost any resident of Peterborough, when travelling through Western Canada, that one can scarcely stick his nose out of the car window at any of the flourishing young towns and cities, without being saluted by a former resident of Peterborough City or County. He is glad also to find, that the many Peterborough people are in almost every case doing exceedingly well, whilst the hospitable manner in which they enteratin a Peterborough citizen who may be making a tour through the west, such as in Mr. Conroy's case, is not by any means the least pleasant feature of the trip. From the time that Mr. Conroy left Peterborough on September 15th last, until his return this week, he admits he never experienced a lonesome moment, so many former citizens did he meet and so cordial was the greeting.

At Edmonton.

Mr. Conroy of course spent the greater portion of his time—some four months in fact—the guest of his son, Mr. David Conroy, Jr., who is now a resident of Edmonton. He declares that Edmonton is destined to be one of the finest cities in Canada. Its development is simply marvellous. As an indication of how they rush things along there in the building lines, Mr. Conroy mentioned the fact that his son had purchased two lots, and inside of two months had two houses built on them ready for occupation.

While in Edmonton he met many times, Lieut.-Col. Edwards, formerly of Peterborough ,and he reports that the Colonel is enjoying a lucrative practice. He still enquires affectionately for his old town and its people. Fred Whiteroft, Jack Gorman from Douro, and many other former residents, well known to Examiner readers, were met frequently. They all like Edmonton. Mr. Conroy states, however, that there is no denying the fact that the climate of Edmonton in winter is cold, very cold. He does not agree with those who say that it may be cold but that there is something in the air that you can't feel it. "By Gosh! she's cold, and I felt it," declared Mr. Conroy, "but it's a fine place notwithstanding that." Fortunately coal is plentiful and cheap. An instance is cited in the case of a construction of a $2,000,000 bridge across the Saskatchewan River between Edmonton and Strathcona. The contractors were digging their test pits for their foundations and found enough coal to run their entire plant in the construction of the bridge. Mr. Conroy casually remarked that contractors down this way ran across no such luck when building bridges.

On the Coast.

One of the most pleasant features of Mr Conroy's trip was his visit to the coast. When in Victoria, Lieut.-Col. C. Rogers, Peterborough's former Postmaster, gave him a grand time. The Colonel showed him the beauties of the city, and treated him with genuine hospitality and kindness. Then when he arrived in Vancouver one of the first men he ran across was Andy Cameron, who left Peterborough for the west some time last year. It was with difficulty that Mr. Conroy could recall Mr. Cameron's name to the reporter, but after referring to him as "that well known political organizer from Keene or somewhere down that way," the name flashed back into Mr. Conroy's mind. "And do you know," he continued, "he's doing fine. By Gosh! he lives in a great big house next door to the Mayor of the city, and he and the Mayor are great pals." Cam Sawers, Bob Allen (from Douro); Jim Barrie, Jack Conroy and others from down this way were there with the "glad hand" when Mr. Conroy landed at Vancouver. Continuing, Mr. Conroy said: "I met Mr. Wm. Hickey, who formerly worked at Peter Hamilton's foundry here, and who now is located in Vancouver. He told me that when he landed in that city he didn't possess a ten dollar bill. He is now negotiating a deal with an English syndicate by which he is selling one-half of his interest in a fishing plant on the coast for three hundred thousand dollars. Besides this he owns very valuable property in the City of Vancouver."

"Perhaps the most interesting sight I saw while in Vancouver was an American schooner loaded with halibut, some weighing 200 pounds, being towed into Vancouver harbour by a Canadian Man-of-War. It seems that while the Americans were fishing inside of the three mile limit, they were quickly spied 30 miles away by a Canadian Man-of-War. The latter started to sail with all possible speed for the American vessel. Meanwhile the Americans saw the Canadian vessel coming fast towards them ,and picking up their nets and small boats they started for the open ocean, with the Canadian vessel in pursuit. They both kept up the speed till the Canadian Man-of-War fired a shot across the bow of the other vessel, which caused the Americans to surrender their vessel, heavily loaded in fish. It was towed into aVancouver harbour, confiscated, and sold at public auction."

Mr. Conroy's description of a big saw mill he saw at New Westminster was most interesting. He assured the Examiner that it was the largest in the world. He saw a double bladed band saw ripping logs 8 feet in diameter into the finest lumber one would care to look upon. This mill is on the Fraser River, ten miles above New Westminster. While here he renewed acquaintance with Mr. C. B. McAllister.

While at the Coast Mr. Conroy took a run down to Medford, Oregon, and spent a while with his son, Dr. Robert Conroy. While there he met Michael Hogan, who is a resident of that place and who left the township of Douro 30 years ago. Medford is the centre of a most magnificent fruit-bearing district. Thousands and thousands of new trees are being planted out each year and the climate of the district is really delightful.

Would Take Columns.

But to review all the points of interest visited by Mr. Conroy would take many columns of space. Only passing reference can therefore be made to the great rush to the Peace River District; the procession of settlers driving their cows attached to huge waggons, bearing many months supplies of provisions, as well as lumber for shacks, machinery, etc., was a never-to-be-forgotten sight, and it seemed scarcely creditable to Mr. Conroy to believe that arable land was to be found for several hundred miles north of Edmonton. Settlers of every nationality on the face of the earth are swarming in by the thousands each day and there is a feeling of intense enthusiasm.

"I never had," continued Mr. Conroy, "the slightest conception that there was such a magnificent country on the face of the earth. The great fertile lands of Saskatchewan and Alberta, are only in the early stages of settlement, and very appropriately might one say:

"I heard the sound of the pioneer
Of nations yet to be,
I hear the one great wash
Where upon shall roll the human sea."

Mr. Conroy's last words were concerning reciprocity. He failed to meet one single individual in the whole of Western Canada, that was against the measure. Everyone is crazy for it. The only opposition he heard at all was while he was south of the international boundary line. The farmers of the Western States are dreading the measure for they claim the Western Canadian farmer will have a splendid new market opened to him.

The people down in Ontario have no conception of the strong feeling in favour of reciprocity throughout Western Canada.

Mr. Conroy hopes that, if he is spared, he may be able to visit the West again inside of a year's time.

NEVER BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mothers, if you wish to guard the health of your little ones against the sudden outbreaks of those ailments peculiar to childhood, always keep a supply of Baby's Own Tablets on hand. These Tablets never fail to relieve baby of distressing stomach troubles, pains caused by difficult teething and the many other little troubles that make baby's life miserable. The Tablets are sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to contain not one particle of opiate or other injurious drug and they may be given to the youngest baby with perfect safety. Concerning them Mrs. Hypolite Ohiasson, Eastern Harbour, N. S., writes:—"We have used Baby's Own Tablets for our baby and they have done her much good. Please send us two more boxes as I find them the only medicine that helps our little one." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THINGS IN GENERAL

There are a lot of girls in Peterborough who should be disqualified from taking part in the presentation to Queen Mary from the Marys of our country. Like the sensible woman she is, she clung to the homely, old-fashioned name, while they sought out new inventions, such as Marie, May, Mamie, Mayme, Mae, thinking these names more fashionable than Mary. "Gworge" and "Mary" are now a standing reproach to the parents who sought out fashionable names for their children, and to the children who changed their names because of a fool idea that common names are not fashionable.

Lady Mackenzie has already a large gang of men at work at her palatial summer residence at Kirkfield. Her latest move in the building line, however, was made this week, when a number of men set to work tearing down the old bake shop at the rear of the hotel, that for years was conducted by Mr. H. Campbell, but which was lately purchased by L. Mackenzie, who purposes turning the old hotel into a picturesque English inn, after the type of the old English inns.

Mr. G. W. Stevens, the outside manager of the Gull River Lumber Co., died this week at his home at Coboconk. Mr. Stevens has been a prominent and useful man for many years in the northern part of the country, being Reeve of the township for a term of years. He has been an active member of the Gull River Lumber Company since its organization, and to his prudent management is due much of the company's success. He leaves a widow and five children to mourn his death. His health has not been good for some time, but he attended to business until early in January, and since then he has failed rapidly, in spite of the best of care and medical attendance. He was fifty-three years of age. His mother was buried on the day of his death.

It is stated that a party of G. T. R. surveyors have been busy for some time past, locating a route for a new line from Bancroft to Barry's Bay, to connect the Grand Trunk's Ottawa-Parry Sound line with the Irondale, Bancroft, and Ottawa at Bancroft. The new line, if it goes through, will touch at Craigmont and Combermere.

[illegible] two federal members, A. S. Goodeve, British Columbia, and John Best, Dufferin, got their shirts wet Saturday afternoon, 18th inst., in an excessively laboured endeavour to convince Clarke farmers against their convictions that the reciprocity pact under consideration between Canada and United States is not a good proposition for Ontario farmers, says the Bowmanville Statesman. So Herculean did they discover the task to be that the meeting is reported to have continued from 2 to after 6 p. m., and still they wasted their breath and heat and sawed the air in vain, for their anti-reciprocity twaddle and buncombe, like Banquo's ghost, "would not down." There is a supposition amounting almost to a conviction, that the same moneyed men, manufacturers or what note, who are paying the newspapers thousands of dollars to publish anti-reciprocity articles, are also paying speakers' expenses for talking against the treaty. We miss our guess if farmers of Durham county are caught by any such golden-hued sophistry. It is problematical if those three stalwarts made a single convert. It is the opinion of some that they talked till after dark so that no opposition speaker would have a chance to combat this imagery. How we should like to have heard Squire Lovekin and S. O. Taylor in reply, for we fancy they could easily have made head-cheese of the three manufacturers' advocates.

MAUDSLEY'S LAST CRUISE

A Short Story

The Montiara, barque, of Sydney, from the New Hebrides to Samoa with a cargo of black labor, was lying becalmed upon a sea of glass, with the pitch bubbling up between her deck seams. Ten miles away to the eastward, the verdured slopes of two islands—Fotuna and Aloft—which, an hour before had shone a vivid and enchanting green, were now changing to a dulled purple under the last rays of an angry, blood-red sun.

As four bells struck, John Maudsley, the chief mate, came up on deck from the main hold, and, walking quickly aft, joined the captain on the poop.

"Packenham," he said wearily, as he took off his broad straw hat and fanned his heated face, "there's another poor devil just pegged out—one of the Santa Cruz boys. Thirteen in twenty-one days! And unless we get a breeze soon they'll begin to die like rotten sheep. Look here, old man, it's no use talking, we must let a batch of say thirty up on deck at once. It will at least give the rest some more air."

The two men looked into each other's faces for a few moments in silence, then Packenham spoke.

"It's terribly risky, Maudsley. There are only three sound men in the ship besides you and I, and it would simply be asking these Tanna and Pentecost niggers to cut our throats and take the ship. What chance should we have, old man, with even only a dozen of them if they knew our weakness? Can't you get the sick men to come up on deck?"

"No. They are sulky and savage, and would rather die down there with suffocation. There are now quite half a dozen of them sickening. Tried to get one fellow up on his feet to bring him on deck, but his countrymen looked so threateningly at me that I had to desist."

"Any of the Tanna and Pentecost boys sick yet?"

"No; it would be a deuced good thing for us if they were. They're the crowd who are bent on mischief. So far, only the Banks' Islanders have been attacked, and they are the least dangerous of the lot. Something must be done, Packenham. Always thought measles was a baby's complaint, didn't you? I say, old man, look out for the deck for a bit and send for some coffee. I've got a bit of a twister coming on. Oh, this is a lovely trip! All hands but five down with fever, measles among the 'cargo'—the greater portion of which is only waiting its chance to cut our throats, and a beastly, furious calm to boot."

"Steward, bring some coffee, quick," cried Packenham, as Maudsley, with chattering teeth and shaking limbs, crawled up between the up-ended wings of the skylight, and drawing his knees to his chest, lay down on his side, whilst the captain hastily covered him with rugs and blankets until the ague fit was past and the bone-racking agonies of the fever began.

The steward brought the coffee, and Maudsley raised himself on his elbow, and caught sight of the captain standing over him.

"Hang you, Packenham, what the devil are you doing here?" he chattered, in querulous, irritable tones; "I'm all right. You go and get that 'tween deck ladder up—if the niggers mean to make a rush, one man with a gun won't stop 'em. Take a look below first, and see what they're doing. If it wasn't murder to do so in such weather, I'd clap the hatches on."

The skipper of the Montiara was well used to his mate's language, for the two men were old and tried comrades, and in all matters concerning natives Packenham always gave way to his subordinate; for Maudsley was not only his chief officer, but "recruiter" as well, and no man who ever sailed the Pacific had more nerve and a greater knowledge of native custom and character, nor had displayed it so often in the face of the deadliest danger.

Packenham walked along to the main deck and looked down the hatchway, but the fast gathering darkness prevented him from discerning more than the recumbent figures of his "cargo," with here and there the gleam of a surreptitious pipe or a cigarette of negro-head tobacco rolled in a dried banana leaf. A sailor, armed with a revolver and cutlass, was pacing to and fro across the for'ard end of the hatchway, and presently Packenham motioned him to haul up the light ladder. This was done without noise, and then the captain went to the deck house, and, putting his head in at the door, addressed the occupants (six A Bs) which it contained.

"Here, I say you fellows, can't you shake off a bit of fever? Why, there's the mate, who is worse than any of you, and whose teeth are going like a cotton-gin at full speed, dancing a jig on the poop to himself. Come, buck up, my lads."

The boatswain, a tall, sallow-faced Maori half-caste, crawled slowly out of his bunk.

"I'm feeling a bit more fit, sir. I can take the wheel, if a breeze comes, or I can't do anything else."

"That's right, Bill. Here, strike a light first and let me look at you fellows. Steward looking after you all right, eh?"

"Yes, sir," answered one of the men with a groan, "we has got all we wants, sir; but we doesn't like bein' here by ourselves. Tommy Samoa there"—pointing to a native seaman lying on the planking of the deck house rolled in a mat—"says that if those Tanna men make a rush, all us chaps will have our throats cutted, and we'll be blue sharks' meat afore we knowed where we was."

"Just what Maudsley said," muttered Pakenham to himself, then he added aloud, "You needn't be scared; the hatchway ladder is hauled up, and there's a man on the lookout, not ten feet away. Have your arms by you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, what the blazes are you making a song about? You stand a better show in a good strong deck-house than to the rest of us."

Then raising the lamp he surveyed the place, examined the men's carbines and pistols, and then went on his usual nightly round along the deck of the disease-smitten ship. Ten minutes later he rejoined Maudsley, who was now sitting up, clad only in his pyjama trousers and pressing his throbbing head between his hands as the fever ran fiercely through his boiling veins.

"Pack!" he began excitedly, "there is a bit of an air up aloft. Look over the side and you'll see we're moving. Does she stir, Harry?"

"No sir, not yet?" answered the helmsman.

Packenham looked aloft, and then over the side.

"You're right, Maudsley, a breeze is coming, sure enough, and a breeze means everything to us; we can run into Singavi Bay on Fotuna. One of the two French priests there is a doctor, and we can put the sick people ashore at any rate."

Maudsley gave an irritated laugh.

"Don't be a fool. I know you're not a brute; but why the deuce don't you think of what you're saying? There's a thousand natives on Fotuna, and it would be a low-down dirty thing for us to do to dump these measly brutes of ours among them. If we did, the chances are that there wouldn't be another native left alive on the island in a month. Now, this is my idea; if we can get up under the lee of Aloft, we can anchor. There is no one living there—at least that I know of—as the island is only used by the Fotuna people for their yam plantations, and they seldom go there. There's good holding ground under the west point—ten miles away from Fotuna."

Packenham nodded.

"I see; go ahead."

"Well, as soon as we get there, let us land the whole lot—Tanna boys, Pentecost boys, and the Banks Islanders. Plenty of cocoa-nuts, yams, and taro, and, above all, a fine stream of running water. They'll be as right as rain there, and then while you and the hands disinfect the hold and the rest of the ship, I'll start off for Singavi in the boat with a couple of hands and see if the French priest—the medicine-man fellow—will come back with me. By Heaven, Pack, he'll have to come. We mustn't let these poor fellows die like rotten sheep. And I daresay he can give us some quinine for the hands, the last was used yesterday."

"Look here, Maudsley, you give the word, and I'll do whatever you say must be done. Hurrah! here's the breeze now, and no mistake—but nearly dead ahead."

"Never mind that," said Maudsley, languidly; "we can't pick up the anchorage to-night, but we'll be near enough at daylight. Try and fix that windsail, Pack, so that some of this cool breeze goes down into the hold."

Packenham, with the three seamen who were able to work, and the steward, set to and trimmed the sails, and under the bright light of myriad stars the little barque sped over the silent sea.

An hour before the dawn, Maudsley, who was feeling better, had taken the wheel, whilst Packenham and the others were ranging the cable ready for anchoring. The clang and thump of the heavy iron links as they fell on deck, seemed to put new life into the crew, and even those who were lying sick in the house came out into the cooling morning air, and with weakened arms and trembling knees helped to flake the chain along, ship-shape.

Just as they had finished, and as the first yellow lights of the rising sun were dispersing the thick mists of Schouten Mountains on Fotuna Island, the steward came softly up to Maudsley and touched his arm.

"The second mate is dead, sir."

Maudsley's hands gripped the spokes of the wheel tightly, and then he ran his eye aloft before he answered.

"Was he conscious, steward?"

"Yes, sir, he was—just at the last. He arst fur you, sir; an' when I told him that you was at the wheel, an' the skipper an' the rest of the hands were gettin' ready for anchorin', he say to me, 'Don't call the mate, steward, but tell 'im as there's a letter under my piller for some one as he's a-heard me a-speakin' of.' An' without another word, sir, he turns on his side, an' dies nice and quiet."

"All right, steward. Go below and get me a stiff glass of brandy. And, look, while I think of it, put that letter of Mr. Belton's in the captain's cabin. Hurry up now, you little Cockney swab, and bring me that brandy—I want it."

The steward disappeared without a word, and soon came on deck again with half a tumblerful of liquor.

"Thank you, steward. You're no Cockney swab, but a good little chap. There's a twenty-dollar gold piece in the top after-drawer of my locker—that's for you. You see I've got the fever pretty bad this time, and as like as not I'll slip my cable—you know what that means, my Borough Road fried-fish eating friend, don't you, though you're no sailor man? Sometimes it means going to bell suddenly, instead of having a person to 'ready you up for it, though as like as not, he'll tell you that you'll appear as white as snow before the Throne. Clear out, hang you! What the devil are you staring at? The skipper will want his coffee presently."

The steward, an under-sized, bent-shouldered old man, placed his hand on the the edge of the skylight, and looked into Maudsley's face.

"You're very ill, sir. I can see that. Can't I call one of the hands, sir, to take the wheel?"

"No, you can't. Go below and get that twenty-dollar piece and stow it away—and clap a stopper on your jaw-tackle, you silly old fool!"

Presently Packenham came aft, and stood beside him.

"We're all ready fo'ard, Maudy."

"Right you are, Pack. We'll go about presently; another half hour will bring us close enough, I think, though I can't see where we are very well as yet. Take a cast of the lead, will you, old man, as soon as we are in stays? Oh, God! Look there!" and he sprang down off to the main hatch and tried to beat back the upward rush of three score or more of naked savages with his clenched fists.

Packenham and the three seamen ran to his aid; and then began a deadly struggle—the white men trying to hurl back the savages into the hold instead of using their revolvers. But in less than ten seconds one of the sailors was thrown down upon his back and his brains dashed out with a tomahawk; then, and not till then, was a shot fired. Packenham was the first to bring his pistol into play, and none too soon, for a huge Tanna man had seized him by the beard with his left hand, and in another moment would have driven a knife into his heart. The sharp crack of the heavy colt was followed by another and another, and each time a native went down; then came the loud reports of the seamen's carbines, and the lust of slaughter had seized upon them all, as, flinging aside their firearms, they drew their heavy cutlasses, and slashed and cut and stabbed the naked figures of the now maddened islanders. Up to this time not more than thirty had succeeded in actually gaining the deck by means of the ladder they had so cunningly made and placed in position and of these eight or ten were lying either dead or dying, as many more had been hurled below, and the rest, when they saw Packenham cut down two of their number, and the boatswain smash the skull of a third with the butt of his carbine, turned and fled for'ard. Some of them ran up the fore-rigging and these were picked off one by one by Tommy Samoa and the other seamen, when Maudsley struck their weapons from hands, and fiercely bade them cease such useless slaughter.

"On with the hatches," he said pantingly, as he stooped over the coamings, and pulled up the ladder the natives had placed in position—a mere bamboo pole with half-a-dozen cross-pieces lashed to it with cinnet—"on with the hatches, men. They'll give in now, but we must take no further risks, and there must be no more of this bloody work."

As the hatches were being put on, Maudsley leant over and looked at the savages below. They had all gathered as far aft as possible, believing that the white men, now daylight had come, would open fire on them.

Maudsley bade them to remain quiet; their lives would be spared, he said, if they obeyed him. Then he called to those of their number who were aloft, and told them to come down and go below. They stared at him sullenly and refused.

"Then stay there, you brutes," he said with a curse; "they can't hurt us, Packenham, up there. Now let us get to anchor."

A cut from a tomahawk had laid open his cheek, and Packenham, who himself had a knife-thrust through the arm, quickly bound it up, and then Maudsley again went aft to the wheel and brought the barque to an anchor under a high-wooded bluff on the western point of Aloft Island, and in water as calm as that of a mountain lake. The bodies of the dead natives were then thrown overhard, and that of the white sailor carried aft and laid beside the second mate's cabin.

Then, when those of the crew who had been wounded had had their hurts attended to by captain and steward, the ensanguined decks were washed down, coffee and biscuits were served out, and Maudsley went for'ard, and again urged the Tanna men who were aloft to come down.

"If we are to die, we can die here," was their sullen answer.

The white man was losing patience, the wound on his face made him feel sick and faint, and a sudden spasm of ague shook his frame. He took his pistol from his belt.

"I promise you that no harm shall be done to you if you come down quickly, and go into the hold with your countrymen. Have I ever lied to you?"

"No," replied the oldest man of the four—a wild-eyed, vicious-faced brute, with his hair twisted into countless tiny curls, which hung in a greasy tangle down his neck and cheeks.

"Then do as I bid you, or I shall kill you from where I stand—quick!" and he raised his right hand.

Slowly and suspiciously they descended, still grasping their blood-stained knives and tomahawks. As they reached the deck, they stopped and glared about them with the ferocity and fear of hunted boars.

"Keep back there, men," said Maudsley to the crew, who were standing near the main hatch, "they'll want a bit of coaxing. Hang a line over the for'ard end of the hatch so that they can get down." Then putting his revolver back into its pouch, he unbuckled the belt and laid it down on the windlass.

"Now, come with me, men of Tanna," he said quietly, "no one shall hurt you. See, I hold no weapon in my hand, and the rest of the white men, too, have laid down their guns." Beckoning to them to follow, he walked to the hatchway, then turned and faced them.

"Now listen. Take hold of rope and go down one by one. And tell your countrymen and the men of Pentecost, that if they sit down quietly until the sun is high in the sky, they shall have food and water given them. Then when all the badness is out of their minds, they shall come on deck, ten at a time, and the smell of blood will no longer be in our nostrils. But before food and water is given, every tomahawk and every club must be brought on deck to me by two men. Now give me these," and he reached his hands out for the weapons they themselves carried.

Two heavy butcher knives, and one tomahawk were, after a little hesitation, given up, and were at once thrown over the side, and the three disarmed savages went below; the fourth man—he with the greasy curls—still clutched his tomahawk tightly.

"Come, be quick," said Maudsley, "give it to me."

"Take it, white men!" and the native, swinging the keen-edged weapon swiftly above his head, struck it dep into the officer's side, and with a yell of triumph he sprang over the side and swam for the shore—only to throw up his arms and sink, as Packenham sent a bullet through his head before he was twenty yards away from the ship.

"I'm done for, Packenham, old man. There's a letter for poor Belton's girl, Pack, which you must give to her. Tell her she must forgive me for tempting him to ship on this cruise—my last cruise, old man."

Very gently they lifted and carried him aft, and quickly rigged an awning for the sun was blazing hot (and fiercely upon the vessel's decks. Then Packenham, with the quick-falling tears coursing down his bronzed and bearded face, knelt beside the dying man and took his hand.

Maudsley opened his eyes and smiled at his captain and gave a faint answering pressure. "Don't you worry old fellow. Somehow I don't much care. But it was hard for poor Belton to die—he was a bright young sharer and a gentleman. I've got my gruel this time, and I'm not going to make a song over it. And I'm no loss to any one."

Then in slow, laboured words he told Packenham what should be done. The sick natives should be put ashore as soon as possible; the rest disarmed and kept confined till aid could be obtained from the white traders in Fotuna, who would find him native sailors to help to sail the barque to Samoa.

Nothing escaped him, nothing was forgetten in his seaman's mind that bore upon the ship and her safety.

"How does she lie, old man?" he asked presently.

"Snug as possible, Jack," answered the captain brokenly.

"Plenty of room to swing if the wind comes from the westward?"

"Plenty, Jack, old man. I've sent the boat to Singavi for the French priest. She should be back by noon."

Maudsley shook his head. "I don't want any doctoring, Pack. That buck sent it home properly." Suddenly, by a mighty effort he half raised himself. "Steward, boatswain, come here; I want you fellows to witness that I have said that all money coming to me for this cruise is to be paid to Captain Packenham." Then he sank back again and motioned to the captain to come closer.

"Jack," he whispered, "send it all to Belton's girl."

Packenham bent his head, and then Maudsley, the Recruiter, gave a long, heavy sigh, and closed his eyes—his last cruise was ended.

Baby Nearly Died with Itching Rash

Mrs. M. C. Maitland, of Jasper, Ont., tells in the following letter of her child's remarkable cure by the Cuticura Remedies:

"When my boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash which was very itchy and ran a watery fluid. We tried everything we could but he got worse all the time, till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body. He got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to prevent him tearing his skin. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were skin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long while. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that he could sleep. You don't know how glad I was he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment and pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap to cure him. I think our boy would have died but for the Cuticura Remedies and I shall always remain a firm friend of them. He was cured more than twenty years ago and there has been no return of the trouble."

(Signed) Mrs. M. C. MAITLAND, Jasper, Ont.

No more convincing proof of the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies could be given. As in this instance, a single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, U. S. A. Send for free Cuticura Booklet on skin and scalp diseases.

Home Course In Tree Preservation

By JOHN DAVEY
Father of Tree Surgery.

IV.—Errors In Transplanting Trees.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

AMERICA was "the land of forests," but mountain, dale, hill and plain are now about denuded of her trees, thereby destroying both wealth and glory. I was recently called to Phillipsburg, Pa., to give a lecture on "The Salvation of Our Trees," and in going from Tyrone to Phillipsburg it nearly made the heart sick. The beautiful hills on that part of the Allegheny mountains were entirely stripped of trees, and even the young growth, six inches in diameter, had been cut away to be used as "mining props." The coal mines are nearly exhausted, and many people told me they would not live on the lands just for paying the taxes, for they would starve to death. And yet on those hills forty years ago were growing the most magnificent specimens of pines, hemlock and other conifers. It is with sadness that the people have seen the pristine forests fade away.

There is an instinctive love of the tree in man, and as he looks upon the barren bleakness of treeless expanse he sighs for something to relieve the dreary, monotonous barrenness of the soil and commences to realize what it means to be without shade in the heat of summer and no trees to break the fury of the blasts in winter; hence he readily saw that there should be shade trees by the highway, clumps or groves around the home, as well as the fruit trees in the orchard and garden. He goes to the woodlot and hunts for the young maple or elm and, having found them, proceeds to plant. One of the commonest mistakes he makes is to plant too close together, but the one mistake above all others is—well, "Whack!" off goes the top.

Very often the shade trees come from the nurseries with this same grave error committed on them.

By cutting off the top in order to live at all the growth is forced out from the living bud at the end next [illegible] nally decays a weak point is made right in the center, so that as soon as the branches are of any considerable size the strain of the windstorms rends it open at that point where the greatest strength is required. Every storm that comes along is weakening it still more, and the larger the branches the greater the leverage of the wind.

A storm had just passed and taken off one-third of the farthest tree in illustration No. 7. It had also split the other two limbs. In other words, the tree was ruined. In illustration No 8 just one-half of the tree is wrenched off in a violent storm, and this tree also is ruined.

The mistake generally lies in selecting too large a tree, and, being too large, the height also is objectionable, and the winds would be apt to blow it over. Knowing this, the top is taken off, with the result that has been described.

NO. 8.—TRUNK WEAKENED BY CUTTING OFF TOP; SPLIT BY WIND.

The best size for common planting is a tree about as big as a broom handle. The proportions of the length of such a tree, say a maple or elm, [illegible] be almost twelve feet, and a good one would hold it in place. A small tree will almost invariably grow, because it has the "feeding roots."

WHEN THE ODDS ARE AGAINST YOU

You Can Depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to Help You, If You Get the Genuine

What a fight goes on during the winter season against coughs and colds. The children are careless about keeping dry and warm, and the parents are worried to hear them cough.

The best insurance against serious results is the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

So well-known is this medicine and so universally used that we need scarcely tell you of its merits. But we do want to warn you against imitations and substitutes.

Once you know that there are at least four imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine on the market, you are not likely to let any dealer talk you into accepting anything but the genuine, on each bottle of which are the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book Author.

Imitations are sold on the reputation of this great medicine, and not on their own merits, or why should they not have a name of their own.

With the genuine Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can readily overcome croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, throat irritation and the most serious coughs and colds. 25 cents a bottle; family size, 60 cents. Dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Parsimony and Economy.

Two New Expressions.

Of the making of many new expressions there is no end. A man who considers that "going to see a man about a dog" is out of date, recently explained his leaving a little gathering by saying: "I'm going to give a music lesson to a Chinaman."

Another new one shows that our navy is beginning to affect our speech. A man who swore off indulgence in strong waters shook declined a drink, with the remark, "I'm in dry-dock now."

Jupiter.

Jupiter and Saturn in reality are still red hot, but they are steadily cooling off, as the world has done for so many millions of years. Jupiter even now has turned a cherry red from its original incandescence. It no longer shines. "It is a huge baby world," says Dr. Percival Lowell, "still in its swaddling clothes."

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Robinson Collette, Rogersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go about their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it.

Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart for the simple reason that one thinks it will right itself, but there is where the mistake is made. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a quick and permanent cure.

Evening Dress Is Menaced by Managers in London

An American Theatre Goer Finds from Mr. George Alexander the Reason Why He Has Attacked Another Deeply Rooted British Custom.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

ANOTHER ingrowing, deeply rooted English custom is threatened. Several managers of fashionable theatres have decided that no longer shall evening dress be insisted upon as the only costume to be worn in the stalls of their playhouses.

If this liberation really comes about there is no telling what may follow in its wake. Once open the floodgates of reform and the customs of centuries may be swept away. Even the supremacy of the British single eyeglass would be in danger.

This attack on the swallowtail and the shirt front is not the wild vaporing of some third-rate advertisement seeking notoriety. But is headed by no less a person than Mr. George Alexander. It is well to explain to those who don't know London social conditions that Mr. Alexander is not only the Beau Brummel of English actor-managers, but also that his theatre, the St. James, in the heart of Mayfair, has a most exclusive and fashionable clientele. In that respect it is not exceeded, if even rivalled, by any in the whole city.

Adjoining Mr. Alexander's dressing room there is a reception room that is very untheatrical in its refinement. There are no photographs of gorgeous actresses on the walls or large portraits of Mr. Alexander—only fine old engravings. The surroundings make you feel very cultured and regret that you are not wearing a dress suit. Still, it was in this very room last night that Mr. Alexander struck his blow at the threadbare of evening dress and told me how he hoped to popularise the theatre in England by allowing people to dress as they pleased when they went to it.

"The main reason that I have decided not to enforce the evening dress rule," said he, "is that it makes theatregoing too expensive. That in turn makes it prohibitive. I believe in cheapening theatregoing as much as possible so that the public can afford to come. You see, wearing evening dress makes it necessary to go in a private conveyance or a taxi. The omnibus lines are practically out of the question, as there are very few theatres whose doors they pass, and attempting to walk a block or two in our uncertain and rainy climate is apt to be disastrous to finery. Then, too, busses are not pleasant to ride in when you are all dressed up.

"In New York and other American cities it is different. There your theatres are nearly all reached by tram lines, and cabs are not necessary. You can get to a theatre in evening clothes very comfortably for five cents. Here the taxicab fare, on top of the high price of tea and six we have to charge for our few reserved seats, mulled it cost a lot.

"In America theatregoing is a part of your daily life. It is looked upon as a part of necessity. Here it is purely a luxury. That is the handicap we managed have to struggle against. Our theatres are not only smaller than they are in America, but we have so many cheap priced seats on account of the pit and the shilling gallery that it is necessary to keep them filled to make them pay. So if abolishing evening dress will fill them let's abolish it.

"Personally I think it is very nice to dress for the evening if you can afford it, and only to go to the theatre in, but to wear in your own home, although you find in find a small home. Of course I know that in London people dress more than in any other city in the world, and I don't imagine there is going to be any great revolution in that respect, but I do hope the public will come to understand that they can go to a theatre in business clothes without losing their self-respect."

"Have you already inaugurated the new rule here?" I asked. "Can I come to the St. James in a lounge suit and sit in a ten and six stall?"

"You certainly can. If you buy a ten and six seat you can not only dress as you please, but we will be very polite to you as well."

"Does a dressed up audience enhance the pleasure?"

"Oh I don't think we notice it. A fifth figure in tweeds would inspire me a good deal more than half a dozen in evening clothes. Somehow I seem to have acquired a reputation for being an extensive buyer of clothes and neckties, but I assure you it is not deserved. I wear the same sort of clothes year in and year out, and I don't believe there is an actor in London who has a smaller assortment of neckties."

For that matter Mr. Alexander did seem a bit out of place in his own refined reception room. He had on a blue lounge suit, which he generally affects, and his favorite necktie, blue, with white polka dots. Probably to make his stand against evening clothes still more emphatic, he held in his hand a briarwood pipe. Fortunately he was not smoking. Had he smoked it would have been the last straw of offence against the misery of that room.

The other managers who agree with Mr. Alexander on the subject of theatre wear are Mr. Herbert Tremain, of the Haymarket, and Messrs. Vedrenne and Eadie, of the Royalty.

SUBTLY SUGGESTIVE, BLUSHLESS SKETCHES

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

At last the Little Theatre has a novelty that promises to be popular. Mr. Granville Barker has put on a series of five sketches that fairly sparkle with brilliant dialogue. Each sketch is a complete little comedy in itself and puts forth an epigram on the life of the day. Every epigram is a Viennese gentleman of decidedly loose morals and a light and whimsical idea of life in general.

It is an entertainment suitable only for the ears of mature people, and only mature people who are not inclined to be prudish. While there is really nothing that is actually offensive or brazenly indelicate in the dialogue it is undeniably suggestive in a subtle way. No well ordered Sunday school would allow its dramatic society to produce these little comedies unless it wanted to start a social earthquake.

The Anatol sketches were originally written by Arthur Schnitzler and paraphrased for the English stage by Mr. Barker. He has made an extremely good job of it. The blushless audience fairly howled with delight over the wit and cynicism with which the sketches abound. Mr. Barker, as Anatol, and Mr. Nigel Playfair, as his chum, gave just the right touch to the characters. Like "The Tales of Hoffmann" there was a different leading lady for each act. They ranged from good to middling.

Judging from the approval of the audience the Little Theatre has really and truly picked a winner.

MR. PELISSIER'S BARE FEET IN BURLESQUE

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

The ground plan and elevation of Mr. Harry G. Pelissier's personal architecture is very similar to that of President Taft's, so when he appeared on the Apollo Theatre stage with bare feet and costumed like Maude Allan in her famous dance the result was burlesque with the high speed on. It would have been vulgar and silly done by any one who did not have Mr. Pelissier's wonderful faculty for fun making. But Pelissier is never vulgar and always funny and so he kept the audience roaring with merriment.

It was an entirely new bill that he presented with his little company of nine star performers. In addition to the Maude Allan burlesque there were also burlesques or potted versions of present popular plays. Those selected were "Inconstant George," "Henry VIII." and "Count Hannibal."

The bed was the star feature in "Inconstant George" and occupied nearly the whole stage. Pelissier popped in and out of it like a rubber ball, his elephantine form clad in indescribable pajamas. The other characters walked over the bed or went to sleep in it, as they felt inclined.

Once again the Follies have hit the bull's-eye. For three years they have had unflagging success, each successive production coming up to their high water mark of merriment. It seems almost incredible that they could keep so continuously up to their record. This new entertainment is good for at least a six months' run before Mr. Pelissier needs to think of a new deal.

Miss Bessie Clayton, the well known American dancer, made her first appearance in London at the Alhambra as the star dancer in an elaborate and pretty ballet called "The Mad Pierrot." She was given an enthusiastic reception and can consider herself a hit.

CHAMPAGNE PRICE CERTAIN TO SOAR

London's Wine Agents and the Hotel Proprietors Discuss the Year's Shortage.

DUE TO LAST YEAR

In 1910 There was Practically No Vintage, and Now the Effect Is Showing Itself.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

A SERIOUS shortage of champagne is reported in London by all the leading importers and the principal hotels. Prices are already rising rapidly, good wine being from three to four shillings a bottle more than it was in the corresponding period last year.

The London manager of Messrs F. Gisler & Co., the well known growers, told your correspondent that the shortage was due to the fact that last year there was practically no vintage. His private opinion was that there would be none this year either, which would have a very serious effect upon the champagne trade.

"It is all very well," he said, "for certain persons to say the weather has been nice and good for wine, but I don't believe it. If there is no vintage this year prices are bound to go up still more. I know that most of the houses feel it very much—houses that sell, say, three million bottles per year. Of course all firms have a settled stock in hand—say enough for two or three years' supplies.

"We happen to be fortunate in this respect, in that we have enough 1899, 1904 and 1906 vintages to carry us over for five or six years. But even with all that wine in stock we shall feel the effect of the shortage unless there is a vintage this year. Should there be no vintage prices will go up from twenty-five per cent to thirty per cent.

"Of course there is a lot in private cellars, and I know several gentlemen who have foreseen the coming shortage and have laid in stock in order to make money. One in particular has twenty-four hundred cases of champagne of good brands. He knows the price of these wines is bound to go up in May. Then he intends to unload at a good figure. However, I daresay our people would supply the trade where any extraordinary and immediate demand was made such as a big coronation order."

The agents for Gauthier champagne, Messrs. T. Merritt & Co., said there was plenty of wine to meet immediate demands, but unless there was a change this year there would be an alarming shortage in two years' time. Vintages of 1904 and 1906 were obtainable, but it was necessary that another vintage should come soon. In the last four years—from 1906 to 1910—there had been nothing but short vintages. The year 1910 had been particularly short. Prices had to be raised and they would go up still further. The worst effect would be felt two years hence, but for immediate consumption there was available a fair supply of 1904 and 1906 vintages. Cheap wines had to be raised a few shillings a dozen, while the better brands had been priced from ten to fifteen shillings a dozen over the price of last year. Further rises must take place.

In the streets he is shunned by passers-by till the plague cart, with its masked driver, picks him up.

She Defends Harem Skirts in Talk on Sins of Society

GERTRUDE ATHERTON
BY COURTESY OF HARPER BROTHERS

COUNTESS RUSSELL
FROM THE DRAWING

Countess Russell Angry at the Attacks Made on the New Garment—Mrs. Gertrude Atherton Tells Why Society Women Are Frivolous.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

TWO women, one an American and the other an English woman, whose name are well known on both sides of the Atlantic, have been delivering themselves on the "Sins of Society." Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, the American novelist, in an interview has some interesting criticisms to pass on the "extravagance of the society woman of to-day," and Countess Russell, who has taken to the "harem skirt," has much to say why she thinks it "an ideal garment."

Mrs. Atherton says:—"The reason why the society woman of to-day is so frivolous and extravagant is because there is so much more money than there used to be.

"In America you can read in the newspapers every day about the extravagance of rich women and what the people are doing at Newport. Every time a wealthy girl gets married every detail of her trousseau is printed in the newspapers for a couple of months ahead. I think, therefore, society papers are a bad thing, and for this reason—every time they are devoured by poorer and dissatisfied people they are in turn devoured with envy. Society people set an example and smaller people try to copy it.

"One thing that strikes me as rather contemptible is the number of wealthy American women who come over here and start off to try to get in society. They take houses and 'splurge' tremendously. They are dazzled by going to Court and try to get people of title at their houses. All this is rather ignoble. But there is one thing I will say—you get the best conversation in England if you get hold of the right men."

Countess Russell is angry at the attacks which have been made on the "harem skirt," which, she says, "only show too plainly what women have to contend with when an effort is made to break away from a convention which has proved a misery for ages," meaning the heavy, weighty, clinging skirts that women are accustomed to.

"But," she proceeds, "the divided skirt is an innovation that undoubtedly frightens our men, who do not realise to what extent the dress of women has proved a factor in cramping their development, both physically and mentally, or they would gladly welcome any change which would free them from the burden of doctors' bills and the annoyance caused by headaches, occurrences which have not at any time added to the happiness of home life. Any improvement in this direction is surely to be welcomed; and it is because I consider the harem skirt, when properly made, an ideal garment for my sex that I wish to see it given a fair chance."

Lady Russell feels assured that "the harem skirt has come to stay, and that it will prove one of the features in the emancipation of women, which is the secret of its interest for me."

MOURNING SEASON NEARING AN END

Signs Are Apparent in London That a Brighter Time Is Drawing Very Close.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

THERE are unequivocal signs that the court is coming out of mourning. The King and Queen are not yet, of course, attending any of the theatres, but some of the royal family are doing so, though of course strictly incognito.

Queen Mary still dresses entirely in black, as of course do her suite, but her Majesty now relieves the sombreness of an all black toilette by wearing beautiful diamond ornaments and often a pearl necklace as well.

As far as her personal tastes are concerned it is pretty well known in court circles that Queen Mary is not at all fond of dark colors, and more particularly dislikes black, though, like most women of fair coloring, it suits her uncommonly well. When not in mourning the Queen almost invariably appears in white and gold or white and silver in the evening, varied perhaps by pink or pale blue. Red or yellow are colors she never affects.

Just before last season the Queen had ordered light colored dresses from her favorite modiste, and when on King Edward's death these had to be countermanded she with her accustomed thoughtfulness sent a message of regret to the dressmaker, intimating that another order would be given when mourning came to an end.

OFFICIAL PLANS FOR CORONATION

Estimated That Americans Will Spend at Very Least $25,000,000 in June.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAMME

Further Hints for Those Who Intend to Witness Ten Day June Pageant.

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday.

One of the London daily newspapers is authority for the statement that some of the many "American multi-millionaires" who are coming to the Coronation have engaged West End houses for the period of their stay. One liberal peer is said to have refused an American offer of £12,000 ($58,000) for the use of his residence for six weeks, and another American has offered £17,000 ($85,000) for the tenancy of a house in Park street in May, June and July, but the owner refuses to have his residence profaned by the presence of a "Chicago pork packer" or "Pittsburg steel magnate" for less than £20,000 ($100,000).

As you have already been told by cable, Mr. John Hays Hammond, Special Ambassador of the United States to the Coronation, will occupy No. 1 Stratton street, the old Piccadilly home of the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts, where Queen Mary frequently visited when a child, as the Baroness was a personal friend of her mother, the Duchess of Teck.

Besides the marvellous collection of Queen Anne and early Georgian silver there is a large quantity of exquisite china in the house, and if Mr. Hammond chooses to entertain on an extensive scale he will be able to cover the huge dinner table with Flaxman silver, or he can use a service of gold with beakers and goblets of rare workmanship.

In the gallery of this house is Sir Joshua Reynolds' favorite chair, while on the walls hang many pictures by this famous painter. The precious "Winged Victory," from Yanina, which shows the wonderful gold work of the Greeks with the chisel 2,000 years ago; a first folio Shakespeare, Raeburn pictures of Scott, and the Mulgrave picture of Pitt painted in the year of his death by Hoppner, are a few of the treasures of which Mr. Hammond will be the guardian during his six weeks' occupancy of the house.

Americans to Entertain.

It is expected that Americans will take a large part in the society functions of the Coronation period. There will be brilliant entertainments at Dorchester House, where it is said the Kings and Queens of England, Spain and Norway will be guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Mrs. J. J. Astor, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Goelet also will be important hostesses. All have already entertained royalty in the person of King Edward or the Kaiser while yachting in Southern seas. Mrs. J. J. Astor is in search of a new London home, as her occupancy of No. 17 Portman square will soon terminate. The private residence of the Prime Minister, at No. 10 Cavendish square, always admired because of its splendid reception room, old mahogany staircase and walls painted by Sir John Thornhill two centuries ago, has been secured by Lady Cunard, an Anglo-American hostess of prominence.

All the others of the Anglo-American colony in London will be to the fore, too, in the matter of entertainments for the Coronation period, and readers of your paper will be kept thoroughly in touch with the interesting programmes prepared by these society leaders.

With the coronation less than three months distant all England is astir with preparations for the celebration, and every Englishman is hopeful that he will participate in the gathering of the golden harvest from the hundreds of thousands of visitors who expect to witness the brilliant pageants that are being organised to emphasize the loyal love of the subjects of a great empire for the sovereign who on June 22 will be enthroned and crowned in Westminster Abbey as England's fifth King George.

The Ceremonials.

Leading up to the climax of coronation day there will be many imperial and royal ceremonies. On May 12 King George and Queen Mary will drive to the Crystal Palace to open the Festival of Empire, which is to be an imposing exhibition of the greatness of Britain's imperial resources and a demonstration of the wonderful progress made in commerce, art and craftsmanship.

In addition to the coronation ceremony on June 22, the royal progress through the streets of London on June 23, the naval review off Spithead the next day, the gala performance at the opera on June 27, and the service at St. Paul's on June 29, the King and Queen will welcome 100,000 children as their guests at the Crystal Palace on June 22. Then will come the visits to Ireland and Scotland, to be followed by a journey to Carnarvon for the investiture of the Prince of Wales on July 13.

It is expected that more than thirty miles of London streets will be traversed by the King and Queen during the splendid festivities of May and June, and it is estimated that the coronation and its attendant spectacles will be witnessed by ten million spectators.

Once more it may not be out of place to remind visitors from the United States to come with well filled pocketbooks if come from their kin across the sea. An English statistician estimates that there will be 100,000 American visitors, many of them multi-millionaires, during June, and his man of figures expects them to spend money lavishly.

"Fifty pounds a head will, I think, be a very fair average of the amount spent in London by Americans who are here just for coronation time," he said, "and upon this basis the 100,000 Americans will spend in London, no less a sum than £5,000,000 ($25,000,000)."

FASTING IS GOOD, FISH IS BETTER

Some London Comment on Father Vaughan's Criticisms Regarding Society's Sins.

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday.

WHILE physicians in general may not indorse the criticisms of the Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan on the tendency of society to indulge in dances, theatregoing and other festivities during Lent, they are as one in holding with him that fasting is good—for the body. The elimination of meat from the menu during Lent is therefore recommended by physicians, and, voicing their views, Sir J. Crichton Browne says:—

"Personally, I think a good deal of benefit is derived during the so-called fasting season, when fish becomes more or less a leading feature in the diet of a large section of the people, but the fish should be absolutely fresh, thoroughly cooked and intermixed with a varied diet—from which, of course, meat may be absent where people so choose. People should also avoid frequent or heavy consumption of fish at first. Following any radical change in diet there is apt to be something of malaise, especially if any monotony in the food is permitted, and this may be altogether avoided by the observance of the rules given last.

"But if the whole of these suggestions are carried out I can confidently say that all classes may get pleasure and profit out of the freer use of fish. Society women should feel a considerable reinvigoration of the jaded nervous system from the diet, and a consequent improvement of the complexion and the clearness and brilliance of the eyes. I have often found this improvement during Lent in society ladies accustomed to much entertainment and visiting. Of course, I would not ascribe it altogether to the use of more fish, but I have found that the difference in diet, combined with the needed rest from social fatigues which Lent brings, produces wonderfully good effects on tired nervous systems."

Other physicians, who for various reasons preferred not to be quoted by name, declared that if society leaders eschewed dancing during Lent and enjoyed complete rest there would not be so many complaints of "nerves" as at present.

"Society leaders go at a clip like that of the Lusitania," said one physician. "The big ship, however, you will notice is laid up every now and then and given a complete overhauling. If this is necessary for a thing of steel and wood, the inference is obvious. Apart from religious considerations, the observance of Lent is a good thing for society leaders, professional men and all who indulge in exhausting labor."

JAPAN'S POLICY OF THWARTING CHINA

Makes Every Possible Move to Check the Latter in Her Plans for Development.

SOME PRESS COMMENT

[Special correspondence.]
Paris, March 15, 1911.

THAT the whole policy of Japan, toward China is based on the determination to thwart, if possible, every effort of this country to develop and strengthen itself is the conviction of many of the most competent foreign students of the Far Eastern situation, as it is of most thinking Chinese.

It is this conviction that is responsible for the strong anti-Japanese feeling now so generally prevalent in all parts of China and so freely voiced by the Chinese press. It is this conviction that is responsible for the open criticism of Japan's policies by most foreigners resident in China, especially by Englishmen, who strongly regret their government being made a cat's-paw by and in the interest of the "colored allies."

Suspicion that the Japanese government is secretly doing everything in its power to prevent the consummation of foreign loans designed to promote the development of China is openly expressed in the comment upon the loan situation which forms a leading feature of a recent issue of the National Review, edited by one of the best known Englishmen in China.

"No intelligent student of affairs in the Far East," says the Review, "can look back upon Japan's activities with reference to China during the last fifteen years without feeling in his inmost heart that to thwart China's efforts at advance is quite definitely Japan's policy.

IN OPEN WARFARE.

"The open opposition to Chinese development of her own provinces of Manchuria and Mongolia, the formation here in Shanghai of a Japanese Ratepayers' Association, the express object of which is to stand aloof from other foreign interests with a view to establishment of a comparatively Japanese concession; the unsuccessful attempt to hide the growth of Japanese population by absurdly incorrect census returns, the misrepresentations under which Japan endeavored to make China appear in the wrong in the Tatsu Maru and the Antung-Mukden railway affairs and a host of other things indicate that Japan has definitely set before herself the task of baiting China in every way, and the amazing thing about it all is that the other Powers are so ready to acquiesce in Japan's thus arrogating to herself the hegemony of Asia."

With regard to a report from Tokio that Japan will insist upon being allowed to participate in all foreign loans guaranteed by China the Review says:—

"The whole thing becomes more scandalous when one remembers the slender resources of Japan. During the present week Japan, which desires to lend money to China, has found it necessary to float a loan in London with which to finance her ill gotten Manchurian Railway, a railway built on China's soil, the profits of which, instead of filling the purse of the sovereign Power, are being diverted to Japan in order to swell the war chest which Japan, in spite of her indescribable poverty and her overwhelming burden of taxation, is trying to fill in order at a suitable moment to coerce China into further concessions, probably of her wealthiest territory, Manchuria itself. Japan will assuredly go down to history as the 'artful dodger,' for she has succeeded in confusing the public mind by calling this loan of six millions sterling a 'Manchurian loan,' and many will naturally imagine that this loan is for the direct benefit of Manchuria."

CARNATION IS NOW BRITAIN'S FLOWER

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

QUEEN MARY has now intimated to the Gardeners' Company, whose offer she has already accepted to make the bouquet which she will carry at the coronation, her wish that it be composed of carnations. The flowers from which it is understood her choice will be made are the varieties known as Enchantress, a pale pink; Mrs. Lawson, a cerise, and Windsor, a full pink.

The announcement has given great satisfaction to horticulturists, as it is believed that from every point of view the Queen's choice is a very happy one.

"The present year has seen the production of the first true rose pink carnation," said Mr. Burnett, a noted Guernsey cultivator. "For this, in any case, great popularity has been foretold."

Mr. R. F. Felton, the King's florist, said that next to the rose, which was really England's flower, there could be no better choice than the carnation.

"The perfection to which perpetual flowering carnations have now attained," he said, "makes them perhaps more sought after for purely decorative purposes than almost any other flower.

"You can decorate with carnations in a way that cannot be successfully undertaken without them. In the first place, they have magnificent lasting qualities when cut. The petals do not fall, no matter what the atmosphere of the room may be.

"However hot the coronation day may be and we all hope it will be brilliant, the carnation will stand the oppressiveness of the hour better perhaps than any other flower."

PLAGUE KILLED EVERY RESIDENT

A Few Weeks Ago the Town Was a Busy One, But Now Is Silent In Death

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the "Petit Parisien" forwards the story of an eye-witness, who has returned from Adekhe, a Chinese town on the River Amur, in which the plague has left not a soul alive. He says: "The town, the squares, the streets, the houses, all are empty. Death has passed and left only one living creature, a Chinaman, in rags, who went mad and died as we entered the city.

"The doctor marched at our head. We followed, dressed and masked to protect ourselves from contagion. We walked through empty streets. There was nobody there, for there was nothing alive. A few weeks ago the town was a busy one. We found dead silence there, the only sounds being the creaking of the open doors as the wind moved them.

"We saw a number of Chinamen lying face downwards, their backs arched as if in one last superhuman effort to meet death upright.

"The Chinamen with us fixed their hooks in the clothes of the dead and dragged them away to be burnt, muttering as they went, 'Koon to, koon to!' (the red death!).

"There were corpses and nothing but corpses in all the houses, rich and poor alike, in the sanctuaries and in the streets. The town was dead.

"Suddenly, out of a side street, rushed a wild figure in rags. His pigtail was unravelled, his feet were naked and quite blue, either from cold or the disease. He rushed at the doctor, leaped on him, and fell in the death agony, shrieking as he fell 'Koon to! Koon to!'

"Our men tied his hands and feet, for he was dangerous, and carried him away. We heard him shrieking the sinister cry: 'The red death! The red death!' Then all was silent. They burned him with the others."

Nearly 8,000,000 Voters in the United Kingdom—Skin Grafting Case

Peter Hughes, an old age pensioner, who was found dead in Belfast, had $1,250 in notes and gold sewn in the lining of his waistcoat.

Fine New Garden City

Mr. Burns has sanctioned two schemes of town-planning concerning 1,500 acres at Birmingham, and 6,000 acres at Ruislip and Northwood. The latter area is to be made into a fine garden city.

Nearly 8,000,000 Voters

During the present year there are 7,904,465 names on the Parliamentary electoral roll of the United Kingdom, compared with 7,705,803 last year. Of this number 6,407,643 are in England and Wales, 800,443 in Scotland, and 696,375 in Ireland.

Chancellor's Telephone

For the benefit of Mr. Lloyd George, who is recuperating at the village of Beachborough, near Folkestone, special telephone connection has been made with London. The wires have been hung on trees for three miles from his house to the trunk line.

Saved by Rope Bedclothes

Awakened by a smell of fire early, Mr. G. S. Dongan, a farmer, of Hockley, near Southend, opened the bedroom door to be confronted by tongues of flame. He rapidly made a rope of room door to be confronted by tongues the bed-clothes, down which his wife and children slipped, clad only in their night-dresses.

Father's Skin Grafted on Child

It has been disclosed that the father of a little girl who had been badly burnt insisted on the doctors at the King Edward VII. Hospital at Windsor grafting skin from his own body on the injured child, though several patients offered to submit themselves to the process. Unhappily, the child died.

Bessee-o'-th'-Barn Back Again

The Bessee-o'-th'-Barn band arrived at Plymouth on the Runic after having made a Colonial tour of 46,000 miles, played in 173 towns in Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, and given 536 concerts. The thirty-three performers have been away seventeen months.

Note for Philatelists

The ninetieth anniversary of the birthday of Prince Luithold, Regent of Bavaria, is being commemorated by the issue of a set of stamps of fifteen values. The curiosity of the mark design—a large stamp—is that the feather generally worn on the left-hand side of the hat is shown on the right.

LEAGUES OF POLITENESS

A Little German Lady Who Seeks an Improvement

Fraulein Cecilie Meyer, the energetic little German lady who has undertaken to improve European manners by starting "Leagues of Politeness" at various places, such as "Pro gentilessa" in Italy and "Bund fuer Hoeflichkeit" in Germany, now has her eyes fixed upon England and America, and she wishes to ask the National Councils of British and American Women to co-operate with her in organizing the movement in their respective countries. She relates that the most interesting additions to the German league are a Berlin detective-commissary and a telephone operator. The detective has undertaken to do missionary work among Herr von Jagow's sabre wielding neurotics, and the "Hello sister" promises to convert the irritable members of her fraternity, who share with the police the reputation of being among Berlin's most impolite public servants.

WATERY BLOOD IN THE SPRING

How to Get New Health and New Strength at This Season

Even the most robust find the winter months trying to their health. Confinement indoors often in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the house, the office, the shops and the school—taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery or clogged with impurities. Some people have headaches and a feeling of languour; others are low spirited and nervous; still others have pimples and skin eruptions; while some get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when they went to bed. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of order, and that a medicine is needed. Many people rush to purgative medicines in the spring. This is a mistake. You cannot cure these troubles with a medicine that gallops through your system and leaves you weaker still. What you need to give you health and strength in the spring is a tonic medicine that will enrich the blood and soothe the jangled nerves, and the one always reliable tonic and blood-builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills not only banish spring weaknesses and ills but guard you against the more serious ailments that follow, such as anaemia, nervous debility, indigestion, rheumatism and other diseases due to bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, rich, red blood, which strengthens every nerve, every organ, and every part of the body, and makes weak, ailing people bright, happy and strong. Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Harcourt, N. B., says: "In my opinion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do all that is claimed for them. My system was run down, and I was so weak I could hardly do my work, and taking care of my baby added to my difficulties. I used a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they made me feel like my own self. I very cheerfully recommend the Pills to all who are weak or ailing."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

KNOWN IN EVERY HOME

Sir William Hartley of "Jam" Fame, a Great Giver

Sir William Hartley, the head of the famous jam firm, whose system of profit sharing is proving so beneficial to his employes, started life at the age of thirteen by helping his mother in a small grocer's shop at Colne, Lancashire. In three years the business had prospered to such an extent that he urged his parents to take larger premises. At first they set their faces against this enterprise, but at last gave way, and in a surprisingly short time their son was employing a staff of about fifty men. Then he started manufacturing jam, and soon Hartley's jam became known in every home. A deeply religious man, Sir William was the first layman for forty years to be appointed President of the Primitive Methodist Connexion. He has given thousands of pounds to the funds of his denomination. A short time ago he said, "Giving away the Lord's money has been my chief hobby and recreation. I try to do it on the same systematic lines that I use in business; and, in fact, to distribute my money is a harder and more anxious task than making it."

OFFERED THEIR SKIN

Members of Congregation Respond to Plea of Pastor—Grafting to Save Man's Life

A request for one hundred inches of human skin made by Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds before his sermon at Christ Church Cathedral rather startled the members of Montreal's most fashionable congregation.

Dr. Symonds explained that a very difficult operation was to be performed within a few days at the General Hospital. William Thomas two weeks ago fell on a red-hot stove at his house while attempting to fix a stove pipe. He was terribly burned, and the doctors now declare that only a new skin can save the man's life.

Dr. Symonds said one hundred square inches were required. He asks for thirty members of the congregation to volunteer each to part with a piece of their skin three inches long and one inch wide.

By noon the next day fifteen members of the congregation had volunteered to contribute toward a new skin for Thomas.

STRINGENT AUTO LAW

Manitoba's New Code Regulating the Running of Motor Cars

The amendments proposed in the automobile law of Manitoba are fairly drastic. In place of the present license fee of $5 the future license will be based upon horse-power, the $5 remaining for all vehicles of twenty-five horse-power or less; between 26 and 35 h.p. the fee is fixed at $10; from 35 to 50 h.p. $15, and 50 h.p. and above $25. To secure a chauffeur's license the applicant must be twenty-one years of age and supply proof that he has passed a satisfactory examination. In case of accident full responsibility is cast upon the owner although he may not be the driver. Stringent provisions deal with joy riders and tampering with autos without the consent of owners. No engine is to be left in motion while standing on the highway. Chains and metals are only to be used on tires when there is ice or snow or the pavements are slippery. Drivers must slow down when passing street cars letting off passengers, and must also slow down to six miles per hour at cross roads in the country.

GRAND TRUNK RAILS

An Order for 40,000 Tons Placed at Sydney, N.S.

The Grand Trunk Railway has placed an order for 40,000 tons of steel rails for delivery this season in western Ontario. These will make twenty miles of 80-pound to the yard track and 240 miles of 100-pound track. The cost will amount to considerably over one million dollars. The company will ship 209 miles of its displaced track for use by the Grand Trunk Pacific in constructing yards and sidings in the west. Some of these rails have been in use since 1869 and are still good. They were imported from England at that time for the lines in Ontario. As they are only of 56 and 65-pound weight, to the yard, they are considered too light for the heavy locomotives now in use on the main lines. All the present order of rails will be filled by the Sydney, Cape Breton, mills.

WORK OF CHARITY

Large Consumption of Food at Free Breakfasts in Toronto

The Sunday morning free breakfasts given at Yonge Street Mission, Toronto, are over for the season.

During the winter thirteen breakfasts have been given, with an average attendance of 310 men each Sunday. The men have had all they could eat and drink, which is quite evident from the 34,000 beef sandwiches and 1,300 gallons of hot coffee consumed. In addition to this 2,585 meal tickets have been given out, making in all 6,611 who have been fed this winter.

Not only have the hungry been fed but over 5,000 articles of clothing have been given away, and 1,225 beds have been provided for those who otherwise would have had to walk the streets during the zero weather.

CANADIAN TREE VALUES

Innumerable Wood Lots that Could be Made a Source of Mixed Trunk Supply

Within ten years the price of Canadian forest productions save in some cases doubled, and in some cases quadrupled, and, for those uses to which cement cannot be adapted and timber is necessary, the values are likely to go even higher. In ten years pine has trebled in price, elm quadrupled, and cedar more than doubled. Such timbers as walnut and hickory are becoming almost unknown.

The Ontario Legislature has given some considerable attention to the forestry problem, and a very interesting bill was passed at the recent session. It states that: The municipal council of a county may pass by-laws:—

(a) For acquiring by purchase, lease or otherwise such lands designated in the by-law as the council may deem suitable for reforestration purposes;

(b) For planting land so acquired and for preserving and protecting the timber thereon;

(c) For the management of such lands and the sale or other disposal of the timber grown thereon;

(d) For the issuing of debentures from time to time for the purpose of providing for the purchase of such lands to an amount not exceeding $25,000 in any one year.

No by-law shall be finally passed under this Act until the same shall have been approved in writing by the Minister of Agriculture.

There are thousands of stony or sandy hillsides and thousands of creek banks now valueless that could be turned to profitable account in the growing of timber. There are innumerable wood lots that could be made a source of mixed timber supply. There are marshy locations in which cedar, elm and spruce could be well and profitably grown, and not only would these reserves form a source of future timber supply, but they would be a great aid in the regulation of our water supply systems.—Canadian Engineer.

Grandma Turner's Beau

How Love's Alluring Came to Dozie Turner

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Dozie Turner opened the door wide to admit the lucky lover of her neighbor.

"My land, but it's some nip cold, Dozie," shivered Beulah Norton as she hovered close to the warm kitchen fire. "I thought my knitted shawl would be plenty warm enough, but it seemed like I had nothing on."

"Sit down, Beulah; here's my rocker. Don't you want some hot spiced cider? I was just going to fix some for myself." Miss Dozie brought a jug of sweet cider from the cellar and poured a quantity into a brass pipkin and set it on the stove to heat. She added some nutmeg and ginger and stirred it carefully. When it was hot and steaming she poured the cider into two large china mugs and brought out a plate of doughnuts.

"When I passed the old Bunderman place the wind was howling in those locusts fit to drive you crazy. I wonder at Howard wanting to go back there to live again." Beulah watched Dozie's startled face with furtive eyes.

"I didn't know Howard had come back, Beulah. I thought he was settled in Omaha."

"So he was, but—you know Lucy died most a year ago and left him with those two little girls on his hands. I guess he found it hard work doing for them and keeping at his job, too, so he came east a few days ago, thinking Estelle would take care of them so's he could get work in the shipyard. She's lived alone there so much I guess he thought she'd be glad to have him back home again."

"Didn't he know she was married?" asked Dozie curiously.

"No more than any of the rest of the village suspected it might happen. Captain Lees, he's been real mousy about courting Estelle, and then their streaking off to the city and getting married last Saturday was the biggest surprise Fernville ever had. 'Twasn't like a boy and girl elopement—you expect that—but Estelle Bunderman and

"ISN'T IT BEAUTIFUL, GRANDMA?"

Captain Lees are both over forty, and nobody cared whether they ever got married or not."

"Who's taking care of the little girls?" asked Dozie rather diffidently.

Beulah reddened and for the first time appeared flustered. "I am," she said bluntly.

"You are? I didn't know you cared much about children," remarked Dozie slowly.

"I don't especially, but I have plenty of time, and pa said we might as well help Howard out till he got a housekeeper. You can't guess what that young one's called?" she repeated.

"I can't guess unless it's after Lucy's Aunt Hyacinth Moore," suggested Dozie, rising to her slender height. "I remember when Lucy and I went to school together she used to think her aunt had the loveliest name in the world."

"She wasn't named after her mother's Aunt Hyacinth Moore," mimicked Beulah, rather crossly. "Lucy Bunderman was awful tender hearted, and Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morrisey's Liver Pills will clear the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

Sold and guaranteed in Peterborough by McDermid & Jury.

I guess he'd have missed most of her bothered her the way she'd acted toward some folks, so she named the second little girl after one of her old-school-mates. I must be going now. Good-by."

When Beulah's red shawl had disappeared from sight Dozie turned back to the sunlit room and sat down once more.

An attack of neuralgia had confined her to the house for several days, and consequently she had not heard of Howard Bunderman's return to Fernville. Nearly every pleasant day when she went down to the postoffice she passed the Bunderman place, and whenever she saw Estelle's pale face at the door or window she would wave a hand in greeting, and sometimes Miss Bunderman would come out to the gate and chat for awhile. But she never mentioned her brother nor anything about his affairs to Dozie Turner. Indeed, no one in Fernville dreamed of repeating Howard's name to Dozie's hearing.

If they had only known, Dozie would not have minded their mentioning the name of Howard Bunderman, to whom she had once been almost engaged to be married, nor of Lucy Moore, who had been the village belle and madcap who had got Howard away from Dozie and married him, some said, out of pure love of mischief. It was known that Lucy bitterly repented of her wickedness, for her husband did not love her as dearly as he did Dozie Turner, yet never by look or deed did he betray himself. But Lucy Bunderman knew. The postmistress said that Lucy had written a letter to Dozie once after her marriage, when she had gone out to Omaha to live, and that a letter from Dozie Turner had passed through the office in reply. That was all. Nobody ever knew what Dozie Turner thought about the matter. She always looked the same, tall and fair and sweet, with wistful blue eyes that never overlooked a duty undone.

Now she suddenly arose from her chair with a little exclamation of dismay. She opened the door into the sitting room where Grandmother Turner sat in the sunny bow window knitting furiously at a long white stocking.

Apple wood logs were singing and sizzling in the open stove, and there was the pleasant odor of cedar from the old lady's open cedar chest.

"About time you took your tonic, grandma," suggested Dozie. "I forgot all about it. Have you been lonesome in here?"

"Not a mite, Dozie. I'm too busy to be lonesome. I heard Beulah Norton's voice in the kitchen, and I was scart to death afraid she'd come in here. I can't abide her!" Mrs. Turner jabbed her needles into the wool and paused for breath. Her black eyes sought her granddaughter's face with a keen inquiry.

"What's the news, Dozie? Something's happened—your face is real pink."

"I guess it was the spiced cider I've been drinking," evaded Dozie as she moved to and fro preparing the tonic. "Beulah was real cold when she came in, and I heated some cider, and, besides, the kitchen's getting most too hot."

"What's the news?" persisted Mrs. Turner, making a horrible face over the medicine.

"You know Estelle and Captain Lees went to the city and got married last Saturday."

"Of course I know, Dozie Turner! You told me yourself! I guess I know what Beulah Norton came up to tell you." She looked narrowly at the younger woman.

"What then?" asked Dozie defiantly.

Mrs. Turner folded her wrinkled hands and looked out of the window. "Beulah came up to tell you that Howard Bunderman had come back. I've known it ever since he came, Dozie. Somebody run in and told me when you was down to the postoffice. I feel dreadful sorry for that poor fellow. I guess he had a hard row to hoe with Lucy Moore, though I bet he tried to do his duty by her. And after she got him I guess she wasn't real happy over the way she'd treated you. They say before she died she named the second little girl after you."

"After me?" Dozie's face radiated with a strange glow. "Did Lucy name her little girl after me?"

"Yes," snapped grandmother sternly. "'Twas the least she might do after making so much trouble all around. Lucy wanted to marry Jim Turrell, but he didn't care for her, so she got around Howard and married him for spite. She was a clever one. She fixed it so he couldn't get out of it, and first thing Howard knew he was engaged to her instead of you."

"How did you know?"

"It came direct from Lucy herself," returned Mrs. Turner with dignity.

Dozie opened the stove door and looked at the fire. The red glow shone on her sweet face and discovered her blue eyes wet with tears.

"Something else I never told you, Dozie," resumed Mrs. Turner, knitting hastily. "Before Howard married Lucy Moore he came here and told me all about it. He said he knew it looked as if he was a coward and a villain, and he asked me what do do. He said he didn't like anybody but you and he'd never be happy if he married anybody else. I advised him to go and tell Lucy what he told me. He did tell her, and she said she'd rather marry him even if he didn't love her a bit, and so he did. Dozie Turner, Howard Bunderman is a hero! What are you going to give me for supper?"

"I'll cook you a poached egg, grandmother," said Dozie in a queer little tone as she kissed the gray hair beneath the old lady's cap.

"I'd like it kind of early," went on the indulgent old voice. "I'm rather expecting a beau tonight. He came last evening and talked to me through this window before you was across the street. I told him he better come tonight. I hope you don't mind my having a beau, Dozie! What—say?" she called after Dozie, who had disappeared.

Dozie turned suddenly and came back. Kneeling beside Mrs. Turner, she dropped her head against the bent little shoulder.

"Isn't it beautiful, grandma?" she whispered. "It's wonderful after doing all those things Lucy should be sorry and then name the little girl after me—after me! Somehow it seems as if I'm happier now than I was before anything happened at all. I wonder why it is."

Mrs. Turner was looking out at the red and gold sunset that crowned the short November day. "After suffering comes the purest joy, and it comes just when you've settled down to dreariness. Hark, was that the gate? Hurry, Dozie. I believe my beau is coming now!"

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE RHEUMATISM

McMillan's Corner, Ont., Sept. 30th, 1910.
"Your remedy, "Fruit-a-tives" is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year, and not being able to work at anything. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything, it would pass away. Fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. Since then, I take them occasionally and keep free from pain. I am satisfied that "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them". JOHN B. McDONALD.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures, because like fruit juice it purifies the blood—regulates kidneys, bowels and skin—and thus keeps the whole system free of uric acid. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and you will find instant relief and a prompt cure.

50c. a box—6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

GAMBLING CLUBS

Fifteen Per Cent. of the Money Changing Hands Goes into the Treasury

Long years ago the present Kaiser, then Prince Wilhelm, withdrew from the still existing Union Club to show his disapproval of the high play carried on there, and three or four years ago the Kaiser's dentist, a South American, well known in Berlin Society, committed suicide, it is believed, largely on account of gambling losses. Since then various raids have been made by the police on private clubs, and recently attention has been called to the existence of a new enterprise of the kind by the bankruptcy and flight to America of two titled young officers of the Kaiser's guards. The system is baffling the police because the proprietors of the clubs take no part in the gambling, and it is a matter of indifference to them who wins or loses—fifteen per cent. of the money that changes hands must be paid into the club treasury to meet expenses. As it often happens that over $25,000 is lost and won in an evening, it will be seen that the commission is quite sufficient to pay very handsome salaries to the six gentlemen who own the club for their services in founding and conducting it. The chief task of the proprietors is to find recruits with well-lined pockets for the baccarat tables. Young officers and men about town of good families are the class from which the club draws its members. A nominal entrance fee procures admission. The case shows that German law is as yet unable to cope with a gambling hell masquerading as a club.

HIGH PRICE FOR FLATS

Fabulous Sums Paid For London Houses for Occupation During the Coronation

To British peers who own London town houses the Coronation this year means a small fortune, for the demand for such houses has grown exceedingly brisk of late. The bidders are nearly all multi-millionaires, some of whom have already secured flats in fashionable apartment houses but want to add to their name the glory of inhabiting the residence of a member of the nobility, probably not without the silent hope that their grateful landlord will get them a chance to put foot inside the walls of Buckingham Palace. One Liberal peer has refused an offer of $50,000 for the use of his residence for six weeks. Another man has offered $35,000 for the tenancy of a house in Hill Street during May, June and July, but the owner refuses to take less than $100,000.

The private residence of the Prime Minister, always greatly coveted by reason of its splendid reception rooms, old mahogany staircase, and walls painted by Sir John Thornhill, two centuries ago, has been secured by Lady Cunard.

A GALA PERFORMANCE

Dress Circles Will be Reserved for the Royal Party and Their Guests

Notable among the Coronation festivities will be the gala performance at His Majesty's Theatre on the 27th of June. This is the first gala representation to take place in an English theatre, such performances having hitherto been reserved for the opera, and the honor thus done to the stage had been responded to by the entire theatrical profession.

Among the recent developments in connection with the performance, it may be mentioned that Madame Clara Butt will sing "God Save the King." A notable feature will be the appearance of Mrs. Kendal and the welcome return of Miss Ellen Terry. These distinguished actresses will play the letter scene from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and will be supported by Mrs. Charles Calvert in teh part of "Mrs. Quickly."

Another interesting item will be the appearance of Mr. Cyril Maude as Whiskerandos in "The Critic," which he, with Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Mr. Charles Hawtrey, will jointly produce. The large number of applications for the various leading and subsidiary parts are being dealt with by the executive committee. The forum scene from "Julius Caesar" alone will enlist the services of considerably over a hundred actors and actresses.

So far as the seating arrangements are concerned, it is announced that the dress circle will be devoted entirely to the Royal party and their guests.

World Restored to Health After Five Years of Suffering

St. Hilarion, Charlevoix Co., Que., March 31.—(Special.) — Charlevoix County is ringing with the wonderful cure of Antoine Bouchard. For five years he was practically an invalid; to-day he is a well man. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it, and the people of this neighbourhood are more than ever convinced that they are the one sure cure for all Kidney ailments.

Interviewed concerning his cure, Mr. Bouchard said:

"My sickness started with a cold, which developed into Kidney Disease and for five years I suffered from Dropsy, Cramps in the Muscles, Backache and Nervousness. It took two dozen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure me, but they did cure me completely. They are a wonderful remedy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cure diseased Kidneys. But the different diseases Mr. Bouchard suffered from are all caused by diseased Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them by curing the Kidneys.

INDIANS OF CANADA

Major Winter Tells of the Surrender of Poundmaker to General Middleton

Writing about "The Surrender of Poundmaker," Major C. F. Winter, in The Canadian Magazine for March, says: But though they made a brave show in coming in, they were much disconcerted at the reception accorded them, for General Middleton at once demanded their rifles, in proof of submission and surrender, before he would accord them a hearing. In a few curt words the General told them he demanded unconditional surrender. He had defeated Riel and taken him prisoner, and he had men and guns enough to crush both "Poundmaker" and "Big Bear," with all their people, if they still wanted fight. If they surrendered he could promise them nothing, but would represent their condition and views to the Government. He was a soldier sent there to put down the rebellion and he was going to do it, whether they surrendered or not, and if it took all summer. The men who murdered the Government Indian Agents and Farm Instructors at the beginning of the outbreak must be given up at once before any safe conduct would be ensured the remainder. There was a little hesitation among the younger braves for a few moments. Sharp glances were directed right and left, and wistful eyes cast backward to the slopes on the opposite side of the Battle River, as though mentally gauging the ability to get away in the event of a run for it. The comparative large number of volunteers, however, must have quickly shown what small prospect there was for successful opposition, and reluctantly (how reluctantly may be estimated from the fact that some were seen to kiss their rifles as they gave them up, a remarkable show of feeling for an Indian of the Plains), they handed over their arms to the detail ordered to secure them. Mostly all of these rifles were "Winchesters" of recent model, handier and much superior for the kind of fighting the Crees expected than the single-loading Snider-Enfield with which our Canadian troops were armed. Nearly all were decorated with notches, or brass-headed tacks upon stock and butt, indicative of some coup or lucky shot by which the owner believed he had placed an enemy hors de combat. Others indicated large game that had fallen to the aim of the owner.

RAILWAY RUMOR

C. P. R. May Secure Down-town Entrance to London

C.P.R. engineers are preparing a route which will give that road an entrance into the down-town section of the city of London, Ont. At present the company's station and freight sheds are in the north end. To secure a down-town station the company plans to build from Potterburg to the city, and connect with the Pere Marquette, which has running rights into the Grand Trunk station. This move it is said corroborates the recent despatches from Detroit, to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway has obtained control of the Pere Marquette. All the big factories are at the south end of the city in the district in which the Canadian Pacific Railway spur is proposed.

THE IDLE ARMY

Mr. Sidney Webb Says that 250,000 Men in Good Health are Not Working

Remarkable figures were given by Mr. Sidney Webb in the course of a recent lecture at the Caxton Hall, Westminster, on "Unemployment and Sickness Insurance." If we could only reduce sickness by one day in a year we should add no less than $30,000,000 to the productive capabilities of the nation.

"In the case of unemployment again there is an enormous preventable waste. At this day 80,000 persons are actually registered as standing idle because no man has hired them. There are others not registered.—20,000 able-bodied men rotting in workhouses and 50,000 'on the road.' Altogether, we may say that something like 250,000 men in good health are now standing idle."

SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

Are Noted in Building Permits of the Chief Canadian Cities—Vancouver is Leading

Fewer losses than were noted in the previous month, and a substantial improvement as compared with the corresponding period of last year, is the summary of Construction's report in brief for building operations carried out in twenty-three representative Canadian cities during the month of February. Permits issued in the twenty-three centres amounted to $4,051,958, as against $3,000,127 in the same month of last year, which represents an advance of gain of 34 per cent.

Ottawa dropped behind to the extent of 23 per cent., and Fort William and London registered respective decreases of 21 and 35 per cent. On the other hand, Toronto had a total of $969,590, which is 13 per cent. better than her corresponding amount; Hamilton doubled her previous figures by undertaking work aggregating in cost $75,450; and Windsor and Brantford succeeded in surpassing their former mark to the extent of 614 per cent., and 190 per cent. in order named. In the West a marked onward movement was in evidence on practically all sides. Vancouver not only surpassed the million mark, but again has the highest total for the month registered in the Dominion. While less pronounced from an investment standpoint, Victoria's total of $483,940, representing a gain of 20 per cent., shows excellent progress, and as much can be said regarding the total of Calgary ($233,660), and the amount of Winnipeg ($432,500), both of which reflect a most satisfactory and wholesome condition. Edmonton, also, with a gain of 187 per cent., notes a substantial upturn; Regina is ahead by 104 per cent.; and Moose Jaw tacks on a gain of 27 per cent.

Without the figures of Montreal, the Eastern section would be rather slimly represented. Montreal, however, issued permits amounting to $642,425, as compared with $274,030 in February of last year, and has the third largest total in the list.

C. P. R. CHANGES

The following transfers among superintendents have been made by the Canadian Pacific Railway: Supt. J. K. McNeilly, from London to Farnham; Supt. George Hodge, from Montreal to London; Supt. A. L. THE GREAT PEACE RIVER

Potentialities of the Far Northwest—A Comparison Made With Siberian Progress

One hundred million acres of agricultural land, sixty-five per cent. of it capable of bearing No. 1 hard wheat, are awaiting settlers in the Mackenzie River watershed, so Mr. J. K. Cornwall, M.P.P., of the Peace River district of Alberta, told the members of the Toronto Canadian Club. The farmer would be subjected to frost the same as Manitoba was, but at Fort Vermillion, 700 miles north of the boundary, the farmers averaged at the present time three crops out of five.

The greatest unfished fresh water lakes in the world were there, teeming with fish of the highest commercial value—trout and whitefish. Spruce and poplar trees were very plentiful, and the rivers of the country were good for a million horsepower. "What the country wants," said Mr. Cornwall, "is men, money, and transportation."

The speaker made an interesting comparison between the Peace River Valley district and the Province of Tobolsk, in Siberia. Tobolsk, he said, was in the same latitude, had a population of 1,656,700, grew twelve million bushels of wheat a year, and exported twenty million pounds of butter to England. The city of Omsk, situated 100 miles farther north than Edmonton, had a population of 3,000, and thriving industries.

Mr. Cornwall described how he happened to go to live in the Peace Valley. "I went broke on wheat in Chicago, and trekked north where a man doesn't need money so long as he's got spirit. I live four hundred miles from Edmonton. My address is simply Peace River. You can't miss me; we're all leading citizens up there."

FOR RAINY DAYS

What 10 Cents a Week to the Annuities Scheme Will Provide

The impression which some people have that the Canadian Government Annuities scheme is available only to persons over the age of 55, is quite erroneous, an impression arising, probably, from the fact that 55 is the earliest age, except for invalidity or disablement, at which an annuity can begin. Naturally, the younger the person is when the purchase is begun, the smaller will be the payments which he or she will have to make to secure the same Annuity, and smaller will be the apparent cost. But any person over the age of five, may purchase an Annuity. An account of the sad ending of an old gentleman who had, until recently, lived ill his life in a Canadian province, but upon whom fortune for some reason had not smiled, was communicated a few days ago in a dispatch from a United States city. He had gone to Michigan to stay with a son for the remainder of his days, but shortly after his arrival the son died, leaving no means, and the father, who preferred death rather than the poorhouse, to which he was to have been sent the following day, terminated his life. If the old gentleman had been provident in his younger days, and had laid aside but 10 cents a week, the amount accumulated at 3 per cent. compound interest, which he would have had at his disposal at 80, would have purchased for him an annuity of $180 a year, an income sufficient to have enabled him to have provided for himself for the remainder of his days. Had he had the opportunity at 20, as all residents of Canada have to-day, of paying in to the Government Annuities fund a sum of 10 cents a week, his income at 80 would have been over $525, instead of $180, and had he died at any time before attaining the age of 80, his heirs would have received every cent that he had paid in, with 3 per cent. compound interest, up to the date of his death.

TREES FOR THE RAILWAY

The C. P. R. Has a Nursery East of Winnipeg

The Canadian Pacific is making use of about 400 acres of its farm of 480 acres lying about 12 miles east of Winnipeg for nursery purposes. The object of this large nursery is to grow trees, shrubs and hardy perennials suitable to Western conditions, for use along its line, the trees to be planted for shelter belts along the main line, and the shrubs and perennials for the decoration of station gardens of the West. These are to be shipped to section foremen and station agents, who will be instructed by an expert horticulturist how to plant the material and how to lay it out to the best advantage. As a side line to the nursery, and for the purpose of crop rotation, vegetables and a small amount of grain are grown each year. There is a greenhouse for propagating bedding material for the larger parks along the lines. About 100 pure-bred Plymouth Rocks are kept as a side line to consume by-products at the nurseries, and, incidentally, to supply eggs and chickens for the dining cars, and thus reduce the running expenses.

The 1911 Ferro Is the Engine You Will Like Best

Carburetion and Ignition, the two things on which internal combustion engines depend for efficiency, are greatly improved in 1911 Ferro Engines. These engines have been correct in principle since their introduction, and with added efficiency due to 1911 improvements, the Ferro is the most perfect marine motor of the time. Before you buy

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

by RANDLAND CROSBY

They went up-stairs, and entered that fire-scathed room of which all but one corner was filled with dim, ghostly shadows. Cuyler sat in front of his little, old-fashioned desk, which had come down in the family-which had come down in the family from generation after generation, and the diplomat took a chair close by—a portly, well-groomed man of sixty-odd, with snow-white hair, smooth, ruddy face, blue eyes keen as an eagle's. He moved in a leisurely manner; perhaps, Cuyler thought, he was tired physically.

The two men regarded each other in silence. At last the Minister spoke.

"And how may I serve you?" he asked, a genial, kindly smile lighting his face.

"Sir George," Cuyler began, gravely, "you know me well enough to realize that when I have anything to say, I say it."

"And always clearly, with admirable tact," the other responded.

Cuyler did not heed the compliment. Instead he continued, as if uninterrupted: "A crisis has come in the affairs of the American people."

"Hardly that, I hope!"

"A crisis which may mean more than ordinary industrial activity; it will mean either very great material prosperity—or a period of panic."

"My Government, sir, would regard such a calamity with supreme regret."

"I can well understand it," Cuyler remarked in such a way that the other moved uneasily.

After a brief silence he spoke again, without raising his voice, but this time rapidly, sharply.

"Sir George, if Cuyler & Co. carry through the financing and building of that Eastern railway it will mean activity in business all over the United States; iron and copper mines will be working at their full capacity, foundries, steel mills, lumber mills, car shops, will be running day and night; thousands of men will be employed in the great timber-tracts; engineers, builders, contractors, merchants, will feel the impetus. I beg to say with all emphasis that the whole United States will be benefited to a positive and unprecedented extent."

"It is certainly a matter for national congratulation," the Minister responded, "that your banking house has been able to obtain the carrying out of this great enterprise."

"As you are further aware," Cuyler went on, "certain foreign interests are engaged in a desperate effort to get that enterprise away from us."

"Really!" the diplomat exclaimed.

"Sir George!" Cuyler returned, his eyes narrowing, "this is no time for fencing, for equivocation! You know better than anyone else that Continental interests are in a reckless fight to wrest that prize from us; that to aid their scheme, to make it impossible for us to finance the railroad, they are deliberately engaged in a world-wide conspiracy to smash Cuyler & Co.!"

"Furthermore, Sir George, you are aware and I am aware that those conspiring interests did not dare to undertake this desperate, despicable war on my banking house, until they had a definite understanding that Great Britain would at least not interfere with them!"

"Mr. Cuyler—"

"Not yet, Sir George! Let me finish. You know, further, as I do, that one word from your Government would stop this onslaught in an hour. . . . Now, what do you want?"

"I beg pardon?"

"I repeat," said Cuyler, leaning forward, "what do you want?"

"Really, this is most surprising—almost incomprehensible. Don't you think we had better consider the situation a few days, and then—"

"What do you want?" Cuyler thundered.

His eyes were boring into the other man's soul; his jaw was set, his face was almost purple.

For once the British Minister hesitated.

"Wh—what do I want?" he echoed, trying hard not to swallow.

"Yes!" exclaimed Cuyler. "This panic in America must be stopped. In twenty-four hours your Government must withdraw its support from those financial interests on the Continent. Or——"

"Or what?" asked Sir George.

"Or by noon of to-day, every newspaper in this country will receive a detailed statement of the way your Government has entered into a world-wide conspiracy to humble and disgrace the United States."

"My Government! . . . . . Mr. Cuyler," the diplomat began, warningly, "'conspiracy' is not a pleasant word!"

Cuyler leaned back in his chair and regarded the diplomat steadily. His nostrils dilated and contracted. Then, suddenly, a change came over him, and a kindly light suffused his eyes, as he repeated—this time with all gentleness: "What do you want, Sir George?"

The Minister cleared his throat before replying.

Finally he said: "It may or may not have occurred to you and your associates, that the building of the proposed railway southward to the Persian Gulf may mean grave complications in the future: It would enable an unfriendly Power—should there be one, which heaven forbid!—to threw troops into a territory which British civilization is trying to develop for the peaceful uplifting of mankind. It would also enable that possible unfriendly Power to connect, by steam transportation, with a fleet of warships in the Gulf. And that would mean—"

Cuyler nodded understandingly.

"What is it you want?" he inquired.

The Minister took a long breath before replying.

"My Government," he began; then hesitated; then continued: "my Government would prefer to see that proposed route abandoned and the railroad built, in another direction."

"Say—eastward, to the Pacific?" Cuyler suggested.

"Excellent."

Cuyler arose, and the diplomat followed his example.

"By the way, Sir George," he asked in casual tones, "how soon do you think this raid on American securities will be over?"

"In forty-eight hours."

"Not sooner?"

The Minister shook his head. "I wish it might," he replied. "Communication by cable is quick—but time is needed for considering larger questions and issuing instructions. It will take forty-eight hours."

"You may in form your Government, if you desire, that the railway will be deflected from the Persian Gulf, and will pass eastward through Manchuria to the Pacific. And now, Sir George, if you accompany me down stairs, I would be pleased to have you and your Secretary of Legation partake of some refreshment."

"Not now, Mr. Cuyler, if you will excuse me. We will drive directly to my hotel."

As the Minister, accompanied by his Secretary of Legation, and Johnson, quietly left the house, Mortimer Cuyler started to pace his library back and forth, back and forth, in the semi-darkness; his hands clasped behind him, his head bowed forward, his face and manner expressing such anguish as would have struck terror to the minds of his partners and associates who, early the previous evening, had gathered around his table. For now he was alone; the servants had retired, and he had time to think, think, think, of his missing child; to wonder where she was, and with whom, and how she was being treated.

Back and forth he paced, back and forth. The clock in the corner ticked on, and on, second by second the chimes therein sounding again and again as every thirty minutes were recorded.

Just before daybreak a light breeze wandered in through the open windows, gently moving the filmy curtain and he sat down at the desk. From a drawer he took a morocco case, opening it with a tiny key of gold; and gazed long at three miniatures within, exquisitely executed. One was of his wife, painted just before their marriage. The second was another portrait of her, three years later, holding on her arm a laughing baby. The third was Eleanor at the age of twenty, full blown with girlish beauty. Between the first and the third there was no perceptible difference; one might have been a replica of the other.

Moment by moment Mortimer Cuyler sat there, holding them in his hand; gazing, suffering, almost despairing, until a shudder passed over his great body, and he leaned forward on the table, his face hidden in his arms.

XXI.

When financial America, industrial America, commercial America, seized its newspapers early that Tuesday morning, a few hours after the last of those conferences at Cuyler's house it met with a surprise. The serious situation in Wall Street was duly set forth as it had been set forth with increasing intensity for three days. But alongside the heavy black headlines on the front page devoted to those developments and to the great strike in the anthracite region, were other headlines, just as black, just as prominent, announcing the suprising optimism of New England, her confidence that the flurry would soon be over, that the danger of panic was past, that a steady business revival was setting in—all of which views were voiced by two of the most conspicuous conservative and trusted financiers of Boston. They had come to New York the day previous to study the situation, the newspapers related, and were returning home with fears allayed. Everything was improving. The whole country was in excellent shape, as far as they could see, and an upward movement of the market might be looked for as indicating a return of business confidence.

By noon of that Tuesday extra editions of the afternoon papers were out announcing a turn in the market. Securities of every sort and condition had halted in their downward course, hesitated, rallied, and commenced to climb—those identified with Cuyler & Co. leading. The newspapers did not know it, but the two New York bank presidents had placed strong supporting orders through a source of brokers, and kept piling them in hour after hour. The market closed in a delirious, aerial whirl—not a healthy, normal closing, but unavoidable, perhaps, at such a crisis.

That evening Bloodgood met in Pittsburg one of the most noted of United States Senators, who had come on from Chicago in response to telegraphic summons. They spent an hour together, and Bloodgood started back to New York. It so happened that the principal commercial organization of Pittsburg was to hold a special meeting that night to consider the industrial situation, and when its secretary saw by an afternoon newspaper that the Senator had arrived in town he was invited to make an address. He did so. It turned out to be the principal speech of the evening—a powerful, convincing statement of financial confidence and business activity all the way from Chicago to the Golden Gate. Everybody through the Western country was cheerful, hopeful, optimistic; nearly everybody was making money and spending it. The financial anxiety was merely a form of midsummer madness peculiar to New York and vicinity, and would soon be forgotten.

The morning newspapers on Wednesday ran the Senator's speech on their front pages, with heavy headlines over type double-leaded.

Late editions of Wednesday's evening newspapers contained other headlines, and other double-leaded type—dispatches from Harrisburg announcing that owners and operators of anthracite mines in Pennsylvania had called on the Governor for troops to quell an insurrection; that rioters had taken possession of the coal region and were shooting, stabbing, dynamiting, setting fire right and left, even holding up trains supposed to be carrying strike-breakers. The sheriffs of the disturbed counties had likewise appealed for help, acknowledging their inability to restore law and order; the utmost pressure was being brought to bear on the Governor by labour-leaders to prevent his action; the enormous financial interests in the Keystone State were insisting that he order out the National Guard. Everything indicated that at last the Governor was about to act, reasserting their dignity and power of the commonwealth, and throwing troops into the field. If this should happen, the despatches added, the strike would be over in twenty-four hours.

Column after column of reassuring news, predicting a quick settlement of the trouble were devoted to the situation. Of course the strike-leaders were permitted to express their views, which they did, defying the "coal barons," and ridiculing the idea that the Governor of Pennsylvania would seriously consider such a preposterous thing as "ordering brigades of armed men into a peaceful law-abiding community."

That night the entire National Guard of Pennsylvania was rushed to the scene of disorder—ten thousand artillery, cavalry, infantry. Rioting ceased shortly after daylight of Thursday, when the first troop train poked its nose up the Lehigh Valley beyond Penn Haven Junction—with officers perched on the pilot, looking along the track for dynamite cartridges, and sharpshooters on the roofs of cars. By Thursday night the strike was over.

Then, on the bright morning following, which was Friday, several of the London heavyweight journals announced that bonds linking England and the United States had been forged and riveted for ever. Brothers in blood from the beginning, they were now brothers in finance, industry, commerce.

"It may well transpire," one of these great journals solemnly concluded, "that should necessity arise in the remote future—or in the future not so remote—England and America will prove to an amazed and incredulous world that they are also brothers in arms."

No More Wrinkles
BEAUTIFUL BUST

Superfluous Hair Vanishes Like Magic by a New Discovery

Pimples and Blackheads Removed Forever.

Let this woman send you free, everything she agrees, and beautify your face and form quickly.

She Looks Like a Girl of 18.

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has perfected a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is to-day and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well developed form. She had thin, scrawny eye-lashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods and removed every blackhead and pimple from her face in a single night.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery, she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

By her new process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt, of Wis., writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkles gone. Mrs. Markham writes, her wrinkles vanished over night.

Miss Alice Day writes, every blackhead and pimple has vanished forever.

The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cuningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free all she agrees, and will show our readers how to remove wrinkles in 8 hours; how to develop the bust; how to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows; how to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles; how to remove dark circles under the eyes; how to quickly remove double chin; how to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body; how to darken gray hair and stop falling hair; how to stop forever perspiration odour.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cuninghan, Suite A308, 7 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovelier in every way.

W.C.T.U. ITEMS OF INTEREST

The matter in this Department is supplied by the Peterborough Branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which has arranged for its publication.

THE BOYS OF TO-DAY.

The boys of to-day are the men of to-morrow
To carry the standards of right unafraid,
To fill up the ranks as the veterans falter,
And add to the conquests their fathers have made.

The boys of to-day have a golden to-morrow,
If bravely their faces are turned to the light;
Not heeding the voices that tempt them to wander,
And slacken their ardour for God and the right.

The boys of to-day must be true to their colours,
If men they would be of a fair honoured name;
An unspotted life, and a noble endeavour,
Are richer endowments than money or fame.

ALCOHOL AND NERVOUS AILMENTS.

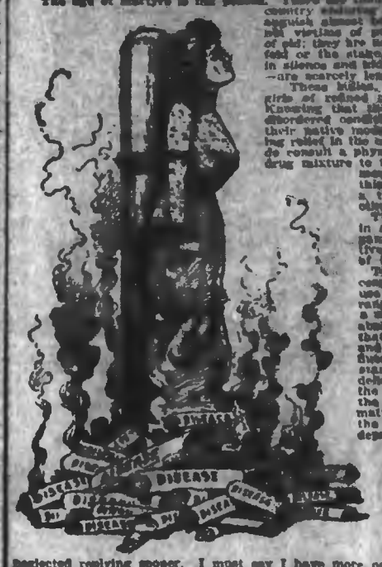
Dr. Robert Jones, of the London County Council Asylum, Claybury, speaking from his own personal experience as a physician, has said that he knew that during the period when the condition could still be definitely described as that of 'sanity' alcohol might be laying the foundation of mental disease; it injured chiefly the nervous and digestive systems; irritability was induced, neurasthenia, chronic dyspepsia, premature arterio-sclerosis, and a whole host of sinister morbid states. Those of us who are behind the scenes, said Dr. Jones, see the terrible havoc played by alcohol among our best men and women. It goes without saying that the mind is the highest attribute of man; it is the last to be perfected phylogenetically, and is, therefore the least organized and the most complex. For these reasons the mind is the function first and most markedly to be impaired in the disintegrating action caused by alcohol, which affects abstract thought, complex reasoning, and the higher creative operations of the imagination, before it seises and lowers the animal functions, which are the last to go. It is a sad and mournful sight to see in our asylums the mental derelicts left and abandoned through alcohol, which affects the judgment, impairs the memory, and perverts the moral nature. Many of our best workers are a burden upon the ratepayers for the rest of their lives through drink, and the absolute loss to the community from alcohol, by damaging the fine motor mechanism of the skilled craftsman and the artisan, is never considered when reckoning up the cost of the drug.—'League Journal.'

A DREAM AND ITS INTERPRETATION.

Action by the local Government Board in England has been found necessary so as to stay infection being carried about by is rates. This circumstance calls to mind the good old story of the Dundee navvy who, on awakening one morning, told his wife of a curious dream that he had during the night. He dreamt that he saw a curious dream that he had during the night. He dreamed that he saw a big fat rat coming towards him, followed by two lean ones, and in the rear a blind one. He was greatly worried over it, and swore that some great evil was about to fall upon him. He had heard that to dream of rats foreboded some dire calamity. In vain did he appeal to his wife, but she could not relieve him. Her son, who, by the way, was a bright lad, hearing the dream told, volunteered to interpret it, and he did it with all the wisdom of Joseph. Said he, "The fat rat is the man who keeps the public-house where ye went to the night, and the two lean ones with all the family and the blind one is yerself, father."

MODERN MARTYRS!

The age of martyrs is not passed. There are thousands of women all over the country enduring physical torture and mental anguish almost beyond description. They are not victims of persecution, like the martyrs of old; they are not called on to face the scaffold or the stake, but the sufferings—borne in silence and shame—from the world at large—are scarcely less severe.



These ailments are the curse of many women and girls of modern life. Give them relief. Knowing that there is a remedy for all the disordered conditions of their delicate organism, their native modesty prevents them from seeking relief in the usual way. They will not even do consult a physician, but will try any patent drug mixture to take unnecessarily.

In all cases of this character, where there is any irregularity of the menses, any displacement of the organs, any disease of the womb, any inflammation or ulceration of the ovaries, any leucorrhoea, any bearing down pains, any nervousness, any melancholia, any of the symptoms which indicate the approach of change of life, any of the troubles which make life a burden to so many women, there is a remedy that is a positive cure. That remedy is ORANGE LILY. It is a specific for all these troubles. It is a remedy that has been tried in the crucible of time, and has never been found wanting. It is a remedy that has been tried in the crucible of time, and has never been found wanting. It is a remedy that has been tried in the crucible of time, and has never been found wanting

THE JUPE CULOTTE IN PETERBOROUGH

The Harem Skirt will appear on the streets of Peterborough on Monday afternoon of next week, when a girl, known as the Murad Harem Skirt girl, will be seen here in the interests of the Imperial Tobacco Company. She will wear the very latest Parisian variety of the jupe culotte, and no doubt will attract a lot of attention. Keep your eyes open for the Murad girl on Monday afternoon, if you want to get a line on the costume that has caused a sensation everywhere.

ATTRACTIONS SECURED FOR EXHIBITION

Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr., Made Arrangements With the Park Booking Circuit of New York for Six Big Acts

BEST EVER HERE

J. J. Turner, Sr., was in Toronto yesterday and met the manager of "The Park Booking Circuit of New York," and made arrangements for the attractions for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, Sept. 14th, 15th and 16th. The attractions will be of the very highest order and far superior to anything ever seen at the Exhibition here before. There will be six big Acts, consisting of "Carl Damman Troupe," the "World's greatest Equilibrists," "Prof. Schlitz and his great trick Mule," and "The Bollini Troupe," in their great Aerial Sensational Return Acts.

Everyone should attend the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year and see these great Acts and help to swell the receipts of the Exhibition and encourage the President and Directors in their efforts.

INVESTIGATION IS STOPPED

Examiner Special:

MONTREAL, QUE., APRIL 1.—The investigation into the alleged shoe machinery combine affecting indirectly shoe prices all over Canada, was stopped this morning by order of Judge Bruneau, that the proceedings may await the decision of the King's Bench.

CABINET RESIGNS

Special to The Examiner.

MADRID, APRIL 1.—The cabinet of Premier Canalejas, which, by enforcing religious reforms, brought about a rupture with the Vatican, resigned to-day. These resignations plunge the country into a critical situation.

MAY GIVE $5,000

Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, has received a letter notifying him that owing to the fact that the request of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition that the law in regard to the assistance that cities may grant to Agricultural Societies be amended so as to permit of $10,000 be given, had been received so late in the session, it was not deemed advisable to make the full change asked for, but the law had been changed to raise the maximum sum from $3,000 to $5,000. The matter, it will be remembered, came up at the banquet of the Industrial Exhibition some weeks ago.

SPLENDID LECTURE

Mr. C. C. Wainwright gave a very interesting address upon "Currency" before the Boy Scouts of Peterborough in the armouries last night. There was a very large attendance and Mr. Wainwright's remarks were followed with an appreciative interest. He traced the development of currency from early days to modern times and compared the banking system of Canada with that of the United States.

TEN THOUSAND COAL MINERS ON STRIKE

Western Strikers Hope to Draw Pay From Fellow Miners' Organizations in U. S.

SITUATION NOT HOPEFUL

Examiner Special.

CALGARY, ALTA., April 1.—Ten thousand miners on strike in Alberta and British Columbia expect to draw a strike pay from the fellow miners' organizations in Pennsylvania and Colorado. The situation this morning doesn't look hopeful for early settlement. The men draw $3.00, up, according to their family, and appear ready to stand a long seige. The Companies are talking equally independent.

THE HAREM SKIRT

Mademoiselle Dumart, a burlesque actress, will exploit the harem skirt at the Brock street roller rink on Tuesday night, wearing the most approved variety, and her appearance there is being looked forward to. She will be at the rink only on Tuesday night and should be well worth seeing. Mademoiselle is a charming skater.

Wm. Faversham as "The Faun" as he will be seen in the first act at "The Grand" next Wednesday, April 5. Seat Sale Opens Monday

SUFFRAGETTES ORGANIZE A GREAT PARADE

COUNT AS VAGRANTS

Examiner Special.

LONDON, APRIL 1—Special police and other protective measures are being taken to deal with a great parade of suffragettes to-morrow night. Thousands and tens of thousands of curious spectators are expected to walk the streets of London with flags and banners all night. The demonstration was organized to avoid the census takers, the Suffragette theory being that if they cannot vote they should not be counted in the population. The police have been instructed to count them all in as vagrants if they can.

HEALING POWER A MARVEL

So remarkable is the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment that the results of a single application are often a marvel to persons who witness them for the first time. Mrs. O. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., tells how her son was cured of blood pois oning which got started in a wound received at a threshing. Relief was prompt and cure effected by three boxes.

BOARD OF WORKS LETS CONTRACT FOR SEASON'S SUPPLY OF CEMENT

Messrs. R. Hicks and Company's Tender for 4,000 Barrels Was Successful—Only Two Tenders Received.

OTHER BUSINESS DONE

The contract for the season's supply of cement for the city, amounting to about 4,000 barrels, was let last night by the Board of Works to R. Hicks and Company.

Tenders were received as follows:

R. Hicks & Co.—$1.65 per barrel, bags extra, 10 cents each or $1.75 in paper bags.

Peterborough Hardware Company—$1.65 per barrel; sacks, 10 cents extra, or $1.75 in paper bags.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Graham, that the contract be awarded to R. Hicks & Co.—Carried.

The matter of storage, and testing of the cement was, on motion, left in the hands of Chairman Ald. Metheral and Street Commissioner Evans.

Messrs. Hicks and Company ask 5c per barrel for storing the cement meaning about $120 on the season's supply.

A bill was read from Mr. D. W. Dumble, for $36, for six cords of building stone, which he claimed was unlawfully taken away from Aylmer street, north, by city employees.

Street Commissioner Evans reported that he had no knowledge of the stone in question being taken away by the city teamsters. It was possible that they might have done so; it was possible, on the other hand, that other teamsters had removed the stone.

Ald. Brown moved, seconded by Ald. Graham, that no action be taken.—Carried.

Mr. Thomas Irwin was present to ask the Board to have a sewer constructed on Murray street, from Bethune to Stewart street, and along Stewart street to the middle of the block. He pointed out that as one side of the road was taken up by the creek and the Grand Trunk Railway and part of the other side by city property, it was impossible to get the required number of signatures to a petition.

Mayor Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the matter be referred to the City Engineer to report.

A communication was read from Mr. Andrew Brotherson, asking for a crossing on Concession street, connecting Hazlitt and Caddy streets.

Ald. Anderson remarked that a crossing was badly needed at that point.

The City Engineer explained, however, that the pavement to be built on Hazlitt street would be extended across Concession street, and would serve the required purpose.

A letter was read from the City Engineer in regard to the sewer connection at Mr. A. E. Micks' store on Hunter street and recommending the connection be re-laid five feet east of the man-hole.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the Engineer's recommendation be carried out.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Brown, a walk will be constructed to the Isolation Hospital, either of gravel or wood.

BETTER OIL ON THE STREETS

Citizens will be glad to learn that a better quality of oil will be used on the streets this year. There were complaints in plenty about the odour of the particular brand used last summer, but the oil this year will not be so notorious. Street Commissioner Evans had samples to show the Board of Works last night, and all the members agreed that the "smoother" to be used during the coming summer is a great improvement over the old quality.

WILL THE COMMISSIONER BE RETAINED?

Manufacturers' Committee of City Council Will Go Into the Matter With Representatives of Board of Trade

THE SITUATION NOW

The City Council last night discussed the question of the reappointment of Industrial Commissioner Duggan, and the Manufacturers Committee was instructed to take up the matter with a committee from the Board of Trade.

The Commissioner's term of office comes to an end the middle of May. It will be remembered that he was appointed by the Board of Trade, the city contributing $2,000 to the maintenance of the department, while the Board raised a similar amount by contributions.

This year, however, the Board has no such fund at its disposal, and the expense would have to be borne by the city entirely.

The Board of Trade made the suggestion to the council to appoint a committee of three to form a joint committee with two members of the Board to deal with the matter.

"THE FAUN"

William Faversham who will present Edward Knoblauch's comedy, "The Faun," at the Grand next Wednesday, April 5th, has proved since becoming his own manager, that he is not afraid of a dramatic novelty. It is an axim of the drama that the public is slow to accept anything in the theatre that departs from the conventions. But the truth of the matter is that while the old and tried will do very well for a time, the playgoer finally grows weary and runs after the new and novel. Mr. Knoblauch's comedy, The Faun, belongs in the latter category for it is one of the most unique and original plays that has been seen on the New York stage in our time. Mr. Faversham's impersonation of the faun is a wide departure from anything that the actor has attempted in recent years. While a characterization new to the theatre, it is capitally executed. The Faun is the one play of the decade that, while the auditor is kept in roars of laughter during the progress of the play, causes him to think after he has left the playhouse. The drama is not a preachment, yet it points out its brilliant lines and diverting situations many wholesome truths. Seat sale opens Monday morning.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Mrs. Frank Lefevre of 472 Elm St., residing with her daughter, Mrs. E. Lawrence, had the misfortune to fall dislocating her wrist. Dr. Marshall was called in and she is progressing very nicely under his care, but it will be some time before she has the use of her hand.

BORDEN'S TOUR

SHERBROOKE, QUE., APRIL 1.—At a conference of leading Conservative workers here last night with Mr. H. B. Ames, M. P. of Montreal, the latter stated that all arrangements had been completed for R. L. Borden to tour through Canada to the Coast, after the session. He will be accompanied by six members, and he will speak at several cities in old and New Ontario.

OXFORD DEFEAT CAMBRIDGE TO-DAY IN THE SIXTY EIGHTH ANNUAL BOAT RACE

The Dark Blues Lead Their Rivals From the Very Start and Win the Classic Event by 3 Lengths

CROWD SAW EVENT

Special Wire to the Examiner.

PUTNEY, ENG., APRIL 1.—Leading Cambridge from the very start, Oxford won the world's greatest annual rowing event this morning by three lengths. Cambridge had the advantage of position of weather, but the dark blues were slightly heavier and were favourites right from the start. There was a great crowd of spectators in boats along the shores. The Prince of Wales and Prince Albert, in Cadets' uniforms, followed the racers in a motor boat, and were loudly cheered. This is the sixty-eighth annual contest between these colleges.

Oxford's time was 18 mins., 29 secs. which is the record for the race.

4 MILES OF WALK

The Board of Works last night decided to advertise the construction of granolithic walks to the extent of two miles, as recommended by the City Engineer, and this with the walks petitioned for and left over will bring the total construction of walks up to about four miles during the season.

The sewer programme for the year was also taken up last night.

The Engineer recommended the construction of a pavement on the east side of Chambers street, from Hunter to Brock streets, but the Board decided that a sidewalk there would be an interference with the merchants.

TO VISIT CITY

Arrangements are now completed for the visit to Peterborough of Commissioner David M. Rees, next Saturday and Sunday, April 8th and 9th. The Commissioner, who has recently been apointed to the command of the Salvation Army in Canada, Newfoundland and the Bermudas, is a Salvationist of thirty-four years' standing, and has had a varied experience in many different countries. He will be accompanied on his visit here by Col. Mapp, Chief Secretary, Lt.-Col. Pugmire, who is at the head of the Prison Work in Canada, Major Findlay, private secretary to the Commissioner, and Brigadier Hargrave, Provincial Commander of East Ontario, and Quebec Province. The programme of meetings, including a great welcome meeting next Sunday afternoon, will be announced later.

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY

The fourth anniversary of Knox Presbyterian church will be celebrated on Sunday, April 9th, a week from to-morrow, when Rev. E. W. MacKay, of St. Paul's church, Smith's Falls, one of the leading clergy of the east will be the special preacher and will deliver sermons, morning and evening. Further announcements in connection with the service will be made later.

PETERBORO'S CUSTOM RECEIPTS SHOW A MARKED INCREASE

The Customs receipts at the Peterborough Custom House for the fiscal year, which ended yesterday, March 31st, showed a remarkable increase over the figures for the preceding year, and the statistics form a convincing proof of the growth of Peterborough's trade during the year. For the fiscal year, ending March 31, 1910, the receipts at Peterborough were $344,934.43, and for the year just ended, the amount collected was $446,657.25. The increase for the year that has just come to an end, over the preceding year is the remarkable sum of $101,722.82.

THE CITY'S AGREEMENT WITH THE C. P. RAILWAY

At last night's meeting of the City Council, the agreement between the city and the Canadian Pacific Railway in connection with the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Line, was read by City Solicitor Hall. By the agreement the company acquires ownership of the water front property west of their present line to the Quaker Oats Company, from Simcoe street to Sherbrooke street on which to build sidings and freight sheds.

The agreement is about as follows: Provided the company have the new line completed and in operation within two years from the date of the proposed agreement, the city shall sell them the land in question for $10,000.

The city is to have the right to extend Simcoe street across the company's tracks to the river front.

Charlotte and King streets are to be closed at the property acquired by the company, but the city is to have the right to cross the company's tracks by bridges at these points.

The agreement was referred to a committee composed of the Mayor, Aldermen Morgan, Anderson and Buller.

THE LITTLE PILGRIMS OF THE BOOK BELOVED

The children of All Saints' Sunday school have been training for some time to present the above religious play, which will be held in the Parish Hall next Thursday night. The play is really a presentation of the work and worship of the English church. Two pilgrims from afar, having heard of the gospel come to seek it, and are directed to Mother church. Mother church calls and presents to them the various parts of the Book of Common Prayer, morning prayer, evening prayer, litany, holy baptism, catechism, holy communion, psalter, ordinal, the articles, etc., etc., who each teach the pilgrims a phase of the Christian religion. These are all bound together into one book by King Edward VI. and being acceptable and satisfying to the pilgrims are taken back to the heathen lands. Mother church accompanying them to signify that missionary zeal is the work of the church. It is a beautiful little allegorical play and all, especially Anglicans, should see it.

SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1911

NOT CONSULTED.

Our morning contemporary, under bold headlines says "Stratton for the East and Hall for the West" and adds the following text:

The Times is informed that the leaders of the Liberal party in Peterborough County have practically agreed on their candidates for the approaching elections for the Dominion Parliament. Hon. J. R. Stratton, it is said, will enter the east riding and Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P., will take the west. It is said that this arrangement is the result of prolonged negotiations between local party leaders.

Mr. Stratton and Mr. Hall, on being interviewed, said that they had not heard of any prolonged negotiations. They thought that if the 'information' of our contemporary was correct, they would at least have been consulted and informed of what was in progress.

REVENUE TRADE STILL RISING.

The revenue of the Dominion from customs alone, for the fiscal year, which closed yesterday, amounts to the unprecedented total of $72,343,886, a gain of $12,280,83 over the figures of the previous year. The month of March, just closed, shows the highest customs revenue of any month in all the years of our national life. Thus, after a month of blue ruin prediction of disaster from reciprocity, we find the commercial and industrial men of the country were not scared by the bogey of ruin, but that the month of March recorded the largest volume of importations in the history of Canada. The merchants expect the people to be prosperous enough to buy the unversally large volume of goods they are importing. They must think that reciprocity will add to our prosperity, as it will do.

THE SHEFFIELD CHOIR.

Canada has done something to strengthen the bonds of imperial oneness The free-will gift of the British Preference, without bargaining for an equivalent, was a splendid precedent, followed by the friend-in-need cooperation in the South African war, and now Canada is providing a less material, but no less important and valuable, means of Empire-binding. To these is to be added the action of Dr. Harris, of Montreal, a public-spirited and imperial-spirited Canadian, who has conceived and is carrying into execution, the empire-covering musical "missionary tour," as the Sheffield Telegram calls it, of the Sheffield Choir, which will mark one stage of its empire-tour in Peterborough on Monday night This splendid band of singers, the greatest moving choral organization in the world has nobly seconded the initiative of Canada, as represented by Dr. Harris. Two hundred of the selected cream of English soloists and choralists have spent months in rehearsal for their musical pilgrimage, and with not a penny of pecuniary reward beyond maintenance, will tour Canada, from coast to coast, New Zealand, Australia and South Africa, under the escort of Dr. Harris and, as his guests. The musical missionary tour is largely undertaken in the interests of musical development in the different parts of the empire. It will not only represent an inter-imperial rapprochement, in musical harmony, which the Choir will so splendidly exemplify, but it will tend to importantly intensify the ethical harmony that exists between the peoples of the far flung units of an Empire, politically as well as socially and numerically one and indivisible.

FLYING THE FLAG.

Hon Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, has ordered the flying of the flag, not only on public buildings situated on the frontier, but on all public buildings throughout the dominion—daily from sunrise to sunset. This measure is commendable on several ways. The public display of the flag, is a sign of recognition of all the flag represents. Under its protection the mightiest forces of the mightiest civilization operate; under its protection we work and play and rise and sleep in safety. The presence of the flag is a reminder of the sacred symbolism it flaunts, the union of the crosses dedicated to the dominant races that have achieved the triumphs of civilization, that have made the English speaking world the instrument of human advancement, enlightenment and moral uplift, unprecedented and unequalled in the history of the race. Then the bright presence of the flag is a spot of cheerful glow in the midst of hard prosaic streets; of dingy buildings. It is a guide to location of public buildings, and finally and lowliest, it is good for trade — forever flapping in the breeze, the toughest bunting will wear out and have to be replaced. This last may be regarded as lowering the flag to base mercenary material profit. But we have a precedent: the party that arrogates to itself all the loyalty going, waves the flag in season and out of season, for the sordid end of party profit — waves it figuratively of course; that costs nothing and involves no waste or necessity of providing new material.

"CRASS POLITICAL STUPIDITY."

The Edmonton Saturday News thus depicts the "crass political stupidity" of the Conservative party in placing itself in an attitude of opposition to the west on the reciprocity issue:

By placing the Conservative party on record as opposed to the entrance of our products to the United States, its leaders have succeeded in making the elements that were dissatisfied with the government's tariff policies forget all about its failure to live up to its promises. Western members and newspapers may call as loudly as they like for a reduction of duties on articles that the farmer buys as Mr. Lake did in the House this week, and as The Winnipeg Telegram has been doing constantly, but this can have no effect in view of the official attitude of the party towards what has actually been done. The Liberals, the farmers argue, are not disposed of give us what we want in the way of the reduction of Canadian duties, but they at least are quite willing to do what they can of let us market our own products to the best advantage. The whole attitude of the opposition towards the negotiations has been one of crass political stupidity. It could not possibly have played more successfully into the government's hands.

Having in view the growing importance of the West as a political factor, Mr. Borden was certainly badly advised when he was stampeded into the anti-reciprocity ranks. A little time spent in consultation with Mr. Haultain, the Conservative leader in Saskatchewan, might have led to the adoption of a wiser course.

INEQUALITY OF ASSESSMENT.

If there is one department of civic administration, more than another, that falls far short of perfection, it is that the deals with assessment. Of two cardinal features of objection to present assessment methods, one is the glaring inequality of assessment, which forces one ratepayer to pay a larger share of taxation on proprety of equal, and, in many cases, of less value, than a property, which, owing to inequality of assessment, escapes with a lighter levy. The other is the feature of the prevailing principle of assessment that imposes a fine upon ratepayers, for improving the city, in the form of taxation of improvements to the relief of the land which it is argued should bear the burden of taxation. One of these objectionable features, inequality of assessment, is within the power of any municipality to remedy, by employing competent valuators as assessors, and, to a large extent, providing for the correction of the errors of judgment that they, as every human being, are liable to make by publication of the assessment roll. This would give ratepayers a chance to compare their own assessments with others on properties whose value they could estimate in comparison with their own. Thus pressure could be brought to bear upon a Court of Revision, to remedy errors, which would otherwise, not be brought to their notice because of the lack of knowledge of the assessment of properties, whose value would," with the publication of the assessment roll be a matter of common knowledge. Peterborough is not alone in suffering for the evils of inequality of assessment. The Ottawa Citizen furnishes concrete examples of inequality of assessments which could, no doubt, be easily matched in Peterborough, if the proper investigation by competent judges of value were made. The Citizen says:

Four properties are concerned. Three of these are one side of a street, one on a corner, and the other two alongside the first. Directly across the street is the fourth. All are within a radius of one hundred yards or thereabouts. The property on the corner is 66 feet by 106. The land is assessed for $1,500, and the building for $7,500, a total of $9,000. The next property, right alongside the corner lot, is some seven or eight feet shorter in depth, the dimensions being 66 by 101. Yet the land is assessed for $2,400 and the building $11,500, the whole assessment being $13,900 for a property smaller and without the window lighting advantages of a corner. Next door again the third property, one 66 by 88 feet, is assessed for $7,500, of which $900 is for the land and $6,600 for the building. This land, as may be seen, is twenty feet shorter than the corner and 132 feet away from the location, yet is only assessed some $600 less than the more advantageous and larger lot. And the land next door is 13 feet longer but pays $1,500 more.

Directly across the street is the fourth property. It measures 89 by 132 feet. The land is assessed for $2,200 and the building for $8,000. Thus the lot which measures 66 by 101 is assessed $200 more than the one which measures 713 more square feet. And this larger property is assessed on a valuation only $700 more than that of a property across the street which measures 552 square feet less.

These figures, as the Citizen suggests, should cause some deep thinking among property owners respecting the equality or rather inequalities and inconsistencies resulting from the prevailing rule-of-thumb mode of assessment. Publication of the assessment roll would be a very important corrective as it would permit the public to see how the value of different properties with which they were familiar, was guessed at in the assessment. The burden of taxation in Peterborough is heavy enough to justify a demand that it should be so equitably distributed, that no one would be unduly taxed and that no one, whether rich or poor should have his taxation lightened at the expense of, perhaps, a poorer neighbour, through error or defective judgment, on the part of assessors. Hundreds of ratepayers suffer from over assessment, through lack of information of the assessment placed on other property similar to their own. As a general rule the assessed ratepayer only knows his own assessment; he has no means of knowing how it compares with that of others, except by laborious search of the roll at the city clerk's office; and perhaps he has not the ability nor the time to leave his work or business to visit the clerk's office while it is open. Publishing the assessment roll in the newspapers or in pamphlet form, would give the ratepayers an opportunity of knowing what they should know in regards to the equality of the incidence of assessment.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Manitoba citizen, writing to Port Hope, says that Hon Mr Roblin does not represent public opinion. That's no news.

Mr. Roblin or Mr. Rogers of Manitoba, as successors to Mr. Borden, suggest the Liberals winning the next general election by acclamation.

Yes, says the Toronto Star, the Ottawa Conservative Opposition is "united" all right. So are the proverbial two cats flung over a clothes line with their tails tied together.

Sir James Whitney says with his usual ultra-politeness, "Fielding cannot get beyond the problem of how to get a bag of potatoes and a bake of fish into Boston market." Mr. Fielding didn't want to get beyond finding a bigger and better market for potatoes and other farm products and fish when he negotiated the reciprocity agreement. That was the business he undertook and he has succeeded as effectively as Sir James has succeeded in more than doubling the expenditures of the province of Ontario in the short space of five years.

The opponents of reciprocity assert that reciprocity has already paralyzed, and will still more paralyse, Canadian manufacturing industries, and turn away the investment of United States' capital. The latest and most important evidence of the truth of this assertion is the fact that the Dain Implement Company of Moline, Iowa, U.S., has acquired 300 acres of land in Welland for the establishment of a mammoth factory plant, on which work will be begun at once. A few more examples added to others of almost daily occurrence, and Mr. Fielding himself will lose faith in reciprocity.

WEDDING BELLS

PEEL—McINNES.

Mr. Wilbert Henry Peel, of Winnipeg, Man., and Miss Ethel McInnes, of Peterborough were united in the holy bonds of matrimony on March 22nd, at 8.30 p.m. in the parsonage of the Rev. Dr. Crummy, 273 Ellice Ave., Winnipeg. Miss Maggie Summers, of Sterling, Ont., an aunt of the bride, was present on the occasion. The happy couple will reside at 546 Williams Ave., Winnipeg.

The bride received a much valued and useful present from the Colonial Weaving Co's employees in the form of silver knives and forks and dessert spoons.

The groom was the recipient of a handsome mantel clock and pearl stick pin from his fellow workers, the electricians.

German Jingoism The Lion In Path Of Universal Peace By Arbitration

(Montreal Witness)

Those who are searching the horizon for causes of separation between Canada and the empire have found new joy for their souls in the vapourings of a German jingo fire-eater, who says the object of the United States is offering remarkably favourable terms to Canada is to disconnect Canada from Great Britain, and set her up as an independent republic. Here is something entirely new. Herr Kanitz has disgorged it from his own anti-British inwardness, for even our own bogey hunters never thought of it. The queer evidence Herr Kanitz, the leader of the German squirocracy, offers for his conclusion with which Champ Clark's annexation speech was welcomed by the House of Representatives. Curious this, that annexation enthusiasm should be an evidence of desiring our independence. We are well aware that Champ Clark, Herr Kanits's alter ego, being the leader of the old squirocracy of Dixie's land, fell into a little 'episodin', as Samanthy Allen used to call it, in the century-old but somewhat trite spread-eagle vein, and that the lapse was greeted with a semi-ironical cheer of the traditional sort. The oldest man living heard in his childhood how every fourth of July, from the village liberty pole the eagle soared and soared until with one foot in the Atlantic and one in the Pacific, it spread its mighty wings from the Gulf to the Pole—quite a remarkable 'squirm' that tackled our early risibles. But for statesmen to found theories of policy on such an antique flourishes as that is either silly or disingenuous.'

Germany is frankly the obstruction in the way of the universal arbitration. But we can readily understand the difficulty of her position in entering into any pact with a country which had ceaselessly claimed supremacy as a condition of her existence. 'If England,' says the German Chancellor, 'came to a world's congress with such a programme she would have to reckon on an almost certain rebuff.' That was indeed just what Great Britain did do when Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was premier. That conciliatory statesman could only say that of course all would acknowledge that it was with none but beneficient intent that Great Britain maintained her necessary power. It seemed like a lame excuse; but there was more in it than that: for everybody knew, that wanted to know, that Britain, least of all nations, could afford to attack any other, and that her fleet was purely for defence. But that whole argument is neutralized by the insolent and constantly repeated word supremacy, which we have always deplored. Matthew Arnold used to say that the English were honourable towards other, and towards dependent, peoples, but that they were not amiable. This saying, and the Anglo-Saxons' Teutonic lack of the dramatic sense which teaches men how a word will strike others, are vividly illustrated by this continued insistence on supremacy, which means a challenge to the whole world, and implies dictation to all other powers. Would it not be better for Britannia to keep, as the Scots say, 'a civil tongue in her head,' and talk defence, not defiance? It is poetic to call the whole of the oceans Britannia's realm, and to call her mistress of the seas, but undeniably it is insolent. This attitude of Germany should give Canadians to see the value to the world of the development of amity between Great Britain and the United States, and their own large responsibility and large interest in the matter.

ELLIOT'S

THE FAMILY HEARTH

GRAPE FRUIT MARMALADE

Cut the grape fruit very thin, remove seeds, which boil in water and strain. To every pint of fruit add two pints of water, using as part of it the water off the seeds. Let stand overnight and in the morning boil one hour. Set aside until next day, put on to boil and meanwhile heat in the oven one pound of sugar for every pint of fruit. When the fruit has boiled half an hour add the heated sugar and boil fifteen minutes. The fruit must be fresh and juicy or the marmalade will not jell.

SIGHTLY DESSERT

Hot toasted crackers buttered, covered with marmalade, and arranged around the outside of a plate with cheese balls heaped in the centre, make a sightly little supper dish for the dessert course. Form cream cheese into balls, and roll the balls in chopped pistachio nuts or mix them with the cheese. The cheese is delicious if mixed with minced sweet red pepper, minced parsley, or any chopped nut. —New York Times.

We may not realize, perchance, what home means to us until seas and mountains separate us from the loved ones—perchance not until sickness and misfortune come—perchance not until the Dreaded Shadow falls upon the threshold and the Raven croaks above the bust of Pallas. But when some tie is snapped and some link is broken and some chair is vacant at the fireside then we realize that the cords which bind us to the homestead are knotted in the bosom's core and centre—then we realize that the poet sang for us and sang for all the world, when he sang beside the Thames:

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

TRIBUTE TO HIS MOTHER

"I owe a great deal to my mother. She was a seamstress, cook, washlady, and never until late in life had a servant in the house. And yet she was a cultivated woman. She read Channing and kept up with the literature of theday. When I was a little tot she used to read good books to me.

"You young women have here every opportunity for literary culture, and you ought to avail yourselves of it. You ought to be very proud with money earned so honourably, for money that is not earned honourably will never do you any good."

The above words were spoken by Mr. Carnegie, the iron-master, while talking to a large company of working girls in New York city. And then this man of unlimited wealth closed by saying:

"I shall never forget how proud I was when I got my first wages of $1.25 a week, and how I felt when I was raised to $1.50 as a telegraph operator. To take home that sum to my good mother gave me such a feeling of manly independence."

* * *

God give us happy homes—pure homes! They may be humble enough: but if love be in them, they will keep the ship of state anchored in serene and peaceful waters. No blot will stain the flag. The laws of the country will be framed in wisdom and upheld in honour. The statesman will be steadfast in the forum. The soldier will be valiant in the fold. The sentinel upon the watch-tower will be faithful in the hour of danger: and all will be well with the republic.

SOME ADVICE TO WIVES

Remember that you are married to a man and not to a god: be prepared for imperfections.

Anticipate the discovery by your husban dthat you are "only a woman": if you were not he would not care about you.

Once in a while let your husband have the last word; it will gratify him and be no particular loss to you.

Be reasonable; it is a great deal to ask under some circumstances, but do try: reasonable women are rare—be rare.

Remember that servants are made of the same material as you are; a little coarser grained, perhaps, but the same in essentials.

Try and forget yourself; as to your husband, forget that you married him, and remember that he married you; he will then probably do the reverse.

Let him read the newspaper at breakfast-table; it is unsociable, but then it is only a trifle after all, and he likes it.

Let him know more than you do once in a while; it keeps up his self-respect, and you will be nor worse for admitting that you are actually infallible.

Read something in the paper besides fashion notes and society columns, have some knowledge of what is going on in foreign countries.

Be a companion to your husband if he is a wise man, and if he is not try to make him become your companion. Raise his standard; do not let him lower yours.

Respect your husband's relations, especially his mother—she is not the less his mother because she is your mother-in-law; she loved him before you did.

* * *

Home! Home! To define this simple English word is to exhaust the resources of metaphor. It is the charmed centre of all existence. It is the golden axle-tree around which all industry—all thought—all feeling rotates. It is the casket of humanity's crown jewels. It is the hive of love's sweet honeycomb for which we hoard and hope and hunger. It is the haven of retreat to which we turn our footsteps when the labors of the day are over. It is our bivouac on the march. It is our well-spring in the desert. It is the anchor which keeps our ships from drifting out to sea. It is the compass which keeps our rudders true to heaven. It is the voice which calls to us across the waters—growing louder and clearer and sweeter with the deepening twilight: "Home, Sweet Home!"

* * *

Hearts are the trump cards in life, and the ticket we must present at the door of heaven. The heart is the bookkeeper of our actions. How do you keep it? Is it clean and pure enough for public inspection, or is it scarred over with bad thoughts and worse deeds. Ah, keep the heart diligently for out of it are the issues of life.

Good woman, try and hit the nail you aim at and not the one on your thumb.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

APRIL 2, 1911.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

1. Who heals Naaman, the Syrian. 2nd Kings, 5.

Golden Text—Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else. Isaiah xlv., 22.

1. Verse 1—Who was Naaman and what were his characteristics?

2. Who was the King of Syria and Israel at this time?

3. Is sickness as likely to come to a great, as to an ordinary man?

4. Verses 2-4—Who was the little maid referred to, and what apparent calamity had befallen her?

5. Do real calamities ever happen to real Christians?

6. Are children as goody or Letter, judges of spiritual truth as their seniors?

7. Is spiritual truth told secondhand as likely to be efficacious as when told with first-hand knowledge?

8. Verses 5-7—Was the King of Syria actuated by selfish or benevolent motives, or both, in sending Naaman to be cured of his leprosy?

9. Is the motive of doing in order to getting necessarily an impure one?

10. What reason had the King of Israel for being afraid when he received the letter from the King of Syria?

11. When is it right, and when wrong, to be suspicious of the actions of others?

21. Is it true that the average man is suspicious, or trustful, of his fellows, and why is it so?

13. What is great generosity in giving to others generally a sign of?

14. Verses 8-12—Do good men exercise their powers for helpfulness to others with reluctance, or willingly, and why is it so?

15. Did Elisha, judged by Christian standards, act with sufficient courtesy in not going out to speak personally to such a noted man as Naaman?

16. Is it right or wrong, and why, to shew more courtesy and deference to noted people than we do to others?

17. To what extent was Naaman either right or wrong in being angry at the scant courtesy shown him by Elisha?

18. Verses 13-14—Why, under the circumstances, was it natural that these servants should be better judges of Elisha's instructions than their master?

19. Why are sinners generally more willing to do some hard thing than they are to comply with God's easy plan for their salvation? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the class.)

20. Verses 15-17—Did Naaman do right in offering a present and did Elisha do right in refusing it, and why?

21. Verses 18-19—What reason is there to think that Naaman was truly converted?

22. Did Elisha approve of Naaman waiting upon his master, the king, while the latter was engaged in idolatrous worship?

23. Verses 20-27—What is your view of the sin of Gehazi and its swift punishment?

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

SAID Love to the young knight: "I am the humble task,
I am the high adventure behind the pinned mask.
I am the fire of youth that fails not with the years.
I am the master of passion and comforter of tears."

—Theodosia Roberts.

A few weeks ago an Italian princess, lady-in-waiting to Queen Helena, was stabbed to death by her lover who immediately afterwards killed himself.

Of course you read about it at the time.

But did you, I wonder, feel, beneath the scandal and—sometimes—of the case, its impressiveness as a testimonial to the primitive, world-wide, not-to-be-denied power of the universal passion?

Just think, these two people, so important in the eyes of the world that the smallest newspaper in the remotest country town chronicled to readers the next morning the details of their love affair, were as powerless in the grip of this passion as the feeblest and least important of mortals.

Of course, it is an old, old story, but as I read the cabled reports of this affair I was impressed anew with it, and wanted to bring it home to you anew.

Yesterday in the park near my home I came upon two young people sauntering along with the arms-in-arm obliviousness of the last stages of heart disease.

To the casual observer they were both thoroughly commonplace, thoroughly uninteresting and thoroughly homely.

He had a wobbly chin, red hair and a somewhat irrupted complexion.

She was thin and sallow, with a large nose, prominent teeth and straight, dark hair that hung in unattractive wisps about her face.

They were both plainly dressed and evidently possessed of but little of this world's goods.

And yet, on the faces of these two eminently commonplace people shone a contentment and a happiness that not the costliest pleasures of earth could have enhanced.

Just think—merely by gazing into each others homely faces and knowing that each was beloved by the other, these two people were finding as great happiness as the richest men and women in the world can have.

Just because you see this sort of thing every day you forget the significance and power of it, but they are there just the same.

We rave of the injustice of the fate that makes it possible for one man to have fine linen and rich food and magnificent home and limousines and finely bred horses, jewels, fawns, and leisure, while another spends long toilsome hours each day to earn enough to keep himself and his family from starvation.

Ah, but suppose fate had let all these things be evenly distributed, but had given to one man the power to feel this strange overpowering happiness and withheld it from another.

Wouldn't that have been a much less happy state of affairs?

Supose we had to buy this happiness such as those humble folk felt and the Princess lost. What great store we should set upon it. What high prices it would bring.

But now that it is "without money and without price," do we half apreciate it?

I wonder.

Forgive me if you do not like this whimsical strain, but if you do, go beyond what I have said and dream and wonder with me.

Ruth Cameron

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

(Copr. 1909 by Bradley-Garretson Co., Ltd.)

I have of late lost all my mirth, forgone
All custom of exercise.
Hamlet, Act II., Sc. II.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is a very old adage. Shakespeare was undoubtedly not a dull boy, and the most casual reading of his dramas will show that his boyhood days were not entirely spent in the Stratford Grammar School and his father's shop. He was a very human boy, familiar with every form of boyish games and exercises. The "Sports of Shakespeare" would make a large volume if treated exhaustively. He has numerous allusions to hunting, coursing, angling, swimming; to tennis, bowling, wrestling, archery and other manly games and sports. His allusions are never far-fetched nor incongruous. They fit naturally into the warp and woof of his dialogue. The allusions to coursing the hare; to fencing, as in "Hamlet"; to swimming, as in "Julius Cæsar" and the "Tempest"; to hunting and to hunting dogs, as in the "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "As You Like It"; to bowling, as in "Coriolanus" and "The Taming of the Shrew"—are the allusions of a man familiar with the things referred to.

One illustration will be sufficient. Bowling is one of the most ancient sports. In Elizabeth's day it was almost the national game of England. Shakespeare frequently uses it to enforce a thought. In "Coriolanus," he says, "Like to a bowl upon a subtle ground, I have tumbled past the throw"; in "The Taming of the Shrew" he illustrates a point by saying, "Thus the bowl should run, and not unluckily against the bias." Much of the healthy outdoor spirit that pervades Shakespeare's plays is no doubt due to his personal familiarity with manly sports. No mere student or scholar could have written any of his dramas.

Games play an important part in national life. Study a nation's games and an excellent judgment can be formed of its character. The Anglo-Saxons are largely the result of their sports; what other people can compare with the Anglo-Saxons in the matter of outdoor sports, and what other people can compare with them in adventurous daring and true manliness? In their colleges and schools and on their village greens they have learned "to play the game," and it has hardened their muscles and braced their wills for the greater game of life. The heroes of England have been made on the playgrounds of such schools as Rugby and Eton. Football and cricket have taught the youths of Great Britain manliness and chivalry towards opponents. It is necessary to visit other races to find concealed weapons or to fear a blow in the dark.

Hamlet complained that he had lost all his mirth, and followed it up by saying that he had forgone all custom of exercises. The melancholy Dane would have been less melancholy had he mounted his horse and taken a brisk gallop with the hounds or, instead of philosophising on life and death, on friendship and action, had he played a neighborly game of bowls with Horatio or even old Polonius he would have seen the world and his times in a brighter light. At any rate he should never have allowed himself to get into such a physical condition that he could be described as "fat and scant of breath." That is bad enough in an old man, but for a young man it is disgraceful; no wonder that he had of late lost all his mirth. Games and sports keep the spirit young and the heart light. The music of nature and the sunlight o the open fields become part of a man who lives to some extent an open-air life. The furrows ploughed by Father Time come late to the brow of one who enters enthusiastically into sports while he may.

Games are after all a species of work, but they are work from which ordinarily the element of pain has been eliminated. They are played mainly for pleasure and honour. They too, generally give a man a change of occupation, and that is the highest form of rest. They give strength to the arm, activity to the muscles, and keenness to the eye. An education in sports is as essential to a man as intellectual training. Without a sound body, a sound mind is almost impossible.

Sports give self-confidence and self control. The swimmer feels himself master of the sea; the hunter delights in his mastery of his powerful servant, the horse. In contests in the field, the playful battle, the mimic warfare teaches the contestants to give and receive knocks, to take victory modestly and bear defeat with a patient mind. There is, of course danger of sports becoming brutal. Hunting is often mere slaughter; games are often practically struggles of professional gladiators. But as a whole hunting is practised for the invigorating pleasure of the chase; games are indulged in in the spirit of friendly rivalry, and the cheer at the close by victor and vanquished alike is the spontaneous expression of hearts made manly by sports. The custom of physical exercise gives health to the limbs and a mirth to the mind that is in every way salutary. A nation of athletes cannot but be a happy, generous, and a wise nation.

Girl's Ready-to-wear Hats

Exclusive Styles Moderately Priced

When in New York our millinery buyer procured a beautiful collection of Girl's Ready-to-wear Hats at wonderfully low prices.

The assortment includes all the newest and most approved styles in large, medium and small hats, conspicuous among these are the rolling brim, rustic straws, the small close-fitting turbans, the plain rustic straw sailors with rolling brims, and Panama sailors trimmed with scarfs

These pretty hats are distinctive, original and rich in the production of those little style touches that are the expression of exclusiveness and mark the height of millinery value.

There is a style for every girl, and the prices are particularly interesting.

Do not delay choosing, as the showing will not be so complete later on. You will be well repaid by a visit of inspection to our millinery showrooms.

Should A Girl Tell Her Past?

This Correspondent Says "Yes"

Don't you think the woman who goes to a man without telling him of her "past," assuming she has one, runs a great risk of losing him after marriage, than if she had told him everything? Is it necessary that she tell the man she is about to marry of her past, when she is so unfortunate as to have one?

Such in substance is the query propounded by Ruth Cameron, in her "Evening Chit-Chat" paragraphs which appeared in the Peterborough Examiner of March 28 and 29.

Let me try to answer this question from the point of view of a mere man. I opine that in the great majority of cases, it would be better by far for a girl who may have committed an error to frankly tell the man to whom she is hoping to be married before, rather than after marriage, and thereby will she have the opportunity of appraising the depth of a true man's love and devotion. Many waters do not quench Love, and Love is the law of the world. Love is the one thing of God in an almost godless world. You cannot conquer Love? Love is stronger than death itself. The soul can be no more satisfied without Love than can the body. There are the laws of life and death, but there are also the laws of Love. And without the laws of Love the universe would cease to be.

How, or when, or under what circumstances or conditions a girl should make confessions of her fault to the man she loves, and who loves her, must perforce depend greatly on the natures and temperaments of both the man and the woman. There are some proud natures, who like the Spartan boy, will hide the fox that gnaws at their heart. But instinct in a woman is stronger than knowledge in a man, and her manly natural they will usually indicate to her the right time and conditions under which to open out her heart in confession, hard though it be to her.

A woman with a past? How many there are at whom the finger of scorn has been pointed for some weakness, not always the fault of the poor, too confiding girl. Surely the sin of commission is less than that of omission; and should there not be as much—nay even more—forgiveness, meted out for the warm hearted one who has loved "not wisely, but too well," rather than for the iceberg, who marrying without love, freezes up a kind man's love, wrecks possibly his life, and who is ignorant in short, of what Love means? Possibly, for my opinions, I shall be pointed at by the virtuous woman who has never fallen because the temptation has never assailed. Well, if so, I must of necessity, grin and bear it.

Should a woman tell a man? Yes! I say; but oh! the agony of it. Imagine if you can, ye women, the agony of mind possessed by a girl who has to make such a confession to the man she adores and worships above all with, in the world? Imagine the slow, secret, consuming, agony of doubt and suspense — the alternate shame and dread of hopelessness—the nights of slow, sleepless torture—the horrow of unshared misery. It is a test severe enough to tax the mind of the strongest man. Yet all this has to be gone through by a frail and gentle woman. Fortunately it is impossible to fix limits as to what we can bear until the time comes for one to bear it. We speak of sorrow. We look on it, we theorise about it and we think of it or fancy it. But, not until it touches us individually, can we form any estimate of its pain, of its power. Such suffering in a good minded woman is the baptism of a new life; not one of them could live through such a period of agonised suspense and not be changed into almost a new existence.

We men are apt to expect an absolutely spotless past with those we love. Should we sit harshly in condemnation I should like to know. How many of us could go to the girl we worship—even if only from afar off—with clean hands? We may be honest and sober and "respectable" enough, but ——— How could the majority of us answer—truthfully—the pure, loving, sweet face we adore when asked about our past? God be thanked that they spare us this. A loving woman overlooks a man's past in consideration of the qualities in him which command her admiration and respect; and in the hope of his future true and indivisible love. And in return for this he will gain her undivided love, and the undivided love of a woman—not of a school girl—is a thing very few men are really fit to get. It is her loyalty and devotion, her boundless capacity to forgive, her willingness to stand by the man to whom she has given her heart, through weal and woe, in good report or evil report—aye down to the pits of shame and disgrace, that saves US a confession. No human plummet, has sounded the depths of a woman's devotion; no surveyors chain will ever mark the limits of a woman's faithful, patient endurance, and only the wings of an archangel can transcend that pinnacle to which the sublime principle of self sacrifice exalts a woman's soul.

Should a woman tell a man? Again I say, yes! But, oh! ye men, let her down easily.

"Take her up tenderly, lift her with care.
"Fashioned so slenderly, young and so fair."

For men, as a general rule, are sympathetic and tender to the poor, wandering soul who has erred. Here in we have seen Jesus, even ever so humbly in His steps as witnessed in His treatment of the woman of Samaria's well, and the fainted sinner, Mary Magdalene. What sublime lessons may be learned from the reading of the gospel narrative anent this latter woman.

Yes, let the erring girl confess her repented pass. If the man be a man, and not a thing, then will he have an opportunity of showing his manhood and make the most of the girl he loves. And should he turn her down, then let her thank God that she has found out the measure of his iron (?) before it was too late. And well it is for her that she has to own up to a man; for truly, the sins for which she has no sympathy, never found harsher judgment meted out to them than when it is a fellow woman who pronounces judgment.

ECZEMA IS CURABLE

In Every Case Where Our Remedy Fails It Is Supplied Free of all Cost

In making this statement we back it up with our promise that if our remedy does not substantiate our claims in every particular, we will without question or quibble return every cent you paid us for it. We take all the risk—you take none.

We strongly recommend Rexall Eczema Ointment, which possesses remarkable cleansing, antiseptic, germicidal, soothing and healing qualities. It is a grayish-white emolient, with a pleasant odour, and very cleanly for use. The first application produces a refreshing sense of relief, and it quickly subsides and overcomes the inflammation, irritation and discharge when present.

It is intended to be applied with a piece of muslin or linen, or it may be applied and allowed to dry in. It affords very prompt relief for pimples, blotches, discolourations, ringworm, acne, tetter, barbers' itch, ulcers, insect bites, nettle rash, hives, sores and wounds.

Rexall Eczema Ointment relieves itching and irritation of the feet. It is ideal for the treatment of children who are tormented with itching, burning and disfiguring skin diseases. Try a box at our risk. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, it is only sold at our store,—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury.

DEPARTING CITIZENS

Were Entertained at Home of Mr. Whiffin

A very enjoyable social evening was spent at the home of Mr. Whiffin, Antrim street, the occasion being a farewell to Lieut. Minore and Lieut. Whiffin. The evening was spent in music, singing, etc., and also some very excellent guitar selections by the departing lieutenants, who proved to be very efficient in that respect.

Ensign and Mrs. Merritt, commanding officer of the local corps were present to bid farewell and God speed to the departing guests. Dainty refreshments were served, after which the departing guests left on the midnight train for their respective positions. Lieut. Minore will be attached to a corps in Stellarton, Nova Scotia, and Lieut. Whiffin will accept a similar position in Annapolis, Nova Scotia. A party of their friends accompanied them to the station and gave them a hearty send off.

MAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Is physical strength and bodily health. The bread winner cannot afford to give out.

It is a vital necessity that he keep his nervous and muscular system in good condition to withstand the daily wear and tear of life.

Those who are run-down, weakened or nervous should remember that nothing excels Vinol, which is a combination of the medicinal elements of the cod's liver and tonic iron, to strengthen the digestive organs, create an appetite, make new blood and restore strength.

Prof. James Mitchell of Jasper, Ont., says his system was run-down to a critical point from overwork. A friend told him to take Vinol. He did so and is now enjoying perfect health and he considers Vinol a wonderful tonic. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, over-worked, weak person in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim.

POST CARD COLUMN

Peterborough, March 30, '11.

Sir,—There is little fault to find in your paper, but last night's editorial "your opportunity" strikes as a mere advertisement. The post office monopoly is one of the chief reasons of the cost of living, and few of the offices are fit for business. Compared with the banks they are expensive, untidy and inefficient. Your advertisers are to be trusted, with one or two exceptions, and as you give stock brokers ads. you would interest your readers by giving the prices from the exchanges; but you don't have to.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HOLD A SOCIAL EVENING

A Good Programme Was Provided, Followed by Refreshments—Played Progressive Euchre

The concert given last night in the Castle Hall under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias was in every detail worthy of the occasion, and the executive committee who had charge of the arrangements deserve to be congratulated on its success. It would be invidious to select any number for special appreciation in a programme that was so uniformly good. The talent was the best that could be secured, and the programme in general was well rendered and highly appreciated by the large gathering present. Following is the full of fare that was provided, a glance over which, would satisfy the most fastidious as to the respective merits of each number:

Overture—Halpenny's orchestra.
Solo—Bro. Allen.
Banjo solo—Bro. Clarke.
Quartette—Messrs. Murphy, Harold Writz and Parker.
Reading—Mr. Johns.
Solo—Mr. Halpenny.
Instrumental—Miss J. Quinn.
Quartette — Messrs. Greenslade, Moore, Wickenson and Gilbert.
Solo—Mrs. Greenslade.
Duet—Messrs. Murphy and Harold.

Nearly all of these numbers were heartily encored and responded to. By special request Mr. Halpenny gave a couple of well rendered selections that were not entered on the above programme.

Refreshments were then served, after which the remainder of the evening was devoted to progressive euchre.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

Lyman Abbott, in an essay written many years ago, entitled "Hints for People that do not read," laid down the following rules in regard to the study of books: "(1) Begin with what is congenial. Choose not what you ought to know, but what you want to know. Therefore let no one else choose for you. It is a rare mind that can keep itself to a course of disagreeable study. It is not safe for anyone to assume, without proof, that he has a rare mind. (2) Begin with a short course. Do not lay out for history, Hume, Macaulay and Miss Martineau, with the idea that when you have finished these fifteen volumes you will be well versed in English history. That is very true, but you will never finish them. Read one thing at a time, and that short and simple. (3) Buy a dictionary, an atlas and if possible, an encyclopedia. If you have not the money, make over an old bonnet. No harm will be done if it cultivates a habit of making over old bonnets." Equipped with dictionary, atlas and a cyclopedia, never pass a word you do not know, nor a geographical situation that you do not comprehend.

It perhaps strikes few people that the romance of reality is far more strange, and far more interesting than the romance of fiction. Even in what some people would call the dry-as-dust study of books there is a wonderful wealth of enchanting facts that are capable of rousing the most intense interest and of turning the most soulless creature of clay to a being of alert mind and spirituality. Think of it. Elihu Burritt in the few pauses of his work at the blacksmith's forge, learned his first languages. Mary Somerville, author of the "Mechanism of the Heavens," wrought out her great work in the bustle of a nursery; Dr. Schliemann, whose splendid work some thirty years ago, as a Greek explorer, made him world famous, started life as an errand boy in Amsterdam, and whilst waiting in the line for his turn to be called, studied everything that he could find. Sir Alexander Bull made it a rule always to have a book on his dressing table, so that he might even there snatch a few sentences from whatever work he chanced to have in hand. Boys of Peterborough, if you need something to hearten you for the battle of life, read "Smiles' Self Help." It is a wonderfully interesting book, full of anecdotes of men and women, who, starting from the humblest beginnings, made themselves famous in every branch of human endeavour. Read everything that Dr. Smiles wrote; that deals with the activities of life. He was a busy man, Secretary of one of the great railway lines of England; yet he found time to pen the Lives of the Engineers, as well as those other splendid works with forbidding titles, "Duty," "Character" and "Thrift". Gladstone once said that he had found the greatest help from reading Smiles' works, and if such a famous man as he could find it helpful, how much more can those of us who are still at the foot of the ladder?

The Hearts Of Her Children Are Still True To Old Home Town

EDMONTON ECHOES OF THE PEOPLE'S CHIMES

"In flame by distance made more sweet"—Collins

The following most interesting communication, accompanied by a cheque, has been received by Rev Canon Davidson:

My Dear Mr. Davidson,—Half a dozen of us, here, in Edmonton, who have watched, with interest, the movement to provide chimes for St John's, ask you to accept the enclosed small contribution to this good cause.

It is only a mite, but it may serve to prove to you and to our other friends in Peterborough that the hearts of her children are still true to the old home town. We want to have even this small part in the great movement to add to her beauty and attractiveness. Each adds its word.

With kind regards and best wishes
Yours sincerely,
E. B. Edwards.

Edmonton, March 27, 1911.

C. S. Wallis.

My father and mother took a deep interest in St. John's in the days gone by, and had a share in the erection and completion of the building, and in furnishing its first bell.

My own early associations still bind me to the old church.

The placing of chimes in its tower shows that the spirit of the Peterborough people of to-day is not unworthy of their beautiful city, and that they are ready to follow in the footsteps of the pioneers who built the church so many years ago.

I am glad to have a small share in providing the chimes.

Harold B. Burnham.

My grandfather was at one time Rector of St. John's. This should be enough to give me an interest in the Chimes movement.

Added to this, as one of Peterborough's "Old Boys" I am proud of the old town, and spite of the distance that separates us, I am interested, on my own account, in everything that tends to bring her fresh distinction. The Chimes will mean much for the City as a whole, as well as for the Church. I count it a privilege to be a sharer even to a small extent, in the good movement.

E. W. Cox.

My father's long connection with St. John's, my own early associations with it, cause me to take great interest in the movement to provide Chimes for the beautiful old church.

As one of her "Old Boys" I wish to remember Peterborough, and St. John's church, particularly.

Every success to the Chimes!

F. W. Cox.

I can never forget the way that old bell of St. John's rang out every Sunday morning and evening, calling everyone to church, whether they went to St. John's or wherever they went.

I will give my little contribution for the Chimes with great pleasure.

W. C. Bradburn.

Peterborough is doing the right thing to have a grand set of Chimes in old St. John's. We may be far away off here, in Edmonton, but we think a good deal of the old Town yet.

I am glad to have the opportunity of giving something towards the Chimes.

E. B. Edwards.

No bells that I have ever heard have sounded quite as sweet in my ears as the faithful old bells of St. John's and St. Peter's. It may be that the recollections of early boyhood, deepening as the years have passed by, may sufficiently account for this preference. There is something more, however. When I was a boy I heard it said that people of all churches helped to buy the bell for St. John's, and the Protestants and Catholics alike contributed to the purchase of the bell of St. Peter's.

Certain it is that they have faithfully served all alike for many a long year.

And now the Chimes will create fresh memories for the boys who shall grow up within sound of them in the years to come, and will serve through their beautiful harmony to bind still closer together the people of all classes and creeds, in loyalty to the one Lord and Master, whom they proclaim, and in loyalty to the beautiful "Home Town".

(Extract from letter of Mrs. Stewart, grandmother of Mrs. Edwards, to Miss Wilson, dated March 1st, 1896, as contained in "Our Forest Home").

"Our new church will be ready for service in May or June. I fear the funds are not sufficient to finish it properly at present. I believe the Managers have some intention of applying at home for help, as ye have seen in the papers accounts of some subscriptions towards churches in Canada, and I think as several years ago there were 75 pounds collected for us by our own near family and friends, there might be some addition made for the same purpose by the public."

Out-of-town donations have been received from Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davidson, of Toronto.

Four small children of a local family have sent in donations.

Children's contributions have, in fact, already added considerably to the fund, which now amounts in cash to $5,740, with about $200 of subscriptions not yet paid in.

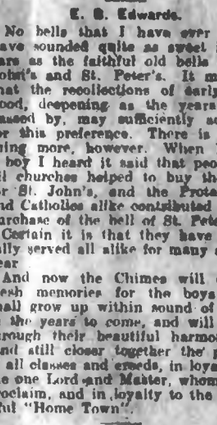
Why it will pay you to buy INVICTUS SHOES



You'll know the difference between good and bad leather only after you've worn it.

It's then that the inferior leather shows its defects, both in looks and wearing qualities.

When you buy a pair of shoes you are at the mercy of the maker.

If he puts inferior leather into them he's going to lose your future trade.

But, if he uses good, high grade, selected leather, it means that your purchases won't stop with the one pair—you'll become a permanent buyer.

Men who buy one pair of INVICTUS Shoes keep on using them from year to year.

The Sheffield Choir Which Appears at The Grand Opera House on Monday Evening

WHEN THE SHEFFIELD CHOIR SANG IN COMMONS

The House was idly wading through the rivers of supply;
The criticism sleepy, and the wells of talk were dry,
And even Mr. Foster, with his dinky bowler hat,
Was tired of asking questions about this thing and that;
When from the upper gallery, with mighty verve and vim,
Pealed forth the strains "O Canada," our one and only hymn.

Then even Billy Paterson, his whitened beard did stroke,
While Graham paused in telling the latest Brockville joke,
And walls which lately echoed the angry shouts of "liar"
Flung back the noble music of the famous Sheffield choir.

For once the House of Commons was held in silent thrall,
And voted that a "COWARD" was the "daddy of them all."

O Yorkshire lads and lassies from grimy Sheffield town,
Where the smoke-stacks rise to heaven and the pallid factories frown,
You have a nation's welcome beneath these northern skies,
You silver-throated thrushes with the homeland melodies.
The memory of your visit will linger with us long;
You weavers of the Empire with the golden threads of song.

J SYDNEY ROE.

SHEFFIELD CHOIR BANQUETED

Mr. Walter Stocker received the following dispatch this morning from Ottawa:

"His Excellency Earl Grey received the Sheffield Choir at the Government House this afternoon. On Thursday next, at 4.30 p.m., they will be entertained by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Gibson at the Government House, Toronto. To-night they are banquetted by the Mayor and City of Ottawa, and will lunch with the Mayor and City of Toronto next Wednesday."

A splendid number of attractions has been arranged for the Grand Opera House during the next few weeks, as the following list, which is by no means complete, will show:

Monday, April 3.—Sheffield Choir.
Wednesday, April 5.—Wm. Faversham in "The Faun."
April 8.—"Montana."
April 10.—"Polly of the Circus."
April 12.—George Sidney in "The Joy-Rider."
Good Friday.—Return engagement of "The Rosary."
April 28.—"The House of the Thousand Candles."
April 25—"The Honeymoon Trail."
April 29.—"The Private Secretary."
May 25.—"Madame Sherry."
May 27.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Margaret Anglin, the famous actress, will be seen here about the middle of May.

TRIED EVERYTHING THEN D. D. D. CURED

This was the experience of Mrs. Geo. Newman, of Orangeville, Ont. She wrote in Jan. 1910:

"I was terribly troubled with eczema on my face, neck and hands for four years. I tried everything I had heard tell of, then saw your advertisement in the paper, sent for a trial bottle of D.D.D., used it on my face and got well. It is now two years and no return of the eczema. I consider I am cured and it certainly was a blessing to me."

No matter how terribly you suffer from eczema, salt rheum, ringworm or any other skin disease, you will feel instantly soothed and the itch relieved at once when a few drops of this compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, etc., is applied. The cures all seem to be permanent, too.

CHILD CRIMINALS ARE JUST LITTLE SAVAGES

Sheriff Hall's Interesting Address to the Women's Christian Temperance Union at Yesterday's Meeting.

SHOULD BE EDUCATED

The W.C.T.U. held their meeting in the Public Library lecture Hall, with a good attendance of members and a few visitors. The names of two honourary and one regular member were voted upon and accepted.

The department of prison and police work, under the able superintendency of Mrs. Ellis, reported good work being done in our jail, literature being supplied for the prisoners and copies of the New Testament, that may be carried in the pocket are being placed in the hands of each prisoner.

The Sunday schools of the city are requested to appoint a secretary of temperance, whose duties are outlined in the notice which will be sent to all schools.

Mrs. S. Armstrong conducted the devotional period, giving a very practical talk from Paul's letter to the Ephesians 4th chapter.

Sheriff Hall's address upon 'Juvenile Crime' was very much appreciated.

"There are no child criminals," said the speaker. "They are just little savages, and need treatment somewhat similar to that which would be considered proper for little heathens. The changes that time has produced in the viewpoint of crime both as to what was criminal and the punishment attached, were illustrated from history.

"At the present time, the punishment has to do with the offender, more than with the crime. The idea is to save the criminal—reform him if possible. The cause of crime among young boys, says an authority, is not to be laid to the charge of societies, but fathers. To-day women are holding almost all the positions that have control of boys, consequently if boys do not get the companionship and help that their nature demands from some man, one who has been a boy and knows boys, in their home, they do not get it.

"The work that is being done by the Children's Aid, the Barnardo Homes and schools like Mimico, was to be commended. The best thing for a boy was to prevent the necessity of his being sent to any institution."

The law concerning children's court was also read.

BORDEN'S APPEAL

"Come all ye good Conservatives, and ponder long and deep
On some constructive policy, the Empire safe to keep;
For Wilfrid's revel Liberals are traitors to the core,
And we must save the Union Jack, as oft we done before."

"To talk of annexation now will serve the Empire's cause,
That bubble's gone and busted up, 'twas made of flimsy gauze;
Oh, ain't it a woeful plight when reason is the test,
And cuckoos at this time of day must to build their nest?"

"Farewell the good old days of old, when all required was prate
Of loyalty and jingo gush to make a statesman great;
For John Canuck is wiser now than when he was a child,
And has no use for fairy tales and mental bogies wild."

"No further use are loyal songs and good old party cries,
If that's our only armament no more to power we'll rise,
For Wilfrid's gone and proved to John that TALKS no earthly use,
So we must get to work, my friends, if we would wear his shoes."

"From base intrigue with Uncle Sam we must withdraw our glance,
And try to learn something about the budget and finance;
Oh, what a treadmill it will be to face financial facts,
Instead of annexation scares and rebel Naval Acts."

"So come, ye good Conservatives, and try as best you can
Some great constructive policy along with me to plan,
Perhaps, we may devise some scheme that will take Johnny's eye,
And I may be Prime Minister—who knows—before I die."

CLAIRVOYANT TELLS OF MURDER CONFESSION

Atlantic City Boardwalk Medium Swears Man Told the Circumstances Under Which He Murdered His Wife.

AN INTERESTING STORY

May's Landing, N. J., March 30.—Testimony of an Atlantic City boardwalk clairvoyant, charging that William H. Strong, of Nesco, near Hammonton, had confessed to her in the course of a "reading" that he had murdered his wife, was admitted today in the trial of Strong, despite vigorous opposition from his counsel. They denounced the witness as a hypnotist utilizing that power to exploit her own business and lead their client to make statements suggested by the woman while he was under her spell. Lawyers engaged in the case assert that this is the first instance in New Jersey, and so far as they know, in the history of criminal jurisprudence in the United States where such evidence has been admitted.

To the defendant and his attorneys the calling of "Mme. Gerard" or Mrs. Pauline Edler, for the State, was a surprise, and Strong was placed on the stand before Mrs. Edler was allowed to testify. He declared that she had obtained an influence over him at a previous "reading," and when he returned to her pavilion next to the Hotel Rudolf, at her request, on Nov. 7th last, she had directed how he should sit, where he should place his feet and then, taking his hand in hers, had talked to him of the murder of his wife.

The clairvoyant, Strong stated, went over all the details of his domestic life she had been able to pick up, dwelling on how good a wife Mrs. Strong had been, how she had helped him to save money, had returned kindness for ill-treatment, and finally Mrs. Edler pointed at him and cried:

"You killed your wife!"

A deathly illness came over Strong at this, he declared, and he remembered nothing further of the interview with the woman. He said it was weeks later before he recovered from the shock. Two detectives were hidden in the medium's pavilion where they could hear all that was said, it was brought out later.

Judge Trenchard, after hearing argument, denied the motion to exclude Mrs. Edler from the witness stand. She cooly replied to the questions of Strong's counsel, asserting that by "psychometerizing," as she called it, she was able to take a key or similar possessions of a client and read what had taken place in the subject's past. She declared that she had no knowledge of hypnotism.

"Strong came to me on November 3rd for a reading," Mrs. Edler said, "and was accompanied by a neighbor, Mrs. D. B. Reed. For an hour I answered his questions. I saw in a vision a tragedy enacted, but because Mrs. Reed was with him I did not let him know. I told him I would write for him to come again, when I would tell him more. The Public Prosecutor, Mr. Goldenberg, learned that Strong had been to see me, and arranged to have two detectives in the room.

"I wrote to Strong, and when he came, he had me answer a list of questions he had left with me, during which time I told him that the man who killed his wife had been with her frequently, wore glasses occasionally, had light, mixed hair, and sat up with the corpse. Then I said:

"'Mr. Strong, I have some more to tell; I have not told you all I know. I described the man who killed his wife, and he cried:

"'That is me!'

"Yes," I said quietly, "You killed her." Then he broke down, and cried 'Isn't it awful; It's terrible! What shall I do? What shall I do?'"

"Then Strong became so weak I had to help him into a rocker, but after a while he calmed himself and began talking, seeming anxious to unburden his mind. He said that on the day of the murder he went home from Elwood after selling his chickens, and found his wife sewing. She found fault with him, he said, because he did not get more money for the chickens, and they began to quarrel about how he would leave his property in his will. She made some remark about his brother getting it all. Mr. Strong told me, which enraged him, and in a fit of passion he grabbed her by the throat, choking her until her tongue protruded.

"Fearing she would revive and tell the neighbors, he said, he carried her out to the shed, where he battered her face with a grubbing hoe to make sure she was dead. Then he went to tell the neighbors.

"'My God isn't it awful? Isn't it a terrible thing? What shall I do?' he said. I told him Mell, as he called his wife, wanted him to tell the truth about it. He asked me again what he should do, and I said, 'Mr. Strong, just do what you think best.' That was the last that I saw of him, for he was arrested the next day."

The court room was crowded, women predominating.

WANTS THE CONCESSION ST. DRAIN FILLED IN

At last night's meeting of the Board of Works, Mr. Ed. Courtney was present and addressed the Board to urge the advisability of filling in the drain on Concession street, north of Douro street.

Ald. Anderson, who introduced Mr. Courtney, remarked that the people of that section regarded such a course as a necessity. As it was at present the drain was not only an eye-sore, but a danger as well. The ditch took up twenty-six feet of the roadway. Scarcely any water came down the drain and he was sure that an eighteen inch pipe would be sufficient to carry it away. The people would fill up a great part of the drain themselves if the Council would put the pipe in at once.

Mr. Courtney stated that the drain had been a grievance to him for over twenty years, but he had borne it patiently, realizing that it was necessary to carry away the water. Three years ago, however, a sewer had been built that accomplished this purpose and the Concession street drain was not required. It was a source of danger and annoyance and he thought the Council should take some action. He agreed with Ald. Anderson that an 18-inch pipe would be sufficient.

The matter was referred to the City Engineer to report.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Allow me to draw the attention of your readers to an event of great importance in the musical life of our city. I refer to the visit on Monday night of the Sheffield Choir.

This magnificent organization will number 225 strong and will give a programme of considerable diversity. The members have been required to sign a contract to attend 16 rehearsals before leaving on their world tour—such a fact should show the possibilities of their work — especially when it is under the guidance of one of the greatest choral conductors of the day. I have taken the liberty of suggesting as numbers on their programme two choruses from Handel's "Messiah" namely "And the Glory of the Lord" and "The Hallelujah Chorus." These numbers call for a treatment not to be expected from a small organization, and from such as the Sheffield Choir will be a revelation to many.

It is commendable on the part of those having the local concert in charge that they should trust an engagement involving the largest guarantee ever made to any visiting organization, and I hope for the good name of our city the Sheffield choir will be met with a crowded house. I understand, they only visit Peterborough between Ottawa and Toronto, having originally decided to visit Belleville and giving Peterborough the go-by. It is fortunate that this is not so, for the fame of Peterborough, musically, is now too prominent.

An outstanding feature of their visit is that Dr. Elgar—the greatest living English composer—will conduct some of the concerts, and it may well be assumed the choir is an aggregation of great merit, when Dr. Elgar consents to become identified with it in the position of conductor.

Every choir member should make it his or her care to hear this choir and the result will be apparent in our church work for years to come.

Yours truly,
JOHN CRANE.

NATURALLY VIOLENT.

That Camorrists Are Not Cold-Blooded, Says Leader.

Viterbo, April 1.—Dressed in deep mourning for his brother, who died in prison, Enrico Alfano, alias Erricone, head of the Neapolitan Camorra, the greatest criminal organization in the world, took the witness stand in the Camorrist trials yesterday for interrogation at the hands of President Biscardi of the Assize Court.

He stoutly maintained his innocence of the murder of Gennaro Cuocollo and his wife.

Erricone said that Abbatemaggio's tale of secrets confided to him by other Camorrists was absurd. "Abbatemaggio," he said, "was considered a spy of the police. He went into the game having nothing to fear. When I was arrested he took possession of and sold the harnesses in my stables."

In emphasizing what he called the absurdities of Abbatemaggio's accusations, Erricone instanced the gay return from Torre del Greco of the alleged assassins, after the murder of Cuocolo. He told of the gathering of friends at the railway station to say farewell to Ibello and of their drinking together. "Even," said he, "if we were wild animals, was it possible for us to act like this after murdering a man and while preparing to murder his wife. This is savagery which only a criminal mind—like that of Abbatemaggio could conceive."

Erricone then described how Abbatemaggio tried to blackmail him by threatening to make revelations against him. Erricone consulted a lawyer, who said that if he were acquased, his acquittal would be certain, but that if he was arrested he would have to remain in prison for several years before his case came on trial. Therefore, the witness said, he decided to escape and told of his flight to America via Marseilles, Paris and Havre, and of his identification by Lieut. Petrosino, and of his extradition to Italy.

Erricone ended his testimony with a vigorous appeal to the jury, saying that the jurors must consider that the accused men are sons of Vesuvius, are as God made them—quick-tempered and ready for recourse to violence when provoked, but incapable of committing a terrible murder like that of Cuocolo and his wife.

TISDALE IS DEAD.

Once Member of Tupper's Cabinet In Dominion House.

Simcoe, April 1.—Col. David Tisdale of this town died here last night at nine o'clock in his 76th year.

Hon. Lt.-Col. David Tisdale, K.C., was a native of Ontario, having been born in Norfolk County on Sept. 8, 1835. His father was a U. E. Loyalist, and took part in the battles of Queenston Heights and Lundy's Lane. Col. Tisdale, who was educated at the Simcoe Grammar School, married in 1868 Sarah Walker. He was called to the Bar in 1858 and appointed a Q.C. in 1872. He was reeve and councillor of Simcoe for several years, and also served on the Norfolk County Council. He entered the militia in 1861, and was in command of the 39th Norfolk Rifles, retiring in 1876.

Col. Tisdale's first attempt in politics was an unsuccessful run for the constituency of North Norfolk in the Commons in 1874. He was elected for the same riding at the next election in 1887, and at the elections of 1891, 1896 and 1900. At the general election of 1904 he was returned for the combined County of Norfolk, retiring from Parliament in 1908.

Col. Tisdale was appointed Minister of Militia in the Tupper Cabinet in 1896, going out of office on the defeat of the Government. He was a member of the Privy Council.

A Terrible Voyage.

Seattle, April 1.—The Japanese schooner Choln Maru, sent from Yokohama to the South Sea Islands, had a terrible voyage, during which five men died of scurvy. Twenty others were grisly emaciated when the schooner put into Yokohama just before the sailing of the Awa Maru for Seattle, according to reports brought by that steamship, which has just arrived.

After a call in the Carolines, the schooner left Parao Island on Jan. 9 for Japan, and soon encountered a hurricane. She drifted aimlessly about the Southern Seas for a month, the crew of 25 being short of rations, but one cup of water a day for each man.

On Feb. 16 the water was exhausted, and the unfortunates used salt water. One after another, five of the crew succumbed to the scurvy, the captain and one other dying within sight of home. The survivors were literally skin and bone, and doctors were sent on board to carry them from the vessel.

New Cruiser for Australia.

Sydney, N.S.W., April 1.—The Commonwealth has decided to increase its fleet by one cruiser and three destroyers. Messrs. Pearce and Fisher are expected at the Imperial Conference to make a strenuous plea for a comprehensive Imperial scheme of naval defence.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Rembrandt's picture, "The Mill," will be sent to the United States.

The customs revenue for the fiscal year just closed amounted to $72,343,866, an increase of $12,240,930 over that of the preceding year.

The Japanese armored cruiser Kurama and the protected cruiser Tone left for England to represent Japan at the coronation of King George.

The absurdity of the idea of Canadian annexation to the U.S. was discussed by Ralph Smith, M.P., in an address before the Canadian Club of Boston, last night.

Otto Ringling of circus fame, died at New York last night, as the big show, of which he was joint owner with his four brothers was giving its evening performance at Madison Square Garden.

The principal members of St. John's, Anglican Church, London, a petition was signed by all demanding the resignation of the rector, Rev. W. T. Hill, for the dismissal of his assistant, Rev. Prof. Jenkins.

Fred., Alfred and James Dupois, three brothers, were arrested yesterday at Rawdon, Que., by High Constable Lambert, charged with the murder at Sandgate, Vermont, on March 17, of Cyrus Moffatt. They waive extradition.

GERMANS PEACEABLE

They Regret Chancellor's Warlike Utterances—Reichstag Passes a Resolution

PAPERS APOLOGIZE

Berlin, April 1.—The Reichstag has adopted a resolution "To request the chancellor to declare his willingness to enter mutual negotiations with the other great powers as soon as propositions concerning a simultaneous and equal limitation of armaments are made by any one power."

This resolution received the support of the Socialists and Radicals, a majority of the members of the Centre party and a portion of the Imperialistic and Conservative parties.

The Reichstag also adopted a resolution calling on the Government to make treaties of arbitration with other nations modelled on the lines of the Anglo-German treaty.

The Liberal press expresses in the decided disappointment at Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg's speech in the Reichstag on Thursday, declaring that a conference on limitation of armaments would be fruitless. The Tageblatt regrets the chancelor's blunt tone in response to the speech of the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, but thinks this is due to his lack of diplomatic skill rather than to conscious opposition. Referring to the Anglo-American arbitration project, the same newspaper says that it is not too late for Germany to form the third member of the Anglo-Saxon league.

The Frankfurter Zeitung also regrets Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg's address, saying that it presents an unfavorable contrast with Sir Edward Grey's utterances. It says the speech will be used abroad to throw doubt on Germany's love for peace, and to make it appear that Germany is the one power offering the shoutest resistance to the peace idea. The newspaper adds, however, that the time will come when the German Government cannot resist its force.

Laymen Want Changes.

New York, April 1.—The Laymen's Association of the Methodist Church of New York meeting simultaneously for the New York conference, voted by a large majority yesterday to petition the general council to establish diocesan bishops, abolish district superintendents and presiding elders, rearrange conference boundaries throughout the United States, give lay members representation in annual and general conferences, and extend the terms of the pastorates from two to five years.

This program, it is understood, embraces the most radical changes confronting Methodism since the days of John Wesley, and marks, it is said, the beginning of a far-reaching campaign in which the association will enlist the support of every similar organization and annual conference in the country to be held during 1911-12, or prior to the convention of the general convention in Minneapolis in May of next year.

ITALIAN KILLED.

Norman Henry Arrested In Toronto For Murder.

Toronto, April 1.—Norman Henry, single, 24 years, a laborer, living at 127 West Richmond street, was arrested last night by Detectives Tipton, Twigg and Archibald, charged with the murder of Joseph Andrews, the Italian, who died in St. Michael's Hospital from a fracture of the skull on Tuesday after being arrested Monday night as a drunk.

Three companions, two women and a man, were also taken at the above address, and are held as material witnesses. The arrests were made at 11 o'clock. The others taken are James Sheehan, a laborer, 29 years, who gives 205 Simcoe street as his address; Bessie Maxwell, single, 21 years, Scotch, 205 Simcoe street, and Ethel Taylor, single, 21 years, English, 227 West Richmond street.

Henry admits that it was he who struck the dead man on Monday night. He says that he and the others were walking along the north side of Queen street when they noticed, about York street, that Andrews and another Italian were following them. He says that the Taylor woman turned round and told the Italians to go away, whereupon the man who was with Andrews struck her. This was about midway between York street and University avenue. He says that Andrews then struck at him, and he struck Andrews and knocked him down. The other man then made as if to draw a knife and he pretended to draw a revolver, which he did not have, and he and his party left, leaving Andrews lying upon the ground. He says he did not kick the prostrate man as has been said by one man who saw the struggle, and that no revolver was drawn as has also been stated.

For Three Generations.

Halifax, April 1.—Samuel C. Campbell, inspector of life-saving stations, died last evening, aged 75 years. Mr. Campbell was at one time somewhat prominent in political matters on the Liberal side. In 1896 he contested Victoria County for the Federal Parliament, but was defeated by Dr. Bethune.

His father was keeper of St. Paul's Island, a lone rock on the Cape Breton coast. Deceased was appointed to the position on the death of his father, and now his son is the keeper. The light has thus been in charge of three generations of the family. The burial will be at Baddeck.

SUPPLY IS VOTED

Opposition Agrees to Passing Two Months Funds—Increase in Salaries in Department of Railways and Canals

BANK ACT REVISION

Ottawa, April 1.—This being the last day of the fiscal year the Minister of Finance acted for a vote on account, and moved that with respect to the estimates not dealt with, they should appropriate one-sixth of the whole. This was agreed to, the supply so far passed by the Commons having been previously concurred in.

The interim supply bill to which the Opposition took no objection, included $2,466,549 supplementary estimates, for the current year, and $45,115,912 for the fiscal year now commenced. The latter sum includes $13,113,283 to cover the expenses of Government for the next two months on items not yet voted, or one-sixth of the estimates for the year, beginning to-day.

Houghton Lennox (South Simcoe) brought up the question of the revision of the Bank Act. He said he could not understand why there had been such unprecedented delay. Having regard to recent disasters the people were feeling keenly upon this question. It was necessary that the matter should be relegated to the banking and commerce committee, where a great many people would desire to be heard from. There would have to be a closer enquiry into the issue of certificates, and the question discussed of giving power for the recall or cancellation of certificates. Another debatable point was the double liability of subscribers.

Mr. Fielding replied that it was the intention of the Government that the Bank Act revision should be referred to the banking and commerce committee. He still hoped that they would be able to proceed with it this session, but much would depend upon the progress made with the general business of the House. No great harm would be done if it stood for another year.

Mr. Lennox contended that the Bank Act could have been referred to the committee without interfering with the progress of the House.

Mr. Fielding said that such an important matter required the close attention of the Minister as well as the committee.

Mr. Foster pointed out that not much business had been done by the House for the last three weeks, and said that this might have been utilized for a discussion of the banking bill in committee. Revision of the act was never more necessary than at the present time, and he regretted that Mr. Fielding had practically intimated that the Government was not likely to proceed with it at the present session.

During the discussion in supply, Mr. Graham announced a ten per cent. increase for the employes of the Department of Railways and Canals, particularly for the lockmen, the increase in the estimates for this purpose amounting to $100,000.

Mr. Brodeur stated that the men engaged in the lighthouse service would receive increases of from 15 to 35 per cent., or a total of $50,000.

Dr. Reid of Grenville introduced a discussion on the purchase of the Government steamer Earl Grey. He practically charged that J. O. Lewis, of Lewis Bros., Montreal, got a middle man's profit on every vessel purchased by the Government. He pointed out that Mr. Lewis was the agent for Vickers, Sons & Maxim, while Mr. Duguid, Canadian naval architect, was formerly an employe of that company. He said that the size of the Earl Grey had been changed so that it would not come through the canals, and that everything had been worked so that the contract would be given to the British firm.

Mr. Brodeur characterised the statement as ridiculous, the change in the size of the Earl Grey, he said, had been made on the advice of the British admiral. As for the naval architect, he was obtained by Lord Strathcona, likewise on the advice of the British naval authorities.

A Human Bomb.

Brockville, April 1.—Clapping his hands on his side to keep warm, John Miller, living a few miles from Brockville, forgot about seven dynamite caps he had in his pocket. The caps exploded, fearfully lacerating and burning his thigh and hand and embedding portions of his clothing in the flesh. The end of a pocket knife was blown off and several nails also in the pocket were driven into the wall. Miller was alone in his kitchen at the time of the accident, and his escape from death is considered nothing short of miraculous. He had been using dynamite to blast a foundation, which accounted for the explosives on his person.

O'Gorman Elected.

Albany, N.Y., April 1.—Supreme Court Justice James O'Gorman of New York, a Democrat, was elected United States Senator by the Legislature last night on the sixty-fourth joint ballot after a deadlock lasting since Jan. 17.

Justice O'Gorman received 112 votes out of 192 cast. Necessary to choice, 97.

A few minutes before his election Justice O'Gorman filed his resignation as a justice of the Supreme Court at the office of Secretary of State Lushinsky. Following the election the Legislature adopted a concurrent resolution adjourning until April 17.

Loan to Chinese Government.

Tokio, April 1.—The Yokohama Specie Bank yesterday settled the terms for a loan of $5,000,000 to the Chinese Government. The issue price of the bonds is 97 1-2 and the interest 5 per cent. Brokerage fees of 2 1-2 per cent. are to be charged. The money, which will be used to meet a deficit of the railway board, will be paid to China on June 1.

BRYCE IS AT WORK

Starts Conference With a New Treaty—To Arbitrate Disputes—Meetings to be Called

A GREAT MOVEMENT

Washington, April 1.—Hon. James Bryce, the British ambassador at Washington, yesterday held a lengthy conference with Secretary of State Knox in regard to the proposed comprehensive treaty between the United States and Great Britain. It is said in official quarters that no hitch has yet been encountered in the negotiations, but on the other hand reasonable progress is being made in the preliminary discussions.

The administration will endeavor to have the treaty in completed form for the Senate before adjournment of the approaching extra session.

As far as the negotiations have proceeded it has developed that the treaty will provide for arbitration for practically all disputes that may arise, including matters relating to questions of honor. It will not provide the machinery for the arbitration of each separate controversy. This will be arranged by special agreements under the treaty in each instance.

It can be stated with authority that the question of alliance between Great Britain and Japan causing any obstacles to the success of the treaty has never been mentioned in the conferences between Secretary Knox and Ambassador Bryce. Reports that this alliance had halted the negotiations were denied yesterday by the negotiators.

An Extensive Propaganda.

New York, April 1.—A meeting which its sponsors hope will result in the inauguration of a nation-wide movement to arouse public sentiment in favor of the proposed arbitartion between this country and Great Britain, was held last night at the New York Press Club. It was attended by the representatives of peace societies, commercial, religious and other interests. Resolutions approving Taft's peace plan and providing for the appointment of a committee of 300 to further the movement.

The resolutions as adopted provide for a request to the mayor of every city and the sheriff of every county in the country to call public meetings for the passage of resolutions supporting the arbitration plan. These resolutions are to be forwarded to U. S. Senators and Congressmen.

It is intended to fix a date for the public meetings, proposed identical with one selected by the leaders of the peace movement in England, so that the meetings in advocacy of Anglo-American treaty here and in Great Britain shall be held simultaneously.

Crowd Was Disappointed.

St. Catharines, April 1.—Omar Johnson, a former councillor of Thorold, was yesterday fined $250 on charges of illegal sales of liquer, opium and cocaine, and dispensing drugs without a permit from the Ontario College of Pharmacy. In the morning Johnson was assessed $200 at a private hearing in the office of F. W. Casey, Thorold's only lawyer. In the meantime a couple of hundred men had assembled in the Town Hall to be present at the trial. There was great wrath when, after waiting a couple of hours, the crowd dispersed with the knowledge that the hearing had been held privately. In the afternoon Johnson again appeared before the magistrate and admitted an additional charge, and was fined $50 more, several other charges not being proceeded with.

Killed While Felling Tree.

Arthur, April 1.—A very sad accident occurred a few miles from here about eleven o'clock yesterday morning. Stephen Burns, a prosperous farmer, living on the 16th concession of Peel, was struck by a piece of wood weighing about fifty or sixty pounds, and instantly killed. He was engaged in cutting down a maple tree a short distance from the base of which a stump was projecting from the ground. The tree fell over the stump, sending the large block hurling through the air, striking Mr. Burns in the forehead and crushing his skull.

Mr. Burns was about forty-five years of age. He is survived by a wife and family of five, the eldest being about twenty-one.

Vice-Regal Visit to Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, April 1.—Earl Grey, accompanied by the Countess and family, and the vice-regal suite, will spend two weeks on an official visit to this city next month. They will reside at Government House. The primary object of the visit was to attend the annual competition for the Earl Grey musical and dramatic trophies which take place here during the week of April 20. The visit may also include the musical Festival of Empire, in which the Sheffield Choir will take part.

Smellie to Resign?

Fort William, Ont., April 1.—The local Conservative executive met on Thursday night to consider the reported resignation of Dr. T. S. T. Smellie, M.P.P., who, it is reported, will accept the high court clerkship made vacant by the recent demise of Mr. James Meek, Port Arthur.

Dr. Smellie has gone to Winnipeg, and members of the association will neither admit nor deny the report.

Claims the Reward.

Pittsburg, April 1.—Clarence A. Schaadnocker, an employe in a local broker's office, whose alertness caused Sheldon's arrest, yesterday made an affidavit in a claim of a $10,000 reward, alleged to have been offered by a Montreal newspaper.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts, a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre in certain districts. Price $4.60 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.

Belleville Is Chary

Afraid Midland League Would Interfere with City Organization

A proposition has been set on foot to form a Midland Baseball League from the following towns and cities: Port Hope, Peterborough, Lindsay, Trenton and Belleville. Mr. J. J. Dorris, of Peterborough, was here on Saturday in the interests of the formation of such a group and he says Peterboro' is strongly in favour. A couple of other places are also said to be favourable to the idea. Belleville had such success last year with the City League, that local players are somewhat chary of joining such a league, knowing that such procedure would likely mean its elimination, picking as it would, the best players Belleville can put in the field.—Belleville Ontario.

Flanagan May Referee Bouts

There is great possiblity of Tom Flanagan referring the bouts here. Manager Breen expects to come to terms with the most talked of sport promoter in British North America. Tom Flanagan was chief adviser for Champion Jack Johnson in his fight with J. J. Jeffries, and his appearance here will mean good, clean bouts, with all rough work eliminated. All Club members who intend to take in the bouts, would do well to secure their seats in block. Arrangements for reserved seats can be secured by inquiring at the Examiner Office. It looks like Lang's next bout after the one in Peterborough will be for the world's welterweight championship, under the auspices of the club that offers the best inducement, and the Peterborough Athletic Club will be knocking at the door when it comes off. A large consignment of seats have been asked for A bumper house is expected.

To Go to Germany.

London, Ont., April 1.—Addressing the County Council last night, Hon. Adam Beck announced that the power commission would send two or three engineers to Europe at the end of April to study the electrical situation there. Accompanying them would be one of the O.A.C. experts who would make a special study of electricity as applied to the farms. Mr. Beck himself will join them some time in May.

Letting Out the Water.

Cornwall, April 1.—The water will be let out of the Cornwall Canal, beginning to-day, and the lower levels will be empty by Monday. This will enable Fallon Bros. to complete their contract of building a new weir and a long wall running west from Lock 17. The letting out of the water will cause the closing down of the Toronto Paper Manufacturing Co.'s mill and the Express Roller Mill for a month.

Grevola Will Hang.

Montreal, April 1.—It is not likely that any decided effort will be made to have the death sentence which was pronounced on Francisco Grevola, found guilty of the murder of Guiseppi Chine, and sentenced to be hanged on the 26th of May, commuted to life imprisonment.

Grevola has few friends in the local Italian colony. He was always looked upon as a bad character.

Over $1,000,000,000 Revenue.

London, April 1.—The revenue returns for the year ending March 31, which were issued last night, show an enormous total of $1,019,252,940, or over $20,000,000 more than David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, estimated in the last budget.

This is the first time that the nation's revenue has exceeded $1,500,000,000. Owing to the delay in the collection of taxes through the House of Lords' rejection of the first Lloyd-George budget, the two years will have to be reckoned together. The surplus revenue over expenditures amounts to $28,033,830.

Lawyer Is Arrested.

Toronto, April 1.—William D. Earngey, K.C., of the firm of Eyre and Earngey, with offices in the Confederation Life Building, and who lives at 615 Spadina avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Wallace upon four charges of forgery and one of perjury, while Charles Black, a law student in his office, was taken by Detective Sockett upon a charge of perjury which may be later changed to that of making a false document.

A Steeplejack's Story

He Became Convinced That He Wife Was a Remarkable Woman

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association.

I am a steeplejack.

Now, I'll admit that a steeplejack is a very unique individual. We have "doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief," et illeum, but how many steeplejacks? Probably not one in a million citizens.

And I am aware that while a steeplejack is very attractive to a crowd he is a constant source of worry to his own family, who don't know when his mangled body may be brought to his home on a stretcher or in a wagon. If his wife sees him at the work by which he earns their daily bread she must be one of a crowd watching him, one half dreading that he will fall and the other half fearing he won't fall. Taking him altogether, a steeplejack is not a desirable member of a family.

"I NEVER INTENDED TO CLIMB IT."

That was the reason why Mr. Davis, when I asked him for his daughter, Molly, turned, faced me squarely and said impressively:

"Yes, you may have Molly when she will marry you, each one of you swinging from an arm of the gilt cross on the top of St. Thomas' church."

"You mean by that, I suppose, Mr. Davis," I replied, "that I can't have Molly at all and because I am a steeplejack. Do you deny, sir, that a steeplejack has a heart the same as any man?"

"I'm not interested in steeplejack's hearts. I don't propose that my daughter shall marry a man out of whom she can never get more than a bare living except by insuring his life."

"H'm!" I replied to this thoughtfully. "Not a bad scheme. Now, suppose"—

"You get out of here. I have something else to attend to than listening to airy schemes for my daughter's betterment. Good morning, sir."

Being thus cruelly choked off, I left him crestfallen. I thought it very hard that he wouldn't even permit me to propose my plan, though I'll admit that the only way to make it a success was to die. I went to Molly and told her what had occurred between her father and me. I was very lugubrious about it and expected a lot of sympathy. What did she do but burst out laughing. This made me look more disconsolate than ever, whereupon she threw her arms about my neck, exclaiming:

"Stupid, get that woeful look off your face."

"That reminds me," I replied, "of when I was a kid. When my mother used her slipper on me she would say after she had finished, "Now be good and look pleasant."

Molly laughed again. "Seriously," she said, "did father say you could have me when I was willing to marry you swinging from the cross of St. Thomas'?"

"Yes, he did."

"Then that's the way we must be married. Grandma left me $20,000, but I'm not to have it without father's consent when I marry. Were there any witnesses present when he said this?"

"There was some one in the next room, but I don't know who?"

"I'll find out. I've got to become a steeplejack like you. That is to say, I've got to learn to climb steeples. I must get such control of myself that I can go up to the cross of St. Thomas' and hang there long enough to be married."

"Nonsense!" I exclaimed.

"No nonsense about it if I'm to marry you. I know father well enough to be sure that if he says a thing he'll stick to it. He has said, or implied, that he will only give his consent to our marriage under certain conditions, which he meant for a refusal. But in law, if the conditions are fulfilled, his consent has been given."

"How do you know that?"

"I don't, but I can ask a lawyer, can't I?"

"But, good gracious, you can't learn to climb steeples. One must be born with a head for that; they say a steeplejack has absolutely perfect eyes."

"Well, can't you hoist me up there at the end of a rope with a bag over my eyes?"

I thought for some time before answering this question. At last I said, "I don't know but I might."

"Come in tomorrow. Meanwhile I'll find out if we have a witness to father's conditional consent."

"But I've been dismissed."

"That does not matter. Father knows that I do as I please. He is aware that his only hold on me is that his consent to my marriage is necessary to my getting my legacy. And [illegible]

Her last words cut me to the heart, but she put her arms around my neck and gave me a hug, which made me feel better. I left her feeling that she had a more level head on her shoulders than I, even if she couldn't climb steeples as I could. The next day I went to see her, and she said she had discovered who was in the other room when her father had been talking to me—a shipbuilder who had brought him an estimate for some work. She had found the man and asked him if he could repeat what was said. He gave the matrimonial condition word for word. Molly took it down in writing, and he signed it. Molly is a mighty practical girl and a very energetic one.

"There," she said, concluding her account of what she had done, "we've got father just where we want him."

"It seems to me," I replied dolefully, "that he's got us just where we don't want to be."

She laughed, and because I wouldn't laugh with her she bored my ears and said "Look pleasant." This made me look worse than ever, but she kept boxing my ears till I had to smile to stop her. She's a great woman, Molly is—that is, in a certain kind of way.

A few days later I received a note from her saying that she had made an arrangement to visit a cousin in N., a neighboring town, where there were several churches, all with steeples. She told me to meet her there with climbing tackle and she would take her first lesson. I put my ropes and pulleys in a baggage car and went with them to N. I found Molly in gymnasium costume. She had taken prizes in gymnastics, and she said she would go right out to take a lesson. I sent my tackle to the church with the lowest steeple, climbed to the roof, fixed a beam from which I hung a pulley, then sang out to Molly to put the loop on the end of the rope under her arms and haul herself up. She did it without any trouble. Then I went to a window midway up to the steeple, fixed another beam, and this time pulled her up from below, and she got in at the window. I was surprised that she didn't wince. But, as I've said, there's a lot of "sand" in Molly.

Before we had finished the first lesson Molly was sitting on the base of the ball capping the steeple, a hundred feet from the ground. A number of people had collected below, watching her, and she kissed her hand to them. I saw from this that she had a steeplejack's head as well as I.

I remained in N. a week, and every day we did some climbing, the last day I was there going to the top of the most difficult steeple of all to climb. It was not very high, but there was a long pull with no rests from the base to the top of the spire. On the apex were a ball and a cross, and Molly hung from one side of the cross. As I looked at her hanging there it struck me more than ever that for that kind of girl Molly beat any one I had ever tackled.

This was valuable preparation, but the height was only 140 feet, while St. Thomas' was 250. But Molly said that if she could hang 140 feet above ground with her eyes open she could hang 250 with them shut. She seemed very happy over it all, and I wondered whether she was glad because she was going to get me and her $20,000, too, or on account of having demonstrated her ability to climb.

"Molly," I said, "it seems to me that you're mighty pleased at the prospect of getting a man who is nothing but a steeplejack."

"Well, I'll tell you why I'm so pleased."

"Why?"

"Ever since I was a little girl, father, in speaking to me of marriage, has dinged it into me that I was to marry high up in the social scale."

"Molly," I said, with difficulty controlling my trembling voice, "you've crushed me to earth."

I was pulling out my handkerchief to wipe away a tear when Molly kissed it away.

"Never mind, Jim," she said. "Doubtless there'll be lots of couples just like us, but there'll be none more loving."

That comforted me awfully.

We went back home. I told Molly that she must continue her climbing in order to keep her head at great heights. She said "All right," but didn't lay any plans for any more of it. One day she wrote me that she wished to see me at once. I went right round. I didn't see anything unusual in her appearance, which surprised me when she told me why she wished to see me. And what do you suppose it was? Her father had heard of her climbing and, very much astonished and angered, asked her what it meant, whereupon she told him her scheme. He fumed and fretted for a whole day, then gave in. But he insisted on my leaving the steeplejack trade and going into business with him.

"Well, now," I said, overjoyed, "isn't it fine that you won't have to climb St. Thomas'?"

"Nonsense. I never intended to climb it."

"You didn't?"

"No; I contrived that father should hear of what I was doing, and I knew it would bring him round without that."

We've been married five years now, and I am getting to think sometimes in some things that my wife is my superior, although I'm more used to "going up in the air" than she.

A Faulty Diagnosis.

"All rest you need," said the doctor after he had made a thorough examination, "is a change of diet."

"A change of diet? Good heavens, we've had a new girl every week for the past six months!"—Judge.

Yes, I wear a BUCKLEY, the hat with a real guarantee!

Every man who recognises the importance of being well-dressed will surely welcome the announcement of the Buckley Hat guarantee. By reason of this guarantee, you may figure safely on the life of your hat as four months at least—provided you wear the "Buckley." No chance of additional hat outlay—the guarantee treats you to a new hat if the Buckley you buy to-day isn't perfectly good four months hence.

Even accident is provided for in this all-embracing Buckley guarantee. No matter how badly a Buckley hat is damaged—if nothing remains but the label and the guarantee slip—these alone will entitle you to a new hat, provided the date on the guarantee shows the hat to have been less than four months in use.

But it's not the guarantee feature alone that should induce you to select the Buckley. There's another vital feature in hat selection—style is just about as important as quality.

There again the Buckley claims your serious consideration. Although English in make, these hats are built on American lines—and more graceful, more becoming lines, you never yet saw in a hat.

In both material and workmanship, the Buckley excels all others. UNION MADE, and with highest grade felt, they have the wear in them to warrant the remarkable guarantee of their makers. Sold at all leading hat shops at $2.50.

Other hats may give satisfaction—the Buckley simply must.

Wanted Standard Price.

Two miserable looking hoboes called on the dean of a medical college and proposed that he purchase their bodies for the dissecting room, as they were on the verge of starvation and had not long to live.

"It is an odd proposition," hesitated the dean.

"But it is occasionally done," suggested the spokesman eagerly.

"Well," said the dean, "we might arrange it. What price do you ask?"

"Over in New York," replied the spokesman, "they gave us $40."—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Fireside Hero.

Oh, father's a wonderful man!
When he comes home at night
All the children delight
So mighty a creature to scan.
They believe he is lofty and great,
Quite fit to be king
Or any old thing
That holds a high place in the state.

Of course when he's striving downtown
He may scratch, kick and bite
And avoid a fair fight
Or be but a blustering clown,
And his fellows may scoff his plan,
But nature is kind,
And at home he will find
He is always a wonderful man.

Electrically Put.

"Mrs. Dunnitt attracted much comment when she appeared in her latest ampere gown," wrote the market reporter, who had been detailed in a pinch to sub for the society editor.

"Don't you mean empire gown?" asked the city editor, glancing over the copy. "Must have made the mistake because of the way some of those folks give the word 'empire' the real French twist, huh?"

"No, I mean ampere, all right," argued the market reporter. "It was shocking."—Chicago Evening Post.

Eastern Time.

Somebody told Gus Bodkin that we might have "eastern time."

And Gus replied to careless teens he thought the project prime.

The man explained to Gus that we would gain an hour of light

And that to even up the scheme we'd lose an hour at night.

"It's New York time," the man went on. "You've been there and you know.
You rise at 6, and then to bed at 9 o'clock you go."

But Jimmy Bodkin shook his head and said, "If I recall
My New York trips I quite forget to go to bed at all."

Stories of the Paris Courts.

Among humorous stories of the Paris law courts it is said how a well known lawyer, M. Alain Bernard, was once pleading a rather tiresome case and, noticing that the judges were paying no attention to him, said, "As the president is falling asleep I suspend my speech." But the judge had just woke up and cried, "And I suspend you from practicing for six months." Nothing daunted, the lawyer retorted, "Well, I suspend myself forever and ever," and, gathering up his brief and cap, he left the court and never appeared again.

A Paris barrister, M. Clery, however, was more vigorous. Seeing that the president and the assessors were all asleep, he stopped, and, dealing a tremendous blow on the desk in front of him that woke everybody up with a start, he cried, "Yesterday at this same hour I was saying"— And the whole bench rubbed their eyes and asked each other if they had really slept through twenty-four hours.

The same counsel was pleading at Versailles on a cold day and remarked that the judges were all turning more and more around toward a stove that gave out a welcome heat. "The tribunal behind which I have the honor of speaking" brought them all right about face at once.

He Had a Claim.

In a certain town was a young lawyer whose father was very rich and who had been sent to an eastern law school. Since his graduation he had done nothing except open an office because he had plenty of money. This young lawyer was proposed for membership in the local fire company.

"We cannot elect him," one of the members protested. "The constitution of our company says that the members of it must sleep and live here in the city, and he lives out of town on a farm and not in the city at all. He would be of no value at all in case of a fire at night. He doesn't sleep here at night."

"No," replied his proposer; "it is true he doesn't sleep here at night, but he sleeps here in his office all day."

And they elected him on that ground.

The Simple Maid.

Twas in a simple country town, and the maid of all work was simple and innocent in sympathy. When she returned from shopping half a sovereign short in her change Mrs. Mango-Chutney was naturally incensed.

"Go back to each shop, you careless girl," she told the weeping maid, "and tell them you are half a sovereign short in your money and they must give it you."

Susan went and was back again in half an hour. Entering her mistress' sanctum, she laid five half sovereigns on the table before her. Faithful as always, she had carried out Mrs. Mango-Chutney's instructions to the letter, and each shopkeeper, fearful of doing wrong and hurting a fellow creature, had thrust the missing coin upon the bewildered girl.—London Answers.

The Offending Black Bottle.

A church member in a lonely district of Saskatchewan absented himself from services for some months. On being approached on the subject he said he was sorry, but it was impossible to attend any more. He was pressed to give reasons and at length said it was owing to the bad conduct of the superintending clergyman and catechist.

He and others had witnessed them drinking when driving round on their visits. They had passed a black bottle from hand to hand. It was impossible to attend the ministry of such men. Inquiries proved that the offending "bottle" was a pair of field-glasses with which the drivers surveyed the surrounding country and tried to locate the various churches, shacks and trails.—Sunday at Home.

Not Always.

"Whenever I hear the suffrage combated," said an English lord, "on the score of woman's protected, sheltered, petted life I think of a poor woman I once questioned in England.

"This poor creature had been beaten by her husband in a drunken fury. The man had been drunk, it appears, for ten days running.

"'My good friend,' I said to her, 'does your husband always drink like that?'

"'No, my lord,' she answered, 'sometimes I gets hout o' work.'"

An Old Christmas Law.

The general court of Massachusetts Bay Colony, following the example of the English parliament, in 1650 enacted a law that "anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting or any other way, any such day as Christmas day shall pay for every such offence 5 shillings." This law was repealed in 1681.

It Got Warmer.

Little Willie—Say, pa, doesn't it get colder when the thermometer falls?
Pa—Yes, my son. Little Willie—Well, ours has fallen. Pa—How far? Little Willie—About five feet, and when it struck the hall floor it broke."

Saps That Last.

"The young chap whose mouth I trimble for just now in my nephew," the city salesman remarked. "He has a position as errand boy in a banking house. He is a bright lad and as steady as they make 'em, but since he got that job in the bank his women relations are urging him into crime. They do not advise him to pick his employers' pockets or run away with the day's deposits, but the principle involved is just as reprehensible. They ask him to abstract a few bags that the silver money is carried in. The women want them bags for sofa pillow covers. They are made of material that will never wear out and feathers and down simply cannot sift through. By boldly asking for what he wanted the boy has secured enough bags to increase his mother's sofa pillows, but if he supplies the rest of the family I see nothing ahead of him but a career of crime."—New York Sun.

FIRE TEAM BROUGHT BIG PRICE IN WEST

The Winnipeg Telegram of a recent date contains an advertisement that is interesting from a local standpoint. In the list of horses to be sold at Speer's Horse Exchange appears the following: "Extra special—one pair of matched dapple grey geldings, weighing 3,650 pounds. This pair of horses are of excellent quality, clean flat-bone with little hair and the best pair of the kind ever shipped to Winnipeg." It will be interesting to note that this team was purchased for Peterborough by Mr. R. H. Leary when he was a member of the aldermanic board and were used in the fire department. They were purchased originally for $525 and there was some criticism at the time that the price was too high. A short time ago, after the team had been used for four years by the city, Mr. Leary repurchased them from the city for $650 and shipped them west, where the price received at the sale mentioned justified the description of them given in the advertisement in question.

HAUNTING TERROR REVEALS A MURDER

Husband and Wife in Kansas City Confess to Slaying a Man in Chicago.

FORCED TO TELL

CHICAGO, MARCH 31.—Achilles Pantarakas and his wife, Angelica, two young Greeks, were arrested in Kansas City yesterday afternoon and immediately afterwards confessed to one of the most brutal murders in the criminal history of Chicago.

Until they received the telegram from the Kansas City authorities the police of this city did not know the crime had been committed. While Kansas City held the wire for further orders Chicago policemen went out to the residence of the couple at 731 Sebor street, and found the dismembered corpse of the man the Pantarakas had slain. He was Frank Barbaresos, a boarder at the house.

The crime was committed on Saturday night, on the third floor of a crowded tenement house in the thickly settled Greek colony. Although there were hundreds of persons within a stone's throw or him, no one heard the victim's cries. He was killed by a series of blows on the head with a short handled axe.

After the man was dead his murderers began cutting up the body, with the intention of burning it. With this sanguinary work partially completed, they apparently abandoned the plan nad resolved to pack the dismembered body in boxes and ship the boxes away. While this was being done panic again seized them. In the midst of their work they threw dow ntheir tools and fled to the first train that would carry them away fro mthe scene of their atrocities.

That train took them to Kansas City. There their terrible secret again attacked them. They could not keep it to themselves. Bit by bit they told it to their neighbours. At last the whole murder, with all its frightful details, was out. Some one notified the police. They were arrested, and at the station confessed everything. The Pantarakas were literally run to earth by their own consciences.

"But let me tell you," said Inspector Stephen K. Healy, of the Maxwell street district, in which the murder occurred, "if these people had been Italians instead of Greeks, we never should have got them. Instead of turning them over to the police, their Kansas City friends would have helped them 'cover up' and Chicago would have had another unsolved 'headless trunk' mystery. The incident illustrates vividly the difference between the two races."

The telegram to the Chicago police reached this city from Kansas City about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It simply said: "Do you want Achilles and Anglica Pantarakas for murder in Chicago recently?"

Chief of Detective Stephen B. Wood to whom hte message had been handed, could find nothing in the records to warrant his asking that the Pantarakas be held, and he had almost made up his mind to wire that they were not wanted when a newspaper reporter came in with a telgram to the effect that the crime had been committed at 731 Sebor street.

Detectives Magner and McFarland were sent out to this address. They found that the Pantarakas had left there mysteriously Saturday night, but discovered nothing to indicate that murder had been done until they stumbled across a new axe, with the handle shortened, which had what looked like blood stains on the handle.

A thorough search of the outbuildings then was begun. At last in an old shed at the rear of 733 Sebor street, they discovered a new packing box.

In this, covered with paper, they found the amputated legs of the dead man. In a gunny sack lying near they saw the trunk. The head was in another box wrapped up in papers. The body was all there except the forearms.

The two detectives then went back to the Pantarakas' room. They found there that the floors had been scrubbed recently and that everything seemed in order. Opening the stove they found charred bones. The two missing forearms had been burned.

After word had been sent back to Kansas city that the crime had been discovered, Pantarakas, in the presence of his wife, who apparently acquiesced in all he said, made a statement as disclosing the motive for the killing of Barbaresos.

"I killed him," he said, simply. "He was a traitor. He claimed to be my friend, and under the guise of friendship he made love to my wife. I came home on Saturday night to find my wife weeping. Barbaresos was in the room. She fell on my breast and told me that the friend whom I had taken into my own family had asked her to elope with him.

"I took the axe in my hand and with the axe spit his skull. He deserved death. In my country death alone answers for his crime.

"We could not bear to see the flesh." Pantarkas explained. "It was easier just to cut the cloth."

Part of the body was burned and the rest was carried down stairs in a basket. That night the couple remained in the house.

"But we could not sleep," said Pantarakas. "We were both in great terror. I was so beside myself that I could not comfort myself. I seemed to ghastly face of Barbaresos was ever before blood on my hands, and the fore my eyes. Before dawn we arose and literally ran to the nearest train."

Nicholas story, together with other facts that the police have been able to gather in the Greek colony, convinces them that Pantarakas' account of what prompted the crime is a false one.

It has been learned that Mrs. Pantarakas spent six or eight weeks recently at St. Elizabeth's hospital and that his wife's illness had put Pantarakas heavily in Barbaresos's debt. The police believe Barbaresos was murdered in order that this debt might be annulled. The shortened axe handle, they say, is evidence of a premeditation. According to their theory the crime was deliberately planned. Mrs. Pantarakas engaged the man in conversation and the husband crept up behind him and killed him at one blow.

Canada May Break Away.

London, April 1.—The Tariff Reform Commission further considered reciprocity, and emphasize the complaint that no information is yet available regarding the instructions given to Mr. James Bryce. The only mention in the published papers of any item specified for reciprocity refers to fish. It reiterates its contention that reciprocity makes any extension of the Canadian preference extremely difficult and marks a departure from Britain.

Through Britain's refusal to countenance proposals of separatism in Empire trade, it fears Canada will be compelled to seek release from the most favored nation obligations through the pressure of the U.S.A. The British Government has not given information re. the Canada-U.S.A. International Joint Commission.

Will Investigate Differences.

Montreal, April 1.—The Board of Control decided yesterday to hold an investigation into the disagreement between the chief of the fire brigade, Mr. Tremblay, and Mr. Chausse, building inspector, as to the manner buildings are equipped in the city with fire escapes.

Chief Tremblay holds that scores of buildings are most poorly equipped, while the building inspector is quite sure that factories and other structures have complied with the law as to fire protection.

THE SHEFFIELD CHOIR WELCOMED TO CITY

Mayor Morrow and Other Citizens Addressed the Members of the Famous Organization at Rehearsal This Morning—Dr. Coward Replied on Behalf of the Choir —To-night's Concert.

The famous Sheffield Choir arrived in the city by special train early yesterday morning, ready for their concert at the Grand Opera House to-night. Sunday was spent by the two hundred visitors in sight-seeing and in attending Divine service. This morning, during a rehearsal at the Opera House, a reception was tendered the visitors by His Worship Mayor Morrow, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P., and Mr. J. H. Burnham, on behalf of the citizens, a large number of whom were present and sustained the remarks of the speakers by the heartiness of their applause.

On behalf of the corporation, Mayor Morrow presented the visitors with the following address, the reading of which was greeted with great enthusiasm by the members of the Choir:

To Dr. Charles Harriss, Dr. Henry Coward and the Members of the Sheffield Choir.

Ladies and Gentlemen.—On behalf of the citizens of Peterborough, Canada, I desire to give you a most cordial welcome to our city. We have most pleasant recollections of your previous visit and were highly gratified when we learned that arrangements had been made by which we would again have the great privilege of a visit from you and of hearing you.

Your enterprising musical pilgrimage of the British Empire cannot fail to have far-reaching and lasting results. Its effect upon Choral singing and music generally in the "British Dominions Over The Seas" will be most beneficial, and this will influence the whole life of the people. We appreciate this, and also recognize that your tour of the Empire will assist materially in a better understanding of the different parts of the Empire by each other.

We wish to express our appreciation of the enterprise, courage and Imperial spirit which has made possible this pilgrimage upon which you have started, and we hope that while providing musical enjoyment for those who will have the privilege of attending the concerts, you will thoroughly enjoy your world-encircling tour of the British Dominions.

Permit me to again bid you welcome to Peterborough, and to express the hope that not the least pleasant part of your tour will be your stay in this city.

(Signed) W. G. MORROW,
April 3, 1911. Mayor.

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said that he felt it a great privilege to be able to be present to welcome perhaps the greatest musical organization of the world. When the Sheffield Choir had visited Peterborough before they had made a name for themselves that had lasted in the memories of the citizens until this evening, when they would show their appreciation, he hoped, in a practical manner. No better thing could be done to strengthen the bonds of the Empire than to have such an organization visit every part of the British possessions, and in this connection he felt that no part of the Empire had done more to cement the ties than had Canada, which had been shown in the South African war and in the giving of the British preference. The tour of the choir was to tune the Empire up to concert pitch, and he felt that their expectations would be fully realized. He hoped they would have a bumper house and a pleasant visit in Peterborough.

Mr. J. H. Burnham said that in addition to the spirit of rejoicing at the presence of the Sheffield Choir the people of Canada were filled with an Imperial spirit, and it was felt that the choir, by its magnificent music, would do much to strengthen this feeling. The influence of the British women would, he was sure, also be felt; the speaker, in this connection, remarking that he was a woman suffragist. With the other speakers, he most heartily welcomed the choir.

Dr. Henry Coward replied in an eloquent speech, on behalf of the choir, thanking the citizens of Peterborough for their most gratifying reception. Referring to the former visit of the Choir to Peterborough he regretted that there had been haste in getting away and he felt that they had not on that occasion treated the people as he would have liked. To-night, however, they would be the very humble servants of the people of Peterborough, and hoped to clinch the good opinion that the citizens had formed of them. They were anxious that the British Empire should be the best in everything and this was one of the principal objects of the visit of the choir. They did not come in the spirit of wanting to beat anybody; if they found something better they would rejoice; if not they might have an opportunity of raising the tone. Dr. Coward paid an eloquent tribute to the uplifting effect of music, and remarked that any encouragement given to musical organizations would pay. The Choir had come to add their mite to the Imperial spirit.

There will be an extra attraction at to-night's concert, as Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, the well-known contralto, has kindly consented to sing.

PROSPECTS FOR PERPETUAL PEACE ARE BRIGHT

English Press is Enthusiastic at the Feeling Shown at the Meetings Yesterday---Pact Would Not Interfere With Great Britain's Alliance With Japan.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, APRIL 3. — Dealing this morning with the statement from some quarters that Britain could not ally itself with the proposed peace treaty with the United States because of its alliance with Japan, the Morning Post points out that Britain's treaty with Japan is merely for defensive purposes and wouldn't interfere with the treaty with the United States. All the morning papers comment on the enthusiasm displayed at meetings yesterday and intimate that the prospects for perpetual peace with United States are the brightest ever and are likely to be fulfilled.

A BIGGER SURPLUS THAN HAS BEEN

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, APRIL 3.—It is said that Fielding's budget speech to-morrow will report to the House the biggest surplus that was ever held by the Canadian treasury, about twenty-seven million dollars. Railway Trains Must Stop When They Are Scheduled to do so

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, APRIL 3.—When a railway passenger has a ticket for a certain point and he boards a train scheduled to stop at that point the company is responsible for an accident occurring if the train does not stop long enough for him to get off safely. This point was laid down definitely in a judgment to-day by the Supreme Court in the case against the Canadian Pacific by a man named Walker, who secured $1500 damages for the loss of a leg when alighting from a train which did not stop at Dundalk, Ont., when it should have done so.

MONDAY, APRIL 3, 1911

CANADA'S RECORD YEAR.

In a fiscal and financial sense, Canada at midnight on March 31st, closed the forty-fourth year as a Confederation. As the Ottawa Journal concisely points out, last year was Canada's greatest year of progress and growth—"it has received more immigrants, enjoyed greater revenue, spent more money, grown more grain, settled more land, sold more goods, received more imports, mined more ore, cut more timber, caught more fish, handled more freight, obtained more capital" and in every way made greater progress than in any year of her history of forty-four years as a federated dominion. And with the gates of trade strength thrown wider and other indications of advancement prominent, it is safe to say that the coming year shows every promise of bettering the record of its best year.

CANADIAN CITIES GROW.

Amidst all Canada's prosperity, and promise of greater growth, the one regrettable feature is the increase of town and city population at the expense of the country districts, or at least far more rapidly than the latter. The rural and farming population of a country is its real strength, and under proper conditions the growth of cities in population and importance, commercial and otherwise, should be the measure of the growth of the rural parts of the country. But the tendency to seek the city is not an unmixed evil; while the cities may attract many of the enterprising and ambitious spirits who find the humdrum conditions of country life do not give full scope to their energetic desires, the city also attracts the never do-wells and wastrels, to whom the country does not present sufficient opportunity to help them solve the problem of "living on their wits." The following table illustrates the growth of the larger cities during the past thirty years. It gives their population at different periods as follows:

	1871	1901	Now.
Montreal	115,000	267,730	400,000
Toronto	59,000	208,040	350,000
Winnipeg	241	42,340	190,000
Vancouver		26,133	120,000
Ottawa	42,141	59,928	90,000
Hamilton	26,880	52,928	75,000
Quebec	59,699	68,840	70,000
London	18,000	37,981	50,000
St. John	41,325	40,711	45,000
Halifax	29,582	40,382	45,000
Victoria	3,270	20,816	35,000
Calgary	—	4,866	30,000

It will be noted, as might well be expected, that the greatest growth has been in cities west of the Great Lakes, and the next census will show that the rural population of the west has advanced at a much greater ratio than that of the east.

WHERE THE WEAKNESS IS.

As giving a pretty reliable idea of the chaotic character of the Conservative parliamentary party, and incidentally the causes, the remarks of a Conservative and an independent journal respectfully, may be quoted. The Ottawa Citizen, Conservative, thus deals with the relations of the party, as emphasized by recent developments, to its leader, Mr. Borden. It says:

"What influences may be at work to undermine Mr Borden's prestige within his own following cannot be animated by the desire to further the interests of the Dominion or of the Conservative party. Rather are they conceived in an entirely different spirit. To a sensitive and high-spirited man such intrigues must prove particularly discouraging, but the respected leader of the Conservative party must feel that he has behind him the esteem and confidence of the great mass of those who constitute the strength and hope of that party."

In similar tenor the Montreal Witness, Independent Liberal, thus discourses:

"It would be deplorable for Canada, and a sorry loss for the 'Liberal-Conservative' party should the party be bereft of its redeeming ornament and essential head. That the retirement of Mr. Borden would bring victory to the party is the last thing to be thought of. The dethronement of the blameless chief by money influences, as is alleged, and as would be assumed, would absolve thousands in the country from an allegiance which has become irksome to them. Without him the party would be a cage of discordant creatures, each elbowing to get on top.

When we can find a Liberal newspaper and an independent Conservative journal saying such things, of the Liberal leader and his following, we Liberals, as a party, can say 'good-bye' to power and self-respect. If the Conservative party is doomed to the glacial umbrage of Opposition interminably they have only themselves to blame. Shakspere hits the white thus:

Men at some time are masters of their fates;
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has a holiday. The Conservative party in Parliament have, as the Montreal Herald suggests, quit fighting him to fight each other.

The Financial News of London, England, says that up to the present time no less than 2,100 million dollars of British capital has been invested in Canada, and in 1910 81½ per cent. of the total Canadian issues were taken up by the old country. The Financial News has arranged for various members of its staff to visit the Dominion from time to time for the purpose of studying more closely the commercial development of the country.

The Ottawa Journal says:

In obtaining the best Conservative fighters of the provincial legislative chambers, Mr. R. L. Borden is taking a leaf from Sir Wilfrid Laurier's book of statesmanship, date 1896. But Mr. Borden is going the Prime Minister one better, as Sir Wilfrid got his provincial assistants just after victory; Mr. Borden is obtaining his—as many think—just before.

"The many as think" that there is a victory ahead for the Conservative party in its present state of division, possess an optimism and ingenuity suggestive of extracting sunbeams from cucumbers.

The Montreal Witness is becoming frivolous in its old age. On Saturday it issued a very creditable sixteen-page fashion edition. The Witness has well-earned this little relaxation from its staid and sober past. For half a century or so, it has been the greatest moral journalistic force in Canada. It has carried to thousands of homes, daily and weekly, lessons in right living that have operated for good in the community. It has always been wholesome and clean, when other journals have—well, not been quite so clean. In its crusade against wrong and in the interests of the right, it has made great financial sacrifices, in refraining from otherwise profitable journalistic methods, whose tendency was hostile to the moral good of its clientele.

An old copy of the St. Thomas Journal of the year 1860 has been unearthed by Mr. John Farley, K. C., of that city. It contains a copy of an address by Lord Elgin to the mayor and corporation of the city of London, England, and is of more than passing interest. He was being presented with an address and the freedom of the city of London, and in reply, said among other things, that he had done nothing of which he was so proud as bringing about the passage of the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada in 1854, by which the natural products of each country would enter the other free of duty. He said he had at the time met with Mr. Munro the United States Secretary of state, and had negotiated with him the making of this treaty. "I met Mr. Munro in Hyde Park," added Lord Elgin, "and said to him, "I understand our treaty has doubled the imports and exports between the two countries.' His reply was that it had quadrupled them in five years, and that it was a blessing to both countries."

POPULATION FIGURES IN ONTARIO.

(Ottawa Free Press)

Some valuable statistics with reference to Ontario's population are contained in the latest report of the Bureau of Industries in Queen's Park. While much has been written and spoken about the rural population in the province it is encouraging to note that since 1907 it has been increasing at a rate of about three thousand a year.

The statistics show that the decrease began twenty years ago, at least. In 1890 the township population of Ontario was 1,117,533. In the next three years it decreased by over 21,000 then rose again, reaching its highest point in 1896-7. From these two years, in which it remained almost stationary, the drop was steady until 1907 when the rural population amounted to 1,043,856. Since then it has been increasing an average of three thousand a year.

In that same period of twenty years the population of the towns and villages has increased from 375,241 in 1890 to 515,078 in 1909, every year showing an increase except 1892, when there was a temporary lull.

The growth of the cities has been even more marked. From 424,770 in 1890, the urban population has increased to 725,120 in 1909, the last year of record, and there has not been a single year in the twenty which has not shown an increase.

Taking the population of the province as a whole the total in 1890 was 1,917,544, which in twenty years has increased to 2,299,438, with 1892 and 1893 as the only years showing a decrease. It must be remembered that in these twenty years Old Ontario has each year sent thousands of her best people to settle the West. Even yet the Western tendency has shown little or no signs of letting up. Railway officials tell of immense throngs from Ontario going to the prairies every year.

The population of rural Ontario would have been much greater, if the present Ontario Government, since its lease of office, had pursued as energetic an immigration policy in filling up and settling the great agricultural district of Northern Ontario, over which the Provincial Government exercises ownership, as the Dominion Government has done in respect of the lands in the great West, which it controls. Herein is demonstrated the wisdom of the policy of the Dominion Government of not alienating the lands it controls in the North West, in favour of the provinces. With the lands of the North West dependent for their settlement and development upon the action of the provinces, taking Ontario, which owns its lands, as a sample, we should have little of the wonderful energy and enterprise as shown by the Dominion Government, which has poured and is pouring population into the West, and has made, and is making, the "wilderness blossom as the rose."

ESSEX FARMERS INCLUDING CONSERVATIVES FOR RECIPROCITY

Real Estate Values Enjoy Anticipatory Increase Since Agreement Was Announced

(Staff Correspondence of The Globe.)

Leamington, March 29. — The man who wrote to a certain Toronto paper a few days ago that Essex county "to a man" was against reciprocity did not get his information at Leamington or from this vicinity. And it is very doubtful if any other part of Essex is responsible for such a report. Ten representative men living in the southern part of this county were interviewed today by your representative, and not one of them was opposed to the agreement. The testimony of these ten men was not all. The flourishing condition of the real estate business here is in itself a silent contradiction of the pessimistic views expressed by some irresponsible political adherent in a despatch from this district last week.

From almost any quarter of Essex county the reflection of the lights of Detroit may be seen at night, and the general feeling amongst the farmers on the Canadian side of the river is that the great city so near at hand is but the natural repository for their produce. Even now it is a familiar sight at Windsor to see lines of hucksters' waggons and loads of various kinds of produce waiting for the boats to transport them to the Detroit market. Hardly ever does the Canadian city receive similar shipments from the Michigan farmer.

Mr. Duke Strongly in Favour.

It was reported that the fruit-grower of Essex, like the man from Niagara, was directly opposed to the proposed revision of the tariff. Mr. J. O. Duke of Ruthven post office is one of the leading fruit and corn-growers of western Ontario, as well as being a well-known Conservative and he says: "A few years ago the Canadian government deemed it beneficial to the country as a whole to remove the duty from corn entering in Canada for feed and milling purposes. The farmers of Essex and Kent protested against the measure, saying "the Americans will flood our markets with cheap corn." They argued that land values would depreciate. But such has not proven the case. The Canadian corn-grower who grows good corn can sell it at from ten to sixty cents per bushel more than he has to pay for American corn. And corn lands in the counties mentioned have increased in selling value from $5 to $20 per acre."

Talking about horses, Mr. Duke said: "Just now the Ontario farmer can sell poor horses at a good price to go to the new Provinces in the west; in fact there are not enough to supply the demand. But not a season passes without some of our good horses finding their way into Detroit, Cleveland and Toledo, after paying a duty in some cases as high as $50 and $60 per head. So, instead of killing the horse trade, reciprocity would benefit both countries."

Another Conservative Supporter.

Mr Lewis Wigle, another prominent Conservative, said that reciprocity would undoubtedly favour the Essex farmer, and the longer the subject was before the country the more the farmer would see the advantages to be gained by such an agreement. "North Essex grows corn, hay and barley in abundance, while South Essex raises corn and tobacco largely," said Mr. Wigle. "Leamington, too, is the centre of the fruit district, which grows chiefly peaches, small fruits, tomatoes and melons. In all of these articles a benefit would be realized through free trade with the United States. Take hay for instance," said Mr. Wigle. "There is a duty of $4 per ton on it. In Detroit we could get, if the duty were off, $16 to $16.50 per ton for our hay, as against $12 to $12.50 per ton in Toronto, and it would only cost us $1 per ton to ship it to the former market compared with a charge of $2 per ton to the latter.

Would be the Garden of America.

"Pelee Island, which is about 16 miles out in Lake Erie, and is a Canadian possession, would become the garden of both countries if reciprocity carries," said Mr. Wigle. "That island is five miles wide and eleven miles long and has a population of about one thousand people at present," said he. "And it can grow anything tender and grow it well because of immunity from the frosts."

Mr. H. J. Coulson said any farmer in this country who votes against reciprocity will vote against his pocket-book and his very best interests in trade.

Remarkable Boom in Real Estate.

Mr. William T. Gregory, Manager of the Imperial Tobacco Company, has lived here for fifteen years and comes in contact with more famers in Essex and Kent than any other man in the two counties. He said that he found most of the farmers quite agreeable to reciprocity. Their comment was generally: "We don't think it will hurt us much." "There has been a remarkable boom in real estate in the past 90 days," said Mr. Gregory. "A farm of 55 acres was sold on Saturday for $10,000, which was bought three years ago for $6,500. Another ten-acre farm sold last week near here for $6,000, and it was held and offered for a long time previous to the sale at $3,600.

Farms Increased in Value.

Mr. Ed. Cook, Mercer township, said he used to grow lots of raspberries and ship them to the Detroit market. "I think reciprocity will work out all right," said he. "I have a farm of 200 acres, which has advanced from $6,000 to $10,000 in recent years, and it is more valuable now than ever before."

Mr. Robert Anderson, who has lived in North Essex for many years, moved into this vicinity the past winter. He bought Mr. Reginald Foster's seventy-acre farm for $6,000, and he would like to see reciprocity adopted.

Fruit-growers Want Free Trade.

Mr. Thomas Fleming, a fruit-grower in Mercer township, said that he remembered shipping raspberries eighteen years ag into Detroit, where he could get higher prices than in any other market. "I also remember clearing $1.25 per basket on cherries shipped to Buffalo. I grow peaches and small fruits now, and I am not afraid of reciprocity," said Mr. Fleming.

Mr. W. H. Hilborn, a large grower of early vegetables, peaches cherries and canteloupes, thinks there will be a great opening for the Essex farmer in Detroit if the duties on natural products are removed. "If we put the first-class products on the Detroit market we can compete successfully with anything in the United States. They say we shall be put out of business by the heavy influx of southern products. Why, I have a friend in Cleveland who is making lots of money in the hot-house business, and he certainly has to contend with all the southern stuff that comes along."

Vegetable Men, Too.

Mr. Byron Squires, when asked for his views on reciprocity, said: "It just hits me right. Red raspberries are my big crop, although I grow lots of peaches, plums and grapes. I have 35 acres of peaches. I have had to put my berries on the Detroit market in the face of the duties, and I should like to see them removed. I believe most people around here favour the agreement."

Mr. J. A. Campbell does a big business in onions as well as in beans and potatoes. "I viewed reciprocity with alarm at first, but I am beginning to see that I can profit by it. There is a prohibitive duty on most onions now, although the Spanish variety has been shipped to Detroit in face of the high tax. In view of the possible removal of the duty I am puting out an acre of the Spanish onions this spring," said Mr. Campbell. "Of course the agreement will greatly help beans."

New Dutch Tariff.

The Hague, April 3.—The new tariff law which was introduced by the Government in the first Chamber Saturday is a moderately protective one in in character. Its sponsors claim that while it will bring in an additional 40,000,000 guldens of revenue annually, the new duties will not be so onerous as to keep out foreign imports. A gulden is the equivalent of 40 cents in Canadian money.

It is also asserted that the tariff will not be high enough to induce the formation of Dutch trusts to put up the price of raw materials. The general idea is that half manufactured goods shall be subject to an import duty to from three to six per cent., and valorem, and articles nearly finished, to 10 per cent. Wholly finished goods will be assessed 12 per cent. Wheat, coal, minerals, yarn, petroleum and meal for cattle would remain on the free list. Fine flour would pay a duty 40 cents per Dutch hundred kilograms; cigars, 125 guldens per hundred kilos and 20 per cent. ad valorem; cigarettes, 250 guldens per 100 kilos and 40 per cent. ad valorem.

The Government reserves the power to use retaliatory measures against other nations whenever it is thought necessary. It is estimated that 9,000,000 guldens desired from the new revenue will be used as a fund for the payment of old age pensions to working men.

Progress.

Friend—I tell you, old man, inventions make wonderfully rapid progress nowadays, don't they?

Aviator—You bet! If they grant us the patent on our new engine by 1914, and we get rid of the infringements by 1925 and finish our suit with the Highflier company, which is returnable in 1934, we'll show the world what an aeroplane really is.—Puck.

Coming.

For hope, which gilds the shadows where they fall,
Discounts the hour which brings the time of bail,
It richly gilds this first of all events
And puts an aure round the baseball fiance.

Note For the War Cry.

Two beautifully dressed women got on the car and entered into a discussion of their household cares and worries. Finally when the subject of jellies was reached one said to the other:

"Yes; we tried some crab apples last year, but the stuff wouldn't jell, and we had to give it to the Salvation Army."—Life.

The New Fashion.

If you go to the ball or the opera you'll find
Of too many girls it is true
As soon as they're out of short dresses they want
To get out of long dresses too.

"The Strange Case Of Eleanor Cuyler"

By KINGSLAND CROSBY

The portentous meaning underlying those ominous words was not lost in European capitals to which the sinister remarks were addressed, especially when the evening newspapers of the same day published despatches announcing that American engineers were already on their way to Europe for the purpose of surveying a new route for the projected military railroad which, regardless of previous plans, would run not to the Persian Gulf, but eastward to an outlet on the Pacific Ocean.

When these astonishing pronouncements were instantly confirmed by St. Petersburg despatches the British Empire sighed with relief.

Bloodgood read columns and pages devoted to the situation in the New York papers, and laughed aloud in his office.

Cuyler scanned the headlines, and smiled grimly.

Major Hartwell sat at dinner twice as long as usual that Friday evening with a puzzled expression in his eyes, trying to figure out whether he and Wolferb could possibly have been mixed up in this whirling situation without their knowledge. He was a good deal more puzzled when "extra" editions of the papers, issued late at night, fairly bristled with news "stories," and inspired editorials, and interviews with prominent men, telling about the century-old friendship between Russia and the United States; recalling how a Russian fleet had been sent with sealed orders to the vicinity of New York during a critical period of our Civil War, and how Russia was now welcoming the aid of America in building a great and immensely important railway system. Also the newspapers recalled the intimate blood-relationship existing between the throne of Russia and the British Royal family.

Major Hartwell slept but little and sailed for Europe early Saturday morning. He wanted several things explained by word of mouth—particularly as he noted that on Wednesday the Mediterranean and Channel Fleets of the British Navy had received extraordinary orders countermanding their customary manoeuvres.

Those orders, he ascertained later, had scarcely been received by the fleets when through some surprising leakage in the Bureau of Naval Intelligence, their very text was flashed from Havre into the Chancelleries of all Europe; with the result that certain clever financiers in four Continental countries had been immediately notified, in unmistakable language, that they were to keep their hands off the projected military railway in the East; that further attempts to get hold of it would mean trouble — serious trouble — sudden, and plenty of it.

Whatever of doubt once lingered in the minds of Continental statesmen and financiers, concerning the projected railway, was speedily, fully, emphatically set at rest. They realized that the military highway would be built by American engineers; that American steel, lumber, cement, machinery, locomotives, would be used in large part; also that the enterprise, in its new route to the Pacific had Great Britain's sympathy and moral support. A little later they were to learn that Cuyler's astuteness would give France full opportunity to invest her surplus gold in bonds yielding excellent returns, and that he would make sure German manufacturers should be given opportunity to provide enormous quantities of finished material for the vast undertaking. Cuyler was very far from being a fool. He had won the financial game, and would be more than willing to share some of the profits with erstwhile legitimate competitors, thus transforming them from active rivals into associates, partners, friends.

The little band of scheming rascals who had tried to ruin him, who had undoubtedly caused the abduction of Eleanor, he would attend to later. And the chosen leader of that band—as Cuyler afterward ascertained—was the man who sent the cipher cable from Brussels to Hoboken, which was relayed thence to Titusville, where "Professor Simpson" received it that evening of Friday, July 27, and at once hurried out of town as fast as the old white mare could travel.

XXII.

When Barrett left Bill Tyson's farm and started on toward Pithole, young Jim Tyson, mounted on the colt, cantered off in the opposite direction, carrying his note to his friends at the Hotel Brunswick. The last of the storm clouds had disappeared, and the moon, shining full, shed a gorgeous light over fields and hills and woods. The road was rough enough in all conscience, but now Barrett could see it and avoid the worst ruts and depressions. Therefore, he made rapid progress, and soon left Tyson's far behind. As he came to a patch of woods lining both sides of the road, however, he slowed down to a walk. Tyson had mentioned Pithole as lying a couple of miles beyond his farm, but Barrett knew from experience that the word 'mile' may mean much or little to the individual countryman, and he planned to approach the deserted city with all caution, so that his presence would not be discovered, even suspected, by the abductors.

Suddenly he heard a strange scraping noise beyond the next turn in the road; and a man's voice.

With light footsteps Barrett hurried forward and peered ahead. There the woods came to an end; beyond was a wide valley with fields in the foreground, and still beyond them a dozen or twenty buildings in various stages of dilapidation. And only a few hundred feet in front of him was the old buggy careening to one side because it now had but three wheels. "Professor Simpson" had lashed the limb of a tree to the axle from which the fourth wheel had fallen—it was this limb travelling over the road which made the scraping noise—and was walking ahead, leading the white horse.

So he had not got far enough in advance to sound an alarm. That was fortunate indeed. Barrett wondered where the wheel had come off, and where it lay, he had not seen it on the road. Then he decided that 'Simpson' had placed it inside the buggy and was carrying it with him. All Barrett had to do was to follow the buggy at a safe distance.

Mindful again of the danger of being discovered he stood still until the white horse and the man and the broken-down vehicle had gone so far in advance of him that he could barely see their outlines. Then he started forward again, choosing shadows to walk in, looking carefully at the ground so he would not step on anything that would snap noisily under his feet, keeping eyesight and hearing strained to the utmost tension lest he be surprised from the rear or from either side. Once he stopped, took his revolver from the holster, carefully examined the chambers to make sure they were loaded, and put it back again.

After what seemed to him an hour of this pursuit, the white horse turned to the left and went toward a house, situated far back from the road, which was sheltered by trees, and almost surrounded by an undergrowth of bushes. Barrett could make out its general lines, and noticed a light shining through windows on the ground floor. It was safe to draw nearer now, for the road was clear; and he sped forward until he arrived almost in front of the trees which half-concealed the house. Suddenly he heard a low whistle repeated three times—a short note, a long one, another short one; and he dropped to the ground, quietly worming himself among the trees and bushes. The signal was answered; someone stepped from the house to the porch in front and called in guarded tones:

"Everything all right?"

'Come down here, quick!"

Barrett could not see the speakers, but he could hear their voices easily; also heavy footsteps springing down the porch-stairs, and hurrying over the ground to where the old white mare was impatiently stamping.

Turning carefully and separating a bush with his hands he soon was able to obtain an unobstructed view. In front of him, scarcely sixty feet away, was the buggy and the smooth-faced young man; coming rapidly toward them was a short thick-set fellow dressed like a farmer, wearing white hair and a long white beard.

"What's up?" he demanded, shortly.

"The games' up! I've got a cable from Brussels!"

The older man snatched the white paper from the other's hand, lighted a match, and read it.

"Anything else?" he exclaimed.

"Yes. We've got to skip, Alex."

'Of course we have, you little fool!"

'Hold on a minute—let me finish!"

'Quick then!"

BLOOD BAD IN THE WINTER

Indoor Life, Too Little Exercise, Breathing Impure Air, Eating Artificial Foods.

Is it any wonder that the system becomes poisoned with impure waste matter in the winter time, when you think of the artificial life we lead?

With doors and windows tight shut we breathe the same air over and over again until it is incapable of purifying the blood.

In vain effort to cast the poisons out of the system the liver and kidneys are worked over time until they too are played out. Then comes the pains in the back, the headaches, the attacks of constipation and indigestion.

The quickest and most certain way to overcome this condition is by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They act definitely and directly on the liver and kidneys, awaken them to renew energy in entering poisons from the bowels and remove the cause of indigestion, backache and other body pains.

You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are unique in their combined action on the liver and kidneys and for this reason stand without a rival as means of purifying the blood and increasing the filtering and digestive forces.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

BUT won't she be hurt if you go over there and don't call on her?"

No, thank goodness, she won't. She's not that kind. I never knew her to get offended at anything. She doesn't think about things like that."

As I listened to that question and answer, it swept over me how painfully rare is the kind of woman the second speaker described.

There are some women who are perpetually on the hunt for slights and a chance to feel hurt. They will seize upon the least shadow of an overslight on a friend's part and nurse it into a full grown grievance and are really never so pleased as when they have a real good healthy one to brood over.

Then there are other women who, while not actively hunting for slights, are yet quick enough to pick up a grievance whenever they see a good chance.

In these two classes belong almost all of the feminine sex.

For the woman who NEVER thinks about such things, who NEVER fancies her friends are slighting her, who NEVER takes offense because So-and-So has been to call on Such-and-Such "twice since she has been to see me," or because Mrs. Somebody-else "has had her new auto two weeks and hasn't taken me out yet," is so rare that some of us don't know even one of her.

Men are much less apt to be petty in this way. Chiefly, I suppose, because they are too busy.

Of course, some woman is going to rise up and assure me that she would like to see the man that's any busier than she is with all the housework for a family of six to do, and that what I say may apply well enough to the women that have servants but that most women have to work quite as hard as their husbands.

Very true, my dear woman. But with this difference. While the woman's hands are crammed full of household tasks her mind is only half occupied.

The man, on the other hand, is usually busy both in mind and body.

Milton says: "The poet has less time for selfish and tormenting thoughts than other men because he has so many human things to think of."

If a woman wants to elect herself to this class, who see above hunting for silly slights and cherishing groundless grievances, it seems to me she will do well to follow the example of the poet, and by intelligent reading and conversation, to fill her mind so full of interesting things that she will not have time for petty thoughts.

WEATHER MAN SAYS MARCH WAS NOT BAD, BUT—

According to Toronto Observatory Last Month Was Warmer Than the Average, but the Public Remembering the Chilly Breezes Will be Inclined to be Sceptical.

Remembering the lamb-like beginning of March you were undoubtedly looking for the lion-like ending. And the first glance out of the window Friday morning gave you cold chills.

What the Weather Man Says.

The wise Weather Man up in Toronto Observatory, the man who has hind sight as well as foresight, who is hand-in-glove with Atmospheric Pressures, Mean Temperature, Sea Levels and such like, is able to tell you some interesting things about the month.

He tells you, to your surprise — for you had thought differently — that March, 1911, has been a comparatively mild month, with an average temperature to date of 30.2 degrees, which is slightly above the average of the past twenty years.

Remember the Cold.

You say, courteously, but firmly, "I can scarcely believe it," and plaintively recall how your fingers, and toes and nose were blue with cold.

Birds and Flowers.

But the Weather Man knows. He has the proofs just at his finger tips. So, for that matter has the man on the street with frozen extremities.

The birds, know, too. They have been twittering outside your window in the early morning for days. It is two long weeks since the first robin appeared in the city's midst. So do the tulips know, for they have for a week been bravely lifting their heads an inch above the ground. And the crocuses, which for three weeks have flaunted their orange blossoms to the sky, without any intervening glass between.

Sunshiny Days.

Thinking of these things, you remember the bright sunshiny days, from the 12th to the 18th of the month of March and also how the 27th was, for a little time at least, almost up to summerheat. You forget the snow—which had fallen to an average of six inches during the month—and remember these three or four really summer-like days.

Take it altogether, this March, which came in remarkably like a lamb, has kept the character.

Boast of Good Weather.

It is quite probable that shades of 1911 joining the wraiths of by-gone years at midnight on the 31st of next December, will say loftily:

"My twelve children behaved in a most exemplary manner. March, especially, whom I thought, might prove a most pestilent fellow, indulged only in mild pranks, though he had such a nervous temperament. The thirtieth day of his life was rather stormy.

Record of 1910.

And the ghost of 1910 will also loftily remark:

"Really, almost as good a record as my March had. Why, one or two weeks I could have dressed that child up in his sister June's clothes and no one would have known the difference, he was so sweet and gentle. My March's temperature was 3.6 above the average.

The triumphant tone cannot be echoed by 1909, whose third child was as much a lion as a lamb at least in the beginning.

Some Stormy Ones.

Nor by 1908, for that year has a distinct remembrance of a lion like March 1st.

As for the little shrivelled-up reminders of 1880, 1881, 1884, 1885, and nearly a dozen others down to the more robust 1896, they will keep far in the back ground murmuring sadly:

"How our March'a did set, just the very day they were born! They tore and storm and blustered, and we had no semblance of authority over them."

High and Low Temperature.

The coldest March on record was that of 1885, when the temperature was 18.5. The warmest was in 1903 with a temperature of 39.8. The very highest ever recorded in March was 75.2, which was on the 28th, 1910. The lowest was 18.4, on the 3rd, 1892.

RHEUMATISM AND COMMON SENSE

Father Morrisey's No. 7 Eliminates the Uric Acid.

Many treatments will relieve the aches and pains of rheumatism, but there is only one way to cure that dread disease. The common sense method is to remove the cause, and the effects will soon disappear.

Rheumatism is caused, as is well known, by the failure of the kidneys to perform their intended work of filtering the uric acid out of the blood and eliminating it from the body through the bladder. When the kidneys go on strike, the uric acid is carried to the joints and tissues, where it causes stiffening of the muscles, and the excruciating pains of rheumatism.

Father Morrisey, the learned priest-physician, after much research devised a prescription which would act directly on the kidneys, and by toning them up to vigorous action, cause them to clear the system of the uric acid. This remedy, known as No. 7, has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Father Morrisey's Liniment will bring relief from the effects of rheumatism, while his No. 7 Tablets will get to work on the cause and in due time cure the disease.

Why suffer from this painful and troublesome affliction, when by using the common sense methods originated by Father Morrisey and successfully followed for years, it is possible to aid Nature to restore you to health?

If you are not yourself rheumatic, you doubtless know of some one who is, and who would be glad to learn of a treatment which has such a consistent record of cures. It is easy to take and sure to benefit and ultimately cure rheumatism. 50c. a box, at your dealer's, or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que.

DAINTY WASH FABRICS

In Large and Exclusive Assortments

They are the prettiest we have ever had---exquisite in design and coloring---charming, flower-strewn effects and smart conventional patterns.

Qualities are excellent. Imported direct from the best known English mills, these pretty textures will bear the test of hard service, and bear it well. Yet, withal, prices are modest in the extreme.

Materials for a complete Spring outfit of dainty washable wearthings, can be chosen with ease and economy.

Sheer and heavier textures, dark and delicate coloring are amply represented. Frocks for the children to wear at play, or in school, dresses for the woman to wear about her daily task, dainty afternoon gowns, separate waists, and the hundred and one washable garments for which warm weather brings such urgent need, can be fashioned from them.

Nothing Plays a More Important Part in the Spring Outfit Than These Pretty Fabrics and Never Will You Have a Better Chance to Buy Them Than Now.

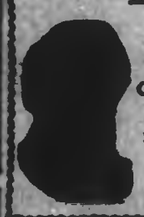
PEOPLE'S PULPIT.



Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

CHRISTIAN CREEDS

Which Is the True Gospel and What Must Our Creeds Sacrifice for Christian Union?

London, April 2.—Pastor Russell addressed the huge Convention at Royal Albert Hall to-night. Few preachers are so well known in Great Britain as he. Many of the leading newspapers, both here and in America, publish his weekly discourses. He took for his text, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ" (Romans i, 16). He said:—

Let us approach our subject reverently! With reverence, because many of our creeds are white with centuries. They were the creeds of our fathers and mothers. They must not be handled ruthlessly, unkindly. But we must approach the subject with courage because it is a Christian duty. For long centuries God's people have been divided into sects and parties, separated by creedal fences. At one time they gloried in their differences and destroyed one another in their zeal for what they believed to be the Truth.

Now we seem more clearly that none of our creeds are without flaw. Now we are willing—yea, glad, to take the Truth wherever we find it and to acknowledge the error, though it be our own. The oneness of the Church requires that we should have this courage! The interests of the world demand it! We have come here realizing that the time for covering errors, of which we are ashamed, is past; that the time for reverencing God and His Word has come. Whoever thus approaches the subject cannot fail of a blessing from God, in harmony with the Master's prayer, "Sanctify them through Thy Truth; Thy Word is Truth" (John xvii, 17).

Our topic must be, What is the Gospel of which St. Paul was not ashamed—"the faith once delivered unto the saints"—"one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism" (Jude 3; Ephesians iv, 5).

The speaker showed that the Roman Catholic Church, in order to unite with others, would need to cut out of her creed everything not found in the Bible—prayers to saints, homage to pictures and images, the sacrifice of the mass, holy candles, holy water, Purgatory, the infallibility of the Pope and the general theory that the clergy alone are the Church and brethren of Christ, and the laity are merely the children of the Church. He acknowledged that so great a concession could scarcely be expected at once; that the study of the Bible must prepare Catholics to accept it as the only standard of the faith once delivered to the saints.

The Protestant Episcopal creed next had attention. Little that was objectionable was found. One point alone could cause any hesitancy, he was sure—Apostolic Succession. He urged that no Scripture could be found sustaining this theory in clear terms. On the contrary, he gave numerous citations in proof that the twelve Apostles only possessed plenary inspiration and were directly under Divine control—St. Paul taking the place of Judas. These are the twelve foundation stones of the New Jerusalem, and the foundations of the holy temple mentioned by St. Peter—the twelve authorized by the Master to bind or to loose from doctrines and practices (Matt. xviii, 18).

The Westminster Confession, the foundation of the majority of Protestant creeds, distinctly emphasizes the teaching of Brother John Calvin. We can all agree that the words elect and election, predestinated and foreordained are Scriptural terms and that a truth must underlie and pervade them. But it will give none of us any pain to repudiate entirely the peculiar definitions attached to these words by Brother Calvin. Surely we are all prepared to deny that a God of Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power foreordained and predestinated from before the foundation of the world that everybody but the "elect" should go to eternal torment! If we cannot all agree as to what these terms mean, we can unite in denying the atrocious doctrines of the past which have so greatly dishonored our Creator and ourselves and which have driven so many honest minds away from God and from His Book.

As we have learned that Purgatory is not taught in the Bible, so also we have learned that this hell of our forefathers is unscriptural—that the Bible hell is the grave, the tomb, the state of death. This just penalty for sin is what the Bible everywhere teaches. We now know that the Hebrew word sheol of the Old Testament, and the Greek word hades of the New Testament refer to the grave, the state of death, the tomb; and that they are so translated more times than they are rendered hell. We now know that in old English literature the word hell was so used as signifying a pit, a covered place, a grave. The Pastor announced that free pamphlets, discussing the word hell and the parable of The Rich Man and Lazarus, etc., would be distributed by the ushers.

With our hearts and heads agreed to discard those features of our creeds not found in the Bible and, as far as possible, to harmonize what we do find therein, what is the result? Is it the Gospel of which St. Paul was not ashamed? The speaker submitted that it is, and believes that all Christians could heartily unite and fellowship upon its broad basis.

John Calvin and our forefathers were right in declaring that the Scriptures teach the "election" of a "little flock"; but they were wrong in claiming that the great mass of humanity, the non-elect, are "passed by," routed for eternal torture. On the contrary they all go to the Bible hell, the grave. They are all unconscious there. The Divine promise guarantees the resurrection of the dead, both the just and the unjust, by One Who gave His life for their redemption—"Who died, the Just for the unjust" (I. Peter iii, 18).

In a word, merely the "called of God" are being dealt with in the present time, although the remainder of mankind are having a "witness" and are learning lessons which will be valuable to them when their trial time shall come. We have not in the past sufficiently noted the difference between the Church and the world. The Church is invited to walk the "narrow way" in the footprints of the Redeemer, bearing the cross with him. The faithful are promised a share with Him in His heavenly glory, honor and immortality.

But nothing is said about tormenting the world. The entire race of Adam has been under condemnation for six thousand years. The coming of Jesus and His death were not intended to increase man's condemnation, but, by providing for their resurrection, to set them free from Adamic condemnation—to give to each and to all a full, fair opportunity to demonstrate their love of sin or love of righteousness, when the latter shall be fully as easy as the former—during Messiah's glorious reign of righteousness—the thousand years. The reward for well-doing will then be human perfection in a sinless Paradise restored.

Brother John Wesley lived in a time when practically all Christians had accepted Brother Calvin's theory that God had foreordained the great mass of humanity to eternal misery. Brother Wesley's heart was tender and sympathetic. He could not believe that his gracious Creator and loving Redeemer could possibly have been guilty of originating such a diabolical Plan. Wesley's heart and tongue rebelled. Let others preach foreordination to torment for non-elect infants, as well as the gray-haired, in a fiery hell. He could not do so. He must preach a God of Love who would not condemn his creatures to torture—at least not without some opportunity. But handicapped by the error respecting hell poor Brother Wesley was in a sad dilemma. He knew not how any could get to the awful place without Divine foreknowledge. And he knew not how to harmonize such Divine foreknowledge with Divine Love. Why should such creatures as Divine grace could not save from eternal torture he created at all?

Noble Christian Brother, he preached to the best of his light. Now with the clearer light upon God's Word, we can see that Brother Wesley and Brother Calvin both contended for Bible truths which they knew not how to harmonize. Now we see that the Gospel Age is the time in which God is calling and drawing and sealing with His Spirit and with the Truth His "very elect," the Bride of Christ, the members of the Body of Christ, the Royal Priesthood. Now we can see also that the Free Grace, which Brother Wesley realized must be a part of the Divine Program, belongs to the coming Age. Then all the blind eyes shall be opened. Then all the deaf ears shall be unstopped. Then the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep. Then "whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely" (Rev. xxii, 17).

Pastor Russell declares that the signs of the times, in conjunction with the prophecies of the Scriptures, clearly indicate to him that we are living in the "harvest time" of this Age which is drawing to a close—in the dawning time of the New Dispensation, which will soon be ushered in. He wished his hearers to clearly distinguish between this teaching and the common teaching represented in all of our creeds. Our hymn books, like our creeds, tell of the End of this Age as the end of hope—"the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds," in a huge bonfire. The Bible, on the contrary, shows that the most blessed days of the world's experience are about to be ushered in. The election of the Church completed, the saints, glorified with the Redeemer on the spirit plane, invisible to men, will take control of earth's affairs. God's Kingdom under the whole heavens will be established. Satan, the present spirit Prince, will be dethroned and deceive the nations no more for a thousand years.

The reign of Messiah in the glory of Divine power will constitute the Sun of Righteousness, Light and Truth and blessing to refresh the poor, death-stricken world. Healing will be in the beams of this Sun of Righteousness — Restitution, uplifting from sin, degradation and death. As the reign of Sin and Death terminates, the reign of Righteousness unto life everlasting will begin. The wonderful inventions and blessings of our day are but the forerunners of still greater blessings. Verily "the night is far spent and the day is at hand" — the great Day of which Jesus and the Apostles and the Prophets continually spoke. It will be doomsday only for all the systems of iniquity and unrighteousness.

Have we not all felt more or less ashamed of the unsatisfactory presentations of our various creeds? said Pastor Russell. Is it not time that, from self-respect, as well as from respect for the Almighty, we repudiate them? Have I not presented to you this evening the Bible message which the angels proclaimed at the birth of Jesus—"Behold, we bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people!" (Luke ii, 10). No Gospel message reached anybody before Jesus "brought life and immortality to light through His Gospel." This "great salvation began to be spoken by our Lord," as the Apostle declares (Hebrews ii, 3). None heard it during the first four thousand years, and not more than one-fourth of humanity have heard it during the last two thousand years. And the message which has been proclaimed for centuries past is certainly not "good tidings" as a whole, though it contains precious truths.

What I have expressed this evening is "good tiding of great joy" to the saintly few of the elect class now. And the lesser blessing of restitution will shortly be "good tidings" to all people. It will fulfill the Divine promise to our first parents that "the Seed of the woman" shall crush evil, "shall bruise the Serpent's head." It will also fulfil the promise to Abraham, bound by God's oath—"In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." It accounts for every text appertaining to Election, as well as to every text teaching Free Grace. It shows the Justice of God in permitting the death penalty. It shows the Love of God in providing the redemption for all, by a "Ransom for all." It shows the Wisdom of God in the ordering of all the various steps of the Divine Program. It will show the Power of God in bringing back the dead to life and in uplifting all the willing and obedient of earth to human perfection and an earthly Paradise. All surely the exceeding riches of God's grace, of His Wisdom, Love and Power are all demonstrated in His underful favor toward the saintly few now being developed as the Bride, the Lamb's Wife! (Ephesians ii, 7).

Let us, beloved brethren, lay aside every weight and hindrance. Let us come quickly into the "narrow way" and walk in the footsteps of the Redeemer and make our calling and election sure" to a place with Him in His Throne, and in his great work of blessing and uplifting humanity.

Grand Trunk Pacific to Spend Seventeen Million Dollars This Year

Seventeen million dollars will be spent by the Grand Trunk Pacific during 1911 in constructing new lines and erecting station buildings throughout the West. There will be 619 miles of work undertaken on the branch lines and completed during the present season. This will include the Calgary branch, Battleford branch, Melville-Regina branch, Alberta Coal branch, Regina-Boundary branch, Moose Jaw branch, Prince Albert branch and Biggar to Calgary. There will also be 265 miles of main line track laid, as well as 200 miles further grading on the branch lines.

Arrangements are also being made for the erection of 140 station buildings. This is the largest and most expensive year's work that the Grand Trunk Pacific has undertaken. The majority of new branch lines to be constructed will be laid in districts hitherto totally untouched by railroad development. Rapid strides have already been made towards completing the main line between Edmonton and the Coast, and up to the present 385 miles of steel has been laid. From Edmonton, going west, the line is completed as far as Prairie Creek, which is the entrance to the foot-hills of the Rockies, and from the Coast working towards the Rockies, 165 miles of track has already been laid.

This year the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and from Prairie Creek fully another 165 miles will be completed, while from the west and 100 miles are to be constructed.

The Alberta Coal branch will tap an entirely new country by running a line from Bickerdike on the main line through the Pacific Pass Coal fields, as well as those of the Yellowhead, and provision has been made for 60 miles of it to be constructed this year.

Another entirely new branch will be constructed between Regina and Moose Jaw, a distance of 49 miles.

Besides all this construction work a vast mileage of grading is to be accounted for, and this will be carried on to the extent of two hundred miles on the Regina boundary branch and those others which will not be completed.

In addition to the above, the Company is erecting some of the largest bridges in the West. Over the Red Deer River on the Tofield-Calgary branch, an enormous bridge, 200 feet high, is now under construction. Another huge bridge has just been completed at Prairie Creek on the main line. A third is to be constructed further west over the Athabaska River. Another over the Skeena river, which is to be the largest on the Transcontinental.

FROM THE EAST

Senator Baird, of Andover, N.B., Visited Peterborough Yesterday

Senator Baird of Andover, N. B., spent Sunday in Peterborough with his old friend, Mr. John Connor, who is now identified with the operation of the Cordage Works here. Mr. Connor took Senator Baird for a drive around the city, during which the gentleman from the East expressed his delight at the progressive and modern appearance of Peterborough, and was greatly impressed at the number and great variety of the industries located here. The Senator promised to return and make a more extended visit to Peterborough.

INVICTUS SHOES

You'll know the difference between good and bad leather only after you've worn it.

It's then that the inferior leather shows its defects, both in looks and wearing qualities.

When you buy a pair of shoes you are at the mercy of the maker.

If he puts inferior leather into them he's going to lose your future trade.

But, if he uses good, high grade, selected leather, it means that your purchases won't stop with the one pair---you'll become a permanent buyer.

Men who buy one pair of INVICTUS Shoes keep on using them from year to year.

Because INVICTUS Shoes are made of the best selected leathers, by skilled workmen, on modern machinery, over stylish, up-to-date lasts.

HE WAS PARALYZED

Mr. William J. Brennan, Western Hill, St Catharines, Ont., tells what it feels like to be paralyzed. He lost power of speech, face was drawn out of shape, lost flesh, could not sleep. Five doctors failed to help him. Electricity proved ineffective. He used Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food until his former good health was restored. Face was restored to shape, power of speech returned and he gained in weight. Says he would not return to former condition for all the gold in the country.

REV. F. J. SAWERS BECOMES RECTOR OF SAINT LUKE'S

The Lord Bishop of Toronto has been pleased to nominate Rev. F. J. Sawers, M.A., at present incumbent of St. John's Anglican church, Lakefield, to the Rectorship of St. Luke's, East City, in succession to Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, resigned, his resignation to take place at Easter. Rev. Mr. Sawers has accepted the position, and will, it is probable, enter upon the duties of his new parish some time in May or early June. This is an occasion that calls for double congratulations—to Rev. Mr. Sawers on the flattering recognition of his abilities and his fitness to discharge the responsibilities of so important a parish; to the parish of St. Luke's on securing the services of a clergyman, who though young in years, has shown the possession of abilities, zeal and devotion to the duties of his sacred office, which assure a successful and acceptable ministry. Mr. Sawer's selection for the charge of one of the most important parishes in his native city, proves that sometimes a prophet is honoured "in his own country."

OBITUARY

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson passed away after a brief illness at Nicholls Hospital. Interment took place yesterday at Little Lake cemetery.

REYNOLDS.

Harold Arthur Reynolds, the little five-months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reynolds, passed away Sunday morning, after a short illness of pneumonia. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m., from the residence, 503 Patterson St., to Little Lake cemetery.

WERE TENDERED A RECEPTION

The Sheffield Choir Were Given an Informal Reception by St. Johns —Dr. Henry Coward Gave a Short Address

An informal reception was given last night in St. John's schoolhouse, to the Sheffield Choir. Nearly all the choir were present and the schoolhouse was crowded. Short addresses were made by the rector, Mr. J. Crane, Mr. E. J. Devey, His Honour, Judge Huycke and two city representatives from Sheffield, Messrs. Jay and Woodwright.

Dr. Henry Coward made a suitable reply, in which he expressed the hope that the world wide tour of the choir would be a means of strengthening the empire sentiments.

Refreshments were then served, after which the gathering broke up with the singing of the national anthem and Abide With Me.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—Is there any law in this city to protect poor dumb animals? If there is why does it not exert itself in care of some of these noble, faithful beasts, which are so unmercifully abused, just to gratify their owners more than animal nature. For instance, I watched a boy, who drives a black horse for an express man today, and really it was pitiful and decidedly disgraceful to see that lad whipping that poor horse, which seemed hardly able to carry his harness and striving to do his duty better than his master. Hoping some interest will be taken in this matter.

Yours, etc.,

MERCY.

Victim of an Accident.

Buckingham, Que., April 3.—The body of James Belter, aged 15 years, a farmer's son, was found on the St. Malachi road, nine miles from here, with a bullet hole in the breast on Saturday. He left home on Tuesday in company with another lad named Edward Kelly and had a shotgun. They were going into the bush to cut wood.

The deceased did not return at night, and it was thought he had gone to the Kelly farm, but on Thursday night young Kelly visited Belter's and said they had separated to go to their respective homes on Tuesday. Search parties started out then and located the body. The lad was shot from close quarters, and the gun was found in the snow near him.

The Hull coroner and sheriff consulted yesterday, and decided the affair was accidental.

Seized Twenty-Three Deer.

Sherbrooke, Que., April 3.—The carcasses of twenty-three deer were seized here on Saturday morning by Customs Officer C. L. Deseve. Seven others were seized earlier in the week. It is stated that the deer are killed in Maine and smuggled into Beauce County, and from there shipped to Montreal. The animals seized Saturday morning were accompanied by a man named Sansan, from St. Prospere, who came along for the purpose of seeing what had happened to his previous shipment. Many of the deer seized were fawns.

Moves to Windsor.

London, April 3.—Major Lamb, who is in charge of the Dominion Public Works Department here, announced yesterday that the Department is to be moved to Windsor.

The Department was opened here two years ago, and has charge of all the work between Windsor and Toronto.

Canadians Released.

El Paso, Texas, April 3.—S. W. and K. S. Langley of Winnipeg, who were arrested last night in Juarez, were released yesterday. Both signed statements that they had set out to join the insurrectos, but were turning

An Honorary Member.

Montreal, April 3—Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister of Quebec, Saturday accepted honorary membership in the Canadian division of the Institute of Journalists.

It is expected that a large number of Canadian delegates will attend the annual moveable conference of the institute, which will be held in Dundee, Scotland, this year.

A VARIETY OF CASES IN POLICE COURT TO-DAY

A Charge of Keeping Gambling Houses is Heard by Magistrate —Boys Fined for Furious Driving.

TO-DAY'S CALENDAR

Two local men were charged at police court with keeping a disorderly house, gambling being the offence. Four other local men were charged with being players therein. Mr. G. W. Hatton was counsel for the accused, and entered a plea of guilty for all six. Judgment was reserved until next Thursday.

Alex. Clarke was charged with being drunk and disorderly in a boarding house. He pleaded guilty and promised that if he was given a chance he would not be guilty of such an offence again. The landlord had previously spoken to the Chief about the matter and stated that if the accused would pay his board and get out, that he was willing to withdraw the charge. The prisoner did this and was accordingly dismissed.

John Johnston, was charged with creating a disturbance in front of the Brock street rink. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $2.00.

A man named Joseph Sheridan was lodged in the cells a few days ago. He came out from the lumber camps and got under the influence of liquor, with that result. He told the court that when he came out of the camp he had $108 and now he had scarcely any money left, but could not tell where his money went. His Worship, Magistrate Dumble was of the opinion that the prisoner had lost enough money to teach him a lesson, and accordingly discharged him.

The two young men who appeared in the police court a week ago on a charge of reckless driving, were this morning fined $2.25 for that offence.

George Findlay, who is not of a sound mind, appeared in court charged with raising a disturbance in East City. The Magistrate allowed him to be taken to his home in East City.

Henry Wright, who appeared in court a few days ago, charged with being mentally unbalanced, was this morning discharged.

SPECIAL NOTICE The Upper Gallery Entrance for the entertainment of Sheffield Choir at the "Grand" to-night, will open at 7:30 p.m., for the sale of $1 seats in the front rows of the gallery. At 8 p.m. the remaining seats will be put on sale at 50c. The Performance will commence at 8:15 sharp.

FIRE AT THE LUNDY SHOVEL WORKS TO-DAY

Roof Caught Fire Presumably From Spark From Engine, and Considerable Damage Was Done.

BRIGADE'S GOOD WORK

What might have been a serious conflagration was narrowly averted this morning by the promptness of the Fire Dept. A spark from the G.T.R. engine set fire to the roof of the Lundy Tool and Shovel Company's building. An alarm was promptly sent in by the employees of the firm from Box 16, corner Perry and Bethune streets, and by the time the brigade arrived the south-east portion of the roof was in flames.

The employees of the firm did very effectual work in holding the fire in check by the use of the factory hose. When the fire brigade arirved a line of hose was laid and in a very short time the fire was under control.

Chief Howard estimates the damage to the building in the neighbourhood of $200. It will probably take an additional $100 to cover the damage caused by the water to the belts, machinery, etc.

Mr. Clarkson, manager of the works on the advice of Chief Howard, put a staff of men to work at once to dry the water out of the machinery and belts, which otherwise would have run the damage up a great deal higher.

SCOURGE FOR PARTIZANS.

Rosebery Bitterly Upbraids Party Politicians.

London, April 3.—The partisan jockeying which has been the chief characteristic of British domestic politics since the general election was carried last week to an extreme which lends further justification to the charge made by Hilaire Belloc, A. E. W. Mason, and others, who have retired from the political arena in disgust, that the interests of the nation nowadays are being made largely subservient to the interests of party.

Lord Rosebery, who made a dramatic appearance in the debate in the House of Lords on Thursday, spoke in accents of scorn of the tactics pursued by his noble colleagues. The issue was a reform bill which could not pass. It was only an air balloon floating through the upper house, and certain to come to the usual aeronautical calamity in the lower. After this chastening of the Unionists, Lord Rosebery lashed the Liberals with whips and scorpions, and appealed for a national, not a partisan settlement of the question, in which the interests of the whole nation were at stake.

"The general election, after all," he said, "is nothing but a confused clamor of voices.

"You," he cried to the Government leader, "cannot achieve a settlement on these lines. You can achieve a party triumph. You can take revenge upon this House for wrongs—real in many cases, and in some cases fancied—and having done that you will have attained by party what can be undone by party. Will not the Unionists make it their first task to uproot that which you have rashly planted in the rocks by the wayside?"

Lord Rosebery pointed a finger toward Lord Morley, saying:

"He bears an honored name, a famous name. Does he wish it to go down to posterity allied with a one-sided fanatical partisan settlement? I appeal to the head of the Government, who has to settle with history and posterity the great claims which his intellect gives him to be a conspicuous power in the history of this country. How will they stand when their names are at least produced before that dread tribune from whose verdict there can be no appeal, if they conspire to law hands on this immemorial constitution rashly and recklessly, without having done anything to build, but only to destroy?"

Dismissed the Appeal.

Edmonton, Alta., April 2.—The Supreme Court sitting en banc Saturday delivered judgment dismissing the appeal in the case of the Provincial Government against the Royal Bank to recover six million dollars of Alberta and Great Waterways bonds held by them. Some weeks ago Justice Beck made an order joining Canada West Construction Co., and the Alberta & Great Waterways Co. with the defendant bank in the suit begun by the province. To this the Government took an appeal. The chief justice was in favor of allowing the appeal, but the other three judges sustained the order of Justice Beck. The two new parties joined as defendants were given six days to file their defence. The appeal will be carried to the higher courts.

A Limited Session!

Washington, April 3.—At the Democratic caucus held Saturday night, a legislative program was adopted, which is expected to confine the activities of the coming extra session to a popular election of Senators, Canadian reciprocity, tariff revision investigation of Governmental Departments, Congressional reappointments, statehood of Arizona and New Mexico, general deficiency appropriations, District of Columbia legislation, and publicity of campaign contributions.

The membership of the various committees and the appointment of officials will also be decided upon.

Sheldon Arraigned.

Pittsburg, April 3.—C. W. Ross, alias Charles D. Sheldon, who is wanted in Montreal on allegations that he knows where the $300,000 belonging to trusting clients has gone, was arraigned Saturday upon complaint of his landlady here. It was charged that Ross, or Sheldon, had failed to account for the stock and money she had entrusted to him. About $1,185 is involved. The prisoner was held for court on this charge, and his case will be presented to the grand jury Monday morning. In default of bail, he was remanded to jail.

Honored a Compatriot.

New York, April 3.—Two hundred guests attended the banquet given on Saturday night at the Fifth avenue restaurant by a Canadian-French Democratic club to celebrate the appointment of Henri S. Renaud, a young lawyer of French-Canadians parentage to the position of deputy attorney-general of the State of New York. J. C. Hogue, a former Montrealer, who was president of the club, which is composed largely of French-Canadians, presided, and the principal speaker of the evening was Lieut.-Governor Thomas F. Conway.

Ottawa's Epidemic.

Ottawa, April 2.—Up to noon Saturday, there were twelve cases of smallpox at Porter's Island, and another is under suspicion in the east end of the city.

So serious has the situation become, that it has been decided not to await the erection of a new wing to the smallpox hospital, and a large tent will be in readiness to-night to receive new cases.

The disease is fortunately not of a very serious type.

SPEECH IS HOPEFUL

Birrell Sees Good Points in Bethmann-Hollweg's Reply—Peace Meetings are Held in England and Scotland

900 GATHERINGS

London, April 3.—The attitude of the Imperial German Chancellor, Dr. von Bethman-Hollweg, has not damped British zeal for arbitration. The projected demonstration to be held in Albert Hall has been abandoned in favor of a wider national movement. It took the form of 900 meetings on Saturday and Sunday in all the cities of the kingdom.

Councils representing 10,00 evangelical free churches adopted a resolution in support of the proposed treaty and welcoming the idea of American churches observing April 2 as Arbitration Sunday. Copies of this resolution were forwarded to President Taft and Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign Secretary.

News that the negotiations had actually been begun was received at these meetings with great enthusiasm. Arbitration was the theme of most of the churches, and a great peace demonstration was held at the Whitefields Tabernacle, where Lord Coleridge presided. Augustin Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was the principal speaker. After quoting:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men," he said:

"To-day there is a great tide and peace wave rolling across the Atlantic. It ought to be taken at the flood."

Referring at length to Dr. von Bethman-Hollweg's speech, he said that, though, in his opinion, it was below the grandeur of the theme, yet it contained passages of hope.

Municipal Bodies Co-operating.

London, April 3.—(New York Tribune Cable.)—There is much activity outside of religious bodies in the direction of Anglo-American arbitration. London and the great municipal bodies of England and Scotland are co-operating heartily in the organization of the national movement, and a Parliamentary committee recruited from both sides of the House of Commons has been formed for promoting an agreement between the two countries in favor of absolute arbitration. High Church Tories like Lord Hugh Cecil, are committed to it as strongly as the Scotch Presbyterians or the Welsh Nonconformists, and a series of non-partisan public meetings already has been opened in many English towns.

The advocates of this movement for arbitration with the United States are not discouraged by the German Chancellor's lack of faith in universal arbitration and the limitation of armaments. They perceive that the German Emperor wants to break up the Anglo-American concord. They admit that England and Germany must continue their wasteful competition in battleships and guns without being affected by the logic of the situation.

The chancellor's willingness to come to an agreement with England respecting an exchange of naval information is only a meagre gain which will not alter materially the existing condition of rivalry. The arbitration advocates reject the idea that Berlin can veto the concordat between London and Washington.

Attacked Missionary.

Shanghai, April 3.—Rev. John Murray of the American Presbyterian Mission at Tsinanfu, was attacked by Chinese on March 27, 17 miles north of that place. He was badly injured about the head and body and was brought back to the mission by a Government escort. He is now considered out of danger.

An absurd report has been circulating among the Chinese that Mr. Murray had stolen a child, and some of them set upon him while he was engaged in making his regular pastoral visits. His assailants are under arrest and the Chinese officials are displaying the utmost solicitude for his recovery.

COAL MINES ARE IDLE

General Tie Up is Possible if Western Miners Are Prosecuted for a Violation of the Lemieux Act

MONTREAL NOT SURPRISED

Lethbridge, Alta., April 3.—The mines are all idle in District No. 18, U.M.W. of A., and 6,000 men along the Crow's Nest Pass line are out of work as the mines. It will not be long before a large number of railroad crews will be moved or laid off. The only mine in the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association working is the McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. at Carbondale, near Coleman. The mine was idle all winter, and both the men and the company went to work under a special agreement by which all the output is contracted for in Spokane, so that it cannot supply the shortage for other companies. Should it do so, or should the Canadian Pacific Railway exercise the privilege of taking coal en route, the men will be called out immediately.

The miners blame the Canadian Pacific Railway and Lewis Stockett more than the mine managers for the whole trouble. The company has steam coal stored for five months' use, and therefore is not dependent on the operation of the mines. The other companies followed Stockett's dictation. The miners say that Jim Hill will not allow his mines to be used as a tool by the Canadian Pacific Railway to strike unionism. They expect the companies to sign up individually and thus break up the association.

Threaten General Strike.

Montreal, April 3.—The news of the great coal strike in the Canadian west has aroused intense interest among labor leaders in Montreal, but it did not come as a surprise.

It was authoritatively announced that the western miners are well supplied with funds, since they have at their back the United Mine Workers of America, whose coffers are declared to be heavy with coin.

Asked as to the likelihood of the strike spreading, a high labor authority declared that unless the demands of the men were granted, there was every chance of a long and bitter struggle, which would involve, not only every miner in the west, but also bring in every railway man and every worker in the mechanical and industrial lines.

If the officers of the Western Canada Mine Workers are arrested for having violated the Lemieux Trades and Disputes Act, a general strike may be declared all over the Dominion.

Armed Negroes Attack Crowd.

Lurel, Del., April 3—About 10 o'clock Saturday night a mob of armed negroes swooped down upon a crowd of spectators in the main thorofare of the town and fired a volley of bullets and buckshot into the crowd. Orem Stockley, 18 years old, son of a farmer living near Laurel, fell to the ground, shot through the head. He was taken to a hospital in Salisbury, Md., where he died yesterday.

Geo. Hudson, 30 years old, a white man of Bethel, was shot in the leg, necessitating amputation, and John Thompson, a white barber, was shot in both legs while shaving a patron. Other white men received minor injuries. It is known that several negroes were injured, but they cannot be located.

Officers were unable to come with the mob, and there was a fierce struggle between the two races until three o'clock yesterday morning. Windows were shattered and the exterior of buildings were greatly damaged.

Discredit Their Countrymen.

Chicago, April 3.—With the confession of one Black Hand agent, the announcement of another threat against a Government official, Jas. E. Stuart, postoffice inspector, and spurred on by the long list of recent Black Hand crimes, the Italian people themselves threaten to put a stop to the lawlessness.

A reflection of the view of many Chicago Italians is seen in an article which appeared yesterday in L'Italia, an Italian newspaper in Chicago.

The article says: "An epoch of blood, of cruel slaughtering, of ferocious vendettas is what the Chicago Italian colony is going through just now. Until a short time ago, crimes committed were almost in all cases those due to passion. It is necessary that the Italians themselves for their own self-respect, and for their own protection, organize themselves to liberate the colony here from the criminals staining its name."

Change in Russian Cabinet.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—Admiral Voevodsky, Minister of Marine, has resigned and has been given an appointment in the Council of Empire. Rear-Admiral Grigerovitch, the vice-Minister, is the new Minister of Marine, his appointment being gazetted Saturday night.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medical forest plants. DIAZ WILL BE GOOD.

He Has Decided to Grant Some of the Needed Reforms.

Mexico City, April 3.—Committing himself to the advocacy of many of the reforms demanded by the revolutionists, although professedly bowing only to the influence of public opinion, Gen. Diaz answered his critics through his semi-annual message at the opening Saturday of the Congress. The principles of no re-election of the chief executive and incumbents of other elective offices and the reform of the electoral laws so that the privilege of the ballot may be enjoyed by those citizens "who are considered capable of voting" were advocated.

The message refers specifically to the application of the no-election principle to the naming of governors, one of the chief contentions of the discontented element throughout the republic, the president stating a bill providing for "the period of renovation" of the officials in office should come before Congress and have his earnest support.

Abuse of power by Jefes Politicos, another of the evils complained of by residents in the rural districts, is to be abated, according to the plan outlined by the president.

The president proposes to improve the efficiency of the judiciary through a more careful selection of its personnel and lengthening of the period of office. Efficacious punishment of judicial functionaries for malfeasance is to be brought about through the enactment of more stringent measures.

On the subject of the division of the great private estates, first brought by Minister Limantour in his Paris interview, the executive has declared his determination to find sufficient means for bringing about this innovation.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The suffrage demonstration in London against the census was not a success.

The funeral of the late Bishop Dowling of Moulin at Hamilton was very largely attended.

The Provincial Treasurer received $50,000 from the estate of the late Goldwin Smith.

Mr. J. H. Grisdale has been appointed Superintendent of Experimental Farms to succeed Dr. William Saunders.

The Alberta Central Railway has begun to build bridges across the Medicine and Saskatchewan Rivers west of Red Deer.

Eight foreigners were arrested at Windsor for smuggling themselves into Canada. It is said a favorite route is through the Michigan Central tunnel.

The mayor of London, Ont., has made a demand that Mrs. Thornley either retract or prove her statements reflecting on the morals of the school children. Mrs. Thornley replies, adding details to her former statement.

Jumped Overboard.

Halifax, April 3.—The White Star-Dominion steamer Southwark arrived Saturday from Liverpool with 671 passengers, the great bulk of whom went by special trains. They are from the British Isles. About 30 are coal miners, who leave for Cape Breton to-day. The Southwark proceeded to Portland, here she will discharge a large cargo.

On the second day out from Liverpool, a man on the Southwark, who was in the third-class, but who was said to have had no ticket jumped overboard, and, though the steamer hove to for five hours, he was never seen again. A card was found on which he had written these words: "I am no good either to God, man or my wife." His identity was revealed by a valise. He has a family in England.

Rolled to Death.

Ottawa, April 3.—Edward Miner, an employe at Booth's Cardboard Mill, was drawn into the rollers of the mill on Saturday and crushed to death in the calendaring machine. All but his head was taken in before the power could be cut off. An inquest will be held. The deceased was 35 years of age, and leaves a wife and four young children.

THE CRISIS HAS PAST

Canalejas Will be Allowed to Re-organize the Cabinet and the Government in Spain Given a New Lease of Life

STORM IS OVER

Madrid, April 3.—The Ministerial crisis, which appeared fraught with the greatest possibilities, seemed to have ended as abruptly as it began. It has resolved itself, seemingly to the general relief, into a second reconstruction of the Canalejas Ministry.

King Alfonso on his arrival from Seville on Monday afternoon, immediately received Senor Canalejas and requested him to continue in power. The Premier agreed, on condition that he be permitted to make such changes in the Cabinet as he deemed necessary. To this the King readily assented.

The Premier hopes the work of reconstruction may be completed to-day and that the Ministry will appear in the Cortes without delay. The retiring Ministers probably will be Gen. Aznar, Minister of War, who was mainly responsible for the crisis by his attitude in demanding that the Ferrer debate be suspended immediately by a vote of the majority, and Senor Cobian, Minister of Finance, who appears never to have been wholly in agreement with the religious policy of the Premier.

It is understood that one of the first steps of the Premier will be to relieve the captain-general of Madrid of his command. The continuation of Senor Canalejas in power is universally regarded as the only possible solution of a crisis of exceptional gravity. Canalejas is supported both by public opinion in Madrid and the provinces, and all sections of the Liberals, as well as by many Conservatives. It is generally believed that he alone is capable of preventing the Ferrer case from developing into a Spanish Dreyfus affair, thus adding a serious element to the present difficulties.

The Socialist feeling seems to be passing, and the army, which has been so bitter in the Ferrer case, now seems to have changed its attitude. It is understood Canalejas, with a view a complete conciliation, intends to make a vigorous speech when the chamber resumes, eulogizing the army and defending it from recent attacks.

Vatican Talks of Difficulties.

Rome, April 3.—The report that Senor Canalejas has been summoned to form a new Cabinet is not welcomed by the Vatican, but at the same time the opinion is held that his new lease of power will not be for long. The Vatican officials base their belief on the fact that there are three questions of grave import which will confront the new Cabinet. These are: First, the Moroccan situation; second, the associations bill, which, it is said here, is opposed even by those outside the religious congregations.

Native Outbreak in French Guinea.

Konakry, French Guinea, Africa, April 3.—Two officers and twelve privates were killed and two non-commissioned officers, and fourteen privates were wounded during an engagement Thursday between two companies of a French expedition and natives led by the Sultan of Goumbra.

The French forces were entering the village capital of the Sultan to arrest him, as he has been active in instigating hostilities against the French authorities, because of their endeavors to suppress slavery, when they were ambushed and fired upon. The natives were armed with repeating rifles.

After a brisk skirmish, the French occupied the village. The Sultan was wounded, but escaped. A price has been placed on his head. Lieutenant-Governor Guy of the French colony accompanied the expedition.

Return to Work.

Springhill, N.S., April 3.—Six workmen among the ranks of the strikers returned to work in the mines Saturday. This makes a total of twelve for the week. Major Thompson, commissioner of the provincial police, arrived to-day with a force of thirty men who are fully equipped for efficient service. Two of the town police were arrested on Saturday on a charge of interfering with the company's police.

WAS TERRIBLY AFFLICTED WITH LAME BACK.

COULD NOT SWEEP FLOOR.

Three Boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Her.

It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back.

But they can't help it. It means work to put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered they get out of order.

Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney trouble.

Mrs. N. Larmour, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you, stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with my back and was so bad I could not even sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and with the greatest benefit. I used three boxes and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many diseases that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I believe they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box. 2

A new and novel feature in the way of birds, rabbits, squirrels, etc., will be up as targets this coming week, and will be a change from the ordinary bull's eye.

A GREAT NIGHT'S SPORT

All those in love with the manly art, both in Peterborough and at Toronto, will cast their eyes Hamiltonwards to-night, as the pride of Canada, Hilliard Lang, meets Paddy Gavin, the best boy in the East, in a ten-round contest, under the auspices of the Hamilton Bowling and A. C. As Lang meets Lannon here Friday night interest will be centred on his attempt to lower the colours of Lavin. But don't overlook Tommy Sturch who meets Willie Hurly, the crack English featherweight in the main preliminary. Manager Breen thinks Sturch one of the cleverest two-handed boxers in Canada to-day, not even barring Allen of Ottawa, who claims the championship. There has been a great demand for seats en bloc. Those wishing reserved seats had better be sure of reserving them. This will be the greatest fistic carnival ever seen in Peterborough and will not be the last. Those wishing seats reserved kindly leave name at the Examiner office. Box office will be opened Thursday morning, from 10 a.m. till 9 p. m. Lang will be here Wednesday, Lannon arriving from Buffalo the following day. All the preliminary men are working at their different clubs in Toronto. Tom Flanagan, in all probability, will referee.

CHURCH LEAGUE FORMED

Representatives from the following churches met at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, April 1st: Park Street, Baptist, St. James', Cold Springs, St. John's, All Saints', Knox and Murray Street. It was decided to form a League, comprising football teams from any church or Sunday School in Peterborough. The League will be affiliated with the Ontario Football Association. If any other church would like to enter a team they may send one representative to the committee meeting, who will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening, April 8th, at 8 p.m. Mr. Willis has kindly offered a valuable cup to be held for twelve months by the winners. Should any person feel inclined to offer medals he may do so with the certainty that the offer will be gratefully received. A complete list of the league officials will appear at the next meeting.

BOWLING

Gilbert Saunders broke all records for the Peterborough bowling alley in both the single and three score, with a score of 287 for single and 715 for the 3 score, thereby winning the handsome marble clock. Charley Green won a handsome sterling silver fountain pen for the 5 pin contest with a score of 412.

In the shooting gallery professional class, C. Mackie won the watch with a score of 29, and B. Halpin in the amateur class was the winner of a fountain pen, with a score of 30 possible.

The contestants and the resultant scores in the professional class for shooting were as follows:

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, April 1.—Wheat opened easy and about 1-8d lower, being influenced by the heavy American shipments, as indicated by Bradstreet's and smaller decrease in the monthly stocks than expected. Following the opening the general market steadied, with better support than has been in evidence for some days. Shorts were inclined to cover on the former cargoes offering and fact that liquidation is subsiding. World's shipments are expected to be much under last week and Australian offers are firmer. At the close the market was steady and 1-8d to 1-4d higher than yesterday.

CHICAGO, April 1.—In downright earnest the wheat pit was well fooled to-day. After a deceptive buying flurry, the market, contrary to general expectation, slid to the bottom price for the year. Lack of support had left an opening for a selling drive, which proved the hardest of the week. Closing figures showed but little recovery, and were 2c to 3c under last night. In corn there was a final loss of 1c to 1½c, and on oats ½c. Provisions at the end of the day had become less expensive by a shade to 10c.

British Cattle Markets.

LIVERPOOL, April 1.—John Rogers & Co., Liverpool, cable that there was a firm trade for cattle at Birkenhead Lairage to-day, and the offerings were quickly disposed of at 13 1-4c to 13 3-4c per pound for States steers and 13 1-4c to 13 1-2c per pound for Canadians. States lambs made 17 1-2c; wethers 16c per lb.

Got Big Money From Westerners.

Winnipeg, April 3.—The Railway Educational Bureau, raided in New York Friday, has secured thousands of dollars from railway men in Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton.

For three months advertisements of this association have been appearing in local papers for engineers, brakemen, etc., at large salaries.

Complaints from Winnipeg post-office started the investigation in New York. Each man was asked to deposit a fee to guarantee his fare to New York. They never heard of their money afterwards.

Clerk Fatally Injured.

Kingston, April 3.—George Carruthers night clerk at the British American Hotel, fell down the stairway at three o'clock yesterday afternoon, and now lies at Hotel Dieu in a serious condition and with small chance of recovery. Shortly after the accident happened, Dr. Robt. Henley was called, and later Corbett's ambulance removed the unconscious man to Hotel Dieu. It was found he was suffering from a blood clot on the brain. He has been unconscious from the time he fell, and it is not likely he will recover.

Another Remarkable Flight.

Paris, April 3.—Pierre Vedrine, who recently flew from Poictiers to Issy les Moulineaux, 206 miles in 2 hours and 12 minutes, made another remarkable flight yesterday. He left Issy early yesterday for Pau and landed near Moulin, covering the distance, 212 miles, at the rate of 77 miles an hour. Unfavorable weather compelled him to rise to a height of more than 6,000 feet, where he was out of sight of earth. He tried to keep his course by the sun and compass, but finding that he was losing his way, descended.

Enterprise For Ontario Town.

Highgate, Ont., April 3.—Oxford Building & Supply Co., is to build a $10,000 department store here. The business will be capitalized at $40,000 many women of the place taking shares.

Mr. O'Neill's Reply.

Mr. O'Neill at a dinner in Montreal at which were present English, Scotch, Irish and French was asked to give his opinion of the different races. Here is the answer he gave on the instant.

"The Scotchman," he said, and he clinched his right hand tightly and pretended to try to force it open with his left. "The Englishman"— And he went through the same performance, opening the hand at the end after an apparent struggle. "The Irishman"— And he held out his hand wide open, with the palm upward. "The Frenchman"— And he made a motion with both hands as if he were emptying them on the table.

There was not a word of explanation, but all understood thoroughly and had a hearty laugh.

A Good Shot.

A sportsman of great imaginative gifts and fond of telling his exploits related that at one shot he had brought down two partridges and a hare. His explanation was that, although he had only hit one partridge, the bird in falling had clutched at another partridge and brought that to earth entangled in its claws.

"But how about the hare?" he was asked.

"Oh," was the calm reply, "my gun kicked and knocked me backward, and I fell on the hare as it ran past."

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Pint Of Good Blood in Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:

"In the spring of 1897 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1906 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

CURES OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have tried in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I believe they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box. 2

A GREAT NIGHT'S SPORT

All those in love with the manly art, both in Peterborough and at Toronto, will cast their eyes Hamiltonwards to-night, as the pride of Canada, Hilliard Lang, meets Paddy Gavin, the best boy in the East, in a ten-round contest, under the auspices of the Hamilton Bowling and A. C. As Lang meets Lannon here Friday night interest will be centred on his attempt to lower the colours of Lavin. But don't overlook Tommy Storch who meets Willie Hurly, the crack English featherweight in the main preliminary. Manager Breen thinks Storch one of the cleverest two-handed boxers in Canada to-day, not even barring Allen of Ottawa, who claims the championship. There has been a great demand for seats en bloc Those wishing reserved seats had better be ante of reserving them. This will be the greatest Satic carnival ever seen in Peterborough and will not be the last. Those wishing seats reserved kindly leave name at the Examiner office. Box office will be opened Thursday morning, from 10 a.m. till 9 p. m. Lang will be here Wednesday, Lannon arriving from Buffalo the following day. All the preliminary men are working at their different clubs in Toronto. Tom Flanagan, in all probability, will referee.

CHURCH LEAGUE FORMED

Representatives from the following churches met at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening, April 1st: Park Street, Baptist, St. James', Cold Springs, St. John's, All Saints', Knox and Murray Street. It was decided to form a League, comprising football teams from any church or Sunday School in Peterborough. The League will be affiliated with the Ontario Football Association. If any other church would like to enter a team they may send one representative to the committee meeting, whic will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening, April 8th, at 8 p.m. Mr. Willis has kindly offered a valuable cup to be held for twelve months by the winners. Should any person feel inclined to offer medals he may do so with the certainty that the offer will be gratefully received. A complete list of the league officials will appear at the next meeting.

BOWLING

The Peterborough bowling alley and shooting gallery prize winners for last week were as follows:

Gilbert Saunders broke all records for the Peterborough bowling alley in both the single and three score, with a score of 287 for single and 715 for the 3 score, thereby winning the handsome marble clock. Charley Green won a handsome sterling silver fountain pen for the 5-pin contest with a score of 412.

In the shooting gallery professional class, C. Mackie won the watch with a score of 29, and B. Halpin in the amateur class was the winner of a fountain pen, with a score of 30 possible.

Max O'Rell's Reply.

Max O'Rell at a dinner in Montreal at which were present English, Scotch, Irish and French was asked to give his opinion of the different races. Here is the answer he gave on the instant.

"The Scotchman," he said, and he clinched his right hand tightly and pretended to try to force it open with his left. "The Englishman"— And he went through the same performance, opening the hand at the end after an apparent struggle. "The Irishman"— And he held out his hand wide open, with the palm upward. "The Frenchman"— And he made a motion with both hands as if he were emptying them on the table.

There was not a word of explanation, but all understood thoroughly and had a hearty laugh.

A Good Shot.

A sportsman of great imaginative gifts and fond of telling his exploits related that at one shot he had brought down two partridges and a hare. His explanation was that, although he had only hit one partridge, the bird in falling had clutched at another partridge and brought that to earth entangled in its claws.

"But how about the hare?" he was asked.

"Oh," was the calm reply, "my gun kicked and knocked me backward, and I fell on the hare as it ran past!"

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Pint Of Good Blood in Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:

"In the spring of 1907 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1906 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, April 1—Wheat opened easy and about 1-2d lower, being influenced by the heavy American shipments as indicated by Bradstreet's and smaller decrease in the monthly stocks than expected. Following the opening the general market steadied, with better support than has been in evidence for some days. Shorts were inclined to cover on the former cargoes offering and fact that liquidation is subsiding. World's shipments are expected to be much under last week and Australian offers are firmer. At the close the market was steady and 1-8d to 1-4d higher than yesterday.

CHICAGO, April 1.—In downright earnest the wheat pit was well fooled to-day. After a deceptive buying flurry, the market, contrary to general expectation, slid to the bottom price for the year. Lack of support had left an opening for a selling drive, which proved the hardest of the week. Closing figures showed but little recovery, and were 2c to 2½c under last night. In corn there was a final loss of ½c to 1c, and in oats ½c. Provisions at the end of the day had become less expensive by a shade to 10c.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—All our people stand when "God Save the King" is being played or sung. Most of us (not all) remain standing till its completion. Why cannot all be educated or persuaded to do so?

But we are Canadians as well as Britons. The song "Oh Canada" is now recognised as our Canadian national song, and a splendid one it is—reverent and patriotic, inspiring and dignified. We do not usually stand when it is being rendered. Why not?

This appealed to me most strongly at a recent mass meeting in St. Paul's church and called forth a suggestive letter of protest from Rev. Canon Davidson, a letter whose sentiments I most cordially approved.

I am informed the Sheffield Choir concert to-night will begin with "Oh Canada" and end with "God Save the King."

May I suggest to the audience that they stand, and all stand, and stand with respect and attention till the completion of the national anthem, and pay the same tribute to our own national song of "Oh Canada." It is well worth standing up for, both the country and the song, and the latter especially, so I am told, when given by Dr. Coward and his splendid choir.

Yours truly,
E. C. S. HUYCKE.

THE CONSERVATIVES ARE VERY UNCERTAIN ABOUT THE RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT

LORD ROBERTS CRITICIZES THE BRITISH ARMY

Fifty-Five Thousand Dollar's Worth Of Opium Destroyed

OPPOSITION APPARENTLY HAVE NOT MADE UP THEIR MINDS

Make Appeals for More Statistics on Reciprocity to See if it is to Our Advantage—Several Members Discuss the Question in the House Yesterday Afternoon.

FEELING AGAINST NEGRO IMMIGRATION

Ottawa, April 4.—"I have been trying to get at the facts of this reciprocity agreement, and I have not been able to ascertain yet whether it is going to be to our advantage or disadvantage."

So spoke Mr. Staples in the Commons yesterday afternoon. That he spoke the mind of a considerable portion o fthe Opposition was evidenced by the fact that they joined industriously in his complaint.

The somewhat frank intimation that the Opposition is beginning to realize that it has too hastily taken an unpopular and indefensible position was bolstered up by petulent complaints that the Government was responsible for their misfortune. Their failure to study the agreement and to learn the rudiments of trade conditions was charged against the Government in that Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson had failed to acquaint them with comparative records of prices on both sides of the international lines, and such other data as would have enabled them to know, as Mr. Lake said, "whether this was a good thing or not."

Richard Blain of Peel asked the Minister of Customs if margarine had been placed on the free list.

Mr. Paterson replied that he did not know. He had not the information beside him.

George H. Perley (Argenteuil) referred to the reply which Major Sharpe had received from the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce regarding an order of the House calling for information with respect to trade prices in various countries. Mr. O'Hara's reply was in effect that the information could be got from trade papers all over the world. Mr. Perley said this was a very extraordinary answer for the Government to make. It meant that every member should go out and dig up the information for himself. If the Government did not have this information then it was evident that Messrs. Fielding and Paterson did not have the information when they entered into the agreement at Washington, and could not know what they were doing. If the Government had not the information, why could they not get it? Without it the House could not discuss the agreement adequately.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would submit the matter to Mr. Fielding, who was absent, and an answer would be given later on.

Mr. Foster argued that it was a reasonable request that they should have the trade figures in the principle centres of the world before consenting to this agreement.

Dr. Reid (Grenville) pointed out that the United States pamphlet showed prices of farm products to be higher in Canada than in the United States. He affirmed that Mr. Fielding was selling the Canadian farmers, body and bones, to the U. S. Mr. Fielding knew that he had been gold-bricked, and was ashamed or afraid to get a statement out to Parliament which would convict him at once. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson knew that they could not face the farmers with it.

Mr. Blain declared that they were afraid to tell the people that cattle went in free to the U. S. now under certain regulations, and the same obtained as regards wheat. Under certain regulations it was duty free.

Mr. Paterson explained that in the agreement there was an arrangement for conferences on such questions, and if they had to be dealt with, this legislation afterwards that would be done by agreement.

Mr. Perley put a question: "Did he or did he not have the statistics of comparative prices when he was in Washington?"

Mr. Paterson: "We had all the information that we thought was necessary."

Wm. Thoms (North Lanark) brought up the question of admission into Western Canada of negroes from the southern States. He stated that hundreds had already been admitted, and thousands would follow when they learned that they could secure free homesteads. He was of the opinion that these lands should be reserved for Canadians.

Mr. Oliver said that his Department was carrying into effect the law as it was framed by Parliament. Under the existing laws negroes could not be prevented from coming into Canada, provided they were morally and physically fit and free from disease. The Department, he said, had no choice but to continue to administer the present laws until Parliament decided to enact a substitute. While it was true that there was some negro settlements in the west, the process was the first large, and apparently well organized movement of Canadawards. As a consequence the matter had not up till the present time been seriously considered. Mr. Oliver said that strong objections had been taken to a continuance of present policy of admitting negroes on the same terms as white people.

The major part of the day was taken up in a discussion of the Marine Department supply votes. The first vote under this head was one of $889,-000 for the St. Lawrence channel, an increase of $109,000 over the past year. Mr. Brodeur pointed out that it was necessary to keep the channel at 30 feet depth from Montreal to the ocean, and it was also an ambition of Canada's that the channel be ultimately made a 35-foot one along its entire length.

Mr. Blain thought that the item should not now be taken up, and should remain over till the conclusion of Sorel shipyard investigation, in which Mr. Lamotot is involved.

After some further discussion Mr. Brodeur consented to lay over the big vote, and the smaller lighthouse and magnetic observatory votes were taken up.

GROUPS FROM THE WIRES.

Census Commissioners for Ontario have been appointed.

The veto fight has entered on a further stage in the British Commons.

William H. Murphy was struck by a train on a bridge at Keewatin, hurled over the bridge and killed.

Catharine Calvin, widow of the late D. D. Calvin, Kingston, is dead, aged 86. One son, Sandford C. Calvin, survives.

Thieves broke into the wholesale liquor store of Rigney & Hickey, Kingston, and made off with two large cases of whisky.

Yesterday morning Alice, 4-year-old daughter of Rev. H. T. Lewis, Oshawa, was run over by a street car and instantly killed.

George Carruthers, night clerk at the British-American Hotel, Kingston, died yesterday morning from injuries received by falling down stairs.

The Railway Commission has made an important ruling compelling express companies to make deliveries in any part of a municipality, and doing away with the "delivery limits."

Engine No. 2,698 was upset Sunday night near Heimo, Sask., when a westbound freight struck some boarding cars there. Fireman McIntosh and Brakeman C. Ryan were severely scalded about the face and arms.

The dirigible balloon Parseval V. made a perilous descent at Halberstadt, Prussian Saxony, Sunday during a storm. The crew were compelled to rip the envelope, and the airship landed in a state of collapse.

Patrolman McGuire was shot and probably fatally wounded yesterday while attempting to stop a fight between union labor factions over work at a new Chicago office building. A score of shots were fired before the police dispersed the rioters.

Militia Changes.

Ottawa, April 4.—Further plans to reorganize the militia are announced in general orders.

The 58th Grenville Regiment, "Lisgar Rifles," and No. 5 company of the army service Corps are to be disbanded with a view to reorganization.

The Lisgar Rifles were formed April 18, 1867. There are eight companies, with headquarters at Prescott. Lieut.-Col. D. M. Beckett is commanding officer.

No. 5 Company, A.S.C., is at Ottawa, commanded by Major S. L. de la Ronde.

Only a few weeks ago the disbandment of the Prince of Wales Fusiliers, Montreal, the oldest regiment in the militia, was announced.

Increased establishment is announced for the 20th Regiment, "Grey's Horse," headquarters at Woodstock from three to four squadrons, and the 6th Duke of York's Hussars (Montreal) from two to three squadrons.

Public Employment Office.

Montreal, April 4.—The Province of Quebec free employment office was opened yesterday and Louis Guyon, chief inspector of factories and public buildings, was present to see the work started in the commodious quarters.

Mounted Police Not In Charge.

Winnipeg, April 4.—There is no truth in the report of the Mounted Police being ordered to the area affected by the coal miners' strike in Alberta.

BENJAMIN WESTWOOD
Of Toronto, President of the British Welcome League, an association which makes the way smooth for many a new-comer to Canada.

SOME BOLD BURGLARS AT LONDON

City Seems to be in the Hands of a Band Who Are Operating in All Sections—Police Working Very Hard

TO GET "KEYWORKERS"

London, Ont., April 4.—This city seems to be in the hands of a gang of bold burglars who have been operating in all parts of the city. During Sunday night the home of John Grayson on York street was entered by a man who ransacked the boarding-house from top to bottom. He was alarmed and escaped through the front door where a buggy was waiting, and he was driven rapidly away. The police are working hard to get these desperadoes, who they believe are the same "key workers" who visited several English street homes last Saturday.

Will Build Outside City.

Kingston, April 4.—As the result of a storm of opposition from the business men and citizens, the board of governors have decided they will not erect the new tuberculosis hospital on the present site of the general hospital. Funds for the new hospital have been donated by the citizens as a Mowat memorial. Those having the collection of the funds, wanted the hospital on the general hospital site, but a site will now be secured outside the city.

A Bigamous Clergyman.

Kansas City, Mo., April 4.—Eugene Hossemann, alias Haasmann, formerly a Methodist Episcopal clergyman, yesterday pleaded guilty to bigamy and was sentenced to three years in prison. Hossemann's first wife, who lives in Dixon, Mo., divorced him. Then he married wife No. 2. A few days later he met a pretty organist in a local mission. Twenty days later they were married.

Must Not Enforce Decree.

Washington, D.C., April 4.—The Supreme Court of the United States yesterday declined to enjoin the Federal judges in Oklahoma from enforcing decrees they had issued in liquor cases, involving questions of jurisdiction over liquor in interstate commerce.

There were no corporation decisions.

Crossed Three Frontiers.

Aix La Chapelle, Rhen sh Prussia, April 4.—The Aviator Lescartes and passenger, who left Hasselt, Belgium, in an aeroplane on Saturday, has landed here. The aviators crossed three frontiers, the Belgian, Dutch and German, in a single flight, although the distance travelled was only 44 miles.

"BOBS" THINKS THE BRITISH ARMY IS NOT ADEQUATE

Untrained Troops Will Mean the Downfall of Great Britain in Time of War, Declares Field Marshal—Viscount Haldane Says England Must Rely First on the Sea for the Safety of Commerce.

London, April 4.—In the House of Lord's yesterday Lord Roberts moved: "That in view of the altered strategic conditions in Europe this House views with grave and growing concern the inadequate military arrangements made in defence of the country and overseas dominions."

He said Lord Roberts, our trust is placed in untrained troops in time of war disasters will be inflicted, probably irreparable, and that might cause the loss of the Empire and our overseas as a people. It would be impossible to keep an absurdly small expeditionary force in six months' service if any serious trouble arose in any of the overseas dominions. We would require a million men over and above the regular army.

Viscount Haldane defended his Territorial system. England was the centre of an Empire, the parts of which were separated by great stretches of sea, and the command of the sea was the first requisite.

The debate stood adiourned.

PLANS OF THE HYDRO ELECTRIC COMMISSION

Many Uses of Power Will be Shown to the Farmer This Summer by Special Agents.

ELECTRIC FARMING

Toronto, April 4.—As the plans for extending hydro-electric power by the Ontario Commission to the farms are becoming developed they are attracting increasing interest.

It was pointed out yesterday at the Parliament buildings by a representative of the Department of Agriculture that cheap hydro-electric power for the farms would be an important factor in solving the labor problem, which threatens to intensify unless the tide westward is by some bold colonization scheme stemmed. The officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture point out that hydro-electric power would enable the farmers of the province to employ it for the irrigation of land, operation of cream separators, churns, water pumps, milking machines, machines for cleaning horses and cattle, saws, grindstones, plows and threshing outfits. The farmers' wives will be equally benefitted, as it will be available for heating, lighting, cooking, ironing, and to run the washing machine.

At the offices of the Hydro-Electric Commission it is stated that the average amount required for ordinary farm purposes is three horse-power. The uses to which cheap hydro-electric power may be profitably made will be placed before the agriculturalists of the province by the district instructors sent out by Hon. J. S. Duff, the coming season.

The commission favor a liberal policy on the part of the Whitney Government in establishing the projected provincial public power system, for the farmers. It is the opinion of the commissioners that the Government should defray the cost of the construction of the main transmission lines along the highways. This would only place the cost of the connections from the roadways to the farm houses and buildings upon the townships.

A further outlook for fruit of the Government's electric power policy is the fact that the extension of the system into the rural districts has brought into view plans for village and roading hydro-electric lighting by the townships. The commission proposes providing the main transmission lines, the townships to supply the necessary lamps. Within a comparatively short period every district in Ontario within scope of the transmission lines will be transformed by the splendor of the hydro-electric lights.

Destroyed $5,000 Worth of Dope.

Ottawa, April 4.—Fifty-five thousand dollars' worth of opium has just been destroyed in the furnace of the west block on Parliament hill. The opium had been seized during the last few months at Canadian custom ports, principally in British Columbia.

It took two days to burn the whole amount. For the most part it was done up in $25 cans of sheet copper, and the conflagration was carried out under the charge of two customs detectives.

As showing the power of the opium one of the officers, while throwing some of it into the furnace, broke a tin with his shovel. The fumes of the burning opium rose from his shovel and almost overcame him. Indeed he only got rid of the shovel in time, and had to be taken into the open air to recover.

BAHAMAS NEEDED.

T. B. Macaulay Says Should Annex Islands.

Montreal, April 4.—Speaking before the Canadian Club yesterday afternoon of the Bahamas and their desire to become a Canadian province, T. B. Macaulay, one of the Canadian promoters of the proposed confederation, declared that the imperial aspect of the question was the most important of all.

"In making the Bahamas a part of Canada," said Mr. Macaulay, "we would be taking a long step forward in working out the destiny of Canada and the empire. I see a vision of the future in which the British Empire is a great federation of partnership of five great nations, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, South Africa and India, all of them independent in regard to their own affairs and yet all united in bonds of common loyalty and common interests. The union of detached and helpless colonies into the one or the other of these five great parts would be a move towards the consolidation of the Empire. Everything that adds to the strength of one part adds to the strength of all the others.

"The acquisition of the Bahamas would help us to think imperially. The need of a substantial fleet to protect routes which our growing trade would follow would be self-evident. That navy would be worthy of Canada, worthy of us as one of the five partners in a great federation.

"The opening up of the Panama Canal," said Mr. Macaulay, will revolutionise the trade routes of the world. The strategic importance of the Bahamas as a half-way coaling station and a winter port for the vessels of the Canadian navy would be a powerful argument in favor of their acquisition."

Yankee Shuttle.

Danbury, Conn., April 4.—A letter mailed in Geneva, N.Y., 73 years ago, by Peter Bibby to O. S. Paddock of Yonkers, N.Y., was delivered yesterday to the latter's sister, Mrs. Mary L. Mead, of this city. The letter, which was written before envelopes came into use, was folded and sealed with wax, and had been mislaid in the archives of the Geneva office until a short time ago, when it was discovered and mailed to Yonkers, where no trace of Paddock being found, it was sent to the dead letter office at Washington, from which it was mailed to Mrs. Mead.

The writer and Paddock both died some years ago, and Mrs. Mead is Paddock's only surviving relative. The letter was in reference to timber land owned by Paddock in the northern part of New York State, and by its means Mrs. Mead hopes to establish a claim to lands which she has vainly tried to get in the past.

May Introduce Bill.

London, April 4.—Lord Chesterfield, Lord Steward of the King's Household, stated in the House of Lords last evening that the King's reply to the address moved by Lord Lansdowne, asking permission for the introduction of a bill limiting the prerogatives of the crown so far as they relate to the creation of peerages, had been received, and that it granted his lordship's wishes.

Steamer Burned.

Yarmouth, N.S., April 4.—Fire destroyed the steamer Hugh D. of the Hugh Cann & Sons fleet. The interior of the boat, with the engine and machinery, is ruined. She was loaded with supplies for the lobster fishermen, and was to sail in the morning for Tusket Island. There was no insurance.

Man With Broken Ankle.

Kingston, April 4.—Being under the impression that he had a big contract to fulfill in the west, Frank Empey, aged 40, a patient at Rockwood Asylum, purchased a screw-driver which a workman had used in making repairs, and when no person was watching, forced the screen off a window on the second storey and jumped to the ground. His leg was broken at the ankle, but in this condition, he ran several yards before he was captured by a guard. The broken bone had torn the sinews and nearly penetrated the skin and the foot was turned around when he was captured. He will likely lose his leg.

Petrolea In Darkness.

Petrolea, April 4.—The town has been in darkness the last few nights because of friction between the electric light company—a private corporation, and the Town Council. The council has not met the terms of the company, pending a report from the Hydro-Electric Commission as to prices for Niagara power, and the time when it can be installed. The company declined to wait—hence the darkness. In the meantime, arrangements like will be made for temporary lighting with a local manufacturing concern.

A Brutal Husband.

Montreal, April 4.—In the recorder's court yesterday morning Mr. Perras, clerk of the court, deplored the fact that the municipal by-laws did not allow him to refuse the application of the lash for wife beaters.

The comment was brought about in the hearing against Joseph Caron, 407 Plessis street, who was arrested on Saturday night in the very act of beating his wife. Even in the presence of the police, the man tried to strike the woman and was prevented only by the superior strength of the officers.

Raising Funds for Charities.

London, April 4.—Society is devoting itself to charity functions during the closing fortnight of Lent.

The most original of these is an exhibition of coronation tiaras by New Bond street jewelers, with guinea admission tickets. Less pretentious has been a "Saloon Fragrant," with 1,000 guineas raised by the sale of perfumery by handsome actresses. There are also royal dance matinees and numberless devices for relieving "endowing" for the hospitals to a fine art.

Cardinal In Collision.

Waterloo, Belgium, April 4.—Cardinal Desiderajus Mercier, Archbishop of Malines, had a narrow escape from death yesterday in an automobile collision. The chauffeur, in seeking to avoid a woman, swerved the machine, which dashed into a tree and was wrecked. The cardinal was badly cut about the face and several of his teeth were knocked out. The chauffeur was seriously injured.

Without Lines in the Lens
The only near-and-far glasses that can be universally worn without discomfort and without suggestiveness of "old" appearance. The "near" and the "far" lenses are one solid glass. No "lines," no cement—and perfect sight with the discomfort and unsightliness left out. They cost more than the ordinary 'cement bifocals' but if you are particular of comfort and appearance they are worth the difference. We have scores of people in this city using these Kryptoks who are highly pleased with them.

THE STRANGE CASE OF ELEANOR CUYLER

"This cable isn't all, Alex. . . . . When I was going to Titusville early this evening, I overtook a stranger on foot just beyond Tyson's farm. I don't know how far out this way he'd been, but I didn't like his looks."

"Get a chance to say anything to him?"

"Yes. He rode with me in the buggy back to Titusville. Said he was visiting there and was coming out to look at Pithole in a few days."

"The devil!"

"Yes—Tyson had told him about my geology work here, and about her—about her being being sick—my wife, I mean."

The other nodded. After a moment he asked:

"What did he look like?. . . . . Maybe you're only nervous."

"Maybe I am. But I'd give a good deal to be out of this job and have it over with. I tell you I'm in a cold sweat half the time."

"Never mind your sweat! Tell me what he looks like."

"Well, he is about forty years old, I should judge, and spare, but not frail. Wiry, athletic build."

"Quit generalities! Give me details. Is one of his eyes blue, and the other brown? Has he got a broken nose and half his right ear gone? Give me line on him! You know what I mean."

The stout man spoke threateningly and the younger shrank from him.

"All right, Alex., I'm coming to that. No, his ear isn't chewed off and he isn't a cripple. But he's a man of power—force—do you understand? And his hair and beard are a tawny yellow, and he has pink cheeks, and cutting blue eyes — I could feel them looking at me sidewise. . . . . What's the matter Alex. Are you ill?"

The thick-set man shook his head. "No," he answered in a strained voice, leaning one hand heavily against a tree. "Are you sure this fellow had tawny hair and beard," he continued, speaking with difficulty. "and pink cheeks? And those terrible blue eyes?"

"Yes!" the other exclaimed in surprise. "Do you recognize him? Have we any reason to think—"

"We have every reason to think and to act without an instant's delay!" The stout man recovered his poise with startling suddenness. He's the last human being I want to see or hear from until we get safely across the water! In this game I would risk outplaying any other living man—but if he's in it, there's only one thing for us to do. . . . . Call Meg! Bring her down here—never mind the horse—get Meg!

The younger man started for the house, and while he was gone Barrett lay motionless in the underbrush, scarcely daring to breathe, for the other strode up and down so close they could almost touch one another.

Then "Professor Simpson" returned, and with him a heavily built woman.

"What's up, Alex.?" she said, cautiously.

"Everything. . . . We're called off by cable, and Wotsirb's on the job."

"Wotsirb!" the woman exclaimed, starting back a step.

"Yes. He's in Titusville now. He was at Tyson's farm this evening. And the chances are that he'll be out here by daylight—as soon as he can get a crowd of operators on from Erie or Pittsburg. . . . . There's no train due in Titusville until two o'clock in the morning, so we've got time to start. . . . We'll carry out the original plan. You two will hoof it across country to Oil City, take the Owl Train to Pittsburg, jump the Pennsylvania Limted when it comes along from Chicago, and meet me in Hoboken tomorrow night at the usual place."

"Yes," the younger man interrupted, "but how are you—"

"Shut up! Listen. . . . I'll take her in the buggy. We can reach Pleasantville before Wotsirb does. There I'll turn off the back way, through the woods, carry out the original plan, and at Hydetown catch the three o'clock train for Buffalo. That will land me in New York the same time you get to Jersey City—and we can meet in Hoboken. I'll wire from Buffalo, engaging passage on three separate steamers sailing Wednesday."

"But you can't!" the smooth-faced man burst forth. "You can't take her in the buggy!"

"Why not?"

"One of the wheels came off and went to smash! You can't drive a hundred feet in it!"

"You mean it?" Alex. gasped.

The other nodded, and the stout woman started to sob.

"Hold your tongue, Meg!" the elder man exclaimed. "Let me think a moment. . . . . Well, you two start for Oil City. I'll take the girl on foot through the woods as long as she can walk, and then lug her on my back as far as necessary."

He paused and felt in his pockets before adding:

"Got the hypodermic?"

"Yes, but I didn't stop to buy any more of the remedy. When I got that cable I didn't stop for anything. I gave her the last I had at three o'clock this afternoon and the effect will wear off before daylight."

"That will give me time enough. . . Now get a move on! Stick to the original plan—don't forget the satchels. . . . Come along, Meg!"

The three went off in the direction of the house, and as soon as they had disappeared therein, Barrett sprang from his hiding-place and fairly flew back to the road.

If Winthrop and Hambidge only would come in the next few minutes. He peered as far as he could in the darkness, and listened intently; but saw nothing. For one moment he thought he heard the hoof-beats of a galloping horse, then knew it was all imagination. No; nothing could be expected in the way of reinforcements. He must play the hand alone—with caution, but resolutely, and with instant decision.

Fortunately, too, the matter would be comparatively simple. Instead of tackling all three of the gang in an unequal struggle he would wait until "Professor Simpson" and the stout woman started across country towards Oil City. Then he would quietly follow the other man and Eleanor until they were at a safe distance from the locality—and the rest would be easy. Two of the gang might escape; but the ring-leader—Barrett's fingers locked and interlocked, his eyes contracted; his lower teeth showed through his tightly-drawn lips.

Again he turned back towards the house, and saw the shadow of someone at a side window. What had they been doing to Miss Cuyler while he was running up the road and looking for Winthrop and Hambidge? What were they doing to her now? What was the "original plan" the chief of the gang had referred to? Evidently he did not intend to take her back to Buffalo and New York with him. Could it be possible that now at this moment, they were making preparations to——

With noiseless steps he ran to the front of the house hoping to see the interior through the door, but it was closed. For an instant he halted, and pulled his big revolver from its holster. Then placing one hand on the floor of the porch, he sprang upward; and came down crashing through a rotten board. Quickly he pulled his foot out of the hole, and had half-risen again when a dark body launched itself through the open window close by. Something dealt him a terrific blow on the head; his eyes swam and with a groan he sank down in a heap.

He could not have been stunned more than a few moments, for in his first regaining consciousness he was dimly, vaguely aware of three people hurrying past him in the darkness, half-leading, half-carrying a fourth; and as he painfully, slowly raised his head a few inches he saw them plunge into the woods.

Then he sank back to the floor of the porch, his head aching, aching, his body benumbed. His brain was seething in fiery circles, and through them was woven the portrait of a young girl in brown and white, her lips half-parted in a smile, her eyes looking frankly, directly, into his.

"I must get to her!" he murmured weakly. 'My God! I must get to her somehow. . . . She's there in the woods—they're carrying her off—"

By almost superhuman effort he struggled to his knees, slowly made his way down the slope to the ground and painfully crawled across the little open space surrounding the house. As he went forward sharp stones cut his hands; twigs, rough, wiry weeds, bushes—a thousand forms of rank undergrowth—impeded his progress; but he kept on, and on, little by little; and finally disappeared in the ghost, black, silent, awe-inspiring forest.

XXII.

While Barrett, concealed in the bushes before the house, had been listening to the members of the gang plan their flight, young Jim Tyson, mounted on a fiery little colt, galloping from his father's farm toward Titusville, had an adventure.

He was going up a slope at a pace little short of a runaway—a particularly dark, black slope—when the colt suddenly shied violently, reared, and whirled half-round.

"Whoa, there, Tim!" he commanded; and the same moment realized that he was looking down at a man on foot, who was gripping the colt's bridle with both hands.

"Steady, my friend," the stranger remarked, as if theirs was the most commonplace of meetings.

"Let go there!" Jim shouted. "I'm in a hurry—"

"Oh, I thought he was running away with you," the stranger rejoined; "and supposed you'd be glad of a helping hand. I want to make sure you're not hurt in any way," he added. "Here, Winthrop, turn the bull's eye on this young gentleman."

A blinding glare of light flashed into Jim's face, and he raised an arm to shield his eyes.

"Is your name Winthrop?" he exclaimed.

"Yes—"

"Where are you staying in Titusville?"

"At the Brunswick—why?"

"Do you know a Mr. Hambidge there?"

"That's my name!" the lawyer replied, springing out of a light waggon whose dim shape Jim now saw for the first time.

"What do you know about Mr. Winthrop and Mr. Hambidge?" demanded the man who still held tightly to the colt's bridle.

"I've got a letter for them," young Tyson replied, "but—but I was told to deliver it at the hotel."

"Hand it over, my lad, it's all right. You must know the driver of this rig?—he's from Brown's livery. He'll tell you it's all right."

The waggon came alongside.

"Better do as he says," advised the driver.

With evident misgiving Jim handed the envelope to Winthrop, who quickly read the note inside, as did Hambidge, and gave it to the third stranger. A single glance was sufficient.

"Barrett has got ahead of us!" the painter exclaimed.

"Yes," growled Wotsirb, "and he's probably queered the game—scared them off."

Then he suddenly asked: "Can you two ride bareback?"

"I can," Hambidge answered.

"I never have, but I'm not afraid to try," Winthrop added.

"Unhook your horses, driver! Leave on their headstalls—snatch off all the other harness. . . . These men have got to ride ahead with me and can't wait for the waggon."

"Not on your life!" the driver protested. "I'll not obey my orders—"

"Never mind your orders—this is a case of life or death. Get to work Winthrop. . . . Here, young man, climb on that colt! I need him, and I'll see he gets back safe to you."

"Is it the sick lady you're going to?" asked Jim Tyson, doubtfully.

"Yes—and if we don't get there quickly she may be dead."

Jim threw himself to the ground. "Get on," he said. "The colt's yours!"

The driver made no further objection. There was a rattling of chains and buckles, the harness was pulled off, and Jim and the driver saw the others dash away; Wotsirb in the lead, trying his best to hold the excited colt under control.

In Search Of Beauty

You Must First Win Health by Getting the Blood Rich and Red

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Every man and every woman has an individual idea of what constitutes beauty.

Is beauty skin deep or does it depend on the glow which health alone can give? Is it due to regularity of feature or to the gracefulness and elasticity which accompany health and vigour?

To win beauty you must first gain health. Rich, red blood is the secret, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is successful and popular because it forms rich, red blood and in this way gives gracefulness to every movement and a healthful, natural glow to the complexion.

Thin blood and weak nerves soon give one a tired, worn out appearance. Worry and anxiety show themselves in wrinkles and care lines. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food enriches the blood, restores vigour to the nerves and drives away headaches and bodily pains.

By filling the arteries with new, red blood, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food rounds out the form to healthful proportions, makes the muscles and tissues firm and strong and gives vivacity to mind and body.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50 at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WEDDING KNIVES.

They Were Once a Necessary Part of a Bride's Costume.

Of the many dainty and curious relics belonging to old wedding customs none is more interesting and beautiful in themselves than the once indispensable bride knives, specimens of which still linger here and there among the cabinets of old country houses in England.

Or you may discover a slender, quaint old pair of these ancient posy knives in their delicate, faded cases, hiding behind the glass in some sleepy provincial museum.

You scarcely realize as you examine them that without her wedding knives attached to her girdle the medieval and seventeenth century bride would hardly have considered herself befittingly dressed. So completely a part of the marriage costume were they and so important an item of the ritual of the ceremony that they once came to be considered almost as necessary to the orthodox marriage as the veil and ring themselves. The old plays teem with allusions to them.

And who can forget the figure of Juliet, wearing her wedding knives, as she stands in tragic anguish in the friar's cell, and again when she is about to take the sleeping potion? Shakespeare in the old quarto of 1597 made special reference to his heroine wearing them.

Of the hundred and one delicate trifles of the ancient wedding toilet few were invested with more tender fancies of mystic symbolism than these knives. There was first the idea of the severing of the knot of love and then the more practical suggested emblem of good housewifery and domestic policy.

They were not worn in England alone, but all over Europe wedding knives formed part of the bride's regular accoutrements. The highest invention was often brought to bear upon their metal, brocade and shagreen cases and sheaths. In the old Flemish pictures they may be seen hanging from the ladies' girdles beside the budkin, scissors and other personal articles of the new wife.

Very beautiful indeed are some of the quaint old blades and handles, and all were of superior quality and artistic ornament. As the rank of the bride rose so they became more elaborately chased, and sometimes they were jewaled to a standard of immense value. It is very curious to learn that many of the finest English specimens emanated even in those remote days from Sheffield.

The precise origin of the custom of wearing wedding knives is lost in obscurity, but their decline from favor seems to have set in after the reign of William and Mary. In the time of Anne and the early Georges the custom was already obsolete and archaic. There is something almost mysterious in the way in which these beautiful little mementos have completely vanished from modern usage, disappearing almost concurrently with the ill-fated Stuarts.—London Queen.

FOR A LONG LIFE

Fresh air and exercise, with proper food and a sufficient amount of sleep are the essentials.

Under such a regime of living germs cannot develop and many diseases are prevented.

Should the system require a tonic, take only such as you know their ingredients—such is Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the health-giving properties of the cods' livers, with all the useless grease eliminated and tonic ironadded, happily blended in a mild, medicinal wine.

For this reason Vinol is regarded as one of the greatest body builders and invigorators for aged people. It invigorates and builds them up and keeps them up.

We sell Vinol with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction the price will be returned. McDermid and Bury, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

Almost Persuaded.

"Oh, my dear, what a pretty, cozy little home you have!" exclaimed a caller to an east end lady the other day. "I should think you'd be perfectly happy in such a beautiful place as this."

"I am," beamed the hostess. "It really is a sweet place. Sometimes I actually feel like giving up my club work and living in it for awhile."

FRENCH CHEF SUPREME

HE RULES IN EVERY COURT BUT THAT OF KAISER.

Escoffier Cooked, Who Prepares the Dinners For King George, Is a Master Chef His Art, and Receives a Princely Salary—Cooks' Names Are Printed on Menus—How Emperor of Austria Got His Chef.

The French chef rules supreme in the royal kitchens of Europe with one exception—that of Germany. The latter must not have one. German public opinion is against it. In fact, there is a grand culinary quarrel now in progress in Germany. There are at least six French cooks in the best houses in Berlin. Even the chancellor has a French cook, but the emperor, owing to the pan-Germanic idea, keeps to the native article and has [illegible] of three-quarters out in Germany.

[illegible] is dead with one of the court of Italy. So [illegible] chef to the prince de Arenberg.

The most celebrated [illegible] Escoffier, who succeeds another Frenchman, M. Menager. The latter had a salary of $10,000 a year and after twenty-five years in the royal service has become head of the kitchens of the new Royal Automobile Club in Pall Mall.

The most highly reputed royal kitchens [illegible] are those at Windsor Castle. They were established there [illegible] ago under the auspices of the chefs and have been adapted to modern needs.

They are very handsome. White marble, Buckingham Palace white metal, the Windsor kitchens are panelled in black oak, a work carried out by George III. at a cost of $250,000. Each kitchen is in charge of a special cook who is an expert in cooking [illegible], entrees or sweets, vegetables or pastry. There are four sergeants-cook, if the term may be used, under the head chef. For the sweets and pastry there are two special chefs. In all about thirty principals are employed.

For cooking purposes there are thousands pots and pans, for the most part in copper, and five men have nothing to do but keep them scoured. These pots and pans alone are worth $30,000.

Each service is presented in duplicate, so that a choice is available, and each bears the name of the underchef responsible for it. This is an old custom due to the way cooks in past times had of claiming all the good dishes [illegible] any share in the bad ones.

The Czar holds by the cooking of [illegible] and has an inordinate fancy for his own special pilaff, a compound dish which contains rice, [illegible] prunes, a pint or more of [illegible], butter, cheese, white wine, saffron, pepper, parsley, salt, and so on, and a minim quantity of coffee.

Although in Spain the cuisine of the court is in charge of a Frenchman, M. Candeville, curiously enough German influence is strong at the royal table. There there are also the national tastes to consider, these leading to the production of chicken in a thick soup of capsicum, dishes floating with oil, cream tarts upon cabbage leaves and the famous gaspacho, a peculiar Spanish cold soup which contains tomatoes, onions, cucumbers, garlic, a glass of oil, vinegar, pepper and bread, to which before serving powdered ice is added.

A queer story is told of how the emperor of Austria got his cook, Perski, who is a Hungarian. The emperor is not much of an eater. One day he was dining with the Count of Rheingasan and was delighted with the way in which a wild boar's head was cooked.

Two days afterward an enormous box arrived at Schoenbrunn, where the emperor was in residence, sent with the homage of the count. When it was opened Perski was found inside, no worse for his experience, and the emperor, accepting the gift, made him his chief cook.

French influence is supreme in the cuisine of the czars and has long been. Once the post of chef in Russia was not without danger, for there is a tradition of a cook who, having spoiled a roast, was impaled and himself roasted before his own fire. In the eighteenth century, when French cooking was most famous, a chef at the Russian court got as much as [illegible] livres a year. What is more, he was so important that when in a fit of pique he left suddenly the czar sent couriers after him to induce him to return, and he did so when he had got an apology from the sovereign.

The present czar's chef is Pierre Cubat, who is also a major domo. He is a regular Parisian and goes to Paris always to purchase his best materials. The most important of these are foies gras truffled and chickens. He has to provide food each day for 300 people, because meals are provided at the royal table not only for Nicholas II. and his family, but for all the members of the court down to the civil and military officials.

Cubat receives $20,000 a year. One has to remember his responsibilities, for each cutlet, each piece of bread, each portion of dessert, may carry death to the czar in it. M. Cubat keeps his precautions a strict mystery. The truth is that the imperial kitchens are full of secret police agents who act as dishwashers, scullions, coal carriers, etc.

Codfish fried in oil is the czar's favorite fish. Chocolate cream delights Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. Abdul Hamid lived on eggs and milk. Alfonso XIII. declares that the best meal he ever had was when he shared the meal of some carters by the roadside.

Fate of Pins.

By a series of experiments conducted on his estate a French investigator has discovered that pins go the way of all flesh and are resolved into dust. Hairpins, which the experimenter watched for 154 days disappeared at the end of that time, having been resolved into a ferrous oxide, a brownish rust, which was blown away by the wind. Bright pins took nearly eighteen months to disappear, polished steel needles nearly two years and a half; brass pins had but little endurance; steel pens at the end of fifteen months had nearly gone, while their wooden holders were still intact.

The Portuguese Rabanadas.

A dish as much eaten by the Portuguese as mince pie by Americans is the rabanadas. It is of Moorish origin and is easily and quickly prepared, as befitted the habits of a nomadic race. Thick slices of bread are soaked in new milk, fried in olive oil and then spread with honey and eaten hot. The result is something delicious, and those who have once tasted the rebanadas will want to taste it again.

A Spanish Custom.

It is customary throughout Spain for the waiters of cafes to fill a glass of wine or liquor so that it overflows upon the saucer. This custom, in which it is desired to show an appearance of liberality, is called "the foot bath."

A Heroic Pup.

Caesar, a five-months-old terrier, has been presented with a collar at Winchester Guildhall and enrolled in the Brotherhood of Hero Dogs for having saved his mistress's life by rousing her during a fire.

"YOU'VE GOT TO SHOW ME"

THE Origin and Originator of Missouri's Nickname, Which Inspired Governor Hadley to Offer $500 for a Substitute—But, Alas! He Couldn't Show Why.

(Copyright, 1911, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

WILLARD D. VANDIVER, formerly a Representative in Congress, is author of the famous phrase "I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me." But it was not until after this expression had given to Missouri a new nickname—the "Show Me" State—that its authorship was traced to Mr. Vandiver.

Curiosity as to how this phrase originated was aroused by Governor Herbert S. Hadley offering a prize of $500 to any one who could invent or suggest a better nickname for Missouri than "Show Me."

Governor Hadley is a native "Jayhawker." He conceived the idea that there was as much of a suggestion of the incredulity of ignorance as of hard headed inquisitiveness in the expression "I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me." The Governor advocated the "Pioneer State" as a new nickname for Missouri, because, as he said, Missourians had been the pioneers in developing the vast territory west of the Mississippi River.

The people of Missouri, and many outsiders, when they heard of Governor Hadley's proposed prize, rose as one man and demanded to be shown why "Show Me" was not the very best nickname Missouri could have. Governor Hadley was convinced by the result of the contest that a great majority of the people of the State were eminently satisfied with "Show Me" as the nickname of Missouri, while many resented even the suggestion of a change.

"Show Me" was therefore accepted as the official nickname of the State. By common consent of nearly 4,000,000 people it was decreed that Missourians, wherever they travel, should be protected in their right to demand to be shown.

The best historians in the State were consulted in an effort to find the author of the expression from which the new nickname was taken. They did not know. The latter, after an effort of several months, has succeeded in establishing the fact, beyond the possibility of contradiction, that Mr. Vandiver is entitled to the credit of inventing the phrase.

Mr. Vandiver is a typical Missourian. He is tall, straight as an arrow, and has long, wavy white hair. He has been often mistaken for the late Mark Twain, also a native of the "Show Me" State. Mr. Vandiver's phrase is probably more widely quoted than anything Mark Twain ever wrote. He is what is called in Missouri a "natural born orator," and is a debater of the rough and ready type.

When he was a member of the Committee on Naval Affairs of the Fifty-sixth Congress the committee went to Philadelphia to inspect the navy yard. The members were invited to attend a dinner given by the Five o'Clock Club.

Mr. Hull, of Iowa, who was chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs of the House, was one of the members of the Congressional party. He and Mr. Vandiver were assigned to adjoining rooms at their hotel. When they went to dress for the dinner they discovered that their evening suits were missing. They reported their plight to the president of the Five o'Clock Club and asked to be excused from attending. The president insisted that they must attend, regardless of the loss of their evening clothes. It was with reluctance that they decided to go.

WILLIARD D. VANDIVER
Author of "Jim from Missouri, You've Got to Show Me"

Mr. Vandiver accepted the situation complacently, but Governor Hull showed signs of being worried. Almost at the last moment he hurried to the hotel tailor shop and succeeded in finding an evening suit that fitted him fairly well. He rented it, and laughed to himself as he thought what a good practical joke it would be when the Missouri Representative appeared at the dinner without an evening suit.

Governor Hull's Joke.

The Missourian was as much surprised as anybody else when he saw Governor Hull, across the table from him, wearing a "spiketail" coat. Mr. Vandiver was unusually complacent by reason of being the only guest at the banquet in a business suit. After the dinner was finished the speechmaking started. The members of the committee were invited, in turn, to make speeches. Eugene Foss, of Chicago, who was chairman of the committee, opened the oratorical pyrotechnics, and was followed by Amos Cummings.

Governor Hull was the next speaker. Throughout the evening he had enjoyed Mr. Vandiver's discomfiture. He could not resist the temptation, in his speech to add to it by calling attention to the Missourian's lack of conventional attire.

"When I came to Philadelphia to-night, I, too, like Mr. Vandiver, had no evening clothes," said Governor Hull. "But when I explained the situation to your hospitable Italian chef, despite the characteristic spirit of enterprise of your city in making a suit for me in fifteen minutes. Still, for their hospitality I could not have been more grateful at this splendid dinner."

Mr. Vandiver squirmed in his chair. It was his turn to be called. When he arose his tall, slender figure accentuated his lanky, ill-fitting suit. He drew his fingers through his long white hair and waded in. He had just won signal laurels in Congress by driving to his lair the eminent republican debater Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio. He now made a satirical speech. He spoke in the free and easy style for which Missourians are famous, but in every sentence there was a fling at Philadelphia and Governor Hull.

"Why," he exclaimed, "Governor Hull is one of the greatest fakers in Congress. His story about the great enterprise and hospitality of your city is mere pretense. You are a hundred years behind the times. Your ballot box stuffers are still out of jail and your political corruptionists are walking free on the streets of your city.

"Your tailors have not shown any disposition to hurry up a dress suit for me. You have heard Governor Hull's preposterous story of how they made one for him in fifteen minutes, but I have a different explanation for you. When I came to Philadelphia today I had an evening suit. You see me here without one. The fact of the matter is that Governor Hull stole mine. That is why he is here in conventional dress and I am not.

"The story of your enterprise and hospitality palls on me. I do not believe you have either. I am from a land of corn and cotton and cockleburrs and democrats, and frothy eloquence neither convinces nor satisfies me.

"I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me."

The Missourian sat down in the midst of loud applause. His rough and ready oratory made a hit with the banqueters.

The significance of the closing sentence of the Missourian's speech escaped the reporters, but the Congressional party carried it back to Washington, and it soon found its way to Missouri. But in its transmission from month to month the author was lost sight of.

In a little while Missourians, whenever they were in doubt, were using the expression, "You've got to show me." "Show me" congresses began to spring up in every part of the State. In the course of a few years nobody ever thought of referring to Missouri as anything else than the "Show Me" State, and Missourians were themselves called the "Show-Me."

The popularity of the new Missouri nickname aroused the jealousy of the Illinois "Suckers," the Kansas "Jayhawkers," the Arkansas "Toothpicks," the Nebraska "Bugeaters," the Iowa "Hawkeyes" and the Indiana "Hoosiers." It is charged by Missourians that the "Suckers," "Jayhawkers," "Toothpicks," "Bugeaters," "Hawkeyes" and "Hoosiers" conspired to give the new nickname of Missouri a meaning which Missourians were not willing to accept as the correct one. The jealous rivals of other States declared that the new nickname meant that Missourians were so dull of comprehension that they could not understand even the simplest propositions, and that they had to be shown how to do everything.

Governor Hadley got this idea while he was living in Kansas, and the germ of it stuck to him after he became a Missourian by adoption. It clung to him until he was shown by the contest he instituted that he had accepted an erroneous interpretation of "show me."

Meaning of "Show Me."

When Mr. Vandiver was asked to explain the meaning of "show me" he said:—

"The typical Missourian may be a little slow in action, but he is alert and is not easily taken in. He is not caught by the glamour of conventional pretence or high sounding phrases. In short, he is a man of good, hard sense, and must be convinced before he is converted. He laughs at shams and asks to be shown the real facts. I think that is why the phrase 'I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me,' has become popular."

Champ Clark, who will be the next Speaker of the National House of Representatives, has been trying for a good many years to give the State the name of "Imperial Missouri." He is now convinced that "Show Me" will stick. Mr. Clark said:—

"'Show me' means that the people of Missouri are not 'easily gulled;' that you have to demonstrate a thing to them before they will believe it. Aristotle said that incredulity is the source of all wisdom.

"I gave the State the sobriquet of 'Imperial Missouri' August 10, 1897, in a speech at Columbia, Mo. I stated that my sobriquet was a growth, as most other phrases which live are a growth. For instance, Daniel Webster once said that 'This is a government of all the people for all the people.'

"Abraham Lincoln took that and remodeled it into 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people.'

"In one of the most famous collections of words in the English language the germ of the sobriquet 'Imperial Missouri' was found in a statement by Henry Ward Beecher that 'Missouri is an empire within itself,' but as New York is called the Empire State and Georgia is the Empire State of the South, if we undertook to call Missouri the Empire State we would have to add to it and make it the 'Empire State of the Mississippi Valley,' which would be too long. After a good deal of cogitation I hit upon the sobriquet 'Imperial Missouri.'"

Discussing the result of the contest for a new and better nickname than "Show Me," Governor Hadley said:—

"In offering the prize I said I preferred the designation 'Pioneer State' because Missourians had been pioneers in the development of the West. I said also that I had never been particularly enthusiastic over the expression 'I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me,' as it had in it as much of a suggestion of the incredulity of ignorance as of hardheaded inquisitiveness. However, it was apparent from the discussion that there was quite a general satisfaction throughout the State and the country with the expression in that it was supposed to carry with it the suggestion that the Missourian did not propose to have anything 'put over' on him.

"Viewed from that standpoint, the expression and the designation which has been applied to the State is not uncomplimentary nor unsatisfactory.

"It stands as a protest against shams, pretences and hypocrisy. It signifies the conservatively aggressive attitude of the people of this State against that which seems to be wrong or presents the appearance of having a 'joker' in it."

Mr. Vandiver is now living in St. Louis, where he is treasurer of an insurance company. He retired from Congress six years ago to accept an appointment as Insurance Commissioner of Missouri under Governor Joseph W. Folk.

How Millions of Letter Writers Retard the Work of the Mail Handlers of the Post Office Department

PROBABLY there is no department of the national government that comes in closer touch with the people than the post office system; for it is used by all classes. For this reason it behooves persons to understand some of the laws and regulations by which it is governed and the best methods of preparing mail for transmission and delivery. People complain of the Post Office Department, but they have little idea of what the officials contend with. For instance, some persons take a delight in using odd shaped or small envelopes. All this means delay in the post office routine, and the postmaster of one of our large cities is so annoyed by them that he says:—"If I had the power I would make it a rule that envelopes of specified and approved sizes and shapes only would be allowed in the transmission of correspondence, the minimum to be three and a half by six and a half inches, and the maximum size to be five by eleven." Instead of this the post office is flooded with envelopes from those that hold a tiny calling card to those used for large photographs.

When it is considered that the pigeon hole cases in the post office for the distribution of mail and circulars cannot be adapted to any and all sizes of envelopes, and that it is not practicable to have additional cases for each size package likely to be mailed, one readily sees that this postmaster is not suggesting anything unreasonable. Yet probably not one person out of a hundred thinks of this in mailing matter.

Of course every post office department wishes to work as rapidly as possible, and this is another reason for using uniform size of envelopes. All letters are assorted with a cancelling stamping, and the department is always considerate. For instance, if one sends something that may crush if the machine stamps it, it can be marked, "Not for cancelling machines," and the officials will take note of it and treat it with care. Some firms send out a quantity of matter marked in this way, and as a rubber stamp is better than a pen they keep one for the purpose.

In fact, it is surprising what a well regulated machine the Post Office Department is. Of course it has gained this efficiency as the result of decades of practical adaptation of the latest requirements for business and social intercommunication. To carry on its business systematically is a tremendous undertaking, which could be simplified if people understood its organization and realized that when unsatisfactory results are obtained it is often the fault of the individual rather than of the Post Office Department. Take the matter of insufficient and illegible addresses. Millions of letters go wrong just because of these mistakes. These can be corrected sometimes by the sender or they may reach the Dead Letter Office, but there are also thousands of letters that are mailed without postage, and it is a common fault, especially with women, to put no return address on a letter.

The Return Address.

This placing of name and address of sender on outside of an envelope seems a small matter, yet eleven million pieces of mail went to the Dead Letter Office last year, and all of this might have been saved if the sender had pinned on the outside a written or printed request for its return in case of non-delivery. Even if these letters are opened at the Dead Letter Office with the idea of returning them to the sender, few contain the names and addresses of the writers. Then people fret and fume because the mail service is so poor. It would be a simple thing to train one's self to write "Return after five days" over one's name and address, so that mail could be returned to the sender within the time specified. If the name and address of the sender are alone added, a package is held for thirty days and is returned to the sender from the post office to which it was originally sent. The request that it be returned in five days saves time and expense.

Many persons do not know that uncancelled and unused portable postal cards are redeemable in postage stamps by the original purchaser at seventy-five per cent of their value and that stamped envelopes spoiled in addressing can be redeemed at the stamp window of the post office. Sometimes a letter is posted that is insufficiently prepaid and addressed to a point outside of the delivery of the office of mailing. In such a case the letter is held and the addressee notified of the number of stamps necessary to forward it. Immediately on receipt of these stamps the mail is sent on.

The Post Office Department gives many privileges. For instance, Senators, Representatives and Territorial Delegates, the secretary of the Senate and clerk of the House may send public documents free. These persons may also send seeds and agricultural reports, and when a Senator writes he may omit the stamp if his name and official designation are written on the envelope. These are called "franking" privileges, and they continue until the first Monday of December following the expiration of the legislature's office. Sometimes railroads have the same "franking" privileges with telegraph companies.

A recent change in the post office regulations which is a great convenience, especially to the traveling public, is that "special delivery" letters can be sent by attaching ten cents worth of ordinary stamps instead of the special delivery stamp. This saves time and if the words "special delivery" are written on the envelope the letter or package is delivered immediately within certain limits. The hours for free delivery are between seven A. M. and eleven P. M. Upon delivery the messenger procures a receipt from the person addressed or some one authorized to receive the letter.

If people understood the value of registering letters they would more often do so. Several years ago there was a prejudice to this method on the ground that the word "registered" on a letter simply induced the post office employes to take it. This was unfounded, and for the last thirty-five years the registry system has gradually been reaching perfection.

Perfection of Routine.

As a matter of fact, the routine is so perfect that absolute safety is secured. If a registered package is lost the government pays an indemnity, and it is as safe to send in this way as to dispatch by express. This indemnity cannot exceed the value of the contents, but may run as high as $25, and it is said if the lost registered package is addressed to any post office in the States or island possessions.

Many persons think that if a letter is mailed it is impossible to recover it, but if it has not already been put in the mail or pouch for the train the postmaster will return it provided proper identification is made. If it has been despatched and the case is urgent the postmaster may telegraph to the post office to which it is addressed stating that it is to be returned on receipt. This is sometimes done where large business transactions are involved and where news arriving after the despatch of a letter renders its delivery nawise. Often the similarity in names in different States confuses the post office employes, and poor handwriting is distracting. In some instances States have towns with names that, while not alike, are so similar that mistakes can easily be made. For instance, in Pennsylvania are Nola and Nola, Densmore and Dunmore, and examples like these can be noted in every State.

In reality, the more one knows about the inner workings of the Post Office Department the more astounded is one at the completeness of its methods. Take the Dead Letter Office as an example. This office makes every possible effort to find persons to whom letters are addressed, and its system is being improved constantly. A competent force makes the handling of mail complete and expeditious. Certain persons are engaged for the purpose of deciphering addresses and correcting them so letters can be forwarded to their destination. Others open letters without addresses and try to find the address of the sender. Of course, many times this cannot be found, and as a result the office has a motley assortment of articles which have never reached their destination. Some of these are false teeth, horned toads, deeds, wills, hair switches—in fact, every conceivable thing that can be sent through the mail—and the collection makes an interesting exhibit.

PNEUMONIA

is a treacherous disease and often baffles the skill of physicians. Pneumonia symptoms are prolonged chills, headache, accompanied by nausea and vomiting. Unless promptly checked, pneumonia results fatally. With a good physician and plenty of this terrible disease may be checked and a cure effected in nearly every case.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

It has to its credit fifty years of public service, is the result of years of careful work and is an absolutely pure distillation of carefully malted grain. Overworked men, delicate women and sickly children will find in it the health and strength-giving parts that are so necessary to them. It is recognized as a family medicine everywhere. You should have it in your home. It is a wonderful remedy in the treatment and cure of consumption, pneumonia, grip, bronchitis, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles and all wasting, weakened conditions, if taken as directed.

OLIVER AND THE GALICIAN.

The Last Visitor Bore the Brunt of the Editor's Wrath.

Out West they call him "Pa Oliver." At Ottawa he is known as "The Honorable the Minister of the Interior." Both East and West there are many stories about him which are worth telling; none better, perhaps, than that which has to do with his adventure with the Tenth Galician.

It was some years ago. Mr. Oliver, at that time, was devoting much of his time to the editorial management of his paper, The Edmonton Bulletin. A member of his family seemed to resent the proprietor's intense interest in the writing of "leaders," and determined to intercept the paternal manuscript mill. Once conceived, this idea soon bore fruit. The mischief-maker waited upon a group of unemployed Galicians, assured them that "Pa Oliver" had jobs for a few good men, and left the plot to develop. The Galicians wanted to wait upon the editor in a body, but they were cautioned to go upstairs to his sanctum one at a time, at decent intervals.

They went. Mr. Oliver hated to be interrupted, but the first two he dismissed with all the courtesy which is due to the citizen who will some day have a vote. Number Three had a harder time of it. When half a dozen had climbed clumsily and noisily up the steps, the writer was saying things which were very much to the point. Number Nine was so startled by the expletives which greeted his appearance that he merely stuck his head inside the door—and fled.

At the usual "decent" interval, however, a clump-clump-clump was heard in the distance. It came onward and upward. The proprietor was wied beyond endurance. This time he determined that the intruder should not even reach the door. To that purpose he directed at the oncoming visitor a series of well-chosen remarks which penetrated the door like bullets. But the Tenth Man still advanced. The clump-clump-clump came nearer and nearer.

If anything was to be done to prevent the intrusion of the sacred precincts of the proprietor, it must be done now. The occupant of the room rose magnificently to the occasion. He excelled himself. From his desk to well down the stairway, the air was sizzling with remarks about the Galicians in general and this one in particular. But whatever the visitor's faults, he was courageous, for the door opened—

And in walked the Presbyterian minister.—Toronto Weekly Star.

ASK THE LADIES!

They One and All Praise Newbro's Herpicide

If ladies could know and appreciate what a delightful hair dressing Newbro's Herpicide is, they would all have it on their dressing tables. It is the most exquisite toilet article ever used and at the same time one of the most essential.

In order to have beautiful hair every lady should regularly apply Herpicide to her hair and scalp. This destroys the dandruff germ. By it the scalp is kept clear of dandruff and the hair stops falling.

Herpicide is free from grease, does not stain or dye and possesses an exceedingly delicate and pleasing odour.

Newbro's Herpicide is just the sort of a preparation that always appeals to a lady of refinement and cultured tastes. There is nothing that can take its place. There is nothing just like it or "just as good."

All reliable druggists sell and guarantee Herpicide in one dollar size bottles.

Sewing Suggestions.

Where duplicates must be made in any part of a paper pattern, instead of doing the work twice use carbon paper and mark with a hard pencil. Then your work is perfectly exact and you run no risk of ruining the garment.

Instead of using the "wooden egg" darner try utilising your old shoe trees. The entire form of the foot is then taken on by the stocking, and you can see exactly where your darn ought to go.

Another darning idea is to paint half of your darning ball white so as to use it under black footed stockings. Oil paint mixed with a little turpentine will do the work.

As good as a patent ripper is a steel crochet hook, which will catch under threads, pull out bastings, etc., in double quick time.

Mend your rug by whipping over the worn edges with yarn to match the rug and then single crochet over the hole or worn place very tightly with a crochet hook.

Hidden Skin Troubles

Have you on some part of your body a sore, or eruption, or ulcer, or eczematous patch which, hidden from the gaze of others, yet causes you hours and hours of pain and inconvenience? Have you tried this, and that, and the other remedy in vain, and are you feeling disheartened and discouraged? If so read the following instances of Zam-Buk's healing power, and apply it to your case:

"I had an ulcerated leg for several years. The ulcers spread all round the limb, which was swollen to nearly twice its normal size. Several doctors treated me. One suggested amputation. None did me any good. Zam-Buk healed the sores!" So says Mrs. Gilmour, of Princess St., Kingston. Or, read this:—

"My mother tried many things for abscesses and eruptions, but in vain. In Zam-Buk she found a complete cure." So says Miss A. Coggill, of Wapella (Sask.).

Sufferers from these "Hidden Skin Troubles" of any nature should profit by such experiences as these. Zam-Buk is seen at its best when applied to cases which have defied ordinary treatment. Write for trial box, and test it at our expense.

ZAM-BUK

THE GREAT SKIN-CURE.

ZAM-BUK AND A MIRACLE OF HEALING

Over and over again Zam-Buk has proved a miracle of healing in curing bad legs, sores and skin injuries which have refused to heal under any other form of treatment. Why not let it heal your trouble? Immediately Zam-Buk is applied to a sore or wound or diseased portion of flesh it commences its work in two directions. It arrests the exterior, and its antiseptic properties prevent any germs and hurtful matter causing trouble. Then the herbal essences and balms so finely purified and concentrated penetrate the subcutaneous layers and stimulate the weakened or diseased cells to active, healthy operation. These cells then push forth their "Healing" products and replace the diseased outer layer with fresh and healthy tissue. By degrees the whole diseased surface is thus replaced by new healthy skin.

In this way Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, abscesses, boils, eczema, eruptions, pustules, scurvy, sore throat, blood poison, and other forms of skin trouble. Zam-Buk also cures piles, varicose ulcers, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c per box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes $2.50.

MOTION PICTURES.

French Inventor Perfecting Device to Send Them by Wire.

Something rather more tangible than television has been devised by a French inventor, Edouard Belin, who is making an apparatus by which a series of photographs can be telegraphed one after the other instantaneously, and reformed so as to give a cinematograph reproduction of an event at any distance away.

Thus, if a series of pictures were taken of some event at a city such as Newcastle, they could be rapidly prepared for the telegraph, and a facsimile reproduction of the event seen immediately on a screen in London.

M. Belin uses a paper photograph of quite an original type as the sending "record." An ordinary half-tone newspaper illustration, if examined closely, is seen to consist of innumerable dots of various sizes which combine to form the picture with its light and shade; M. Belin's paper records consist of innumerable perforations in a sheet of paper, each hole of a certain size and corresponding to the dots of a half-tone photograph.

This is laid on a metal base, and drawn along under a set of metal brushes; the wider the hole the more contact there is between the brush and the metal underneath. By this means the amount of electric current sent to the distant viewing screen is varied.

The currents of various strengths are made to illuminate more or less strongly small portions of the viewing screen, each of which corresponds to a perforation in the picture transmitted. By passing a series of cinematograph photographs under the brushes at the transmitting station, a reproduction would be seen with all the original life and motion in it.

The practicability of the idea has already been tested between a suburb of Paris and a station in Paris itself, but M. Belin has not yet constructed a receiver capable of more than demonstrating that the idea is not a vain one.

He claims that television with selenium, as used in the methods already described, is not practicable owing to the slowness with which the selenium "cell" responds to changes of light, while his own apparatus is purely mechanical and depending only on mechanical precision, should solve the problem of transmitting "living" images over the wires.

Chairs in the Dark Ages.

The chairs of the dark ages, modelled partly on those of the Romans, were in keeping with the comfortless dwellings in which the people of the north of Europe then passed their lives. The Saxon Kings of England are represented as seated on thrones in the form of a box, the ends slightly raised, the bottom advanced to form a sort of footstool. There is always a cushion to add a degree of comfort and sometimes a back in the form of a crosspiece or remotely resembling the backs of modern chairs.

The Crocodile.

Pliny said the crocodile's skin "will abide any injury and not be pierced." That may have been true in his day, but it is not true now. The bullet of a heavy modern rifle will pierce the skin anywhere unless it strikes in a slanting direction. The crocodile is not as a rule hard to kill, provided one can get a good shot at it, but that is just the trouble. It has not the marvelous vitality of the shark, which will sometimes struggle furiously for an hour, although covered with apparently mortal wounds.

Our Spendthrift Youth.

The other night, Mr. H. J. Judge, manager of the Princess Theatre, Montreal, sent his cloak room attendant behind the scenes on a message. He took the keys and solemnly stationed himself at the cloak room door. It was during the intermission between the acts, and many of the male members of the audience were hurrying out.

One of these—a youth with a very large expanse of shirt front—stopped suddenly in front of the mournful looking manager.

"I want my cigarettes out of my overcoat pocket," he announced. "Will you get them for me, please?"

Mr. Judge slowly unlocked the cloak room door. "I can't put my hand in your overcoat pocket, sir," he drawled. "It's again the rules, sir."

The youth handed over his check. Mr. Judge handed over the overcoat. The youth fished in the pocket and finally produced a ten-cent package of cigarettes. Mr. Judge returned the coat to its peg, locked the doors, and coolly received the quarter which the young man dropped into his hand.

"Thank you, sir," he murmured politely, touching his hat.

And it was not until about five minutes later when he was telling his friends about it that he smiled.

The Soft Answer.

"The sailor after a long voyage," said a naval officer, "went ashore in the tropics, and, it being a hot day, he drank in certain tropical bars too much beer. As the sailor lurched under his heavy load along a palm bordered avenue his captain hailed him indignantly.

"'Look here,' the captain said, 'suppose you were my commander and you met me in such a condition as you're in now. What would you do to me?'

"'Why, sir,' said the sailor, 'I wouldn't condescend to take no notice of you at all, sir.'"

False Information.

The city farmer was calling on his neighbor and making a few observations on methods in poultry raising. "Mr. Jones," he asked, "how do you manage to have such broilers by the middle of July? My chickens won't be large enough to use for a month yet."

"Well, I dunno," replied Farmer Jones. "The only rule I foller is to set my hens in the spring."

"In the spring!" exclaimed the new resident. "Why, all my poultry books say emphatically that hens should be set in a dry place."

Falling Leaves.

It is not every one, even in these days of close nature study, who knows that leaves fall because they are actually cut off from the stem by a layer of cork that forms across the base of their stalks. This process is explained very strikingly by Prof. Boulger in Knowledge, and, what is more, he points out that no nourishment is left in the dead leaf, but only the waste products of vitality, of which the tree is well rid.

The Bergamot Tree.

There is but one spot in the world where the bergamot tree can be cultivated with profit, a fact of some importance, since its essence is indispensable in the manufacture of numerous perfumes and medical preparations. The spot referred to is Reggio, in Calabria, that extremity of the Italian peninsula which is familiarly known as "the toe of the boot."

PLANT ASSASSINS.

Flowers That Attract, Imprison and Kill Their Insect Victims.

Many plant murders are accomplished with a refinement of detail that makes it easy to believe that the crimes are premeditated. The sarracenias furnish an example of the so-called plant reasoning. These vivacious natives of the swamp lands of North America, notably Florida, have traveled from America to the botanical gardens of Europe.

Their flowers, which are purplish or of a fine yellow color, attract and invite the confidence of insects. Their leaves are rolled like a cornucopia and provided at the broad end with a lid. Into these urnlike sepulchers winged and creeping victims fall, never to return to light and air. Attracted by the color and the odor of the flowers, the victims draw near and, poised upon their stems, taste their honey. Little by little they approach the cup, hover for an instant on its edge, then begin the descent. Possibly they do not see the spearlike points set like the stakes of the fisher's weir in the lining of the cup. The victims go down between the stakes and feast on honey.

When full they turn to climb to the outer world. Again and again they ascend a hair's breadth, only to fall back, until, exhausted by their futile efforts, they drop into the poisoned water where float the sodden bodies of the flies trapped before them.

A naturalist who observed the death struggles of insects trapped by this rapacious and treacherous plant saw one lying half in, half out of the water, making desperate efforts to free itself from the trap. The lower part of its body, the part under water, was paralyzed, glued to immobility by the secretion contained in the water.

"There was something horrible," said the naturalist, "in the artifice used by the plant in its capture of the animal. The plant lures the animal to its doom by giving it a feast. The honey is a trap, and to all appearance the holder of the trap is a cold-blooded, calculating assassin."

Fixed Their Hair First.

It seems to have been proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt that personal vanity is the ruling passion of women. Six pretty telephone girls in one big city are said to have stopped to arrange their puffs before a hand mirror before they made their escape from a burning building.

But—ah-h! It's not only the dear girls who think about their looks. Listen to this story that a prominent portrait painter told recently as she paused with a little smile before one of her pictures, that of a round faced, jovial, care free old gentleman, evidently on the easy and comfortable side of sixty.

"Mr. K. was horrified when he first saw this portrait," said she. "Oh, yes, he agreed that the likeness was entirely satisfactory. What he objected to was the hair. Now, those careless white locks crowning his good natured, ruddy face make one of the best points in the picture, but he said: 'Why, if I'd known my hair would look like that I'd never have sat for a portrait. Can't you — er — darken that hair and make it—er—grow down on my forehead more?'"

Burlap and Leather.

Very attractive book covers, table mats, etc., are made of cut leather over burlap. It is difficult to describe the real beauty of these. Of course the design is cut out in the leather, which is suede by preference, and the burlap is then stitched to it. Sometimes small metal beads, like tiny nails, give the effect of old hammered work.

Instead of leather, velvet may be used for the lighter articles. Some lovely color combinations are obtained, such as green and biscuit color, royal purple, brown and terra cotta, gray and bronze. It is very easy work and extremely stunning.

The Reporter and the "Chaw."

Judge Morgan, who is very fond of plug tobacco, is not the only member of the Ontario Bench who has found chewing an intellectual stimulus. The late Justice Ferguson, known as an expert on the question of demurrers and special pleadings, was also an expert judge of the "weed," and was accustomed to use it extensively. A reporter who had formerly been employed in his law office and knew the judge well, dropped in one day, found a vacant desk, and incidentally noticed that a plug of tobacco was lying within reach. With a rapid glance around the room, he grabbed the tobacco, took a stealthy but determined bite, and prepared to decamp. To his horror he saw Judge Ferguson regarding him over the top of a screen, behind which he had shortly before retired in order to wash his hands. But the judge saw the humor of the situation, and stopped the flight of the intruder by exclaiming, "Take a good chaw, my boy. Take a good chaw while you're at it."

Rumored Fortune.

George Normandin, notary of Montreal, has received a letter announcing that the family Normandin dit Beausoleil has fallen heir to $80,000,000 by the death of a widow in France. A Marie Normandin dit Beausoleil, so runs the story, became enamored of an English officer in 1827 and left with him for England after the rebellion. He served in all countries of Europe till he was killed in Afghanistan, with the rank of general. He was very wealthy, and his widow retired to Paris, where with her quiet living the fortune grew to the amount stated at the time of her death.

The letter is from another of the name, saying that the death of this lady had occurred and asking all the family to unite in an attempt to get the fortune.

Slightly Inappropriate.

Clergymen are placed in an especially embarrassing position when anything goes wrong in the service, for the solemnity of church makes the ridiculous all the more incongruous. One Ontario minister told recently of a contretemps with the choir, arising from his not having informed them of the subject of the sermon. He had put thought and vigor into a discourse on the text "Wake, Thou That Sleepest!"

To his horror, the choir followed with a number entitled: "Sleep on, sleep on and take thy rest!"

Another pastor related how an unusually stupid choirmaster arranged for the hymn, "Oh, What must It Be To Be There!" at the close of a sermon with the title, "Hell." There was a noticeable coolness after that, for some time, between pastor and choir leader.

CLEANING UP MONTREAL.

John H. Roberts Started Temperance When He Was a Boy.

A little man, but full of energy and determination, convinced that drink is a curse, that the police will do nothing to stop it, that preaching temperance, while all very fine, is by no means a practical way of downing the Demon Rum, and that he must succeed by digging out and doing what the police fail to do, shutting up the dives and making the license-holders live up to the laws.

Such is John H. Roberts, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, who, perhaps, has more enemies than any man in Montreal, yet is probably proud to have been able to make so many. A Welshman by birth, Mr. Roberts started temperance work early in life, touring England and Wales several times in a series of lectures before he was accustomed to long trousers. Three years ago he came to Canada and settled down in Montreal for a time. He was engaged by different organizations, and made several extensive lecture tours through the Eastern part of the Dominion. It is only a little over a year ago since he settled permanently in Montreal, becoming the secretary of the Alliance, and yet to day everybody knows John H.

Ample proof of the affection of the saloon men for Mr. Roberts was given recently when Mr. Roberts obtained a chair which was meant for a lawyer, Mr. St. Julien, at a hearing of the license commissioners.

Mr. Roberts asserted his right to the chair, and so did Mr. St. Julien, backed up by a couple of court house ushers. A scrap finally developed, in which Mr. Roberts was rather roughly handled.

"Kill him!" shouted half a hundred saloon men who were at the hearing. "Kill the son of a gun."

A few days ago, Mr. Roberts, with three detectives, undertook to raid a tough dance hall in the east end of the city. They marched through a crowd of dancers—coal heavers and like athletes, for the most part—and seized half a dozen bottles of whiskey which they found in the refreshment room. They started back through the crowd, and just as they reached the door somebody threw a bottle. Then a little storm broke loose, and Roberts was the storm centre. He was knocked down and clubbed with bottles and sticks, but finally he escaped with his three followers, bruised and bleeding, but still determined and full of energy.

"No, I didn't lay a complaint—yet," he said the following day. "We are going to raid some more places like that one in a few days, and I will get them all in court together."

Guardian, Mason and Lover of Sport.

Thirty years in the one law office, as student and partner, is the record of F. W. Harcourt, K.C., Toronto, who is the new Grand K. of the Grand Chapter, the governing body of capitular Masonry in the jurisdiction extending from the Ottawa River to the Yukon. He was born at Cayuga, Ont., fifty-four years ago, and was educated at Cayuga High School and Upper Canada College. He entered the law office of Dr. John Hoskin, K.C., and later became a member of the firm—McCarthy, Osler, Hoskin and Harcourt. Since the time when Dr. Hoskin resigned the position of Official Guardian of Infants for Ontario, some six years ago, Mr. Harcourt has held that position.

His great hobby is sport. He used to go in for cricket, Rugby football and foot-racing, and he is now a member of several gymkhana clubs.

A Van Horne Story.

Sir William Van Horne, on his sailing for England recently, was smoking a cigar at the Sand Point docks, St. John, N.B., when a dock policeman, not knowing him, informed him he was breaking the regulations. Sir William threw away the cigar, and remarked: "He's right. That's what we pay him for."

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Wide spread rain and snow acted like magic today in sending down the price of wheat. Crop prospects were believed to have been vastly improved by the timely moisture on fields, millions of acres in extent. Weakness prevailed at the close, which was 2-4c to 1c under Saturday's latest figures. The finish on corn varied from 1-8c to 1-4c net gain to a shade loss; oats were 1-16c to 1-8c to 1-4c up, and provisions 12 1-2c to 37 1-2c down.

The European market to-day closed unchanged to 1d lower on wheat, and unchanged to ½d higher on corn, compared with Saturday. Antwerp and Berlin closed unchanged on wheat, Buda Pest was ½c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, April 3.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable was again quiet, owing to the fact that cables came weak with bids 4½d lower than Saturday, which only brought back 2½c per bushel for the May option in Winnipeg. In sympathy with the break in prices of over 1c per bushel for oats in Winnipeg, a weaker feeling prevailed in this market, but in the absence of any business of importance prices were nominally unchanged. There was some demand from foreign buyers for white wheat flour, but the bids received were 2c per barrel below the price millers were disposed to sell at. Local trade is all grades is quiet.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 37½c; extra No. 1 feed, 36c; No. 1 C.W., 37½c; No. 2 local white, 37½c; No. 3 local white, 36c to 36½c; No. 4 local white, 35c to 35½c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.30; seconds, $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.80; strong bakers' $4.60; straight rollers, $4 to $4.25; in bags, $1.70 to $1.85. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $3.10; bag of 90 lbs., $1.85. Corn, American No. 3 yellow, 66c to 66½c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $22 to $23; Manitoba, $21 to $22; middlings, Ontario, $24 to $25; shorts, Manitoba, $25 to $26; moullie, $35 to $38.

Eggs—Fresh, 20c to 21c.

Cheese—Westerns, 13½c to 12½c; easterns, 11½c to 12½c.

Butter—Choicest, 25c to 25½c; seconds 24c to 24c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, April 3.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 123 cars, consisting of 2089 cattle, 227 sheep and lambs, 89 calves and 27 hogses.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought 115 export steers for London, 1250 lbs. each, at an average of $5.25, or a shade over $5 per cwt.

[illegible] for Liverpool, 1200 lbs. each, at $5.25 average, or a shade over $5 per cwt.

Butchers.

Prime picked steers, $5.40 to $5; best there were few at latter price; loads of good, $5.25 to $5.35; medium, $5.15 to $5.20; common, $4.90 to $5.10. Cows, prime picked, $4.75 to $5; good, $4.50 to $4.65; common, $4 to $4.25. Bulls, $4 to $4.25.

Feeders and Stockers.

Prices steady to 25c to 50 per cwt. lower.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep, $4.75 to $5.25; rams, $4 to $4.50; yearling lambs, $5.75 to $6.25; spring lambs, $4 to $7 each.

Hogs.

Hogs are quoted lower. Selects, fed and watered at the packers, $6.75, and $6.50 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. Hogs, 200 lbs. and over, 25c per cwt. less.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, April 3.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending April 1 were 1700 cattle, 1175 sheep and lambs, 2500 hogs and 1225 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 500 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 500 calves.

The undertone to the market for cattle was stronger on account of the exceptionally limited supplies coming forward, and sales in a few odd cases were made at an advance of ½c per lb., but this was not general. The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but the demand from butchers was chiefly [illegible] to meet actual wants, consequently trade was rather slow. A feature of the trade was the offerings of some extra choice heavy bulls, suitable for the coming Easter requirements and carcases of them weighing from 2300 to 2500 pounds were sold at 4½c per lb., and $65 per head over. A few extra choice steers sold at 5¼c, while choice butchers' steers, good, 4c to 4½c; fairly good, 3½c to 3¾c; fair, 3c to 3½c, and common, 4½c to 4¾c per lb.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for hogs, prices being steady on account of the fact that offerings were ample to fill all requirements. The demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7.40 to $7.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

A feature of the small meat trade was the scarcity of really choice calves, for which there was a good enquiry, but buyers found it difficult to fill their wants. The lower grades were fairly plentiful, which sold at prices ranging from $3 to $8 each. Old sheep were scarce and firm at 5c to 5½c, and yearling lambs, at 6½c per lb. Spring lambs sold at from $5 to $8 each.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, April 3.—Cattle—Receipts, 2300 head; market, active, higher; prime steers, $5.40 to $5.50; shipping steers, $5.35 to $5.35; heifers, $4 to $5; cows, $3.30 to $5.25; bulls, $3.50 to $5.25; milch cows and springers, $30 to $80.

Calves—Receipts, 2000 head; market, active, steady; cull to choice, $5.25 to $8.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 23,000 head; market, lambs active, 25c higher; sheep, slow and steady; choice lambs, $7 to $7.15; cull to fair, $5.25 to $6.50; yearlings, $5.75 to $6.25; sheep, $3 to $5.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,700 head; market slow, [illegible] Yorkers, $7.15 to $7.25; pigs, $7.40 to [illegible] mixed, $7 to $7.05; heavy, $6.75 to $6.[illegible] rough, $6.75 to $6; stags, $4.75 to $5.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Beeves—Receipts, 2200 head; steers steady to strong; bulls and cows slow to a shade higher; steers, $5.25 to $6.60; bulls, $4 to $5.40; cows, $3 to $4.75.

Calves—Receipts, 6000; market 25c to 50c lower; veals, $5.50 to $8.25; culls, $4 to $5.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1600 head; sheep firmer, handy lambs 10c higher; others slow; sheep, unshorn, $4 to $5.50; clipped, $5.50 to $6.75; unshorn lambs, $6 to $7.25; clipped, $5.75 to $6.75; spring lambs, $5 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 10,150 head; steady, at $7 to $7.40; pigs, $7.50 to $7.60.

To Investigate Appeals.

Montreal, April 4.—As a result of the attack made upon L. W. Sicotte, joint clerk of the crown and of the peace of Montreal by Recorder Dupuis some months ago, Adolphe Bean, police magistrate, has been appointed royal commissioner to make an enquiry and to report to the Government at Quebec no later than May first.

Recorder Dupuis stated from the bench that it was little use condemning proprietors of disorderly houses to prison sentence in view of the fact that on appeal [illegible] Sicotte the sentence was always commuted, and suggested that a commission be appointed by the Government to investigate the manner in which appeals were granted.

To Discuss Power.

Brockville, April 4.—The Board of Trade has arranged with Hon. Adam Beck for a meeting of the United Eastern Ontario Municipalities in Brockville on Friday next, to discuss hydro-electric power. Mr. Beck will discuss the power situation fully, and it is understood will make a definite proposition to the municipalities east of Kingston.

The Town Council at its meeting last night struck the rate of taxation for 1911 at 29 mills, which is an increase of three mills over last year. This action was rendered necessary to meet a deficit of $10,000 from 1910.

Opposed Reciprocity.

Kingston, April 4.—Dr. Edward, M.P. for Frontenac County, opposed reciprocity at a farmers' meeting held at Joyceville. This was the first public stand Dr. Edwards has taken on the matter, and the farmers attended in large numbers.

Nervous Prostration

Makes You Weak, Helpless and Miserable.

Wherever there are sickly people who are troubled with deranged nerves they will find that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will restore the equilibrium of these deranged centres, and bring back the shattered nervous system to a perfect condition.

They do this by their restorative influence on every organ and tissue of the body, and their extraordinary curative power manifests itself immediately they are taken.

Mrs. G. D. Wood, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in sending you my testimonial in praise of your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I suffered terribly with nervous prostration, and became so bad I was not able to attend to my household duties, and now I can truthfully say that I owe my life to them. Three boxes stopped my trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The. T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

To a Common Grave.

New York, April 4.—The eight unidentified victims of the Washington place fire of March 25, which cost 146 lives, will be buried Wednesday afternoon, and a big labor parade in their memory will wind through the streets. A white coffin containing fragments of unidentified bodies impossible of identification will also be interred. The city has purchased a lot in a cemeterium cemetery in Brooklyn for burying the bodies. Funeral services of the Roman Catholic, Hebrew and Protestant faiths will be held at the graves.

In connection with the investigation of the disaster Borough President McAneny of Manhattan, made public last night the findings of the commissioner of accounts, giving half a dozen alleged instances of petty grafting by building inspectors. The practice of paying inspectors for "favors" Commissioner Fosdick quotes several builders as saying, "is widespread among contractors."

On the Canadian Trip.

Halifax, April 4.—Steamship people were agreeably surprised yesterday morning when they saw in port the Scotian of the Allan Line, formerly the Statendam of the Holland-American Line.

The Scotian arrived from Liverpool. She takes the place of the Pretorian on the Glasgow service. She was built by Holland and Wolff of Belfast. Her gross tonnage is 10,491 tons. She is 515 feet long, 60 feet in breadth, 34 feet deep. Has homosomer, twin screw.

The Scotian will not sail from Glasgow to Montreal direct owing to her size. She will call at Liverpool and Moville for passengers. She goes from Halifax to Portland, and on her return will leave Glasgow for Quebec May 6.

Counsel for Sheldon.

Montreal, April 4.—"Get Rich Quick" Sheldon will have lots of counsel when he gets here.

Already Pelletier & Pelletier have wired him that they have been instructed to take up his defence, and a dozen other firms have been asked the same thing.

It is not extreme love for Sheldon that prompt his dupes to engage lawyers, but the fact that they are in no way craving for publicity and do not want their names to appear, and have engaged lawyers to keep the names of clients out of the case as involvement.

Painters Get Increase.

Kingston, April 4.—The bosses have agreed to give the painters an increase of 25 cents a day. They will get $2.50 for nine hours. A strike was threatened yesterday if the increase was not forthcoming.

Bound to Have It.

Goderich, April 4.—The authorities here are confident that the Western Ontario military camp will be held here this year and not in London. They are keeping up a correspondence with Ottawa.

Toronto Woman Injured.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 4.—Spreading rails caused the wreck of the Wabash passenger train No. 9 at Eddy, Ind., yesterday, in which three passengers and two trainmen were injured.

The injured, none of whom were hurt fatally, included Miss Margaret Cowen, Toronto, Ont., badly bruised and suffering from shock.

A Few Things Wanted.

An insect powder for hummingbirds.

A telegram envelope that will calm a woman's terror before she opens it.

An alarm clock that will not only wake us up, but make us feel like getting up.

Brothers' Luck.

"You're in pretty good luck, ain't ye, partner?" said Si Hawkins as he drove up to where Bithers sat on his overturned automobile, which had most successfully emulated the turtle in getting over on its back.

"Luck!" growled Bithers. "Luck! Do you call it luck to have your machine turned down side up in the middle of a muddy road and no derrick in your kit to set her right?"

"Ya-as," returned Silas, with a pleasant grin. "With all her machinery turned up that way ye don't suffer its down on your back in the mud underneath her to see what's gone wrong."—Harper's Weekly.

BUDGET SPEECH

Expected That Fielding May Ask for Authority to Give Some Concessions to British Reciprocity

IF IT GOES THROUGH

Special Wire to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, JUNE 4.—As stated yesterday, Mr. Fielding's budget speech will announce a 27 million dollar surplus, but it is not thought, in view of the pending reciprocity negotiations with the United States, that much will be said about the tariff changes. If anything, there is a possibility that he may ask for parliament authority to make concessions to the British manufacturers should the reciprocity agreement go through. There's some speculation as to what Fielding will do with regard to the duties upon iron and steel, which expired June 30th.

CORONATION JEWELS

Are on Exhibition in London To-day—Worth Millions

Examiner Special:

LONDON, APRIL 4.—Millions of dollars worth of jewels, to be worn at the coronation by Queen Mary and the princesses, are on exhibition today, the proceeds being given to the Middlesex Hospital fund. Five hundred police are guarding the great display.

Homes in West

Special to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, QUE., APRIL 4.—Nearly one thousand French Canadians from Quebec and Repatriated from New England States, left here on special trains to-day to settle in various parts of Western Canada. They are in charge of Roman Catholic colonizing missionaries.

Special to The Examiner.

WINNIPEG, APRIL 4.—To adequately compete with the T. Eaton Co., who have made tremendous inroads on their business in the West, the Hudson's Bay Company will build a two million dollar store here as well as a big place in Calgary, as already announced.

FURTHER LEAVE

Ald. Bradburn, who is absent from the city on a trip to California, was given a further leave of absence for six weeks by the Council last night.

Ald. Duncan introduced the matter, saying that it would not be possible for Ald. Bradburn to be back before May 15.

"We can't give him six weeks," remarked Ald. Brown, "we want him here to vote for the Tire Company by-law."

Ald. Morgan suggested, jokingly, that a deputation be sent down to see when he was coming back.

Ald. Duncan's motion was carried.

CITY COUNCIL FAILED TO CARRY AN ANTI-RECIPROCITY RESOLUTION

Ald. Edgar Introduced a Motion to Condemn the Pact but it Failed to be Passed the Vote Standing Five to Five the Question---No Discussion on the Subject by the Aldermen.

The city council last night failed to carry an anti-reciprocity resolution introduced by Ald. Edgar.

The vote on the motion stood 5 to 5, the resolution thus being declared lost. There was comparatively no discussion on the question. Council was about adjourn, when Ald. Edgar rose and read his resolution, which was as follows:

Moved by James Edgar, seconded by Jas. Graham:

Resolved, that this Council is of the opinion that the proposed reciprocity pact between Canada and the United States is not conducive to the best interests of Peterborough and of Canada as a whole, and that it should not be imposed upon the people, without their consent, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon. J. R. Stratton.

For a moment there was silence, while the aldermen looked at each other and smiled.

"Is there any seconder to the motion," asked the Mayor.

"I'll second it," replied Ald. Graham.

"I move we adjourn," said Ald. Morgan and his motion was seconded.

"That was only a joke," explained Ald. Morgan, when the Mayor was about to put his amendment and it was withdrawn.

"I am not conversant enough with this question to vote as intelligently as I would like to," remarked Ald. Morgan. "I don't think we know a great deal about it and I would like some time to think it over."

Ald. Brown thought the matter might be left over until the next meeting of the council.

"I don't think we are quite qualified to pass a resolution on this question," remarked Ald. Anderson. "Greater minds than ours are dealing with it and I don't think any motion we made would have any effect on the Canadian Commons or the United States Senate. I move in amendment that we do not take any action."

"I'll second that motion," said Ald. Metheral.

"I want to move an amendment to the amendment that this question be referred to the committee of the whole council," said Ald. Buller.

Ald. Brown seconded the motion.

This left three motions before the council.

Ald. Buller's amendment to the amendment that the matter should be referred to the whole council was lost by a vote of 3 to 6.

Ald. Anderson's amendment that no action be taken met the same fate.

For—Ald. Morgan, Graham, Kernaghan, Edgar and Buller.

Against—Ald. Anderson, Brown, Metheral and Duncan.

"I vote against the resolution and it is therefore lost," declared Mayor Morrow.

"The Mayor shouldn't vote unless it is a case of a tie" remonstrated Ald. Edgar.

His Worship read the section from the council procedure which gives the Mayor power to vote upon any question he may see fit and there the matter ended.

FIRST POWER BOAT OUT ON THE OTONABEE

Mr. Jas. Hartgart Opens Navigation by a run as far as the First Bridge Sunday—River is Open

DIFFERENT IN NORTH

Navigation was opened on the Otonabee river as far as power boats is concerned on Sunday, when Mr. Jas. Hartgart launched his gasoline launch and travelled down the river as far as the first bridge. He reports the channel almost free from ice, there only being a little here and there along the edges. The river, he states, is literally teeming with wild ducks and geese. Conditions are different at Stony Lake. Mr. William Thompson, proprietor of the Mount Julian Hotel, was in the city yesterday and stated that the ice on the lake is as firm and thick as ever, and that teams are driving over it as usual. Last year the lake was free from ice on April 7, but the present indications are that it will not go out this year until May 1st at least. And it will take warmer weather than we have been having to have any effect.

SOME MEMBERS OF CHOIR GAVE THEIR EXPERIENCE

Members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, were much pleased with the visitors from the Sheffield Choir, who added so much to the singing Sunday night. And through whom such good greetings came from the Motherland. One gentleman reports his presence due to having been redeemed from the clutches of death through the treatment of Christian Science. Another gentleman said his brother, a Solicitor in London, had been marvelously healed after all material means had failed.

One lady was present looking for help, who since coming to Canada had lost her voice, had not been able to take her place for a week. She reported Monday afternoon that she had taken her place in the rehearsal that morning and felt ready for her work that night. She thanked God that the Redeeming and Healing Truth is to be found everywhere, and was glad she came to Peterborough and would retain sweet recollections of their visit.

Altogether the Church found in them helpful, congenial visitors, and wishes them a very pleasant trip through Canada.—Com.

HAREM SKIRT GIRL CREATES A SENSATION

Mademoiselle Levallee, the Murad Harem Skirt girl created somewhat of a sensation in Peterborough yesterday when she appeared on the street in the famous creation that has caused world-wide comment. Mademoiselle's Junoesque figure was admirably adapted for the display of the celebrated costume and when she came into view on George street shortly after 3 o'clock was soon surrounded by a curious crowd which momentarily increased. She managed to get as far as A. W. Clydesdale and Co's cigar store, where she took refuge, while outside the crowd increased until the traffic on that side of the street was blocked and it became necessary to rescue the charming Harem Skirt girl in a cab. She eluded the crowd for a few moments in this way, but by the time she had called at the Roy studio and been photographed, the congestion was as bad as ever and the crowd continued to increase as long as she was in sight. Her visit to Peterborough was in the interests of the Imperial Tobacco Company. She wore the most approved Parisian model of the jupe culotte.

MR. BOGUE TO FINISH MR. CONROY'S CONTRACT

Mr. James Bogue will finish the work on the pumping station on the south ward sewer system for which the contract was awarded last autumn to Mr. Edward Conroy.

At last night's meeting of the city council a letter was read from Mr. Conroy asking that the work be finished by Mr. Bogue as he, Mr. Conroy, was in ill health and unable to carry out the contract.

Mr. Conroy was present last night and addressed the council. He wished to have the matter arranged at once as he was anxious to leave the city as soon as possible. He was willing to put up any security that might be required.

A resolution was passed turning the contract over to Mr. Bogue with the understanding that Mr. Conroy shall be responsible.

About half the work is completed.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Young Man Named Armstrong was Painfully Injured in an Accident at the Canadian General Electric works

HAND CRUSHED

A young man named Armstrong, an employee of the C.G.E., met with a serious accident last night about six o'clock. While operating the large crane, the left hand of the unfortunate young man was drawn into the running gear of the machine. The hand was badly smashed and lacerated. Dr. Young was notified and the victim removed to Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance, where the injuries were attended to.

RUSSIAN DISAPPEARS

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, APRIL 4.—Although the Privy Council has consented to reopen the case of Freudako, wanted in Russia for alleged murder, it may never be done. While various appeals were being made Fredanko has disappeared. Some of his friends think he has joined the insurrectors in Mexico. The Counsel here for Russian Government talks of making trouble for the Canadian authorities for permitting him to leave the country while on bail.

STRIKERS HOPEFUL

Special to The Examiner:

FERNIE, B. C., APRIL 4.—A big mass meeting of striking coal miners, was held this morning and the strikers are in good spirits. The feeling is that the strike will, after all, be recognized by the International meeting in Indianapolis.

MEET IN TORONTO

For the first time in its history the Ontario Library Association will meet under the roof of the Toronto Public Library. The eleventh annual meeting will be held in the new and beautiful Reference Library Easter Monday and Tuesday, April 17th and 18th, and on Monday evening the whole building will be given up to those present at the meeting, the Chief Librarian with the Library Board and staff being hosts on that occasion. Other special features will be the presence of Mr. S. H. Ranck, Librarian of Grand Rapids, Michigan, who will tell of the work his library has been doing to aid in the technical education of the workingmen of his city, and Mr. A. H. Cuttle, Collingwood, and Mr. Geo. E. Scroggie, manager of the Mail and Empire advertising department, who will discuss library publicity. Programmes on application to the Secretary, 81 Collier Street, Toronto. A record attendance is expected.

AN ERROR CORRECTED

In setting up Rev. Father Casey's clever verses in Saturday's issue our compositor got the second verse somewhat mixed. It should read:—

"No talk of annexation now will serve the Empire's cause,
That bubble's gone and busted up,
'twas made of flimsy gauze;
Oh, isn't it a woeful plight when reason is the test,
And cuckoos at this time of day must start to build their nest."

WESTERN VISITOR IS SURPRISED AT THE GROWTH OF PETERBORO'

Mr. Abbot an Old Resident Thinks City has Made Amazing Progress Since He was Here Last--Some Interesting Gossip About Vancouver.

Mr. C. H. Abbot of Mission Jct., B.C., a former resident of Peterborough, arrived in the city a few days ago, after an absence of eight years. Mr. Abbot, who is the son of Mr. E. J. Abbot, formerly of Lakefield, intends spending about three months visiting in and around the city. He has been about fifteen years in the west, during which time he was in the fruit growing business, and stated to an Examiner representative to-day that the part of the country in which his farm is situated is specially adapted for this branch of agriculture.

He was very much surprised at the growth of Peterborough since his last visit in 1903. He stated that at that time the Brock street rink was being built, and other buildings were in progress. Mr. Abbot was of the opinion that "Peterborough's Present Possibilities are Unparalleled." For an Ontario city he thought that it was progressing rapidly. He stated that when he left here, some fifteen years ago, there were no street cars, and the city was practically dead. Property was very low in value, and work was scarce. He remarked that there had been numerous factories erected even since his last visit.

Although Mr. Abbot was impressed with the advancement and growth of Peterborough, he could not compare it with Vancouver, or any of the B.C. cities, for a moment. He said that it was amazing the progress that was being shown by Vancouver. Some years ago it was not much larger than Peterborough, and now it has a population of 140,000. He stated that Vancouver was the real estate man's paradise. He quoted incidents where young men invested $500 a few years ago and now are worth thousands of dollars. He said when he went out west first that he was disgusted with the country but now he would not live here in Ontario. There were no extremes of temperature. The coldest it had been last winter was 5 degrees below zero, and in summer the temperature was also moderate. Electric storms were also rare, and he had not experienced a bad electric storm during the time he had lived there. When he left the west about a week ago nearly all the spring work was done. The country was well suited for growing apples, strawberries, raspberries and other such fruits.

Mr. Abbot is at present visiting friends at 636 Union street, but will be be out of the city for a few days visiting friends this week.

EVANGELIZATION OF FRENCH CANADA

This will be the title of the stereopticon lecture to be delivered at the Murray street Baptist church tonight by Rev. E. Bosworth of Montreal. There will be no admission fee, the occasion being the anniversary of the Ladies' Mission Circle of the church.

One hundred splendid views will be thrown on the screen illustrating the progress of the work which has resulted in the establishing of the great college owned by the Baptists which is taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the French Canadians who are seeking educational advantages. Hundreds have here renounced Rome and are occupying most responsible positions in this and other countries.

Those who desire to hear the effect of the recent propoganda for the advancement of the hierarchy in Canada should hear the lecture to-night. No doubt the building will be filled.

HARRY D. CAREY'S "MONTANA" COMING TO THE GRAND

Melodramas as a rule are crude and unsatisfactory as they are written by authors who know nothing of the great and boundless west, except what they have learned from books, but it is different with the one big American drama "Montana" which comes to the Grand next Saturday, April 8th, for matinee and night.

This play was written by a man who is thoroughly conversant with the west, as he spent a number of years on a ranch in Montana, where the action of the play took place. Being thrown into constant touch with the people of that breezy State he saw the possibilities of a distinctive play and wrote this excellent contribution to the dramatic stage.

Harry D. Carey has shown by the characteristic touches he has put on all the characters in the play that he knew his subject well. The plot is interesting, rapid and fetching in all that those words imply. Filled with comedy, with situations that will make the pulse tingle and the heart beat quicker it is still a play that is so truthful and realistic that all can be interested and amused. Mr. Carey is this season playing the principal role in the play and gives it a force that has never been equalled. Fern Foster has a dainty and sweet part in that of Florence Harper, and she being a clever actress, rises to high points of emotion when the occasion requires. The rest of the cast are all clever and capable people and there is a scenic investure that will be astounding to the people who see it. It is a melodrama of a new kind, written to amuse and instruct and will do both when it appears here. Miss Fern Foster appeared here last season in "Two Women and That Man."

IT COSTS MORE

It will cost more to keep dogs in Peterborough from now on. At last night's meeting of the council a by-law was passed amending the dog by-law as required by the new Act. The only change in the measure was in the cost of licenses in which the scale will henceforth be as follows:

For a dog where there is but one, $1; for each additional dog $2; and for a bitch where there is but one, $3; and for each additional bitch, $5

MILITARY MUSIC

Bandmaster Gliddon has been for some time getting together the regimental marches of the famous Regiments of the British service. He has secured eight of these and they will be played at regimental drill at the armouries to-night.

These include the "Cock o' the North," "British Empire," "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush," "New Tipperary," and others. Those who hear these will recognize familiar airs, including "Garry Owen," "Patrick's Day," "The Highland Laddie," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "British Grenadiers," "Irish Washerwoman," and "The Campbells are Coming," which are woven into the Melodies.

If time will permit before drill beginning at 7.50 o'clock, the band will play the above selections.

TO UNITE CHURCHES

An effort was made last night in Mill street Presbyterian church, Port Hope, for the purpose of laying the basis of union with St. Paul's church of Port Hope.

Rev. James Rollins, of St. Andrew's, Peterborough, and Dr. Marsh, of Springville, were the parties seeking to effect the union, but without result.

A WORK OF ART

The picture which has been shown at the Y.M.C.A. will go from here to Port Hope at the end of the week. Some of the citizens of Peterborough are going to be disappointed when they are told that "The Shadow of the Cross" has left the city. This painting is a beautiful creation just as a work of art, and, aside from the mystery attached to it. The majority of our people have far too little opportunity to cultivate the taste for the beautiful in art, and if they are wise they would take advantage of the privilege presented them in the exhibition at the Y. M. C. A. For years this picture has been famous, and since it arrived in Peterborough, it has been examined by one of the local scientists, (Rev. Dr Marsh) and he has declared it one of the most mystifying of problems. This is the last week it will be on show at the Y.M.C.A.

CONGRESS CONVENES

Most Important Session as Far as the Effect Upon Canada is Concerned---Clarke is Speaker

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Special Wire to the Examiner.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 4.—President Taft this afternoon convened and got down to business what is expected to be the most important Congress for the century so far as the effect on Canada is concerned. It is the sixty-second Congress, called for an extraordinary session, largely for the purpose of dealing with the Canadian reciprocity bill. The composition of the Congress is as follows. Senate Republicans 50, Democrats 41, vacancy 1; representatives, Democrats 228, Republicans 160, Socialists 1, vacant 3.

Champ. Clark, the annexationist Democrat from Missouri, was elected speaker, amid cheers. He took the place held for years by Joe Cannon, and thanked the House for their confidence.

President Taft's message to Congress will not be read until to-morrow. His Cabinet met at noon and discussed the subject matter. It is understood to deal almost entirely with Canadian reciprocity, and will repeat the President's well-known sentiments favouring the bill.

LOOKED AFTER CHOIR

The Canadian Pacific Railway have taken special precautions to insure the comfort of the members of the Sheffield Choir. They sent their General Passenger Agent, Mr. W. Brett of Montreal, to this city to see that they received courteous attention, while travelling on the Company's lines. They also took every pains to see that the Choir got every accommodation.

FANTASTIC TRICKS.

Alderman Edgar was deservedly defeated in his attempt to introduce party politics into the administration of civic affairs. His motion to condemn reciprocity, after being treated very much as a joke, was defeated. Our Aldermen have quite all they can do—and some of us think, a good deal more—to give the city good government; to see that the city gets good value for the thumping big taxes the ratepayers put up. They have no earthly business to fruitlessly meddle with a subject they have no more right to deal with than they have with the lords' veto bill in the Imperial House of Commons. Any resolution they might pass would have no more effect on the Canadian House of Commons than the opinion of a side-line debating society. The Council is supposed to represent the people of Peterborough of all shades of political opinion, and it is simply and insufferable impudence to attempt to play the petty party game in a non-partizan city council. If he acted on the advice of his friends he should shoot such friends before he again takes their counsel. If he acted on his own initiative, he should regard himself as an illustration of Shakespeare's words:

But man, proud man,
Drest in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven,
As make the Angels weep.

GOOD RESULTS.

The British surplus for the financial year which closed on March 31, was 45 million dollars. Lloyd-George's budget is as sure a revenue getter as the Fielding tariff, which will this year roll up a total of about 118 millions, an increase of more than thirteen millions over last year. Both the Mother country and Canada must be prosperous, for customs returns are indirectly the measure of the purchasing power of the people. Having in mind the import of the proverb, "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," Liberal government is a great success both at Ome and at home.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

Mr. Henry Bourassa, the head of the Quebec "Nationalist" movement, puts in print, what others may easily have in their minds, and, perhaps, hearts. Hon. Clifford Sifton, who has done what he would thresh one of his thoroughbreds for doing—bolted—is, according to Mr. Bourassa in his paper, Le Devoir, not to be honoured with the leadership of the Conservative party, when Mr. Borden is openly, as he is now, practically, shelved. He is to overthrow the Liberal Government, but his reward is not to be the leadership of the Conservative party, but the shoes of Strathcona, and possibly, a title of a seat in the House of Lords, or both. In all this perhaps Mr. Bourassa sees himself ready to catch the results of a political rebound. As the Montreal Herald suggests, the Conservative party will not solidly greet Mr. Sifton as the Joshua to lead them into the "promised" land of office. There might be a saving remnant who would not know Sifton. Then Mr. Bourassa would constitute a rallying point, a "marker," on which the units of the third party could form their ranks. The great Conservative party is in deep water. With Mr. Borden hanging on the leadership by his eyelids, with Mr. McBride cannily regarding a bird in the hand as worth two in the bush, with no Conservative of respectable political quality available, it seems to be humiliating to have to look for light and leading to a Liberal pervert, and in default of his holding the party together, to have to fall back upon a "Nationalist" as the leader of the rebellious wing that cannot get a chance to follow a respectable leader of their own faith, and will not follow a "renegade" Grit. This may not represent what will be, but it is something that is talked about with no little warrant for the gossip.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A local member of the bar betrayed his nationality by the perpetration of a new and neat Irish "bull." In conversation with a friend on the subject of politeness, the friend quoted St. Paul's injunction—"be courteous to all men—"

"Especially the ladies" added the rival of Sir Boyle Roche, with perfect seriousness and innocence.

TAX REFORM.

(Hamilton Spectator (Conservative.)

Once again Premier Whitney has killed the move, urged by municipalities, in all parts of the Province, to have the assessment not changed so that it will be permissive to tax improvements at a lower rate than land. Sir James seems to think there is a deep-laid scheme back of this movement to introduce single tax. He is surely frightened at shadows. If this system of assessment has been found to work advantageously in other Provinces, as is the case, why should it be denied to Ontario, single tax or no single tax? One is almost forced to believe that pure stubbornness, rather than principle, is moving the premier in this matter.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

(Guelph Mercury.)

The London Free Press, a representative organ of Ontario Conservatism, says: "Reciprocity has upset the calculations of manufacuring Canada. It is the enemy of industrial progress in this country." On the other hand, the Winnipeg Telegram, a representative organ of Manitoba Conservatism, say: "The Laurier Government has evidenced a deal of consideration for the manufacturers. In view of this fact it is not surprising that manufacturers should accept with complacence an agreement which so far as they are concerned does not amount to a slap on the wrist." The opposition is divided both in the House and in the party when they consider that only political exigencies force them to come out against the reciprocity agreement after having advocated it for years. It is hard to turn one's back on their offspring, even if reared by another party.

GREATEST BRITISH CITIES.

(London Daily News.)

Interesting figures relating to population are given in the statistical abstract for the British Empire, issued last night.

The bulk of the volume is devoted to figures relating to the trade and shipping of the empire.

It is interesting to note the relative population of the great cities of the empire, as estimated in 1910:

London (County)	4,873,000
Calcutta and Fort	1,031,000
Bombay and Cantonments	978,000
Manchester and Salford	980,000
Glasgow	884,000
Liverpool	768,000
Sydney	605,800
Birmingham	570,000
Madras	509,000
Melbourne	502,000
Montreal	500,000

As regards the trade of the British Empire, its total value in 1909 amounted to £1,566,000.

LIMPING LOGIC.

The Brockville Times prints the following:

One thing at least, the talk about the retirement of Mr. Borden as Conservative leader has done: it has elicited eulogies from the best Liberal and Conservative newspapers of which any man might justly feel proud. His ability, his high ideals, and his irreproachable character and attractive personality place the Conservative leader on a plane far above that of the average Parliamentary representative. Canada should count itself lucky to have a man like Mr. Borden in active life.

What is said as to Mr. Borden's ability as a lawyer or debater and his character will be generally accepted, but if the Times were not as blind in its Toryism as a three days old puppy it would see that is eulogy of Mr. Borden furnishes the strongest possible condemnation of a large section of the Conservative parliamentary party, who are moving heaven and earth to dethrone Mr. Borden in spite of his ability, and in spite of, and on account of his impeccable character. The "graft"-condemners par excellence and are trying to cuckoo Mr. Borden out of the leadership in order to give room for a more pliant leader, who would not be shocked at a little excursion into the realms of questionable political methods.

Reciprocity Finds Increasing Favour With Thinking Farmers And Stockmen

Agincourt, April 1.—About twenty-five farmers of Scarboro' township gathered together at their own instigation last night for the express purpose of discussing the question of reciprocity. It was not a political meeting in any respect. Liberals and Conservatives being alike represented, and the discussion was about as far removed as possible from partisan lines. No vote was taken on the subject. It was not necessary, for nearly every man present spoke to the question and made plain how he stood. In the whole gathering there was only one man who expressed himself as opposed to the proposed trade agreement. All the others were in favour of it.

The meeting was the second in a series which it is proposed to hold for the purpose of discussing national questions; and with this end in view a resolution was passed at the end, favouring the formation of a permanent organization, to be allied, if practical, with the Dominion Grange.

Mr. Hugh Clarke, of Agincourt, the chairman, placed himself on record as favouring the trade agreement.

James Stewart began with a history of the various trade agreements between Canada and the United States, explaining the conditions in Canada at the time of each. It was not because it might mean more dollars and cents to him that Mr. Stewart was in favour of reciprocity, but because the principle of it was the goldden rule, and meant justice for all. He thought the passing of the agreement would ultimately mean death to the protection policy, and the removal of the people from under the heel of the capitalists.

John Galbraith, barrister of Edmonton, who has been visiting Toronto, spoke of the benefits which reciprocity would bring to the Western Provinces. Sir Edmund Walker and other bankers were afraid that with free trade in natural products the people of the United States would buy live stock in Western Canada, and that would mean that United States money would be put into circulation in competition with Canadian money.

Conservative in Favour.

James Patterson, of Agincourt, a Conservative, said that he was in sympathy with the trade agreement. He was sorry to see the attitude adopted by Mr. Robins. "Mr. Robins and I always used to vote together," he said, "but we can't do that any more."

W. D. Annis, Reeve of Scarboro pointed out that the only time when the United States could ship eggs or vegetables or fruits into Canada was when these articles were not in season in Canada.

Canners Bought Fruit.

George Elliott of Agincourt showed that it was the canners who took the greatest proportion of the fruit and vegetables grown in the Niagara Peninsula, and pointed to the fact that they were making contracts this year earlier and at higher prices than they had done for several years. He also spoke of the higher price the farmers would obtain for their barley. This would benefit the farmers of Scarboro, which was admirably adapted for the growing of this grain.

Dr. O. Sisly of Toronto, dwelt on the fact that as a result of the protective policy the same flour which sold in Winnipeg, right where it was produced for $2.95 per hundredweight, sold in Loverpool for $2.50 per cwt.

Dr. Sisley regarded this agreement as the taking off of the first rail, and said that he believed the time was coming when the every rail would be taken away.

Reciprocity Train Talk.

To be known as "the potato king" of northwestern Ontario is an enviable reputation. Such is the indentifying title borne by Mr. W. T. Smith, Chesley, who gave The Globe his views and those of some brother dealers on reciprocity. "I am here selling a big shipment of potatoes, which I brought down from the north has Monday," said Mr. Smith.

"There were ten of us together on the train coming down to Toronto last Monday, and we got into a discussion on reciprocity," he said. "We were all live stock dealers from Grey and Bruce counties, and we were all in favour of the trade agreement but one, Mr. R. Brunt of Hanover.

"Others in the party were Mr. D. McCurrahar, Walkerton; Mr. John Blerworth, Elmwood, and Mr. John Calvert, Hanover. As well as being in potatoes, I was a live stock dealer for years, and with the others was bringing cattle and hogs to the Toronto markets," said Mr. Smith. "We all found that we had had the experience of shiping stock to Buffalo in face of the duties and that we could have profited greatly had we been exempted from the tax. The farmer also would have received more for his live stock.

"I have often shipped hogs to Toronto, when if I could have sent them on over to Buffalo I could have secured from two to three cents per pound higher for them," stated Mr. Smith.

In view of the fact that many potato dealers and growers in different parts of Ontario have expressed fears of the competition with the American growers which would come with reciprocity, Mr. Smith's remarks are interesting. "I have shipped many cars of potatoes to Jersey City in face of the duty of 25 cents per bushel in past years," said he. "And if I could get a free market to-day in the United States, I would make money in the big cities on the other side.

"This agreement will be a wonderful help to the farmers in Grey and Bruce, and many of them up there, Conservatives, too, are anxious for reciprocity."

KNOWS THE NORTHLAND.

J. F. Whitson Went Over the Ground In the Very Early Days.

Mr. J. F. Whitson, chief surveyor and engineer for the Provincial Department of Lands, Forests, and Mines, was elected president of the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors the other day at the annual gathering of that sun-burned, black-fly bitten legion of explorers and wilderness tamers.

For twenty-two years Mr. Whitson has served in the Crown Lands Department, entering the civil service in 1889, when he was put in charge of certain explorations, surveys, and timber estimatings in the Rainy River District. Since that date he has seen a great deal of the north country, and handled the details of a great many of its affairs. He, indeed, may well be regarded as one of the prime authorities on New Ontario, and an expert on the raw, vital resources pertaining thereto—miscellaneous products ranging through a list of items such as rocks, timber, mineral deposits, survey posts, snowshoe claims, and husky dogs.

Like plenty of others of the earlier explorers of this province, Mr. Whitson never chanced upon a rich mineral discovery, though he traveled over or camped upon the sites of future Cobalt, Porcupine, Gowganda, and other places since metallurgically famous, long before they became so.

It was away back in 1898 that his first trip was made into the Temiscamingue region. He traveled up the Ottawa by canoe as far as modern Haileybury, where at that time the bush stood heavy and unbroken. Very little lumbering had yet been done on Lake Temiscamingue, though considerable square timber had been taken out from the Montreal River.

The Ontario territory of the New Transcontinental Railway, ran, now that Mr. Whitson long before average optimists even dreamed of the actual road. He has, in fact, traveled most of the main water highways of the north in this province, and camped on many a lonely little lake in that great hinterland above the C.P.R. And in thirty years of canoe travel, never has he suffered serious accident. Many times has his canoe been swamped, but always has his party managed to safely reach the shore.

As for snowshoes, they are an old story to the new president of the "O. L.S.," the duties of the head surveyor taking him into the north country at all seasons of the year.

Mr. Whitson tells how one time on the Mississaga River, traveling by dog team and toboggan, an Indian was appealed to for a map of the route. It seems as a guide he was a failure, because he made too many stipulations about "extras," and wanted to leave his family with enough provisions for the winter before he would make serious preparations for a start.

So Mr. Whitson bought his dogs at top price and asked for a map to proceed without the Objibway's aid. That map turned out to be a curiosity too big for a Geographical Society Museum, though entirely worthy.

It began on a piece of brown paper, was continued on the bark of a birch tree several paces away, produced eight feet upon a toboggan, where it ran off at the tail end and disappeared into four feet of snow.

Mr. Whitson is said to have allowed the next instalment of the map to go by default, and, judging by its start it may be going yet.

A quiet, modest, undemonstrative sort of a man is J. F. Whitson, with an inherent objection to figuring in the despatches. But it's those quiet fellows who carry the biggest packs. —Toronto Weekly Star.

Canadians With Mexican Rebels.

A Toronto man whose people are spending the winter in Southern Colorado, in the area affected by the insurrection in Mexico, received a letter recently telling of the eagerness displayed by the rebels in securing recruits for their ranks.

It is of interest to learn that there are a good many roving Canadians in that country, who seem quite willing to join in a Mexican insurrection or try a hand at any other game. It is said that on a recent occasion a party of 120 men, Americans and Canadians, left Pueblo for the front. Some of the Canucks who took part in the uprising in its early stages must have given a good account of themselves, for the leaders of the movement in awarding land script to recruits—which will be honored if the uprising succeeds — are giving each Canadian twice as much land as they award to each American. When asked why this was so, the agents who are looking for men replied that they valued one American as equal to eight Mexicans, and one Canadian as equal to two Americans.

It isn't often that we get an unbiased outside estimate like this, and we must confess that it is highly flattering.

Priest Holds Record.

Sir George Simpson, the old Hudson Bay governor, held the canoe record for the trip between Moose Factory and Abitibi at eleven days. Father Paradis, the famous priest-prospector of Porcupine camp, claims to have broken that record, reducing it to eight days and a half. For four days and nights of that trip they paddled without food. His Indians killed a gull, roasted it on the brands of the fire for a few minutes, and devoured it, feathers and all. Two days later they found a dead pike on the bank—ant that went the same way. Otherwise they subsisted on water only and a few wild cherries. Father Paradis has endured the test of the trail, right enough, in his time.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

MY DEAR MISS CAMERON:

"I am a reader of this paper and have noticed with interest the different occupations for women you sometimes suggest in your columns.

"Now, I would appreciate it very much if you would suggest some ways by which a college girl can earn money during her summer vacation. I refer to a college girl who is trying as nearly as possible to earn her own way through college. What can you suggest in this line that would not bring her to the opening of the college year, tired out and unfit for the year's work?

"An early answer through the columns of the paper is greatly desired."

Again I am going to ask my readers' help.

On the previous occasions when I have requested this I have found my readers most generous with their excellent suggestions, so I am sure they will be again.

Last summer I happened to hear of two college girls who spent the summer as book agents in southern Canada. They went through every primitive country which had not been done to death by summer tourists, and were regarded by the country people as a most welcome diversion.

Consequently, according to the reports which I got, they both had a delightful time and made very good money.

Other college girls whom I have known have earned money during the summer by acting as governesses, as monitors at summer camps, as play teachers in summer playgrounds, as teachers in summer schools, as clerks in the civil service (the examination is the last of April, I think) or in ordinary offices.

None of these things are very unique, as I am afraid I have not contributed much to the subject. And here, of course, is where I want my readers' help.

If you know of any way in which a college or high school girl has earned money in the summer, won't you write and tell us about it?

Through these columns I will pass your suggestion on, to this girl and to many others who may be desirous of similar information.

TOM FLANAGAN TO REFEREE THE BOUTS

Genial Toronto Sportsman Who Managed Jack Johnson in His Fight With Jeffries Will be the Third Man in the Ring at the Big Boxing Tournament in the Grand Opera House on Friday Night.

The patrons of the Peterborough A. C. Entertainment at the Grand Opera House on Friday night will be pleased to know that Tom Flanagan, of Toronto, has agreed to referee the bouts there and the man who was sent for by champion Jack Johnson to cross the continent and supervise his training for the world's heavyweight championship at Reno, against J. J. Jefferies, will see that there will be good clean bouts.

Other cities have often tried to get Mr. Flanagan to act as the third man in the ring but it was left to the management of the P. A. C. to accomplish his first engagement.

Reserved seats are being asked for, and as the plan opens to-morrow, Wednesday, 5th, no doubt there will be a rush.

Mgr. Breen has been notified from Lannon that he will be here Friday morning and is getting in the best of shape. As Lang has been boxing right along there is no worrying about his condition. No money has been spared to make this the greatest athletic carnival ever held not only in Peterborough, but in Canada. The upper gallery Friday night will be opened at 7.45 and closed at 8.15, for rush seats, as they will be limited. The boxes can be secured by applying at opera house any time.

TOMMY STURCH,

Of Toronto, the clever, hard-hitting 118 pounder, who boxes G. Moore, of Montreal in the preliminaries to the Lang-Lannon fight at the Grand Opera House on Friday night.

TED PICTON,

Of Toronto, the speedy boxer, who will meet Fred Compton in a five round preliminary to the Lang-Lannon bout at the Grand on Friday night.

BEST BOXING EVER SEEN IN HAMILTON

Paddy Lavin Had a Shade the Better of Hilliard Lang but it was a Great "go"---Sturch who Boxes Here Friday Had Better of His Bout.

HAMILTON, APRIL 3.—The Hamilton Boxing and Athletic Club put on the best night's entertainment in the way of boxing that has ever been given here, to-night, in Britannia Rink, before a large crowd. The main bout was between Hilliard Lang of Toronto, and Paddy Lavin of Buffalo, at 145 pounds, though Lavin looked to have considerable advantage in weight. They gave a fine exhibition for the first seven rounds, and Lavin did not appear to be extending himself. In the eighth Lang got under his guard and had decidedly the better of the round. The ninth opened with fast exchanges, the men standing up to each other in the centre of the ring. Lang had a slight advantage of the exchange but Lavin found his face with a couple of upper cuts. Honours were evenly divided in the tenth. There was no decision, and although the crowd was very impartial, the unanimous opinion was that Lavin outpointed Lang. Both men were almost as fresh as when they entered the ring, although it was a slashing go from the drop of the hat. Lang's nose was bleeding in the ninth, but outside of that neither man had a mark. The entertainment opened with an eight-round bout between Tommy Sturch and Billy Darley of Toronto. No decision was given, but Sturch had slightly the better of it. Eddie McBride of Buffalo was referee.

RHEUMATINE

FOOTBALL IN GREAT BRITAIN

As the readers are probably aware this is the great event in the British Association Football world. The leading teams are drawn against each other in a "knock out" competition. 64 teams entered for the competition, and up to last Saturday the number of teams were brought down to four, viz., Newcastle, Blackburn Rovers, Bradford City and Chelsea.

It is an interesting fact that every one of these four teams is composed of men trained on Oxo.

SYBILLA LONG, KNIGHT ERRANT

She Was Happily Worsted In Her First Combat.

By INA WRIGHT HANSON.

"I did have such an experience this morning! I started out to find a girl I used to know and who I heard was living here. I got tangled up in a minstrel show going over, and coming back I got mixed into a funeral. I didn't know exactly where she lived, and I had all Boston Ravine out looking for her. I'm sure the folks down there haven't been so stirred up for years."

The voice beyond the bowlder broke most pleasantly into Fenton's moody thoughts. He sat up promptly, but cautiously.

"That's the first decent voice I've heard in this accursed place," he observed silently.

It didn't seem to be an accursed place. Fragrant with pine needles, vocal with the humming of bees in late manzanita blooms and the laughter of a watercress laden stream, beautiful with brick red soil, varied greens in foliage and glimpses of heaven's own blue, it seemed like a charming spot, the only discord the pale faced, hollow eyed man himself.

"I didn't find the girl after all," the musical tones went on, "but I found the house she used to live in."

Fenton listened impatiently while the other voice said things, querulous things burdened with the aches and pains of the speaker. "A typical sanitarium voice," thought Fenton peevishly. Then he brightened as the first speaker remarked:

"You think you will go back, do you? Oh, no, the walk hasn't hurt you. Exercise and fresh air do wonders for a body often. No, I am going to stay and read till luncheon."

In silence Fenton wondered if she would read aloud, but instead she began to sing. He fairly held his breath—notes soft as a wood dove's, a voice exquisite by nature and unspoiled by training. She was singing a lilting lyric of love, and Fenton thought of a swinging gate, scurrying clouds and his first sweetheart's first kiss, years and years forgotten. Then, without any perceptible hesitancy, the melody changed to a lullaby, tender as a mother's prayer, and the weary look left the man's eyes, the hard lines around his mouth relaxed, and he drew a long, almost sobbing, breath. The melody ceased, and Fenton felt as if he had never had a desire in his life but to hear her sing. He arose and went to the other side of the bowlder.

"Pardon a sick man," he began, but his tongue seemed paralyzed. His only conscious thought was that he was glad the girl in her nurse's uniform was so fair. Her eyes gazing outlawfully up at him had never a hint of fear in their amber depths. He gathered his senses together.

"I haven't slept naturally for a week," he said bluntly. "Will you sing for me?"

When Fenton awoke the sun was shining no longer. He sat up quickly and found that a great shawl was keeping the evening's chilliness from him; then his eyes discovered the nurse leaning against a tree, regarding him gravely.

"You have stayed here all day—you have had no lunch!" he exclaimed.

She smiled. "Oh, no; when I was [illegible] would stay asleep I [illegible] back to the sanitarium, now that I come again."

They arose. Fenton folded the shawl and laid it over his arm.

"How am I ever going to thank you?" he began.

"Don't try," she answered simply, preceding him down the narrow path.

"I worked too hard and collapsed," he explained. "There'll be no doubt when I get well again. I am going to get well now that I can sleep. Maybe you have heard of John Fenton, carpet manufacturer. I am the idiot."

"Oh!" exclaimed the girl, then added hastily: "A pebble rolled under my foot. I am Sybilla Long, nurse."

He wondered at the deep flush which overspread her face. They were at the foot of the hill and walking side by side.

"Don't I symbolize your sentiment?" he inquired gravely. "Do you suppose the doctors are averse to a graft?"

He thought her low laughter was pleasanter even than her song or her speech. That night he slept as he had not for a year.

A new life was beginning for John Fenton. The sanitarium's grim walls no longer spelled to him hopelessness. The doctors were complacent over so satisfactory a convalescent, but Fenton laughed in his sleeve at them. It was not pills and potions which had made a man of him again, but the magic of a sweet voice and a gracious presence.

She seemed, this fair Sybilla, to be overyoung for a nurse. Perhaps for that reason the grave doctors indulged her beyond the others. At any rate, she always had time for Fenton, and daily she fascinated him more. He had not been a man of many loves. The first little sweetheart, dead years before, and the woman his mother wanted him to marry, but whom he had perversely refused even to meet—the first had set his heartstrings a-quiver; the last, his mother affirmed, stood ready to do so. So all the love which Fenton might have nurtured and had not come flying around this amber eyed, flute voiced Sybilla.

So she sang to him, and he quoted to himself, "And then beside me singing in the wilderness." She read to him, and he fitted other words to the melody of her voice, words he hoped some time to hear from her lips. She talked blithely or thoughtfully, as her mood might be, and he answered in like spirit, watching with a lover's eyes each changing expression.

The doctors had pronounced him well, but he was loath to go into the world again. He had a feeling that in its clang and clamor Sybilla Long would prove to be what she had been before he knew her—a dream too beauteous to come true.

There came a day when the breath of summer was hot over the red soil and withering manzanita blooms. The watercress laden stream was too languid for laughter, but Fenton's heart beat high with hope. He was wondering how he should say it, the world old rule, for say it he must within the hour. Looking at her pensive face, the words of a favorite song came into his mind, and his clear tenor broke softly into the stillness of the pine forest. Sybilla looked up surprised, for she had never heard him sing.

"I think of you all the day long.
You run through the hours like a song.
Sometimes I think if the world could see
My golden dreams it would envy me.
Dearie, my dearie, nothing's worth while but dreams of you,
And you can make every dream come true,
Dearie, my dearie—

"Will you, my dearie, make every dream come true?" He leaned toward her eagerly, but she shrank away from him, covering her face with trembling hands. A tear splashed out between her fingers.

His face clouded. "Why, little girl"—he began, with troubled concern.

She uncovered her face and looked at him wanly. He started at her expression.

"Did you ever hear of Martha Gillen?" she asked.

His look was uncomprehending. Martha Gillen was the woman his mother had for five years been importuning him to marry.

"Yes," he said dully. "Why?"

"For many reasons I love her as I would a sister. One day she told me that your mother wanted you to marry her, but that you wouldn't even meet her for fear you might be inveigled into it. She laughed about it, but I thought it an affront to her beauty and goodness and wisdom, and I prayed for the chance to avenge her. It came sooner than I expected. I learned about your illness and where you were. Dr. Jenson is my cousin, so it was easy enough to pose as a nurse, and that's what I've been doing. Now you despise me."

Fenton noted the quivering of her lips and said gently: "I don't understand. You have been goodness itself to me. You have"—

"Oh, don't you see the baseness of me! I did it to make you love me." Sybilla's white face was crimson now. "I wanted you to love me and tell me so and ask me to marry you, and then I was going to spurn you to the ground, and so should Martha Gillen be avenged."

Fenton smiled. "How old are you, little knight errant, avenger of another woman's wrongs? Not quite twenty? I thought so. Years ago I was not quite twenty, and often did I busy myself turning a gopher hill into a Vesuvius spitting forth fire, smoke and lava. Sybilla, dear, why don't you spurn me?"

He held out his arms, and into them crept a tearful, very rosy, very winsome knight errant, happily worsted in her first combat.

How He Escaped.

"But," says the returned explorer, "although I seemed to be hopelessly lost and there was not the slightest sign of a trail, I was not the least alarmed, for at that moment some nomadic Kurds rode into my camp."

"Why were you not alarmed?" asks a listener.

"I knew the Kurds would show me the way."

A Big Man With Big Views.

Charles A. Magrath, M.P., for Medicine Hat, is a big man with big views. He told the Montreal Canadian Club, a few days ago, that if Canada is to preserve her national identity she must keep the key to commercial success—which is cheap power—and use it to open the world's markets instead of letting it go to trade competitors in the United States. He said that Canada, with her wealth of undeveloped water powers, was like a nouveau riche, with a crowd after her to exploit her wealth for their own advantage. With a view to preserving our water energy for ourselves he would have a commission of competent consulting engineers.

Mr. Magrath is one of the best men that the West has sent to Ottawa. He was born in Augusta, Ont., a little more than half a century ago, but he has lived in Western Canada for thirty years. So it's no wonder that he has a goodly share of a fine spirit of bigness.

That his fellow Conservative members think well of him is shown by the fact that he is Permanent Chairman of the Conservative Caucus.—Canadian Courier.

A Spanish Dictionary.

The science of dictionary making has made some progress in the past hundred years, if we are to judge by an entry in "The Spanish Journal of Lady Holland." She writes under date February, 1803: "A biographical dictionary of 'Los Hijos de Madrid' is no bad specimen of the roundabout way in which Spaniards do things. The names are arranged in alphabetical order, but, alas, according to the Christian names of the worthies; therefore one might look for an hour for the most celebrated hero in Spain and not find it at last unless one had an extract from the parish record of all the saints under whose protection the parents chose to place him."

SHOULD A GIRL TELL HER PAST?

Two Correspondents Take Diametrically Opposite Views on the Question---A Man Says Flatly "Yes"---A Woman Says Positively "No."

Here are two very interesting letters in regard to the question inaugurated by Ruth Cameron in her Chit-Chat column, "Should a Girl Tell Her Past?" One from a man answers the question in the affirmative; the other, from a woman is even more positively negative. The Examiner will be glad to publish other communications on the subject. Please write on only one side of the paper:

A MAN SAYS "YES."

Should a Girl Tell Her Past?

In reply to the above question, I would say yes, by all means, and I will give my reasons. First is it not better for a girl to tell the man of her choice, the man in which all the love of her nature is wrapped up of the folly of her past, and if he be a man he will lift her up tenderly and take her to his heart and together they can begin life arm in arm and try to forget the past or live it down. For, as has been said by F. R. in his reply to the above question, there are very few men that, if they were looked in the eye by the woman that they were about to marry and asked this question, whether they had a past or not, could give a good, clear account of themselves. On the other hand, if he be a brute and turns her down, she may thank God that she has escaped the torture of living with a man that was just marrying her to improve his social position or financial position, or for the sake of getting a woman, aside from any love he may have for her. Such love doesn't go far towards making a happy home. Clubs, shows, horses, automobiles, etc., usually monopolize the time of a man after business hours, who marries in that way. Again, I say, tell him before it is too late, because if you don't, some kind friend is sure to tell him after you are married, and what then? There is the usual quarrel, and after confession and pleading for forgiveness, which is sometimes granted, and which sometimes leads to desertion or divorce, or a life of continual unhappiness. Sometimes it has driven men to drink themselves to the grave, and has very often been the cause of wrecking a beautiful and well equipped home. For where is the man—show him to me—that can walk up the street with his wife on his arm, knowing that there is one person can point his finger at that wife and say: (See that woman? Well, she was once my mistress.) In some cases it will cause a man to worry and fret until sickness overtakes him, causing him to lose all ambition and interest in his business, and if he be a man of a very sensitive nature he may take it so to heart as to cause him to commit suicide. But if he be a good, true, devoted lover he will go home and consider the matter thoroughly and weigh up his misdeeds against hers, and the result will be in a great many cases, he will love her more than ever for her frankness in telling him and proving her love and devotion for him, and the result is, that when they marry they go away off into some other part of the world, where both are unknown and begin life where nobody can point the finger of shame at either and try to live happy, which very often they do. Of course, I would not advise all young girls to tell their sweethearts their past; it might spoil their chances of ever getting a man at all. This rule only applies to young women who are engaged to be married and the time for the wedding set, and to those who thoroughly understand one another and realise what they are about to do, for marriage is a very serious consideration. Then, and only then, it is time for the girl to put the man to his final test and weigh up her future happiness in his decision on the matter. Hoping that a great many young ladies who chance to see this article will profit by it, I remain,

"ONE WHO KNOWS."

Peterborough, April 3rd, 1911.

A WOMAN SAYS "NO."

In reading the letter of your correspondent of Saturday's issue, it was very interesting and humane, but impracticable from a woman's point of view. He says to tell, in fact be sure and tell. F. R. has an idea she would feel better for the telling. Well, granted that confession is good for the soul, let her go to her priest, if a Catholic, or her minister, if of another faith—or tell it to Sweeney, but for the love of Mike, if she values her future happiness, don't tell it to her intended husband, for he won't understand. It sounds well to say if he is a man, and not a thing, he will forget it—not he, for he will take extra pains that his memory don't get rusty on that one point.

Again, F. R. is right when he says instinct is stronger in a woman than knowledge is in a man—for a woman will be guided by instinct nine times out of ten rather than to use good horse sense—and that goes to show that if she has any kind of a hunch she won't tell him, for in the long run he will be happier and so will she. Of course, I mean the girl that falls for love, or what she takes for love, not the riff-raff that drags her purity in the mud for the sake of the price it brings, for to them the old adage "that all is not gold that glitters" means nothing. They don't care a hang if their kind of life doesn't ring true as long as their poor foolish eyes see the glitter, and that same glitter blinds them so they cannot see how near is the gutter. I repeat, I don't mean that kind. They don't have to confess for all that run may read, but the poor kid of a girl that lets some man make her believe that black is white—it's to her. I tell in plain English that after she has stooped to folly and finds too late that men betray—not to go around looking for some one to tell it to, for she will always find that some one is just bursting for you to "beat it" so they can pass it along. A woman will pass it on nearly every time. Of course, there is the exception to the rule; no doubt there are some women who would bite their tongue off before they would tattle on the girl, but it's dollars to doughnuts she won't strike that woman. I bet every woman that reads this will think to herself (and aloud) that she is the one woman who will take the odds?

I think F. R. is mistaken in his sex, although he shoots very near the mark in mine. We know of Him that said, "Go forth and sin no more" and also of Mary Magdalene, but He was divine, and I don't see men breaking their necks to follow Him in His treatment of erring women than to follow in His steps in lots of other things.

F. R. says many waters do not quench love—admitted! But if he will investigate a few examples he will find that the confession of a past to a too well favoured lover will howl over Dan Cupid every time, or if it doesn't kill his love outright, she will lose his respect, and how long will love live without respect? Mind, I don't say he won't marry her, for in a great many cases they will, but there is always that blot between them and no mater how true and faithful a wife and loving mother she would prove to him and his children, he would never forget that he had found that his idol had feet of clay, and as I have said before, he would take good care that she wouldn't forget. You can bet she would have to walk the straight and narrow path with a vengance, for he would be watching and misconstruing her every action, for most men, some of the best, are suspicious brutes at bottom, so what's the use of building a wall that would take more energy to pull down than it would to get reciprocity over the footlights into the heads of some Canadians. When it comes right down to brass tacks, what right has he to know? Are there too sets of commandmandments, or did God intend that there should be sex in sin? Do you ever catch a man confessing, unless it is to try and impress some girl of what a smart fellow he has been, or thinks he has? Let her "fess up" and then there is the deuce to pay. If he don't care much, he will take French leave, or if, as it often happens, he really does love, he will marry and twit her afterwards every time she looks cross-eyed. When one talks about a man forgiving the worst sin (to his mind for a woman) you are talking away over his head. He will never understand, for to him the bloom has gone from the peach, so my advice to girls is, don't tell him, marry him, and be as true as though the whole world were watching you and never give him a chance to doubt you. I have heard of several—and know of two where ignorance was bliss—and they are as happy as one would wish to be, so girls, take it from me, as they are, so you will be—only one thing more, if you don't tell him before, don't get the idea in your head that it is your duty to tell him afterwards, (after you have him trapped and trimmed.) That would be worse than telling him before. If you are bound to tell, speak before, or hold your peace forever, no matter if it seems you will go mad with remorse. Bear your cross, do penance in silence. It was your sin, be willing to take the punishment, but don't hang a dark cloud over your home. Keep your eyes to the front; nothing is ever gained by looking back, and when the time comes for us all to stand in the highest court, before the great Judge, you will know then how willing and easy it is for Him that died for us to forgive our poor human failings.

MR. MATTHEW'S FERVENT HOPE

Former Chief Justice of British Columbia Tendered Startling Advice.

In the early days of British Columbia when the mining rush was on and the country was full of lawless characters of all descriptions, the laws were made entirely by Sir James Douglas, governor at that time of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, which were two separate colonies.

The administration of justice was left in the hands of Sir Matthew Begbie, chief justice, and although it has since been held that his decisions were not in all cases good law, it was generally conceded at the time that he meted out impartial justice.

A case of his autocratic method of governing a court is told by one of the early settlers in the province. A man was found dead outside a saloon in Victoria and it was supposed that he had been sandbagged and robbed. The police succeeded in arresting a man supposed to be responsible for the crime and he was duly arraigned for trial before a jury.

The evidence was altogether circumstantial, but it was strong, and the judge had no doubt of the man's guilt. However, after the counsel for the defence had made an eloquent plea on behalf of the prisoner and the jury had considered the matter for some time, they announced that the man was not guilty.

Judge Begbie received the verdict with extreme disgust. The situation was becoming embarrassing, when the counsel for the defence rose and asked that notice that the accused had been found not guilty by the jury, he be discharged.

"Prisoner," said the judge, turning to the man in the dock, "you may go. I hope that the next man you sandbag will be dead of the jury."

Sir Matthew is not the only judge who has made similar reflections, but this story is said to be true.

The Annual Slaughter.

Every session there is a "slaughter of the innocents." At the opening, three days a week are devoted to the introduction of private members, who place facetious resolutions on the order paper and introduce public bills and then forget all about them. As the weeks go by private members get a day chopped from their allowance, and when the half way mark in the session's progress is reached, the Government appropriates every day for its own business, and the mass of bills and motions is heaved overboard. Then there is great uproar on the part of these same careless ones who have allowed their days of opportunity to slip by. Many a man considers he has fulfilled his duty to his constituency when he places a motion to abolish the Senate on the order paper, and proceeds to draw his monthly indemnity on the alleged ground of public service. So long as the "smoking room" provides greater attractions than the Chamber, and the whist table than the committee's, just so long will the list of stranded motions and bills when the session wears away be a formidable one. This year 28 public bills and orders and 12 resolutions fall under the knife of Lord High Executioner Laurier. One thing can be said, and that is they have served their purpose, for the dozens who neglected them until they died, can return to their constituents and tell them they would have proceeded with their bill or resolution, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier was afraid of it and ordered its decapitation. Sweet are the uses of political exigency.—The Mace in Saturday Night.

Measuring Brush.

R. T. Coady, city treasurer of Toronto, once lost a bet—or so the story goes, at any rate—over a lumberman's ability to measure brushwood. It may not be generally known that Mr. Coady used to be in the lumber business himself, and can size up a pile of wood with some facility, even to this day. The art of mentally measuring the number of feet in a stick of timber is a mysterious one. Lumbermen can do it with amazing rapidity and accuracy without putting a rule near the pile. But Mr. Coady had a friend who said he could accurately measure a big pile of brushwood, an assertion which was met by all present with some derision. After the bet was put in hard and fast shape, the lumberman dumped the brushwood in a big tank of water, held it under the surface, measured the height to which the water rose, and from this calculation the amount of water which the brushwood displaced. Thus he gave Mr. Coady indisputable figures. "That," says the city treasurer, "was the most remarkable way of measuring lumber that was ever invented, for it was so accurate that it took into account every twig and every wart on the bark. I lost."

Amazing Prosperity.

Mr. A. D. Thorne, president of the Union Bank of Halifax, was a visitor at a little weather-beaten country church near Sydney, C.B., one Sunday evening last fall. The unpainted exterior and meagre furnishings inside, as well as the shabby coat of the minister, bespoke poverty or a none too generous congregation.

When the deacon passed the hat, Mr. Thorne contributed a dollar for the betterment of the church's financial standing. It looked up large beside the pennies and nickels, all

Looking For Flower Girls.

Miss Catharine Welland Merritt of St. Catharines, honorary organizing secretary of the Daughters of the Empire, is looking for the girls who presented bouquets to the Queen on the occasion of the visit of their Majesties to Canada in 1908. It is proposed to form a chapter of the Daughters of the Empire composed of all the girls who presented flowers to Queen Mary on that occasion.

The D. A. R.

The Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized in New York city on Aug. 30, 1891. Eligibility to membership is restricted to women who are lineal descendants of an ancestor who was a military or naval officer, soldier, sailor or marine in actual service under the authority of one of the thirteen colonies or states or of the Continental congress and remained always loyal to such authority, or descendants of one who signed the Declaration of Independence, or of a member of the Continental congress, or of the congress of any of the colonies or states, or of an official appointed by or under the authority of any such representative bodies who actually assisted in the establishment of American independence by service rendered during the war of the Revolution, becoming thereby liable of treason against the government of Great Britain, and remaining always loyal to the authority of the colonies or states.

LIST OF SEWERS AND SIDEWALKS TO BE BUILT

City Council Hold Regular Monthly Meeting Last Night---Little Except Routine Business was Done--- Nine By-laws Passed by the Council.

There was little but routine business to be transacted at the regular meeting of the City Council last night and the proceedings were all over at 9.30 o'clock. A number of communications were dealt with, reports received from the different committees and nine by-laws passed. All the Council were present except Ald. Bradburn, who is absent from the city.

The communications received were as follows:

W. J. Green, Tax Collector, reported amount of taxes during April to be $1,344.63.—Received.

From J. H. Merritt, Ensign, inviting the Council to attend and take part in the welcome to Commissioner Rels at the Salvation Army Temple, next Sunday afternoon.

On motion, it was decided that the Council should attend the service in a body.

From E. A. Hammond, Secretary of Peterborough Medical Society, stating that Dr. Boucher had been appointed to represent the Society on the Board of Management of the Isolation Hospital.

From Ensign Merritt, on behalf of the Salvation Army Band, asking that the grant of $250 be given the Band for ten concerts at Victoria Park this season.—Finance Committee.

From Helen Denison, Secretary of the Peterborough Protestant Home, advising the Council that the Board of Management ask that the City donate a site for the proposed new building, the property to consist of five acres.

The Council will visit the proposed site on the Hilliard farm.

From H. E. Hawley and others, asking that the Romaine street drain be continued on Romaine street west to Park street.—Board of Works.

From Mr. Isidore Goselin and others, asking for four incandescent lamps on Romaine street, west of Park St.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A letter was read from the Dickson Company, asking that the septic tank to be built at the corner of Waterford and Harvey St. be proceeded with as soon as possible.

Ald. Morgan and Anderson moved that the matter be settled at once.

Ald. Graham and Kerneghan moved in amendment that the question be referred to the Board of Works.

The amendment was carried.

The Board of Works report contained the following:

The number of building permits for the year was 231; estimated value, $317,955. During the year the plumbing Inspector made 614 inspections, and issued 230 permits for plumbing.

The Board of Works report contained the following:

That notice be given of the intention of the Council to construct permanent sidewalks as local improvements on the following streets or parts of streets, the number of assessments to be twenty:

Harvey street, east side, from London street to Dublin street.

Aylmer street, west side, from Smith street to Manning Avenue.

Benson Avenue, west side, from the south side of Lot 6, Plan 191, to Wellesley street.

Benson street, south-east side, from Benson Avenue to line between lots 3 and 4, Plan 13.

Benson street, north-east side, from Benson avenue to north side of Lot 5, Plan 71.

Barnardo Avenue, south side, from Water street to George street.

Cambridge street, east side, from Elm street to McDonnell street.

Chamberlen street, south side, from Lafayette Avenue to Alfred St.

Donegal street, east side, from McDonnell street to London street.

Dublin street, north side, from Harvey street to 115 feet east of Harvey street.

Murray street, south side, from Reid street to Park street.

Murray street, north side, from Donegal street to Gilchrist street.

That notice be given of the intention of the Council to construct sewers as local improvements on the following streets, or parts of streets, the number of assessments to be 30:

Benson Avenue, from Manning Avenue to Aberdeen Avenue.

St. Joseph street, from Gilmour St. to Charlotte street.

Murray and Stewart streets, from Railway street to a point on Stewart street, 152 feet 6 in. south of McDonnell street.

Parnell street, from Park street to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

McDonnell street, from Downie St. to Park street, and on Park street from McDonnell street to London St.

Argyle street, from 240 feet west of George street to Sunnyside street and north of Sunnyside street.

On motion of Ald. Buller and Duncan it was decided to add the north side of Townsend street, from Park street, 700 feet west to the list of sidewalks to be advertised.

Ald Morgan moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the sewer be extended on Concession street from Douro street to Carlisle Avenue and along the thoroughdare as far as required.—Carried.

The report of the Board of Works, with these two amendments, was carried.

By-Laws Passed.

By-laws were carried authorising the execution of an agreement with R. Hicks and Co., for the season's supply of cement, to provide for the borrowing of money for sidewalks and sewers constructed last year, to authorise the execution of an agreement for a refuge ground, to amend the scavenger by-law, making it compulsory for proper receptacles to be used, to authorise an agreement with Aaron Comstock for the care of the Dan Spence Ambulance and to amend the dog by-law as required by the new Act.

The Bonner-Worth by-law was given its third reading and passed.

Mr. E. R. J. MacPherson was present in connection with a bill for extras in his account for work done at the Isolation Hospital. His bill was for $114.43 and the architect had only certified to $100.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald Metheral, that Mr. MacPherson be paid $100 on account, and the chairman and architect take up the matter of the balance.—Carried.

Ald. Metheral and Brown moved that the salaries and supplies for the Isolation Hospital be paid on the certificate of the matron and chairman of the Property Committee, until such time as the Isolation Hospital Board is organized.—Carried.

The matter of porches and other alterations at the Isolation Hospital was referred to the Property Committee.

The Splendid Sheffield Choir Captivates Peterborough

"Magnificent," "superb," "exquisite," "grand," "glorious" were among the various expressions heard from the retiring auditors at the Sheffield Choir concert last night, and the singing, in its fairly perfect character, fully deserved these encomiums and robbed them of anything like hyperbole. The people of Peterborough never heard choral music presented with such volume and perfection before; though the choir has previously been heard in Peterborough, they were not then heard to so good advantage.

The Grand Opera House was fairly well filled by an audience that thoroughly enjoyed the nearly three hours of musical thrills that the concert provided.

The choir occupied, upon sloping seats, the whole stage, and even overflowed upon the footlights, to such an extent that the soloists, to reach the raised platofrm that projected over the stage into the orcestra, had literally to walk a plank from the wings to the platform, a feat that required no little funambulistic skill, but the work they did after they reached their destination was well worth the risk.

The ladies of the choir occupied the foreground of the human mass, dressed in simple white, while at the top and rear the convent-like black of the men formed a striking tone contrast. Numerically, the ladies were more in evidence than the gentlemen, showing that, even in this wicked world, the good sometimes predominates, and it seemed that the balance of vocal strength was also with the female section, as appeared in the antiphonal sections of "O Canada," when male and female sang alternately; but this was perhaps due to the fact that, seated high up at the back of the stage, the men's voices were somewhat muted by their position, and the sound filtering out through the wings. But in ensemble the balance was as perfect as the executive and interpretative skill. And these were above cavil. While the volume was huge in forte passages and not surging, it was wonderfully rounded and melodious, never noisy. The tone, however, surpasses in delicate shading, in which predominated the cut diction—one could hear the words of the choristers more clearly than those of the soloists—artistic. Musical finish and suprisingly exquisite graduation of tonal effect, and wonderfully perfect crescendi and diminuendi, as smoothly flowing to climax or close as a river of oil. The choir has been most thoroughly and effectively trained, even drilled, by Dr. Coward, and necessarily, with such a leader and such a choir, the practically perfect concerted music as heard last night, was inevitable. Throughout a programme of a dozen concerted numbers, including encores, the audience was simply thrilled with delight. The most ambitious and solid undertakings were the volunteer number, "O Canada," sung with splendid fire and effect, the audience standing; the chorus from Handel's Messiah, "And the Glory of the Lord," Dr. Harriss' virile and tuneful imperial greeting "Empire of the Sea," and Handel's immortal "Hallelujah" chorus. The latter was taken at a more moderate and devotional tempo than is usual in this country. The less heroic pieces, glees, madrigals, and part songs found the choir at its best in delicate effects of colour and soft singing, and in character effects. In "Oh Hinilay" and "Cruiskeen Lawn" the weird minor effects were delightfully brought out. In the glee "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower" also mimetic effects were exquisitely developed. The imitation of the bells was perfect, especially the booming vibration and the wavering cadence throbbing into nothingness of sound. The men's part song "A Franklynne's Dog" was another example.

Altogether, the work of the choir was superb, and the audience was not stinted in its enthusiastic applause, nor Dr. Coward economical in his responses to enthusiastic recalls.

The soloists of the evening were Mr. Wilfrid Virgo, tenor; Mr. Robert Chignell, mezzo basso; Miss Jennie Taggart, and Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, contralti. Miss Taggart won a triumph with the audience with her singing of "Comin' Through the Rye," an encore number, and Miss Lonsdale's pure, sweet and powerful voice was heard with the deepest enjoyment in two solos.

Canada is indebted to the imperial spirit of Dr. Harriss of Montreal for the visit of the Choir, and to the public spirit, and it is regrettable to say, sacrifice, of Mr. Walter Stocker and Mr. John Crane, Peterborough owes the honour and delight of the presence of the Sheffield Choir in Peterborough.

PALE, ANAEMIC GIRLS

The languid, semi-invalid girl is no longer popular. Firm flesh, rounded form and a healthy glow to the complexion are the results of using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. Goodmon, 124 Selmatepal St., Montreal, Que., writes: "My daughter's appetite was bad and she was pale and bloodless. Since using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food there is a marked change in her condition. She is stronger and healthier in every way."

OBITUARY

MARY ANNE KENNEALLY.

Miss Mary Anne Kenneally passed away yesterday at the House of Providence, after a lingering illness. Deceased was in her 70th year and was a daughter of the late Daniel Kenneally. Funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The remains were interred at St. Peter's cemetery.

WORK COMMENCES

Work was commenced on the erection of the factory for the Bonner Worth Worsted Yarn Company yesterday, when the ground was broken to commence the excavation. Mr. Wm. Langford has the contract for the erection of the home of Peterborough's latest industry, which is situated on McDonnel St., west of Park St.

Army's Greatest Engineer.

It is generally recognized that the distinction of being the greatest railway builder in the British army belongs to Sir Percy Girouard, the governor of the East African Protectorate. Sir Percy is a patriotic Canadian, who fights the enemies of the Empire by means of the railway, and it was while he was traffic manager at the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich that Lord Kitchener "spotted" him as being just the man he wanted for the construction of the Soudan railway. And, in order to crush the Khalifa, Sir Percy laid a wonderful line across 500 miles of desert for the advance to Khartoum, in spite of harassing from the enemy. In South Africa his greatest feat was doubling the line between Bloemfontein and Johannesberg, in some places at the rate of forty miles a day.

A Nolesime Haircut.

The story of the week centres about Senator William Ross of Halifax, who bears the burden of his 86 years with surprising ease. Senator Ross went downstairs to the Parliamentary barber shop to have his hair trimmed.

"How do you like your hair trimmed?" enquired Napoleon Audette, whose razor and scissors have operated on many a notable face and noble brow.

"In silence," rapped out Senator Willie.

Canada's Amazing Prosperity Wonderful Budget Presented

Surplus for Year Ending With March Will be Over Thirty Millions of Dollars---Hon. Mr. Fielding's Convincing Testimony to the Successful Financial Administration of the Country.

SHOWING IS SOMETHING TO CHEER FOR

Ottawa, April 5.—For the first time since Confederation, a Minister of Finance presented a budget to the House of Commons yesterday that did not contemplate any tariff changes. Not only that, but Hon. W. S. Fielding's budget for 1910-11 was the shortest on record and the debate likewise will be noted for its brevity. There were but two speakers, the Minister of Finance and Hon. George E. Foster.

A more handsome showing has never been made in the House of Commons and Canada has had a year of wonderful prosperity, crowned by a surplus of over thirty millions.

Mr. Fielding pointed to the prosperous condition of Canada. Dealing with the public accounts, he said that the estimated revenue for 1909-10 had been 97 1-2 millions. The revenue had totalled $101,500,000, or 16 millions in excess of the previous year, and five millions over the total of the record year, 1907-8.

The other side of the sheet was equally satisfactory. In 1908-9 there had been a reduction of 11 millions in revenue. The brakes had been applied. The expenditure had been $79,-440,000, or a million and a half less than the estimate. There had been an estimated surplus of 16 1-2 million and an actual surplus of $22,091,963, a record for Canada.

"Over sinking fund?" asked Mr. Foster.

"Yes."

The capital account expenditure had been $35,971,011, of which two-thirds had been paid out of revenue, leaving now twelve millions to be added to [illegible] millions had been spent on the Transcontinental.

"The year," said Mr. Fielding, "was a very prosperous one."

Turning to 1910-11 Mr. Fielding gave these figures: Customs revenue, $73,-704,010; excise, $16,651,118; postoffice revenue, $8,643,000; Dominion lands revenue, $3,000,000; railways revenue, $10,268,590; miscellaneous revenues, $3,276,958; actual revenue 1909-10, $101,565,716.

For the last year up to March 31, $114,656,225, an increase of $16,000,-000.

The estimated total revenue for 1910-11 was 117 1-2 millions. For 1910-11 the consolidated expenditure was $75,590,196.

There were circumstances, explained the Finance Minister, where a large surplus of such a character would be open to criticism. If it were the result of increased or burdensome taxation, it would be open to criticism. But in this instance the rates of taxation were lower than before, but owing to the flourishing condition of the country, the amount collected was larger. The rates of customs taxation were, he declared, lower than in previous years.

"When this surplus comes to us from a system of taxation which is not open to the charge of being generally burdensome, I think we do well to take the surplus obtained in this way and use it in paying for some portion of our capital and specific charges, which otherwise would have to be replaced by additions to the public debt," he said amid Liberal applause.

Militia and Dominion lands and naval service were being taken from capital account so the actual expenditure had been increased really by $4,000,000 only.

For 1910-11 Mr. Fielding predicted a surplus of $30,500,000.

The speech was interrupted by a summons to the Senate for Royal assent to the supply bill.

Continuing Mr. Fielding said that the obtaining of this big surplus was not open to criticism, inasmuch as rates of taxation were really lower than in former years.

"We do well in taking this surplus to pay for part of our capital and special charges," he said.

The capital and special expenditure for the N.T.R. would be 24 millions, on railways, public works, etc., 11 1-2 millions, a total of 35 1-2 millions.

Allowing for the surplus and payment of $1,100,000 to sinking fund, only $5,900,000 would be added to the debt.

The debt, Mr. Fielding argued, was not a burden. On March 31 the net debt was $336,368,546. It would come up to $340,168,546.33. Producing a statement since 1891, the Minister showed that the debt per capita had gone from $49.09 to $43.69, the present population being estimated at 7,795,-000. Twenty years ago it would have taken six years to pay the debt. To-day it could be done in less than three years.

Mr. Fielding then passed to his treatment of loans.

After reviewing the history of the policy of granting bounties, Mr. Fielding said those in existence at the present time were: Iron produced from Canadian ore by electric smelting, which would be operative until Dec. 31, 1912; rolled round wire rods, which expires July 1 next; lead extracted from Canadian ore, expiring June 30, 1921; manilla fibre used for binder twine, unlimited; crude petroleum, unlimited, since the inception of the bounty system in 1884, to March 31 last, the sum paid in bounties amounted to $21,031,702.

After quoting figures to show that the total trade of Canada had grown from $362,509,000 in 1900 to $728,481,-000 in 1910, the Finance Minister commented upon the tremendous expansion of the nation's business, and gave it as his opinion that the indications were for an increasing volume of trade. For the eleven months of the year just closed the total trade was $687,376,382, an increase over the corresponding period of last year of $76,-789,000.

It was impossible, he said, to make an accurate estimate for the year 1911-12, but he had no reason to fear that it would not be satisfactory. He believed the revenue would be sufficient to meet all ordinary expenditures and a share of the expenditures of a capital and special character.

Mr. Fielding concluded his address by saying: "Every prospect for Canada to-day is bright and hopeful. With peace and progress and prosperity at home, with the friendliest relations with the great republic lying along side of the great Empire of which we are so proud to form a part, the Canadian people can look forward to the future with every hope and confidence." (Liberal applause.)

Hon. George E. Foster, in arising to discuss Canada's prospects, was accorded loud Opposition applause. He remarked that fifteen months had passed by since Mr. Fielding had given a statement of the financial position of the country to the House. He hoped that this would not be a precedent for future delinquencies, and characterized it as slovenliness. With the story of increasing revenue and increasing expenditure and the hope of even a larger foreign trade, every one would be glad, he said, that Canada had had such a large measure of prosperity, but whilst they on the Opposition side also rejoiced, they were careful not to become idolators and worship the golden-that-are-to-be as the authors of all this.

Since Sir Wilfrid Laurier had come into power there had been an increase of taxation of 195 per cent. The total revenue in 1896 was thirty-six millions last year it was one hundred and one millions, and next year it was estimated that one hundred and seventeen millions. He dissented altogether from the statement that the burden and the rate of taxation had not been raised by the present Government. Taxation per capita to-day, he declared, was higher than in 1896.

As the surplus, Mr. Foster, said that it was to a considerable degree fictitious. For instance, several millions of dollars which during the past two or three years had been realized through the sale of land to create a fund to cover the cost of the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway had been put in with the revenue, in order to swell it and increase the size of the surplus. The Government was selling the capital of the country and crediting it to revenue. This is not the way in which a business man would treat a matter of that kind.

While admitting that the figures regarding foreign trade were satisfactory, Mr. Foster suggested that it would be highly desirable for the Minister to secure information dealing with the all-important inter-provincial trade. He said that whatever tended to discourage this trade was not for the upbuilding of the country. During the last year the balance of trade against the Dominion had been ninety million dollars. It would have been much better had this balance been in favor of Canada, and the only way to bring about better conditions was to import less and make more within the country, which could be shipped out.

"The sooner we get to the country and settle all these things the sooner we will get to settled conditions in this country," he affirmed. Before closing, Mr. Foster had some suggestions to make. He recommended a creation of a board to investigate and report upon impartially all items of public expenditure.

Mr. Foster also strongly urged upon the Government the necessity of the appointment of a tariff commission. He said when the Canadian Ministers went to Washington the American Ministers were supplied with elaborate statistics, while the Canadian Ministers had practically nothing. The result was that tariffs were made by rule of thumb, and it would continue to be so until a scientific commission was appointed.

Compel Factory Fire Drill.

Hamilton, April 5.—The city will likely appeal to the Ontario Government for power to compel factories to have fire drills for their employes.

Building Inspector Anderson made the suggestion to the controllers yesterday. He related how recently there was a panic on the top floor of a big factory here when fire started.

Only two girls ran to the fire escape. The rest rushed to the stairs, choking the exit and several fainted.

Want New Agreement.

Winnipeg, April 5.—The Canadian Northern carmen, from Port Arthur to Edmonton, have given notice to the management that they wish to obtain a new agreement this year. The men are working in conjunction with the C.P.R. carmen. A meeting with the management will probably be arranged next month.

A NORTH BAY FARMER SHOOTS HIS NEIGHBOUR

Quarrel Over a Debt and as a Result One is Dead and the Other is in Gaol on a Charge of Murder---Charge Meant for Dog Entered the Brain of Farmer.

North Bay, April 5.—As a result of a quarrel yesterday morning between neighboring farmers in Widdifield Township, about fifteen miles north of North Bay, Lawrence Morin lies dead and John McDougal, a man of 52 years of age, is locked up in the police station, the admitted slayer of Morin.

McDougal and Morin lived on farms about two miles apart, and McDougal was working for Morin taking out poles on contract. Yesterday morning McDougal went to see Morin to get some money on his wages. He found Morin in the bush alone with his dog. McDougal claims that the dog was vicious and he took his shotgun along to protect himself against the canine.

Morin became angry when asked about the money due his neighbor, and, according to McDougal's story, set the dog on him. The latter states that he warned Morin that he would shoot the dog if he attacked him. Morin persisted, and McDougal fired at the dog, but the charge entered the head of Morin. Then McDougal states he fired the other barrel and killed the dog. He left Morin lying dead in his tracks and went home, afterwards going to the township magistrate to give himself up. McDougal was brought to North Bay and locked up. An inquest will be held Wednesday in North Bay.

According to McDougal's story, there were no witnesses to the quarrel, although some men were working in a bush nearby, and must have heard the shots. Morin was a man about fifty years of age, and had a wife and large family. McDougal is also married, with a grown-up family, and seems to feel his position keenly.

CONTRACT LET FOR THE SUPERSTRUCTURE OF BRIDGE

St. Lawrence Bridge Company Will do the Work at a Cost of Nine Million Dollars—Complete by End of Year.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED

Montreal, April 5.—The contract for the superstructure of the Quebec bridge was signed yesterday at Ottawa, the amount involved being $9,-700,000, and it is also understood that a check for a large sum of money was put up as a guarantee for the carrying out of the contract. The signatures to the contract are Hon. George Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, representing the Government; Phelps Johnston, as president, and F. Webber, secretary of the St. Lawrence Bridge Co., while Mr. Johnston again signed as vice-president of the Dominion Bridge Co., with M. Davy as secretary; the Canadian Bridge Co. of Walkerville being represented on the signed document by F. C. McMath, president, and Mr. Miller, secretary.

As previously announced the Dominion Bridge Co. and the Canadian Bridge Co. unite to form a construction company to do the work, this company being known as the St. Lawrence Bridge Co.

The contractors of the new structure at Quebec agree to have the work completed by the 31st of December, 1911. The first thing to do is to purchase the land and erect new shops, the whole to cost $1,000,000, as no existing plant in the Dominion is sufficient to carry on such an extensive contract. The shops will be in, or near, Montreal, and not in the neighborhood of the bridge site, as has been suggested. The contract for the steel has already been given to the United States Steel Co. of Pittsburg, as the material will be too long for ocean steamers.

Ottawa's Entrance Problem.

Ottawa, April 5.—Hon. Geo. P. Graham was asked yesterday for a statement of the Government's position in regard to the gigantic scheme of Engineers Kerr and Tye for a solution of Ottawa's railway entrance problem, which embodies diverting the Rideau Canal outlet here and the construction of a tunnel under the city.

The Minister of Railways and Canals, said, however, that pending a report by Government engineers, he could not speak authoritatively. One thing certain, though, was that the Government, while it might agree to the proposition if feasible, would not agree to stand the cost of building a new canal outlet. That would have to be done by the parties directly interested—the city and the railways.

An exhaustive enquiry will precede the Government's decision.

Jewelry Store Robbed.

Toronto, April 5.—The jewelry store of Ellis Bros., 108 Yonge street, was burglarized last night. The exact amount of booty secured by the burglars is not known, but the appearance of the showcases indicated that several trays of jewelry had been removed. That the burglars had gained an entrance to the place during the early part of the evening was quite apparent from the moist condition of the shavings sprinkled around the back door, through which an entrance was gained by sawing out one of the panels. Near the door was found a brace and bit, a hammer and a large jackknife. The door was found open by Constable Hollis shortly before two o'clock this morning.

Champion Woman Suffrage.

London, April 5.—The corporation of London has entered the lists as a champion of woman's suffrage. At a special meeting it passed by a vote of 22 to 9 a resolution which is to be sealed with the city's official seal, petitioning Parliament to pass at the present session the woman's suffrage bill now before it, and that the lord mayor, together with the other civic officers, go to present the petition at the Bar of the House.

OUTLOOK STORMY

Trouble Ahead for the United States Congress—Democrats Have a Scheme of Tariff Changes

TAFT'S MESSAGE TO-DAY

Washington, April 5.—The plan of tariff revision to be recommended to the House by the ways and means committee will be the subject of a conference to-day among the Democratic members. Also the revision and reciprocity have been thoroughly considered by Chairman Underwood and his associates, though no definite method of procedure has been determined upon up to this time.

There is a division of opinion in the committee as to whether the Canadian reciprocity measure should be presented as a separate bill or should have attached to it revised schedules embracing parts of the existing tariff law, such as the woollen or cotton schedules. A decision may be reached to-day, and the committee will be ready, if desired, to report some legislation to the House by Thursday.

It is understood that the Democratic members of the committee have a reciprocity measure in slightly different terms than the McCall administration bill and that it may be presented by Chairman Underwood.

Bills on almost every conceivable subject, both public and private, were introduced last night. They provide for changes in tariff pensions, improvements in the postal service, an income tax, making the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, Feb. 12, a legal holiday, for memorial to Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat, in the county in Pennsylvania where he was born, and many other matters.

Representative Hull of Tennessee is the author of a bill for an income tax on all salaries or incomes of $5,000 or more, derived from any source whatever, unless otherwise taxed, to be assessed at the rate of one per cent. a year. He expects to press the bill without regard to the proposed constitutional amendment on the subject.

President Taft's message, dealing with Canadian reciprocity alone, will be read in the two Houses of Congress to-day.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

K. Rodzianko was elected president of the Russian Douma last night.

Joseph Gelinas, a tailor, was electrocuted in Toronto by a broken live wire.

Some sixteen hundred persons went west on homeseekers' excursions yesterday.

It is reported that Montreal shareholders are trying to secure control of the Toronto Railway.

Bristol capitalists are expected to spend $7,500,000 in a pork-packing enterprise at Port Arthur.

Thirteen trackmen went on strike at Niagara Falls, Ont., because the G.T.R. refused to increase their pay from $1.60 to $2 a day.

Britain and France have approached the United States in regard to reduced duties under the most-favored-nations clause of commercial treaties.

Duncan C. Ross, M.P., was nominated for the Commons by West Middlesex Liberals, and J. C. Elliott, M.P.P., for the Legislature. Messrs. Ross and Guthrie, M.P., delivered addresses.

Emile J. Caron, assisting soliciting agent of the G.T.R., missed his footing while trying to board a train at Waterville, Que., and his right leg was so badly mutilated that it had to be amputated.

Hugh Guthrie, M.P., who was in London yesterday afternoon, said that he did not expect an election until the fall of 1912. "It may come this fall, but the chances are ten to one in favor of 1912."

Hon. Dr. Pyne announced yesterday that to meet the situation caused by the lack of a sufficient number of school teachers, several additional model schools will be established during the present half year.

Fire at Seaforth.

Seaforth, April 5.—Fire yesterday practically wiped out a number of firms doing business in the Scott Block, a three-storey brick building on Main street. It originated in the top storey and was discovered about five o'clock. The cause is unknown. The heaviest losses are: F. Holmestead, lawyer; Dr. Fisher, dentist; Edge & Gutteridge, contractors; W. R. Smith, grocer, and Alex. Wilson, druggist and stationer. The total insurance on building and stocks was about $14,000, but that will not cover the loss.

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 1st, 1910.

"I am well acquainted with a man, known to thousands in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, who for nearly a year was practically a cripple from Rheumatism. He was so troubled with the disease that he found it difficult to even turn over in bed. His heart appeared so weak that he could hardly walk up stairs.

Last June, he received a sample of "Fruit-a-tives". He used them and dates his recovery from that time. To-day, there is no man in Vancouver enjoying better health.

He was building a house this fall and shingled a good part of the roof in a driving rain, without suffering any bad effects". JOHN B. LACY.

Mr. H. H. Mills, (assistant postmaster at Knowlton, Que.,) also writes:

From that moment Hambidge and Winthrop had no time to think of distance or surroundings. They had all they could do to stay safely on the bare, slippery backs of those sweating horses, which blindly followed after the galloping colt as he tore down the long slope, across a level stretch, up a hill, through Pleasantville and out upon the highway beyond.

Another mile, and Wotsirb was almost thrown from the saddle, for at a farmyard gate — Tyson's — the colt turned sharply. Quick action, coupled with superb horsemanship, prevented a catastrophe, and a moment later the colt was flying down the road toward Pithole, urged to a greater speed by the sound of the other animals close behind, which were plunging through the night half-crazed with terror.

When Wotsirb came to a sharp curve a few minutes later he pulled in the colt gradually, firmly, and called to his companions to slow down. This they were able to do, for their own mounts, covered with lather, were blowing hard and trembling. At the detective had surmised, just beyond the curve lay Pithole—there they stopped.

"Tie your horses to trees!" he commanded, speaking rapidly in low tones. "That's the way. . . . . All ready? Come on now—quietly, quietly—save your breath. . . . . I can see a light away down there to the left?"

On they ran, over the same ground Barrett had passed so recently, and halted by the bushes where he had lain concealed.

"We've missed your friend," whispered the Secret Service man. "He said if we didn't meet him in the road to jump for the house. Now, then—pull your guns, and on with me!"

Side by side, three abreast, they dashed across the open space before the building, sprang up the steps to the porch, burst in through the front door and stopped at the entrance to a room in which a lamp was burning. Two or three empty boxes, evidently used in place of chairs, were scattered about. On a table were a few tin dishes and the remains of a meal. Near the opposite wall were two cot-beds.

Wotsirb seized the bull's eye from Winthrop and ran through one room after another of the house.

"They've skipped!" he exclaimed. "Come along—"

The painter and Hambidge followed him out of doors again, where he paused long enough to sweep the open space with his lantern. Suddenly his eye caught a light object lying on the ground close to the fringe of the forest; and all three ran toward it, Winthrop reaching it first and picking it up.

"Barrett's hat!" he cried. "They are in the woods somewhere!"

"Not so loud," Wotsirb cautioned. "Steady there! Go softly."

He quickly swept his light this way and that over the ground close to the trees, then darted forward:

"They went in here—where the bushes are beaten down! The trail is plain as can be. Keep close together, and don't shoot unless you have to—you might hit Miss Cuyler or your friend."

While the detective was speaking he and the two others were pushing rapidly ahead; but soon he halted.

"What's the matter?" asked Hambidge.

"The gang has separated," Wotsirb replied, swinging his light to one side. "Some of them kept straight ahead, and others turned off here to the left. . . . We have only one bull's eye," he added after an instant of reflection, "and we'll have to keep together."

Then they plunged forward again as fast as they could go in the thick deep, overgrown forest, beating their way through bushes, springing over fallen timber, avoiding pitfalls—when suddenly dead ahead of them came a flash of light and the crack of a revolver. Wotsirb dropped to earth, shutting off his bull's eye as he did so, and the others fell alongside of him. A second later the shot was repeated, and then came two more. Wotsirb quickly wormed himself along the ground, whispering:

"Come on, both of you—get out of range!"

There was absolute silence for a few moments. Then almost simultaneously three revolvers cracked, the bullets whizzing over their heads, cutting twigs in their flight, and spatting as they were stopped by tree-trunks.

"We'll surround them," whispered the detective. "I'll go straight ahead, Winthrop around to the left, Hambidge to the right. Be careful of your guns—we might hurt each other—now go!"

Stooping low the detective darted onward, and Hambidge sped off to the right, while Winthrop dived through a barrier of bushes to the left.

For a while the painter found it hard going, particularly as he tried to the utmost to move quietly; but soon he found himself in a part of the forest comparatively bare of underbrush. The moon shone down brightly. He could see every stone, every fallen tree, and was able to run as noiselessly as an Indian. Then he stopped short—off there where Wotsirb should be he heard a fusillade of shots.

Winthrop stood motionless, wondering whether he ought to keep on or to go to the other's assistance. He was just starting forward again, when he heard something rushing through the woods, coming from the right; and he barely had time to step back of a great oak tree before he made out the figure of a man in full flight, headed directly toward him. Mindful of Wotsirb's warning about using his revolver, Winthrop remained rigid as a statue, confident that he had not been discovered. Another moment, and the flying figure was just in front; then crouching low he sprang from back of the tree, caught the other just below the knees, and they rolled over and over on the stony ground.

Neither uttered a word. Both fought desperately, for they knew what the contest meant. Once the stranger got his fingers on Winthrop's holster and tried to wrench out the revolver, but at the same instant Winthrop gripped his antagonist's throat, and shoved his chin upward with all his strength. The next second the painter was hurled over on his side, losing his hold on the other man, who suddenly shook himself free, and with a swish vanished in the forest.

For an almost imperceptible fraction of time Winthrop lay there, dazed. Then he sprang to his feet, and was starting after the stranger when he heard Wotsirb's voice.

"Winthrop! Hambidge!" the detective shouted, swinging his light upward to show where he was. "This way, men! This way!"

Wotsirb had just stumbled over something—a man's body lying face downward flat on the ground. One hand gripped a revolver; the other, stretched out ahead, held a golden disc that shone brightly as the bull's eye flashed on it. And, a dozen feet beyond, the lantern revealed a young woman firmly bound to a tree—her head bowed forward, her eyes closed.

Whipping out his knife, the Secret Service man cut the cords binding her, and laid her carefully on the ground. Quickly he listened to her heart, felt of her pulse; and as Hambidge and Winthrop arrived, he said:

"She's living! . . . . Look after your friend, there, he's hurt."

Again the detective bent over the motionless girl, raising and lowering her arms. He turned back her closed eyelids, and looked keenly at the pupils so revealed, then, much relieved, he glanced at the others who had turned Barrett over so that he rested more easily.

"How is he? Done up bad?"

"No, I think not." Winthrop replied, going to where the detective was busily chafing Eleanor's arms. "Do you think Miss Cuyler will come out of it?"

"I think she will. Looks as if they'd merely kept her doped—morphine, perhaps, or knock-out drops. Hambidge, get some water from the brook there and sprinkle it in your friend's face."

"He's breathing pretty heavily," said the lawyer, "but I can't find any wound except a lump back of his left ear."

"Blackjack probably, or brass knuckles," Wotsirb commented. "He'll be all right after you get the water. . . . . Here, Winthrop, help me raise Miss Cuyler to her feet. That's the way; she'll be better, soon."

They walked the girl back and forth a few times, when she trembled, and opened her eyes. First she gave the stranger on her right a look of fear mingled with despair; then, turning to the other man, she stood still, gasped, and sobbed aloud, crying:

"Sheldon! Sheldon!"

"Yes," he responded, "I'm here—it's all right, Eleanor. We have found you, and you are safe now with friends of mine. The—the others have gone."

"Guess we'd better go back to the house so you can sit down, Miss Cuyler," suggested Wotirb. "I'll give you a little brandy, and youll feel stronger."

It was a slow journey, for she seemed very weak, and as they arrived at the house, Barrett came up to the steps leaning on Hambidge. "How is she?" he anxiously whispered.

"Getting along finely," Winthrop replied. "Wotsirb is bringing a cot out here for her to rest on—and we ought to have a fire, Hambidge."

The girl, who was sitting beside him on the steps, raised her head and smiled.

"That would be nice," she murmured; "a fire, I mean."

"Nicest thing in the world!" Barrett exclaimed. "We'll have one started in half a minute!"

He sprang to his feet, and stepped forward; then suddenly sat down again. "I'm a bit dizzy," he explained.

"Oh, are you hurt?" she cried.

"No, not at all—Sheldon, or somebody, just bumped into me in the dark, that's all," he remarked lamely. "Now don't you worry about yourself or me, or anything else," he continued impetuously. "You're safe now, and to-morrow you'll be back home—if you're well enough to travel."

"I'll go anywhere!" she exclaimed with sudden strength. "I want to go soon—now! When can we start?"

"We will start as soon as we can get a carriage, right after daylight," Wotsirb replied quietly, coming out of the house with a cot-bed. "But I want you to lie down here for a while."

As she did so, Barrett pulled Wotsirb to him.

"The gang!" he whispered. "Where are they? I heard them plan to start across country for Oil City!"

"Easy, easy," said the detective. "I'll have men here soon to round them up. They ought to be well on the way by this time. Here, Winthrop, you and your friends stay by Miss Cuyler. Give me the bull's eye. I must go down the road and meet my force."

Taking the lantern he hurried away, turning in the direction of Tyson's farm; and near the outer limits of Pithole saw half a dozen figures running toward him in the darkness.

"Halt!" he shouted, swinging his light. "I'm Wotsirb—who are you?"

"Thompson, from Buffalo, and Bailey, from the Pittsburg office!"

"Come on, quick! . . . Now listen" he added, as they grouped themselves around him. "Somewhere off in the woods back there are two men and a woman. I want them. They are on the jump, understand? Another woman and three friends are at the house where you see the light. Let them alone."

"Very good, sir," said Bailey. "I'll start with my men around to the north, while Thompson and his men beat in from the west."

"Get busy," Wotsirb commanded; "and when you find them, report to me."

Nature's Cure For A Cough

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the Most Largely Imitated Medicine in the Country

What to give the children for croup and colds is the problem mothers now have to solve. Most of them finally decide on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and make it a rule to always have some in the house.

In this medicine are linseed, turpentine and other well-known ingredients of unmistakable value in the cure of colds. It is pleasant to take, so much so that children delight to use it.

So generally is this great medicine used that several imitations have been put on the market. All alike in name only. They are not made from the same formula, nor do they bear the name of Dr. Chase.

You know what you can expect from the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but you cannot put much faith in an imitation which sells on the reputation of the articles it imitates.

On every bottle of the genuine will be found the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author. This is for your protection and for the protection of your children. Be sure to get the genuine, even if it costs a few cents more. 25 cents a bottle, family size, 60 cents; all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

DOCTORS TELL HOW "CUTICURA" CURED SKIN DISEASES

One says, "I have Great Faith in Cuticura Remedies." Another, "They Always Bring Results."

"I wish to let you know of a couple of recent cures which I have made by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. Last August, Mr. ——— of this city came to my office, troubled with a severe skin eruption. At first I could not understand the nature of the case. I finally traced it to his occupation, as he was a painter and decorator. It was dermatitis in its worst form. It started with a slight eruption and would affect most parts of his body—thighs, elbows, chest, back and abdomen—and would terminate in little pustules. The itching and burning was dreadful and he would almost tear his skin apart, trying to get relief. I recommended all the various treatments I could think of and he spent about fifteen dollars on prescriptions but nothing seemed to help him.

"In the meantime my wife who was continually suffering with a slight skin trouble and who had been trying different prescriptions and methods with my assistance, told me she was going to get some of the Cuticura Remedies. But as I did not know much about Cuticura at that time I was doubtful whether it would help her. Her skin would chicken, break and bleed, especially on the fingers, wrists and arms. I could do nothing to relieve her permanently. When she first applied the warm baths of Cuticura Soap and applications of Cuticura Ointment she saw a decided improvement and in a few days she was completely cured.

"I lost no time in recommending the Cuticura Remedies to Mr. ———, and this was two months ago. I told him to wash with warm baths of the Cuticura Soap and to apply the Cuticura Ointment generously. Believe me, from the very first day's use of the Cuticura Remedies he was greatly relieved and to-day he is completely cured through their use. I have great faith in the Cuticura Remedies and shall always have a good word for them now that I am convinced of their wonderful merits." (Signed) B. L. Whitehead, M.D., 168 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass., July 22, 1910.

As though in confirmation of this most convincing statement, O. M. Fisher, M.D., Big Foot, Md., writes: "My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practicing physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Remedies in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. I still find the Cuticura Remedies as good as ever. They always bring results."

—because Psychine (Si-Keen) is its own best advertisement. Read this offer:

You know the "know-it-alls." Suspicious of everybody and everything.

They promised well at one time in their career, then they seemed to come to a full stop.

Just because of that unhappy distrust, that suspicion that won for them the same attitude in return, that made every one distrust and dislike them.

Now, you're not a "know-it-all." Only about one per cent. of the people are.

We feel sure that you have an open receptive mind—one that is anxious to learn more, to advance.

And to you we say that you owe it to your own best judgment to, try Psychine.

* * *

Every now and then we come to a certain epoch in medicine when we think advance or improvement impossible.

Then some one comes along and the whole school of medicine is overturned, new and apparently indisputable theories, all good, all progressive.

In the progress of medicine we sometimes discover new value in old things.

And the reason they cure is that they increase and strengthen the white corpuscles of the blood—the Phagocytes—the scavengers of the body, devouring every germ of disease that gains entrance to the body.

A third of a century ago, Psychine was compounded of certain herbs.

Since that time it has cured hundreds of thousands.

And all because it contained those herbs that science now knows builds up and strengthens the white corpuscles of the blood—the Phagocytes.

If you have any of these ailments don't be a "know-it-all," it won't pay you.

Home Course In Health Culture

XV.—Germs In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

THERE are "good germs" and "bad germs," just as there are "good trusts" and "bad trusts."

"Germ busting" in some respects resembles "trust busting." Publicity and the light of day are supposed to be correctives for bad trusts. Sunshine and fresh air will unquestionably restrain the activities of bad germs.

An example of a good germ is the lactic acid bacillus found in sour milk. Tablets containing these germs are now used in medicine for the treatment of intestinal troubles, it having been found that they destroy certain harmful bacteria that flourish in the intestines. In fact, the "elixir of life" in the form of artificially soured milk may now be purchased at soda fountains, but whether it is a real elixir and actually prolongs life by killing off the bacteria that produce old age has not been fully passed upon by science. However, these lactic acid bacilli are quite useful and are also employed in the treatment of infective processes in the nose and mouth.

Diseases Due to Germs.

It is not so long ago—only about fifty years—that learned men were willing to debate about "spontaneous generation." It was contended that the microscopic organisms that were found in certain fermenting and decomposing fluids were "spontaneously" generated in the medium where they were found—in fact, that, like Topsy, they "just growed."

Germs to Be Feared in the Home.

In the first place, germs should not be feared—a paradox, if you please. Respect them, but do not fear them. A "sound mind in a sound body" is not an easy mark for germs. But germs have power to injure those whose resistance is temporarily lowered by fatigue, exposure or disease as well as the naturally feeble and nonresistant.

The principal germ diseases that we have to contend with in the home are scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, smallpox, cholera, grip, pneumonia, tuberculosis, dysentery, typhoid fever and malaria. No doubt the time will come when these maladies will practically disappear from civilized communities, as indeed may almost be said at the present time of smallpox. But earnest and faithful work by medical men and cheerful co-operation by the public are necessary to attain that end.

It is better to prevent germs from breeding and multiplying than to destroy them; also it is better to be germ proof yourself than to rely overmuch on expensive methods of destroying them. It is fortunate that fresh air and sunlight are health giving influences for humanity and death dealing influences for germs. Darkness, dampness, dissipation and dirt all favor the growth of bacteria and also lower the resistance of the human body to their action.

Influence of Flies, Mosquitoes, Etc.

It was formerly supposed that flies were useful scavengers and harmful only from the annoyance they caused buzzing around one's ears. The great discovery has been made that, like many other destructive agents we have entertained in our homes for thousands of years, the housefly is a hereditary enemy. He does not wipe his feet before entering the house, but often uses our food as a doormat. He keeps bad company, breeds in filth, manure, moldy paper, garbage, anything that rots, and typhoid fever germs are his specialty.

The housefly must go, just as the old oaken bucket in the barnyard well has gone (let us hope), and the close, stuffy, unventilated bedrooms and other long cherished or endured conditions that invite poverty, crime, disease and death. But how shall we exterminate this pest, who doesn't believe in race suicide? First, destroy his breeding ground. Burn up all paper or rubbish around your farm or dooryard. Burn or bury all garbage or refuse. Keep your stable floors clean and wash them occasionally with hot soapsuds solution (one ounce common soda to twelve quarts soft soap and water). Manure heaps or vaults should be disinfected with powdered chloride of lime.

HOUSEWIFE AND HOUSEFLY.

Flies find a splendid breeding ground in a stable. Sewage vaults should be cleaned frequently and disinfected and protected from flies by chloride of lime or milk of lime. A filthy pigpen is also a fine breeding place for flies. Pigpens should be so built that they may be flushed out and cleaned. The manure is a valuable fertilizer and may be stored, but should be covered with dry earth, chloride of lime or crude oil.

The task of keeping flies out of the house is a difficult one. Screens and a fly beater, fly paper, etc., only mitigate the evil. The rational method is to prevent breeding.

The mosquito does not carry the germs of malaria on his feet, as the housefly carries the typhoid bacillus, but in his salivary gland.

The mosquito is known as the "intermediate host" of the malarial parasite. In other words, the parasite is received into the digestive tract of the mosquito and hospitably entertained and developed until it passes into the salivary gland, from which it is injected into the next human that the mosquito bites.

The mosquito must go and is going. The hospitality he has extended to the plasmodium of malaria has doomed him. But the "anopheles" mosquito is the genial host and the one which we must especially seek to destroy. The common mosquito, "culex," which flies in the daytime, is harmless so far as we know. Anopheles may be known by its attitude on a flat surface—head legs and body are elevated at an angle, while culex keeps the body parallel with the surface. Anopheles has spotted wings, culex not. Anopheles bites in the early evening, culex at any time.

How to Avoid Malaria.

Avoid the anopheles mosquito and you will avoid malaria. Bad air has positively nothing to do with malaria. Particularly avoid being bitten by mosquitoes in the early evening. Screen your house and also screen your bed with netting if you live in a malarial locality. Best of all, do not let mosquitoes breed around your home. A small pail of standing water will produce thousands. I have seen countless swarms of mosquitoes on a golf course where the sole breeding places were a few water boxes for washing golf balls.

Allow no standing water around your place. Screen your water barrel or cistern. Pour coal oil along the margin of swamps or slow running streams. Drain all stagnant water. Deprive the mosquito of a place to breed and the "fever and ague" will not get you.

Pneumonia, Grip, Etc.

Every one fears scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and diphtheria, for they are well known to be communicable or contagious. It is not so generally known that pneumonia is an infectious general disease with a local manifestation in the lungs. The pneumonia germ, rejoicing in several beautiful names, of which "Diplococcus pneumoniae" is the most commonly used, is rather slight lived and easily killed by sunlight and fresh air. In the modern treatment of pneumonia these agencies are utilized, and the patient is treated so far as possible in the open air. Every precaution should be taken to destroy the sputum of pneumonic patients. Strong lye is a good disinfectant for this purpose, but burning is better. People in attendance on pneumonic patients should protect themselves from infection.

Means Disinfectants.

Heat—Boiling is the most effective way of sterilizing clothing, handkerchiefs or other articles that can be treated in this way. Useless infected articles should be burned.

Soapsuds.—One ounce of common soda to twelve quarts of hot soapsuds (soft soap and water) is an excellent cleanser for floor, refrigerators, etc.

Chloride of Lime.—Powdered chloride of lime is a strong disinfectant and deodorizer. It should have a pungent, penetrating odor and an extremely irritating effect on the eyes and air passages, otherwise it is inert and useless.

Milk of Lime.—One quart of dry, freshly slacked lime to four or five quarts of water; useful for the same purpose as chloride of lime in disinfecting stables, drains, sewage vaults, sinks, all places, where putrefaction, foul odors or infection may exist.

Carbolic Acid Solution.—Six ounces to one gallon of water. This is dangerous to have around the house and must be used with care. Useful for wiping floor, washing utensils and pouring down drain when infection is feared.

Formalin.—One part of formalin to ten of water is quite as useful and less dangerous than the former. For disinfecting rooms use the following for each thousand cubic feet of space:

Place four ounces of potassium permanganate crystals in a metal pail; add eight ounces of formalin (40 per cent solution). Place this pail in the middle of the room, which should be left tightly closed for from five to twenty-four hours. Avoid inhaling the gas which is quickly formed after mixing the above ingredients. This gas does not penetrate bedding or upholstery and does not injure metals or fabrics. It will not destroy insects. Two ounces of gum camphor added to the above mixture will kill flies and mosquitoes.

To completely disinfect clothing, bedding and upholstery the formalin solution must be freely sprayed directly on these articles.

An Animated "Dummy."

A merchant in a Kansas town is very particular to have everything in his store in proper trim. In the ladies' suit department is a dummy which is always dressed in the height of fashion and which always stands in the exact center of a certain rug. In the dusk one evening he walked in and saw the dummy out of its place. With a snort of disgust and impatience he walked over, picked it up and set it down where it belonged. To his great amazement it moved and talked some too! He had picked up a live woman.—Housekeeper.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieves all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them.

Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

DYSPEPSIA

Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilized life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dinkens, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia, and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but none found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got the New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $16 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $30 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

The Mysterious Lady

It Was a Question Whether She Was a Ghost or Flesh and Blood.

By E. A. MITCHEL
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Undoubtedly the most interesting city in the world—at any rate, to Europeans and Americans—is Rome. For twenty-five centuries she has been passing through exciting scenes such as have been but occasional with other cities. And her changes have been no less remarkable. There was the austere purity of the republic, the prodigacy of the empire, her almost obliteration following the many attacks of her enemies, the petty quarrels and villainies of the middle ages.

Perhaps the most despicable period at Rome was during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Within this period every head of a family inhabited his tower or stronghold, in which he defended himself against every other family. There were the Orsini, the Borgias, the Colonna and many other clans whose business it was to fight, slaughter or poison one another. Some of them grew rich through plunder—there was then no other way—and built enormous palaces, where they lived with their retainers in princely style.

During a visit to Rome I occupied a room in one of these palazzos. The building is very long and has been cut up into sections by partition walls. Not that there is any regularity in these partitions; they occur any and everywhere, and it is not easy to tell which ones were a part of the original palace and which have been built in since. I was curious about the pile, for though I was then but twenty-five years old I had read much about medieval Italy, and I knew the history of the house from its building. It was erected by one of the most villainous of the Roman family leaders that flourished in the fifteenth century. A number of times his enemies besieged his palace, overcame his followers, but could never capture him. The fox had means of escape that enabled him to go forth a free man, though every avenue of exit was carefully watched.

My room was on the second story on a corridor with apartments on either hand and was near one extremity. On the terminal wall was a mural picture.

Being interested, as I have said, in the building, I one day questioned the maid who took care of my room about its construction. The only information I elicited was that none of the rooms between me and the near end of the hall was occupied. This was known because the summer season was coming on, when travelers seek more northerly climates.

Nevertheless one morning on leaving my room I was just in time to see a lady advance from this unoccupied region. Perhaps it was the work of my imagination, perhaps some arrangement of her costume borrowed from two or three centuries agone, but it seemed to me that the lady belonged to medieval times. There may be another reason why I should have thus considered her, the fact that I had not expected her to come, so it seemed, out of the wall. For had not the maid told me that none of the rooms from whence she came was occupied?

However, I was so struck with the vision of loveliness that swept by me that "whence she came or what's her name" occupied a comparatively small part of my thoughts concerning her. I watched her till she reached the center of the corridor and passed down the staircase. At that moment the maid came along, with her brooms and bucket, and I asked her about the rooms she had told me were vacant. She assured me that they were. Slipping a couple of lira into her hands, I asked her to unlock them. She opened every door, and there was nothing but the bare furniture in any one of them. Nor was there any opening or stairway leading elsewhere. In other words, the end of the corridor was a complete pocket.

From whence had the lady come?

I regretted that I had not followed her downstairs to see whither she went. It was but 9 o'clock in the morning, and it occurred to me that she might have gone to the cafe on the first floor for breakfast. I went down there, but she was nowhere to be seen. She was in street costume and had doubtless gone out.

For several days I spent all my time going about the city, hoping to meet the mysterious lady, visiting every gallery, ruin or subterranean excavation in Rome. I did not happen to meet her. I kept an eye for her in the palazzo, both in the cafe and other parts of the building where I would be likely to meet her. My watchfulness availed me nothing. I experienced a strange sinking about the heart at thinking she might have left Rome.

Then one evening, ascending the staircase in the palazzo, I started down the corridor. No lights had yet been lit, and objects were very dim. As I was putting my key into the door of my room I felt a current of air and, turning, caught a glimpse of the mysterious lady going in the same direction as before.

I was then young, and superstitions that have a greater hold I think on youth than experienced age had not yet worn away. Somehow I was impressed with the belief that the mysterious lady was one of those who had inhabited the palazzo several centuries before. This feeling paralyzed me just long enough to permit her to escape me. Then, coming to my senses, I ran after her and down the staircase. I was too late. She had either passed on to the rooms at the other end of the corridor or had left the building. Probably she had entered some private apartment, for it was growing dark and too late for any lady, especially one young and beautiful, to be out on the street alone.

The next morning at an hour when the most light made its way into the corridor, having bribed the maid to lend me her pass key, I opened every door of those in the mysterious region and explored every room for some exit. I found none. Then I tapped the terminal wall, but got no sound indicating anything wooden or hollow. The mural painting was a landscape in which was a woman's figure in the dress of ancient Rome. The picture must have been very old, for the colors were much faded, and it had evidently been painted in the stiff style that had been in vogue when the palazzo was built. My examinations led me to no discovery whatever.

When it rains in Rome it rains hard. One afternoon when a torrent was pouring from the clouds and it was consequently very dark in the palazzo, going to my room, I saw a marvelous sight. It seemed that the wall beyond my room had been removed and the corridor had been indefinitely extended. There were a few dim lights about me, and the corridor in its whole length was lighted by similar ones. Owing to the dimness all this was barely perceptible. Then the extension melted away, and there was only the ill defined space at the end of the corridor to which I had been used.

Thinking there must be something the matter with my eyes, I put a fist against each of them and gave them a prolonged rubbing. When I took my fists away for another look there was the mysterious lady coming toward me.

She smiled as she passed me. Possibly my sensibilities were much overwrought and my imagination exaggerated everything, but it seemed to me that smile was the sweetest I had ever seen on a woman's face.

Again my superstitious instincts caused me to stand stock still while I might have determined whether the vision were ghost or flesh and blood by means of touch. But it seemed to me that I had been swung back to medieval times and this woman was moving within the palazzo as she had moved there several centuries before. When she had passed beyond me, instead of following her I crammed my fists again against my eyes to restore a normal sight. When I removed them the vision had disappeared.

That was the last view I had of the mysterious lady at the palazzo. In vain I waited for her to appear again, vowing that if she did I would seize her and detain her till I could determine whether she were flesh and blood. But after several weeks' patient waiting, since she did not appear and I met her nowhere in Rome, I was forced to conclude that if she were a ghost she had been exorcised and if she were flesh and blood she had left the Eternal City. I made no effort to get an explanation, for in the first place I didn't care to let any one know how superstitious or perhaps stupid I had been, and the secret was one that I preferred to keep down at the bottom of my heart. I left Rome still uncertain whether I had been bewitched by a medieval ghost or my charmer were a real person.

Fate brought me a solution. Returning to America, a few days out from Southampton one morning on deck I passed the mysterious lady sitting in a steamer chair.

I looked at her in amazement. She burst into a laugh.

"You and I don't need an introduction," she said. "We have met before. Be seated," pointing to a vacant chair beside her, "and I will tell you all about it."

I accepted the invitation, and she continued:

"I occupied rooms in the compartment next to yours in the palazzo. One who knew every nook and corner, every secret passage, in the building showed me a wall dividing a corridor filled by a mirror. Touching a spring, the wall swung on a pivot, and when reversed a mural painting was where the mirror had been.

"It occurred to me that I would like to astonish some one by passing through this passageway. To heighten the effect I wore a dress which is a modernized costume of the sixteenth century. The first person I hit upon was you, and I enjoyed your look of wonder immensely. The last time I appeared to you when I was passing the wall I saw you near the staircase. Crouching, I turned the mirror toward you, thus giving you a reflection of the corridor in which you stood. This, I knew, would cause the hall to appear to you continuous. Then when you covered your eyes I swung back the reverse."

"What a fool I was!" I exclaimed. "I have been in doubt whether you were an apparition of a medieval dame or flesh and blood."

"Have you?" she exclaimed, with delight. "Had I known that how much more pleasure I should have derived from the trick."

"I presume," I said unkindly, "that the passage through the wall was built and used by the fox who first owned and occupied the palazzo!"

"Yes. I was told that on one occasion it saved his life."

"He must have had skillful workmen to make it. I examined it carefully, even knocking on it, but could find nothing more than a blank wall."

The next summer the mysterious lady and I made a wedding trip to Rome, stopped at the palazzo, and I made a very critical search for the spring that opened it. My wife was obliged to show me where it was.

Irving and His Money.

John Hare, the English actor, said that one of the failings charged to Irving's account was that of extravagance—that he did not know the value of money. It is quite true he did not know the value of money for himself, but he knew its value to others. He knew its value to the poor and helpless, and to these he gave with a lavish hand.

Once, not long before his death, playing a three nights' engagement in an unpretentious midland town, his habit was to drive nightly to the theater (a very short distance from his hotel) in the same dilapidated fly. The fare was a shilling. The conveyance was shabby, the driver old, poor and worn out. At the conclusion of the engagement, on entering his hotel, Irving said to the landlord, "Have you paid the cabman?" "Yes, Sir Henry." "What did you give him for himself?" "I gave him half a crown, Sir Henry." "Give him a sovereign." was the rejoinder; "he drives very well, and he doesn't drive often."

The Myth of the Doones.

How largely Mr. Blackmore drew upon his imagination for the story of "Lorna Doone" is made clear by F. W. Hackwood in his book, "The Good Old Times." There were, in fact, no Doones. The word was simply a local boggy, a modified form of "Dane," a memory of the faroff times when the viking invaders harried the land. "The only vestige of actuality, disagreeable

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Joy in Store For Some One.

Among the advertisements in a monthly magazine we find this:

For Sale or Exchange.—A fine young male bobcat and a female coyote; also a mandolin and pair of fieldglasses.

Such opportunities as this are not often offered. The fieldglasses most of us could manage to do without, but the male bobcat, the female coyote and the mandolin would go far to make life happy for any reasonable individual. All these are productive of music, and music gives joy to all rightly constituted persons. There are, of course, some people who cannot play upon a mandolin, but anybody can play upon a bobcat or a coyote. This fine chance to get a varied and interesting collection of musical instruments will undoubtedly bring many replies.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

MADERO WELL PLEASED.

Incorrecto Sees Hope in President Diaz's Concessions.

Madero's Camp, near Chihuahua, April 5.—A declaration that all talk of peace is futile so long as President Diaz refuses to resign and that the Cabinet changes at Mexico City have served only to convince the insurrectos of their ultimate success, was made by Francisco Madero, jr., the provisional President, in an interview yesterday. Madero declared he was confident of "the final triumph of arms in the overthrow of Diaz."

"The change of the Ministry is a concession to an armed revolution," said Madero, "but it comes too late, and is not sufficient."

"No, we don't want promises; the Government has always made promises and kept none. The only condition we will accept peace terms is that Diaz shall step aside and declare null the election of last year. We must be certain of a free ballot, the protection of the constitution of 1907 and a guarantee of no re-election of the President."

"Foreign money in this have nothing to fear. The country will progress more rapidly under the reforms which we will institute, and those who have capital invested here will receive greater dividends. We are respecting the property rights of foreigners. Every dollars' worth of property damages will be refunded by our Government.

"We hope the U. S. troops will never come across our border. It would be a calamity. We could not do otherwise than regard intervention as a hostile act. We are able to settle our own family troubles."

To Succeed Late Bishop.

Hamilton, April 5.—Trouble is already brewing in connection with the appointment of a successor to the late Bishop DuMoulin.

To avoid any friction between the high and low church factions Canon Howitt and Canon Sutherland, representing the high and low clergy of the church, sent out a circular calling a meeting, at which it was hoped to agree on a candidate.

Rev. Robert Ker, of St. Catharines, has written an open letter denouncing this action as lacking decency and good taste.

Now there promises to be friction between the laity and clergy in the matter of appointment.

Standard Oil and Mexico.

New York, April 5.—The Standard Oil Co. yesterday issued a formal statement, denying reports that it has been financing the revolt in Mexico. The statement says:

"All these and similar reports are absolutely untrue. The Standard Oil Co., in its character as a citizen of the United States, has strictly held itself apart from all interference in the affairs of the Mexican republic, with which it has no connection, moral or material."

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Exchange Closed—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, April 5.—Throughout the market was affected at times by weakness in America yesterday, and values here were ½d to ¾d lower. Following the opening the market developed a very firm undertone with shorts and speculators buying and values advanced ¼d to ¾d with Chicago lead. Support was due to an improved demand for both cleared and spot wheat. Supplies of Australian cargoes and an increase in the Argentine visible. The sentiment is again veering steadily over cargoes, which are more firmly held.

There was no session of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, the exchange being closed for the holidays.

LIVERPOOL, April 5.—Closing—Wheat, spot dull; No. 2 red western winter, no stock; futures very firm; May, 6s 7½d; July, 6s 6¾d; Oct., 6s 6¼d. Flour—Winter patents, dull, 28s. Hops in London (Pacific coast), firm, £4 [illegible] £5 5s.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, April 5.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat continues poor and bids received at the close of the market were ½c per bushel under cost. The demand for oats is good, and a large business is being done in No. 2 Canadian western at 35c 7½d to London, and at 35c 9d to Avonmouth for May, June and July shipment. The above prices are equivalent to 32c per bushel afloat here, which figure exporters say is just 1c per bushel under what they could be laid down at based on the closing price of the May option in Winnipeg. The local market is quiet and prices are easier. There was quite an improvement in the export demand for spring wheat flour, and sales of 20,000 barrels were made. The local and country demand also showed some improvement.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 35½c; extra, No. 1 feed, 37½c; No. 2 C.W., 37½c; No. 1 local white, 36c to 37½c; No. 2 local white, 35c to 35½c; No. 4 local white, 33c to 34½c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.60; seconds, $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.60; strong bakers', $4.90; straight rollers, $4 to $4.25; in bags, $1.85 to $2.05.

Rolled oats, per barrel, $3.90; bag of 90 lbs., $1.85.

Mother's Heroic Deed.

Montreal, April 5.—Mrs. Henry Houle on Monday night, single-handed, saved her three children from being burned to death in her burning home.

She first carried out the eldest child, aged about eight years, and to save the two infants left in the house, had to crawl into the blazing room on her hands and knees. She was not seriously burned, but the children were singed.

The house was completely destroyed.

For a Fifth Term.

Chicago, April 5.—Carter H. Harrison, Democrat, who elected mayor of Chicago yesterday. It was the fifth time he had been given the office, and his plurality was in the neighborhood of 14,000. Charles E. Merriam, his republican opponent, conceded the election two and one-half hours after the polls closed.

Annexation propositions failed to get majorities in Oak Park and the Town of Cicero, but the Village of Morgan Park decided to join the city.

The Socialists polled nearly 34,000, a gain of 11,000 over four years ago, while the prohibition vote fell from 5,875 to about 3,000.

Oil House Burned.

Smith Falls, Ont., April 5.—Fire in the C.P.R. yards here yesterday morning resulted in destroying the company's oil house, containing forty barrels of oil and waste. The loss will figure into thousands and is caused by insurance. The cause is supposed to be spontaneous combustion from waste.

Government Steamer Launched.

Kingston, April 5.—Before three thousand people, the new Government quarantine steamer Poland was launched yesterday afternoon. Miss Helen Hale, daughter of Capt. Hale, christened the vessel, and Major Graham and W. F. Nickle, M.P.P., delivered addresses.

Another Independent Line.

Ottawa, April 5.—Dr. Lafortune of Gatineau Point, and a number of local businessmen have organized a rural telephone service, which will operate from Quinville postoffice, taking in the rural districts surrounding the Village of Gatineau Point and the Townships of East Hull and West Templeton. The company is capitalized at $15,000, and the building of the line has been commenced. The officers expect to have the service in working order by July 1.

A $30,000 Blaze.

Langenburg, Sask., April 5.—Fire, which broke out early yesterday in the hardware store of Denmark & Burton, caused a total loss of $30,000. The Bank of Toronto building and the Imperial Hotel were both badly scorched.

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

Heed the warning: cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Pulgh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

$16,000 NEEDED FOR ALTERATIONS IN SOME OF THE PETERBOROUGH SCHOOLS

King Edward and Central Schools Will Have to be Improved---More Accommodation for Pupils is Required.

HALF DAY SYSTEM NOW

Among the most important items that came up for discussion at the meeting of the Board of Education last night was the matter of inadequate school accommodation, a subject which now presents a serious aspect in view of the increasing population, and the question of making extensive repairs to the schools during the coming summer.

The report of the Property committee which was received and adopted, and is herewith appended, gives a full account of the improvements that are needed and the cost of the same:

Gentlemen, — Acting upon instructions received from this Board, your Property committee has had plans drawn and estimates made of the cost of permanent improvements to the King Edward and Central Public Schools which will provide adequate and suitable accommodation for the children attending them.

King Edward.

An extra room is needed in the King Edward school to relieve the present overcrowding. In all probability two rooms will be provided on the re-opening of school after the midsummer holidays. On this account it will be necessary to complete the third storey of this building.

Mr. Blackwell, the architect of this school, has furnished the Property committee with a plan and the estimated cost of the work. According to his estimate the carpenter work, metal ceilings, plastering, blackboards, heating and plumbing will cost the Board the sum of $4,130.00. To this sum will have to be added the cost of the pupils' desks and other necessary furnishings. This extra amount is estimated at between $300 and $400.

The Central School.

Both of the buildings at the Central school are badly in need of permanent improvement.

(A.) The Old Collegiate Building.

The heating plant of the old Collegiate building is completely worn out and a steam heating system will have to be provided.

So bad is the present heating system of this building that the Inspector of Manual Training and Domestic Science intimated at his recent visit that the Government grant for 1911 cannot be paid the Board unless improvements are made.

Mr. Blackwell estimated the cost of a system of steam heating, plumbing and ventilation for this building at $3,340.

The wooden walks about the old Collegiate building and the Central school building will have to be replaced by concrete ones, and a retaining wall will have to be built at the west side of the old Collegiate building. The estimated cost of the retaining wall and the walks is approximately $1,000.

(B.) The Central School.

The Central school building is badly in need of important improvements. The halls are dark and narrow; there are few cloak rooms; there is no system of ventilation other than by the windows; the floors are worn out; the boys' lavatory needs a complete overhauling; the lighting of the rooms on the north side is defective; the rooms in the basement needs improvement.

To modernize this building and put it into a sanitary condition the following improvements should be made:

(a) Two vestibules or porches should be built, one at the west entrance and the other at the east entrance.

The pupils would reach both floors from these porches and the present stairs in the halls could then be removed, and leave the halls free. By this means the halls would be lengthened, much improved in the way of lighting, and be fully twelve feet in width.

At the present time the exits are very dangerous in case of fire, but with exits through the porches at the ends of the halls all danger would practically be removed.

An entrance from the west porch into the basement would enable the boys to reach their lavatory without going outside of the building as they have to do at present.

(b) The building requires new floors in all of the rooms and halls with the exception of one room.

(c) Before the new floors be put down a system of ventilation should be provided. There is a good ventilating flue in the centre of the building and the different rooms should be connected with this and some means found to provide a supply of fresh air.

(d) The boys' lavatory needs an overhauling, and some improvements should be made to the basement rooms.

(e) Some way should be devised to improve the lighting of the rooms on the north side of the building.

These alterations if carried out would greatly improve the building and make it what it should be.

FIRE PROTECTION FOR AUBURN WOOLLEN MILLS

Fire, Water and Light Committee Take Up the Matter Last Night---Water Commissioners to Report on the Cost ---Contract for 500 Feet of Hose Given to Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee was held last night. The question of fire protection for the Auburn Woollen Mills was taken up. The matter has been before the Council and the committee at different periods for years. There were present at the meeting: Ald. Morgan, chairman, Ald. Kerneghan, Graham, Metheral, Edgar and Mayor Morrow.

Mr. Jas. Kendry, of the Auburn Woollen Co. was present, as well as Mr. T. F. Matthews of the Water Commissioners to take up the matter with the committee and after some discussion the following motion was carried:

Moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Edgar, "That the Water Commissioners be asked to ascertain what it would cost to provide fire protection for the Auburn Woollen Mills and inform the committee."

Mr. Matthews stated that the commissioners would be pleased to give the necessary information.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Metheral, that in view of the fact that the City Council has decided to use oil on the streets, this committee recommend that an agreement be made with the Peterborough Water Commissioners for water for public purposes other than hydrants at $1.000 a year for five years—if the Water Commissioners agree with this. —Carried.

Mr. Matthews said that personally he would be satisfied with the terms suggested.

It was moved by Ald. Metheral, seconded by Ald. Graham, that the City Treasurer deduct from the account of the Peterborough Light and Power Co. for the past quarter the sums provided by the contract for the number of lights reported by the Chief of the Fire Department to have been out. —Carried.

Petitions for lights on Romaine St. west of Park St. and on Concession St. were laid over.

Tenders were read for fire hose from the Peterborough Hardware Co., the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Goods Company and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

It was moved by Ald. Metheral, seconded by Ald. Graham, that the tender of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. for 500 feet of magnet multiple woven fire hose at $1.00 per foot with couplings complete be accepted. The company to give a guarantee that the hose will stand 400 lbs. pressure on delivery and fully guarantee it for three years against all defects of workmanship and material. —Carried.

It was moved by Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Graham, that the clerk write the Peterborough Light and Power Company and inform them that there are complaints regarding the incandescent lights on Gilmour street not being turned on at nights when they are needed and ask if they will have them lighted every night to avoid this.—Carried.

It was moved by Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Kerneghan, that the Peterborough Light and Power Co. be instructed to change the light at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune street to the centre of the street.—Carried.

On motion of Ald. Metheral, seconded by Ald. Graham, the chairman was authorized to enquire why the lights ordered last year have not been put up.

A Bridgenorth Resident In Possession Of Some Very Ancient Bank Bills

Mr. Wm. Telford Shows Some Antique Bills to the Examiner To-day--Also a Coin of Old Mintage

An old City of Toronto bill bearing the date 1847, was recently presented for payment ta the City Treasurer's office, Toronto. A few days later Mr. Glass came forward with a bill in his possession bearing the date August 20, 1838, which was issued by the City of Toronto. Mr. Glass also has a bill bearing the date October 1, 1834, the year of Toronto's incorporation, and also a bill issued by the Agricultural Bank of Upper Canada. Four of the latter bills were shown to the Examiner to-day by Mr. Wm. Telford of Bridgenorth. Two of them bear the date 1835, and are for 20 and 25 shillings respectively. They were issued by Messrs. Trustcott, Green & Company, proprietors of the Agricultural Bank of Upper Canada, which was established in Toronto in the early thirties and became defunct in 1837. The failure was due to the financial panic in the United States, and also to the Canadian Rebellion. Many financial institutions were in difficulty at this time, and this private bank was amongst them. Mr. Telford came into possession of these bills after the death of his great grandfather, Mr. Isaac Nicholson.

Mr. Telford also showed the Examiner a coin which he wears on his watch chain and known as a spade guinea. It is a gold coin, and bears the date 1790.

A peculiar feature in connection with the Agricultural Bank bills is that they are only engraved on one side. The other side is perfectly blank. They appear to be made of a good quality of paper and are somewhat faded. Two of them have sundry cherubs pictured on them and also a modestly draped female figure. The other bears designs of an agricultural nature.

THE FIRST DRILL HELD

Splendid Turnout at Opening of the Season for the 57th Regiment---Many Recruits Were on Parade

ORDERS FOR THE WEEK

The first drill of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, was held last night at the Armouries, and considering the inclement weather, there was a surprisingly large turnout present. The regiment was inspected by Major Clegg, after which squad drill was taken up for a short time. There was a large number of promising recruits on parade and the prospects for the year are very bright. The Regimental Band was present and discoursed martial music in excellent fashion, playing a number of new marches and Regimental music. The following orders were read:

Headquarters, Peterborough,
April 4th, 1911.

DUPLICATION NUMBERS

Are to be Done Away With on the C. P. R.

Special to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, APRIL 5. — General Superintendent of Transportation Murphy of the C.P.R. announced to-day that his company is doing away with duplication numbers on trains of the different divisions.

DEPUTY CHIEF AND CAPTAIN TO BE ASKED TO RESIGN

Trouble Once More in the Fire Department and Fire, Water and Light Committee Instruct Chief Howard to Ask for Resignation of Two of His Force---Chief Says He Has Not a Complaint to Make About Their Work.

There is trouble in the fire department again and last night the Fire Water and Light committee decided to ask Chief Howard to request the resignation of Deputy Chief George Grange and Captain Sam. Thomas.

The action of the committee is due to the fact that the Aldermen blame the two firemen in question for writing a letter to the papers criticising some of the aldermen, particularly Ald. Kerneghan. It is claimed that Grange and Thomas were the instigators of the article in question, while they did not actually write it, and in view of this and other grounds it was decided to ask them to resign.

More will be heard about the question later when the recommendation from the committee comes before the Council.

At last night's meeting a letter was read from Chief Howard, saying he had dismissed the fireman who wrote a letter to a paper criticising a member of the Council.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Kerneghan, that the Chief of the Fire Department be requested to ask Assistant Chief Grange and Captain Thomas to hand in their resignation.—Carried.

Chief Has No Complaint.

"I was not consulted in the matter at all," remarked the Chief. "In fact I did not know until this minute that the committee had decided to ask for the resignation of the deputy and captain. As far as I am concerned, I fail to see any reason why they should be asked to get out. They are two honest, hard-working and faithful men, do everything that is required of them and are attentive and courteous to visitors. They have never broken the rules and regulations of the fire department, and there is not a black mark in the books against either man. I have never had occasion to complain in the slightest particular about either in their conduct or in their work."

MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT TO THE CONGRESS

Special wire to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, APRIL 5.—As expected, the message of President Taft to the sixty-second Congress was very short and dwelt entirely with the reciprocity agreement with Canada. After reiterating his unbounded faith in the merit of the agreement from the standpoint of United States progress, President Taft said he felt sure that since the full text of the agreement with the accompanying data, had been transmitted to the people, the volume of support which developed, showed that its broad national scope was fully appreciated, and was responsive to popular will. He again emphasized the appropriateness of the agreement in response to the multitude needs of the two countries and urged early action on the part of both houses.

MISS CHOATE AND THE EARL GREY COMPETITION

The many friends of Miss Julia Choate, violiniste, and all interested in the musical credit of Peterborough, will regret to be informed that she is to be debarred from taking part in the Earl Grey competition at Winnipeg on April 24th, and for reasons highly complimentary to her consummate rank of professional violinistes.

The competition committee in charge of the entries, insist upon a rigidly literal interpretation of the conditions, which permit only "amateurs" to take part in the competition. Miss Choate is regarded as being so decidedly distinguished as a professional as to place her far beyond the amateur class, and well in the front rank of professional violin artists.

Under these circumstances, Miss Choate, will not be required to go to Winnipeg; but her concert in the hall of the Conservatory, announced for April 7th, though deprived of the significance of the object for which it was proposed, will still be given, as an exceptionally attractive musical and elocutionary entertainment. The concert cannot very well be deferred. Miss Beatrice Wellington, of Toronto, an elocutionist of exceptional ability, has been engaged for April 7th, cards of admission have been printed and many of them sold. Therefore, the concert will be held on the date mentioned, which the public is requested to keep in mind, in the interest of the musical enjoyment the occasion assures.

THE LITTLE PILGRIMS AND THE BOOK BELOVED

The All Saints' Sunday School scholars, together with the choir members who are helping in the musical parts, are getting the above-named play well in shape for to-morrow night's (Thursday) entertainment in the Parish Hall. It is a very pretty little allegorical play, setting forth the work and worship of the Anglican church. It depicts the binding of the various parts of the Prayer Book together, as the Church's way of bringing the world to Christ. Each part is represented by a boy or girl appropriately costumed and bearing a banner with appropriate motto. These are bound together by King Edward VI., because it was in his reign, in A. D. 1552, that the Anglican Prayer Book practically took its present shape. No doubt large numbers will be present to see this little play.

CASE RE-OPENED

Division Court Orders Further Inquiry Into Fraser Marriage

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, APRIL 5.—The Divisional Court this morning ordered the reopening of the case of Michael Fraser, the aged and wealthy Midland man, whose marriage to Nurse Robertson, with the ceremony performed by her father, was held to be quite legal and valid, by Mr. Justice Britton. The higher courts ordered that fifteen witnesses, including the old man himself, whom blood relatives say is crazy, be brought to Toronto for examination.

ANOTHER DELAY

Congress Will Not Take Up Tariff Legislation for Some Days

Special to The Examiner.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 5.—Following the meeting of the Democrat representatives this afternoon it was given out that it is not likely any tariff legislation will be taken up for some days. This means a delay to Canadian reciprocity.

RALLY FRIDAY

A Grand Rally of the Past Chief Rangers of the Canadian Order of Foresters will be held in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, Friday evening, April 7th. The meeting will be officered by East Chief Rangers and the work of initiation exemplified in full, a feature that should appeal especially to younger members and prove of interest to all who may be able to attend. Refreshments will be served and a good time is expected.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5, 1911

THE GREATEST THAT HAS BEEN.

Yesterday, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Finance Minister, presented his fifteenth budget statement to Parliament and the country—the most roseate and robust financial statement ever made by a Canadian finance minister. His budget speech was the shortest in words and the longest in results. It occupied only forty minutes in delivery. It announced a revenue of one hundred and seventeen and a half million dollars. This gigantic income, permitted of the payment out of revenue of the total expenditure of the year, on both capital and current account, except $3,000,000. The surplus for the year ending March 31st is $30,500,000. The people of Canada refuse to be guided by the policy "let well enough alone." Last year the national prosperity contributed a surplus of 22 millions. This year the surplus is 30 1-2 millions.

A BOON TO THE PUBLIC.

Nothing, in its way, in Canada, has ever justified its establishment and working in the interests of the people so largely, as the Dominion Government Railway Commission. It has dealt effectively with countless questions, where the actions or exactions of corporations have come into conflict with the public interest. Not long ago the Board brought decided relief to the people by regulating and reducing express charges. A recent decision compels express companies to deliver parcels to every part of the municipal corporation in which its delivery system is established. This is not so important a matter for mall towns or cities as it is for large ones. It is important, however, as showing that public utilities services that come within the jurisdiction of the Commission cannot be a law unto themselves, but must regard the public interest as the first consideration—the price of the privilege of existence and operation they owe to the creative parliamentary body that represents the people.

SUCCESSOR TO DR. SAUNDERS.

Mr. J. H. Grisdale, B. Agr., Agriculturist of the Central Experimental Farm staff, has been appointed director of the Farm in succession to the late Dr. Saunders. This is a very important position, and the Government seems to have acted wisely in promoting a member of the staff, familiar with the work, to so responsible a position in relation to the farming interests of the Dominion. The Government seems to have been influenced solely by a desire to fill the office with a man whose special qualifications were the only consideration. The following from the Ottawa Journal, independent Conservative, is testimony to this effect:

The news of the appointment of J. H. Grisdale as director of the Dominion Experimental Farms, in succession to Dr. Saunders, will undoubtedly be received with approval by the thousands of agriculturists throughout Canada who have followed his work as Dominion Agriculturist during the past fifteen years.

Just in the prime of life, 41 years of age, ambitious, full of energy and a hard worker, speaking both the French and English languages, Mr. Grisdale undertakes the duties of this most important position with a wide, practical knowledge of all things pertaining to agriculture and fully cognizant of what is required of the Experimental Farms in order to make them a great benefit of the farmer and country in general.

It is a gratifying thing that in this case, the Dominion Government has selected a good man from its expert service—that the country has escaped the infliction of an appointment based in whole or part on political exigencies—and we venture to congratulate the government and the Hon. Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, on this fact.

THE WONDERS OF ALFALFA.

The farmer works a gold mine—his gild mine in his farm, which, properly tilled, yields a wealth of golden grain. The farm's mine, however, is one in which a bonanza is never struck. That is to say it has never yet been struck till now, when alfalfa the comparatively new crop, promises to be the long sought bonanza. Sober stories, backed by facts and insuputable authority, about the wonders of alfalfa, can hardly be believed. But it seems that there is little that can be said in praise of alfalfa that cannot be verified—by word of mouth and better from actual experiment and test.

Alfalfa is the royal member of the clover family. It is pronounced "the never ending wonder of the west" where it was transplanted by degrees and easy stages from South America. It got a foothold, or rather a roothold—and its roothold is no light one—in Mexico. From Mexico it crept into California, and it is now spreading over the rest of the United States and invading Canada in force, as the one greatest forage plant.

Why the wonderful increase of the popularity of alfalfa? Because of its many good qualities. These cannot all be told at one sitting. In California it furnishes from five to eight crops per year and in colder parts of the continent, including Canada, two or three crops a season can be cut. Alfalfa, is an air-feeder, that is, it draws nitrogen from the air, it is deep rooted and dry seasons do not so much interfere with its growth, and once its roots get a grip, even on rather tough soil, it is there to stay; it is a premanent crop. Alfalfa is rich in nourishment; it fattens stock almost like corn, and horses can be kept on it in good condition with little or no grain. Poultry becomes like Nebuchadnezzar and eats grass—in the form of alfalfa—like an ox. More than that, alfalfa is not only a forage food and a hay, but it can be ground like grain and makes a wonderfully nutritive meal In some parts of the United States mills have been erected and specially fitted for the grinding of alfalfa meal, almost as big as the Quaker Oats mills. Alfalfa is not only good for horses, cattle, swine, sheep and poultry, but it is capable of furnishing excellent human food. It is now being ground into flour for human use—the making of alfalfa bread, and it is said that alfalfa makes a fine stock soup, and it is' claimed that a ton and a half of the plant will keep a family of six in soup for a year. These claims for the virtues of alfalfa are not mere exaggerations, but the sober statements of men who have demonstrated by experiment and test, that they are based on facts and can be sustained. But there is abundant evidence even if all the details of claim for the virtues of alfalfa are not warranted, to show that for scores of reasons alfalfa is a crop, that no progressive farmer can afford to neglect. The question which every farmer must ask himself is, not—will it pay to grow alfalfa, but will it pay not to grow alfalfa—can a farmer who wants to get ahead afford to not grow it?

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the Conservative parliamentary party at Ottawa cannot get down to brad pan on the simple matter of the leadership, how can they be expected to come to the adoption of a coherent policy on reciprocity?

"Better not trade horses crossing a stream," advises the English proverb, says the Ottawa Journal (Conservative) referring to the Opposition leadership. As a certain dazed group of Montreal gentlemen must now realise, most people, stream or no stream, will not trade a horse that has done the best possible—and especially if the horse in question is considerably better than anything offered in place of it.

The Reciprocity Agreement From The Standpoint Of The Farmers

(Brantford Expositor.)

Mr. Norman Patterson in The Canadian Courier has been discussing reciprocity, both from a manufacturer's and farmer's point of view, with a good deal of reasonableness. He comes to the conclusion that the pact will not injure the manufacturer to the extent that the latter anticipates, while the farmer will probably be disappointed in the amount of benefit he will receive.

Reciprocity, as it is likely to affect the farmer, is dealt with in the issue of last week. Mr. Patterson says it is doubtful if the removal of the duty of 25 cents a bushel, imposed by the United States government on Canadian wheat, will greatly increase wheat exports to that country. For two years it has been possible for the American millers to import Canadian wheat, grind it into flour, and get a rebate of 99 per cent. of the duty when that flour is exported. In 1909 Canada sold only 26,000 bushels of wheat to the United States. In 1910 this was increased to 135,000 bushels. In 1910 Canada also sold to the United States $676,000 worth of flour. The duty on flour has been reduced from 60 cents to 50 cents a barrel, and Mr. Patterson thinks it is within the bounds of possibility that instead of exporting wheat Canada may export flour to the United States in large quantities. As for wheat, the opinion is expressed that any increase in the exports will probably be in the "rejected" variety, which, while not suitable for export is quite good enough for the ordinary purposes of the average miller, and is likely to bring six to ten cents a bushel more than it does at present.

Mr. Patterson is of opinion that though Canada's sales of wheat to the United States may not increase except in the off grades, it is reasonably certain that our exports of flax, barley and oats will expand considerably.

Last year Canada sold to the United States cattle to the value of $109,000 horses to the value of $484,000, swine $6000, sheep $527,000 and all other live animals $118,000. Just now Canada is shipping all her export cattle to Great Britain, but only the very best cattle are taken. The second-grade cattle could easily be exported to the United States if there was a demand for them. Canada is now importing large quantities of horses from the United States and purchases about five times as many horses from that country as it sells in return. In any case it is not likely that there will be any increase in price. As for sheep and swine, the situation will vary according to the production in the United States, and the demand for mutton and pork. At some seasons there will undoubtedly be considerable demand from the United States packers for these Canadian products, and whenever that demand occurs the farmer will have a broader market and an increased price.

When the question of the effect of reciprocity on dairy produce, vegetables and fruit is considered in detail, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that both countries will benefit from their exchange. For example, it is quite possible that Canadian eggs will be in great demand in the United States when eggs are plentiful and cheap. On the other hand, it is equally possible that United States eggs will be in great demand in Canada when Canadian eggs are scarce and dear. During the winter months when the Canadian hen is busy keeping her toes warm, it will be quite possible to get a liberal supply of eggs from the middle and southern States at a reasonable price. Much the same may be said of butter, fruit and vegetables. Canada and the United States harvest their crops of these classes of products at different seasons. During the winter months Canada must import large quantities of vegetables and fruit. At the present time there are considerable importations in spite of the duty. Canada charges thirty per cent. on cabbages, onions, tomatoes, and other fresh vegetables; forty cents per bbl. on apples, two cents per pound on cherries, berries and grapes. In spite of these duties the importations amounted last year to nearly two millions of dollars. These same classes of product paid an even higher duty going into the United States and yet that country bought last year about a million dollars' worth. Of this fresh vegetables supplied seven-tenths of the whole export. The duties have not prevented a reasonably mutual trade. Under these circumstances one can scarcely understand the protest of the fruitgrowers and the truck-gardeners, either in this country or in the United States.

Summing up, Mr. Patterson argues that while the Canadian farmer may not benefit as much as he anticipates there is little ground for denying him such benefits as may come from the proposed arrangement. There may be some features of it which do not appeal to certain classes of Canadians, but if the farmers' interests only are to be considered, he thinks reciprocity should be more popular than it is at present.

"UNCLE JOE" ON RECIPROCITY.

(London Advertiser)

"Our Canadian neighbours must be laughing in their sleeves at some of the arguments advanced on this side of the border in behalf of so-called reciprocity, which, by the way, being altogether one-sided—Canada having the side—has nothing reciprocal about it."

So says "Uncle Joe" Cannon, late speaker of the House of Representatives, stalwart stand-patter, and still a power in Congress and American politics generally. His view is that professed by the Bourbon element of the Republican party, and by some insurgent leaders who are playing for the farmers' vote in the Northwestern States. "Uncle Joe" sees a time, not far hence, when Canada will supply half the United States with wheat. "With an open market here," he says "who can doubt that they will sell here in preference to Great Britain? Many thousands of our American farmers have already migrated to the Canadian West to take up the new lands there, which are to be had for the asking, a title in fee, however, being given only on the immigrant becoming a British subject. It can be taken for granted that this exodus of a most desirable class of our citizens, and their transformation into subjects of King George is very likely to grow apace when to free land in Canada is added the inducement of a free market in the United States."

Uncle Joe furnishes good reasons why Canadians should support the agreement. A great stream of Canadian exports would be diverted to the United States, and a free American market would stimulate and diversify Canadian agriculture, though it does not follow that the American farmer who would have the same market as his Canadian competitor, would be injured in the process. It will be noted that Uncle Joe's argument corresponds with that of many opponents of the agreement in this country, who say it would be so profitable that rather than forego it Canadians would sell their national birthright. But this argument is the victim of assault and battery at the hands of another school of anti-reciprocists, who tell the farmers they will be ruined by a flood of cheap American farm implements. Sensible Canadians are not laughing in their sleeves at the attacks upon the agreement in the United States, as Uncle Joe pretends to think. They are finding occasion of mirth nearer home.

FALSEHOOD OF EXTREMES.

(Toronto Star)

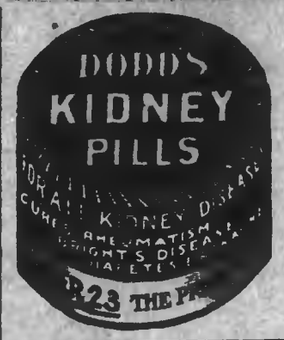
The insurrection against Mr. R. L. Borden as leader of the Opposition having been suppressed, it is possible that the Conservative party may arrive at some conclusion as to reciprocity. It seems to be agreed in that quarter that reciprocity is bad, but, when reasons are sought, confusion prevails. At first it was declared that Taft and Knox, with a cunning which deceived Fielding and Paterson, had made astounding concessions to Canada. "They disarmed suspicion by not betraying any great greed in taking," and then deftly secured the assent of our representatives of a "gift of such far-reachnig effects that it engulfs our commercial independence and endangers our national independence." The American tariff on grains being removed, Canadian wheat, oats, and barley would find a market in the United States; our railways would be broken in two; the Canadian farmer, selling in the United States, would insist upon buying there, and our Canadian industries would be ruined.

In Toronto it was insisted that the opening of the American market would cause a rush of Canadian farm products to the United States, and so make food scarce and dear for the Canadian consumer. Again, it was contended that Canada ought to despise the commercial benefits of the agreement and consider its disastrous political effects, tending towards annexation. But now all this line has been abandoned. The agreement offers us no gift, lays before us no temptation of material benefits. According to the Mail and Empire, the Canadian farmer will not increase his sales in the United States, but will lose the Canadian market through competition of American farmers.

"When that loss is considered in the light of the fact, mentioned by the Cleveland Leader, that our farmers will not be likely to sell their products in the United States, it looks as if the agreement were a deliberate attempt to injure our own people. There is, however, another point to be remembered. The farmers of the United States, as the Leader declares, have a large market in Canada already. They enter Canada with eggs, fruit, meats, wheat, butter, and so on, notwithstanding the duty. When we remove our tariff, what is going to happen? Clearly our farmers will be overwhelmed. Reciprocity offers them no market; but it submits them to a fierce competition from the States."

The bewildered farmer who has been told first that there is a terrible temptation, and then that here is none, may seek relief by reading the agreement. There he will find that in order to make wheat free, Canada removes a duty of twelve cents a bushel, where the American reduction is twenty-five cents. In order to bring down the duty on flour to fifty cents a barrel, Canada removes ten cents, while the American reduction is about seventy cents. Canada removes a duty of fifteen cents a bushel from barley, the United States 30 cents. The arrangement is of a similar kind in regard to all grains, vegetables, and fruits. For instance, we remove a duty of forty cents a barrel on apples, while our neighbours take off twenty-five cents a bushel.

If the question be asked, which of the Opposition contentions is true, the answer is—neither. They illustrate the falsehood of extremes, between which the truth is found. Reciprocity will not empty all the products of Canadian farms into the United States, will not break our systems of transportations in two, will not lure our farmers into annexation.



But it will afford them a new and profitable market. The surplus of American farms will not rush into Canada, replacing our own. But at cetrain seasons and at certain points along the border American fruits and vegetables will come north; at certain other seasons and places they will go south. Food will go from the place of abundance to the place of scarcity. To assist in that process we build railways, dig canals, improve roads; to assist in that process it is now proposed to remove taxes.

DON'T YOU WISH YOUR LANDLORD WOULD HAND YOU BACK YOUR RENT MONEY EVERY MONTH?

If you would stop the rent foolishness and take the same money and buy a lot and build a house with it, it would be all yours—every month's payment of it. We offer you an easy method of saving the money you pay for rent and keeping the value of it in your own possession for all time. Our plan is this:

Buy a Lot

and start building a little home at once. The full particulars of how this can be done will be explained to you by
